FIRST AID FOR A STRICKEN YACHT

John Weismuller of Sausalito Underwater Search, assisted by Sue Thompson, helps save the stricken schooner Aeolus in Sausalito Yacht Harbor. The 40-foot gaff-rigged sailing vessel was spotted sinking at her berth shortly before 7 p.m. yesterday, taking water through a faulty bilge pump fitting. While Weismuller manned the pump, Mrs. Thompson's husband, Jerry, owner of the waterfront firm, worked below to plug the leak. Initial pumping was done by the Sausalito Fire Department which dispatched a 150-gallon-a-minute pump. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Carter, recently married in Sausalito, were on the high seas aboard a motor yacht he is delivering for friends to Tahiti, his bride's birthplace. Battle Over Funding Poses Medi-Cal Threat

Senate, Assembly Divided

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The $904 million Medi-Cal program faces a gradual death beginning next week unless the Senate and Assembly settle their squabble over its financing.

Health and Welfare Administrator Spencer Williams said he would "provide for an orderly phase out of the program" starting next Friday if the legislature does not vote before that time to keep it going.

REJECTS PLAN

Rebellious Assembly Democrats yesterday rejected a Medi-Cal compromise hammered out earlier in the week during secret negotiations in Gov. Ronald Reagan's office.

Defeat of the proposal means legislative authorization of the program will expire Monday.

Williams said he would allow a one-week grace period before ordering a shutdown of the program which pays the doctor bills of 1.5 million needy Californians, most of them welfare recipients.

DEADLINE NEAR

But, he said, if the legislature does not reach an agreement, "no payments will be made by the state for hospital services on new admissions after May 5."

He added, "no payments for dentistry, optometry, pediatry or other like services will be made after May 12 and no medical services for other than emergency life-saving care will be paid after May 19."

The Assembly, by a 27-39 vote, refused to accept the Senate version of a bill intended to

U.S. Planes Drop MIGs In Dogfight

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Air Force F-105 jets from Thailand bombed rail and highway targets on the outskirts of Hanoi yesterday and shot down two Communist MIGs in eight dogfights above the North Vietnamese capital, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Radio Hanoi said seven American aircraft were shot down, three of them over Hanoi, but Hanoi's claims are usually exaggerated.

The Americans did not report any losses since announcements are held up 24 hours to protect rescue operations for any downed pilots.

American air power scored a significant victory in South Vietnam where two days of assaults by bombs and napalm drove a Communist battalion of 350-400 men from Hill 861, controllling five Communist invasion routes from the Laotian border five miles to the west.

U.S. Marines had battled for the hill just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) for four days and called in artillery and strikes by B-52 bombers and jet fighter-bombers to pound the heavily fortified trenches and bunkers blocking their advance. Marines were reported to have swarmed to the top today and found only 15 Communist bodies.

In line with the U.S. policy of getting increasingly rough with the Communists, a battalion of U.S. Marines (1,200 to 1,500 men) landed from U.S. 7th Fleet ships on the coast 25 miles south of Da Nang to break up a Communist concentration. Initial contact was light; two Communists were killed against no U.S. losses.

The chief American worry at the moment was a concentration of north Vietnamese troops in or just above the six-mile-wide DMZ. Washington sources estimated the Red strength at four divisions and Saigon reports said as many as five. A North Vietnamese division runs up to 10,000 men but usually operates in smaller numbers.

State Department officials expecting an invasion across the DMZ at any time warned yesterday that the United States is ready to play rough if that is what Hanoi wants. The United States recently flew in an estimated 10,000 soldiers to back up Marines blocking the invasion routes.

Doves Predict War Increase; Hawks: Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Critics dourly predicted today further escalation of the Vietnam fighting while supporters foresaw a stiffening of homefront resolve as the result of Gen. William C. Westmoreland's Washington rounds.

Addressing Congress, briefing governors and conferring personally with key legislators yesterday, the U.S. commander in Vietnam won high praise from both opponents and supporters of President Johnson's policies for his direction of the military effort against the Communists.

But it was apparent Westmoreland had failed to turn the tide of crackling congressional criticism directed at Johnson's intensification of the war and at his action in bringing the general home to report at a crucial time in the battle for public opinion.

The returns from the outlying precincts would determine how the country might respond to the televised and broadcast appeal of the tall, handsomely graying general for continued strong popular support he called "vital to the success of our mission."

Thief Eludes Corte Madera Police Hunt

Yelling "I'm going to kill you . . . I'm going to kill you," a burglar attacked the owner of Bill's Refrigeration Service, Corte Madera, early today with two screwdrivers when he was surprised inside the shop.

After a brief scuffle, owner Bill Williams eluded the thief and bolted from the premises to telephone police. He escaped with arm scratches and a ripped shirt.

Also fleeing the shop, the burglar, described as a Negro about 45, headed for his car, a late model station wagon, but first had to move William's pickup truck which had his vehicle wedged in.

The thief moved the truck, but then noticed the keys to his vehicle were missing—taken by Williams when he arrived at his shop at 6:10 a.m. and noticed the station wagon in the lot and the back door to the premises open.

Running from the lot, the burglar, who was believed to have been scratched on the face by Williams, fled north toward

Chinese Workers Demand Mao End Cultural Purge

HONG KONG (UPI)—Thousands of Chinese Communist workers, weary of the "cultural revolution," have demanded that Mao Tse-tung bring the costly purge to a halt, the Hong Kong Star reported today from Canton.

The reported disenchantment with the revolution appeared to be having no effect. Peking Red Guards again denounced Foreign Minister Chen Yi and told disgraced propaganda chief Fo Tao-chu he was "guilty of offenses punishable by death."

The Star, a right-wing newspaper, said arrivals from Kwangtung province reported Canton workers had sent a petition to Mao with the backing of military officers and government officials asking the cultural revolution be called off. They described it as an ultimatum rather than a request.

"The ultimatum threatened that if he did not end the cultural revolution and disband the Red Guards there would be a mass strike," the Star said. "It was reported to have said that the Red Guards, described as nuisances, were harassing peasants and workers in the province and have done more harm than good."

A Chinese document made available today in Hong Kong and reported to have been written by Red Guards accused Fo of secretly opposing party chairman Mao and of using his powerful position as propaganda chief "to uphold his bourgeois rule."

FULL, ACTIVE LIFE

Mill Valleyan To Be 100 Monday

Adolph Eberhart, son of a Forty-Niner and first to hold the title of mayor of Mill Valley, will celebrate one of Nature's rarest gifts on Monday: 100 years of life.

For Eberhart it has been a full and active century, blessed by good health and a steady job . . . so steady, in fact, that in 1964, at the age of 97, he was still commuting by bus from Mill Valley to San Francisco's White House department store, where he had been working since 1889.

He was paymaster and had no intention of quitting, he declared, but the store went out of business in January of 1965.

For more than 50 years, Eberhart lived at 185 Molino Avenue in Mill Valley, in the house he and his late wife built in 1911. For the past year, he has been a resident of Kentfield's Center Medical Hospital, where his son, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, all residents of Marin, will help him observe his centennial.

From 1924 to 1936, he served on Mill Valley's governing body, becoming the first mayor in 1926 when the city changed from a board of trustees to the council form of government.

But it is not his work, nor his years of public service, that Eberhart looks back on with most relish today. His fondest memories are the tales his father told him of Gold Rush days and his own observation of the Bay Area during a century of living.

He enjoys telling how his Swiss-born father in 1849 rounded Cape Horn on a windjammer, which dropped anchor in San Francisco Bay and was promptly abandoned by everyone in the rush for the gold fields.

Eberhart was born in San Francisco in the house his father built, the first brick one built on Telegraph Hill. He recalls that bricks of the day made locally with salt water, "wept" so copiously that gutters had to be built to carry off the seepage.

Growing up in San Francisco in the days when Victoria of England was only midway through her long imperial reign, when the United States was still digesting the continent she had won and large areas of the West were still territories, life was a matter of simple pleasures for a boy.

There were no playgrounds then in his native city, Eberhart notes, but there were plenty of vacant lots for baseball and lots of open land to roam. "We had a lot of fun, maybe

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Judy Denies Quitting Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Judy Garland and 20th Century-Fox Studio are unable to agree over the circumstances of her abrupt departure from the movie "Valley of the Dolls."

Judy

A spokesman for the film company said yesterday, "She withdrew Thursday for personal reasons."

Miss Garland, 44, said "I have not withdrawn. How dare they say I've withdrawn? I was up at six this morning to go to work. I've done my work," she said.

"It's a shocking thing. Why? That's what I want to know, why?" Miss Garland asked.

The studio said no replacement has been named.

Sympathy To Doves And Hawks

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Gov. George Romney spoke out on Vietnam yesterday and managed to convey sympathy to both the doves and the hawks.

Romney

Romney criticized U.S. escalation of the war but also criticized anti-war demonstrations and supported the propriety of Gen. William Westmoreland's address to Congress on the present state of the war.

Romney told a news conference following the general's talk that North Vietnam has been able to meet U.S military escalation so far, despite "repeated assurances" such moves would take the United States closer to a settlement of the war.

Hess Claims He's Not Crazy

BERLIN (AP) — Rudolph Hess, former deputy to Adolf Hitler and the last remaining inmate in West Berlin's big Spandau war crimes prison, claims that he is mentally and physically sound.

"He said that except for some stomach troubles he has had over the years, he is totally healthy," Alfred Seidl, lawyer for the onetime Nazi bigwig, told newsmen yesterday after a half-hour visit with Hess.

It was the fourth visit by Seidl since Hess was sentenced to life in prison in 1946 by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal.

Hess, who was 73 three days ago, often has been reported suffering from mental illness.

"He asked me specifically to counter any newspaper or press reports that he is mentally sick," Seidl said.

To Visit Ike

PALM DESERT (UPI) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland was expected to visit former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today at Eisenhower's El Dorado Country Club home.

Gen. Westmoreland, commander of United States forces in Vietnam, was due at Palm Springs airport this afternoon and then was to be driven to the Eisenhower winter residence.

Work Force Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's civilian work force climbed 18,000 to 2.88 million employees in March, a joint congressional committee reported today.

Hike Protests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Public Utilities Commission reports about 1,400 letters have been received from subscribers to the Pacific Telephone Co., protesting a proposed $181 million rate increase. The commission hearing in Los Angeles closed yesterday only moments after it opened.

Out Of Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frederic March has left a hospital after a 10-day stay for what his physician described as a physical checkup. The 69-year-old actor was discharged Thursday from Good Samaritan Hospital and returned to the Beverly Hills hotel where he had been staying.

Defends Actions

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Campaigning for next Wednesday's election, President Chung Hee Park defended himself today against charges by his main opponent, who wants to take South Korean troops out of Vietnam. Park did not refer to his opponent's charge that the government planned to send 50,000 more soldiers to Vietnam after the election.

Returns Plant

JAKARTA (UPI) — The Indonesian government today returned ownership of a rubber tire and hose factory in Gobor, West Java, to Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. The plant was seized by the ousted Sukarno government.

Tiger Rampage

AALBORG, Denmark (UPI) — An angry tigress broke loose aboard a Danish freighter today and terrorized crewmen for several hours. The animal eventually was locked in an empty cabin aboard the 1,875-ton ship Borreby by armed Danish coast guard and zoo officials.

Strong Support

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, says a poll taken by mail in his district indicates strong support for liberalizing California's 106-year-old abortion law.

Monagan said yesterday that 76 per cent of those answering his questionnaire favored changing the law. He said 16 per cent were opposed and 8 per cent undecided.

Saboteurs Fail

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Saboteurs tried but failed yesterday to blow up Israel's main network of water supply pipes, military officials said. They said a complaint was made to the U.N. mixed armistice commission in charge of Syrian-Israeli affairs.

Millionth Member

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald Harris, a junior high school teacher in Corona, Calif., is the millionth member of the National Education Association. The professional teachers organization honored Harris and its 500,000th member, Mrs. Eloise Pendarvis of North Augusta, S.C., during ceremonies Friday.

Coast Guard Fights To Save Shipping Vessels

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard fought today to save two fishing vessels battered by huge waves off Nantucket Island as winds of up to 50 miles per hour continued to churn the Atlantic Ocean.

The huge waves, endangering shipping along the Atlantic seaboard, sank two fishing boats Friday, one with the loss of a six-man crew.

An 89-foot vessel, the Noreen, with a crew of 11, radioed that it was taking on water 75 miles east of Nantucket at midmorning today.

Another Coast Guard cutter was alongside the 102-foot trawler Plymouth about 75 miles east-southeast of Nantucket.

Congress Expected To Follow Plea On Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears certain to grant President Johnson's request for a 47-day extension of the no-strike period in the nationwide dispute between the railroads and six shop craft unions.

But several senators made clear their support was based on the President's pledge that he would submit legislation within a few days to solve the dispute.

The Senate Labor Committee approved the extension resolution 15 to 0 yesterday afternoon, within several hours after the decision to request it had been reached at a morning White House conference.

The House Commerce Committee appeared ready to follow suit Monday morning.

New Coppolino Trial Is Asked

By DON NORTH

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—A new trial was asked for Dr. Carl Coppolino just hours after his conviction on charges of slaying his first wife, a defense attorney said today.

Assistant defense counsel James McEwen said a hearing on the new trial motion will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday before Circuit Court Judge Lynn Silvertooth who sentenced Coppolino Friday to life imprisonment.

McEwen said the defense will seek to have Coppolino released on bond during appeal of the case.

Two Young Sisters Are Strangled

DETROIT (UPI) —Police today hunted the killer of two young sisters who were raped and strangled yesterday while returning home from school a block away.

Police in the suburb of Westland said they had questioned some suspects, but were not holding anyone.

The nude bodies of Deborah Louise Crowther, 8, and her sister, Kimberly Faith, 6, were found in a vacant field by Allan McNally, 16, shortly after they were slain, about a half block from their home.

McNally told police he was walking his dog through the field when he spotted a bundle of clothes and "thought they belonged to a doll or something."

The children were the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crowther.

Westland Police Chief Garrison Clayton said a six-pack of empty beer cans was found behind a bush and about 15 empty glue tubes were found about 30 yards from the bodies.

Teachers and students at the Stottlemeyer School, which the girls attended, had been warned of a possible molester in the area after Westland Police received a report a man had tried to pick up some children in his car about a mile from the school.

The girls' home was only about a block from their school.

The Wrong Bird

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When members of the Oregon Audubon Society saw a new 20-cent airmail stamp unveiled at the post office, they identified the bird on the stamp as a Central American magpie jay. The stamp, however, was supposed to honor a Columbia River Basin jay.

Brazen Thief

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Someone has stolen Postal Inspector Victor Short's car and $300 worth of golf clubs in the trunk. The car was taken from the parking lot behind the San Francisco police headquarters.

Peace Cards Instead Of Anti-War Pickets

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Women who oppose the war in Vietnam but balk at walking a picket line are sending a Mother's Day card instead to President Johnson.

Its simple message: "War is not healthy for children and other living things. Talk peace."

VOLUNTEER GROUP

The protest is the creation of "Another Mother For Peace," a volunteer group formed five weeks ago at the home of Barbara Avedon, an Oscar-winning film and television writer.

Since then, more than 175,000 cards have been sold throughout the country. Mrs. Avedon hopes one million will reach Washington by May 14.

Working day and night to fill the orders are movie and television personalities and the wives of producers, directors, lawyers and doctors.

The mailing operation fills the second floor of an office building in a fashionable business district. Orders already are in from New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Texas and many other states.

THEIR WISH

Said Mrs. Avedon: "It all started when I had some Hollywood friends over to see my son Josh, who was about to have his first birthday. The year had gone so fast. I realized then that someday I may have to send him to war."

The women agreed what they wanted most for Mother's Day was peace.

Actress Joanne Woodward wrote a letter to go with the cards, asking the recipient to drum up support through women's clubs and other organizations. Mrs. Avedon and the others used their Christmas mailing lists to send them to friends.

The gently worded cards, free of polemics, were a big success.

Inside, the cards continue:

"For my Mother's Day gift this year I don't want candy or flowers. I want an end to killing. We who have given life must be dedicated to preserving it. Please talk peace."

MALE BOOSTER

Actor Robert Vaughn, star of the "Man From U.N.C.L.E." television series, is among the group's top male boosters. He plugs the cards at personal appearances and even helps stuff envelopes.

Other volunteers are actresses Whitney Blake, Lauren Bacall, Janice Rule (Mrs. Ben Gazzarra) and Donna Winters, plus the wives of Dean Martin, Dick Van Dyke and Herschel Bernardi.

The wife of conductor Leonard Bernstein offered help from New York, and an order came from Gloria Vanderbilt.

Child Beating Hearing Held For Father

Herbert Paul Stonecipher, 34, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on misdeameanor charges of mistreating two children.

Judge Peter Allen Smith scheduled plea entry for May 5 at 1:30 p.m.

Stonecipher, of 245 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, was arrested early yesterday by San Anselmo police for the second night in a row. He was booked in county jail for disturbing the peace.

Officers said they were called by neighbors who said Stonecipher "was beating his family again." They said they found Mrs. Stonecipher and two children, Anita Mills, 10, and Sandra Mills, 9, outside the house in night clothes and barefooted. Stonecipher and two younger children, Debra Stonecipher, 4, and Kenneth Stonecipher, 3, were inside the locked house, they added.

Mrs. Stonecipher told police her husband had beaten the two youngest children "black and blue" Wednesday.

Stonecipher was free yesterday on $110 bail.

WARREN SUPPORTS THE U.C. FACULTY

13,000 Teachers Hear Chief Justice Call Proposed Tuition Hike A Burden

BERKELEY (UPI) — University of California professors protested en masse Friday the tuition and budget proposals of Gov. Ronald Reagan and the January firing of President Clark Kerr.

Some 13,000 teachers donned caps and gowns to attend a "faculty power" rally in U. C.'s picturesque, outdoor Greek theater on the edge of the campus. The extraordinary convocation was orderly.

GUEST BACKERS

The academic community was supported by Chief Justice Earl Warren, historian Richard Hofstadter and economist John Kenneth Galbraith, who all addressed the assemblage.

"Only twice in a hundred years has tuition been seriously suggested, but in both instances (1895 and 1899) understanding governors rejected the idea," said Warren, a former California governor and an "Old Blue" of the U.C. Class of 1912.

The Chief Justice, who did not mention Reagan by name, also said any additional costs to the students would be "a real burden on them and in the case of many would mean 'drop out.' "

All three speakers praised Kerr as a great educator and administrator.

Neither Kerr nor Reagan was at the convocation.

The U.C. regents, including the governor, fired Kerr in January. The action came just after the new governor proposed tuition for all nine campuses of the university. Kerr had said he was opposed to tuition.

The academic rally was organized by criminology Prof. Bernard Diamond who said, "The threat of political intervention and fiscal irresponsibility of unwarranted budgetary restrictions strikes at the very heart of the university's greatness."

Warren also told the professors, "This is the time for us to do our utmost for the university because it has done its utmost for us."

ANOTHER SLAP

The Chief Justice's 30-minute speech was interrupted nine times by loud applause. He received standing ovations before and after his remarks.

Galbraith took a direct slap at the Reagan administration by saying:

"There is no need to tell you the recent history of the University of California—the politically motivated discharge of the best known and quite possibly the best regarded university administrator in the United States . . . "

Sen. Long Charges Dodd's Censure—Scapegoat Tactic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate ethics committee members say they're prepared to meet Sen. Russell B. Long's challenge to their recommendation that Sen. Thomas J. Dodd be censured for financial misconduct.

Long, the Louisianian who is assistant Democratic leader, accused the bipartisan committee yesterday of making a scapegoat of Dodd, whom he defended as "a fine, decent, honest man — a fine father and family man."

In talking with a reporter Long first said half the committee couldn't withstand the investigation Dodd went through. In a later interview with newsmen he upped that to half the Senate.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., ethics panel chairman, declined comment. But vice chairman Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, of the six-member committee said the other 94 senators will have an opportunity "to decide whether the senator from Louisiana is right or the committee is right."

Another member of the committee, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., told a reporter Long is "the only senator I've heard of who has expressed dissatisfaction with our report."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., also on the committee, said it took "the greatest care" in its 14-month investigation of Dodd, a 59-year-old Connecticut Democrat who has denied any wrongdoing.

The question, he said, is whether funds raised for Dodd at testimonials were put to proper use.

The committee unanimously recommended Dodd be censured for diverting to his personal use $116,083 in political funds and for double billing the Senate and private organizations for travel expenses.

Guilty Plea Entered In Morals Case

William Duncan Lindley, 21-year-old San Rafael resident, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two misdemeanor charges of attempted child molesting.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. dismissed for lack of evidence a felony charge of an attempt on a 12-year-old boy March 23 in San Rafael and ordered psychiatric examination of Lindley.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas refiled the dismissed felony charge as a misdemeanor.

Lindley, of 101 H Street, was on two years probation for child molesting in San Anselmo on March 11, 1966, when he committed the offenses to which he pleaded guilty yesterday: attempted molesting of two boys, aged 14 and 15, on Jan. 28 in San Rafael.

Judge Goldstein said that if examination shows Lindley to be a sexual psychopath, he will be sent to Atascadero State Hospital for treatment. If not judged a psychopath, he will be returned to municipal court for sentencing.

Pair Arrested For Marijuana

Sausalito police arrested two San Francisco men today, saying they found a small amount of marijuana and a bottle of liquor in their car.

Booked into Marin County Jail were James F. Johnson, 29, the driver, and a passenger, Jerry Smith, 24. An 18-year-old San Francisco girl riding with them was released to her parents.

The arrest occurred in front of 310 Valley Street at 3:30 a.m.

the marshes.

Found in the station wagon, according to police, were brass and copper fittings stolen from Williams' shop and from other premises the thief is believed to have broken into during the night.

Police also are checking on the possibility the theft of a truck early today at the Nelson Fire Equipment Co., 523 Jacoby Street, San Rafael, may have been connected. It was unknown whether gear similar to that found in the station wagon was stolen from the Nelson firm.

When surprised in the Corte Madera shop, the thief had just completed peeling open a large floor safe, but had not managed to steal anything from it.

MASKED BANDIT HEAVES DEEP SIGH OF RELIEF

Sheriff's deputies told today about the masked bandit who never really had his heart in it.

Kenneth W. Campbell, 26, a vending machine service man, told officers he was on a routine call at 49 Cole Drive, Marin City, Thursday when he happened to glance behind him.

He said he saw a youth with a stocking pulled over his face and a small revolver held in the right hand. The man demanded money.

When Campbell, without thinking of his wallet, said: "I haven't got any," the would-be bandit heaved a sigh, turned round and walked away.

more than boys do nowadays," he claims.

Marin in those days was truly rural and Eberhart looks back with pleasure on excursions from San Francisco to tramp this county's hills and valleys or to spend the day fishing at Point Bonita.

Now he lives in once-pastoral Ross Valley, become one of the most densely populated parts of Marin, threaded by heavily-travelled Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, the county's major east-west route.

As he reads his daily paper he measures the chronicle of current events against a century of experience. But ask him for some words of guidance and he refuses with a smile. "Everyone must live his own life," he replies.

County Costs Prompt Library Union Study

By CAROL MARSH

Corte Madera's dues to the Marin County library system this year came to $32,115, including payment of $8,400 into a building fund county officials agree is earmarked to build a branch library in Novato.

Corte Madera is considering dropping out of the county library system to join with Larkspur in building a new library for the twin cities.

Tangible benefits of the county library membership consists of a branch library with 9,100 books, with an annual circulation of 36,000 books, open 31 hours a week, administered by the county system, and bookmobile service one hour a week at the Paradise Drive Shopping Center.

Larkspur's library has more than 21,000 books, an annual circulation of 54,000 books, is open 34 hours a week. The cost to Larkspur for the library this year was $20,245.

Corte Madera residents are allowed free use of the Larkspur library, which itself has free access to many of the benefits of the county system.

County administrative analyst Randall Shores, asked to explain the county's expenses related to Corte Madera's membership, said obvious local expenses connected with the local branch and bookmobile service came to $9,093.

This includes rent, librarian Dorothy Malmgrem's salary, janitor and telephone service, fringe benefits, bookmobile salary and operation, and the services of a part-time page.

Indirect expenses, Shores said, related exclusively to running the Corte Madera branch come to $21,153.

For this, Shores said, the library gets 3,000 to 4,000 books a year from the main library, which are the result of constant circulation of books among the branches.

The main library processes all of the branch's books, handles the business end of the branch operation, as well as book binding and mending. Corte Madera residents can order books from the main library at the local branch, which are delivered twice a week to Corte Madera. And Corte Madera residents can use the county library. This indirect service, Shores said, accounts for more than two-thirds of the cost of membership to Corte Madera taxpayers.

Only 5 cents of the 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax rate for the county library went into a building fund. The county system this year completed payment to the county for the library's $793,846 share of space at the Civic Center, with $86,153 left over in the building fund.

Corte Madera's share of the building fund was $8,400, according to Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher. The Marin County Board of Supervisors in January 1965 voted that Novato would be the first branch library built with the money in the fund, after the Civic Center cost was paid.

Shores estimated the cost of the planned Novato Library at $300,000, of which $100,000 might be paid by the federal government. He said it will be three or four years before the building fund is large enough to pay for the Novato library. In the meantime, Corte Madera will continue to contribute to the fund, if the town remains in the library system.

continue the program. The measure will be sent back to the Senate Monday and probably will go to a Senate Assemly will go to a Senate Assembly conference committee where a compromise could be drafted.

Four Republicans joined a solid bloc of Democrats in opposing the measure. All votes for the plan were cast by Republicans.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, led the opposition. He predicted the program would be operated for a few days at least after the Monday deadline.

"I think we can take time to work out a better bill than this," Unruh said.

Assembly Democrats objected to a section of the bill that would have required the counties to pay a larger share of the cost of the financially-troubled program.

In effect, the measure was two bills in one. One section would have renewed authorization for the program. The other section would have required the counties to pay half of increases in some program costs beginning in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The bill, introduced by Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, originally was intended only to overcome the effect of an attorney general's opinion that the program would overspend its authorization on Monday.

School Plans On Narcotics To Be Outlined

The Marin County Board of Education will hear a report Monday from James Carroll, chairman of the board's educational services committee, on an immediate-action program for narcotics education.

The board meets at 8 p.m. in the county schools' office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Carroll said today he hoped the program would be under way by the time the board meets and that its three activities will be available to school districts next month.

The program includes first, preparation of instruction on marijuana and LSD for junior high and high school students; secondly, development of a drug abuse center with audio-visual and printed material for use by teachers, and, thirdly, a community-school resources bureau with a list of persons and agencies available to build classroom programs on narcotics instruction.

Carroll will also report on residential education: educationally handicapped classes at St. Vincent's School for Boys, Bayview Schools at San Quentin Prison and Sunny Hills School, and on pre-school education.

The board will consider a federally funded $11,900 project to add extra services and equipment at Loma Alta school, recommended for approval by the educational services committee Thursday.

A Rain-Free Weekend Seen

Marin's first rain-free weekend in more than a month was predicted today by the Weather Bureau.

Partly cloudy skies, with chances of rain only one in 10, were forecast. But cool temperatures would continue, the weatherman said.

A high pressure system off the coast brought an end to rainy conditions in most parts of the state, at least for the time being. However, light scattered snowfall was expected today in the mountains.

OBITUARIES

William F. Bundesen Dies At 76

William Frederick Bundesen Sr., member of a Novato ranching family whose dairy interests in Marin go back 100 years, died yesterday at his home at 190 South Novato Boulevard at the age of 76.

Bundesen, who had a history of heart trouble, was believed to have died of a heart attack, but a routine autopsy was ordered.

Bundesen was born in Petaluma, to ranching parents who settled in the North Marin-South Sonoma area in the 1860s.

He was a dairy and poultry rancher all his life, operating ranches in various parts of Sonoma and Marin counties. Since his retirement some years ago, the Bundesen Novato ranch has been run by his son, Frederick Jr.

He was a member of the Nicasio Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Petaluma Chapter 26 of Herman's Sons; the Bennett Valley Grange of Santa Rosa, a charter member of the Wilson Gun Club of Novato, and an elder of the United Church of Christ.

He is survived by two sons, William F. Jr. of Novato and Herbert M. Bundesen of Santa Rosa; a daughter, Mrs. Aletha Bertsche of Geyserville; a sister, Mrs. Selda Wiley of Sacramento, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral will be Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, 400 Washington Street, Petaluma. Contributions to favorite charities are preferred by the family.

JAMES H. DEIGNAN

James H. Deignan, a frequent visitor to Mill Valley, died yesterday at the age of 91 at his home in White Plains, N.Y., after a short illness.

On his annual visits, Deignan, an attorney, stayed at the Mill Valley home of hi snephew, John E. Deignan, by whom he is survived.

Private funeral will be held in the East.

CRITICS

ovation when he told Congress: "Backed at home by resolve, confidence, patience, determination and continued support, we will prevail in Vietnam over Communist aggression."

Such influential members as House Speaker John W. McCormack and Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thought this appeal would "increase the spirit of resolve" at home to see the war through to victory.

Among the war policy critics, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., made clear he is not toning down his dissent. McGovern's critical speech touched off a Senate uproar over the propriety of Westmoreland's mission home.

Talking later at the White House to 26 governors and 100 congressmen, Westmoreland said North Vietnamese Gen. Ho Nuyen Giap listed growing dissent within the United States to the war as a major factor favoring eventual North Vietnamese success.

Westmoreland told his White House audience he deferred "to your judgment" in assessing Giap's appraisal, but added: "It is the central consideration."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was disappointed Westmoreland did not emphasize "the struggle to provide a better life for the people" of South Vietnam.

DAVID HAWKINS

Retired Rear Admiral David Hawkins, 60, of 49 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera, died today in Marin General Hospital after collapsing in his home yesterday.

The Marin coroner's office ruled dead apparently from natural causes, pending an autopsy.

Hawkins, a graduate of the Naval Academy, was born in St. Joseph, Mo., and lived in California since 1955. He moved to Marin a year later.

Survivors include his wife, Anne, and a daughter, Mrs. Marie Robbins of Castro Valley.

The Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, is in charge of arrangements.

GILBERT F. KNEELAND

Funeral for Gilbert F. Kneeland of 526 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be at Mt. Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Kneeland, 54, died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was a retired correctional officer at San Quentin Prison. His father, the late Eugene Kneeland, was also a correctional officer at San Quentin.

Kneeland was a lifelong resident of Marin County although born at an Oakland hospital.

He is survived by his wife Marie S. Kneeland of San Rafael; a daughter, Mrs. Shanna Hall of Whittier; a son, Charles S. Daniels, in the U.S. Army in Vietnam; his mother, Helen Kneeland of Petaluma, and three grandchildren.

ANTHONY MANN

BERLIN (UPI) —American movie producer and director Anthony Mann died of a heart attack in his Berlin hotel room, it was announced today. He was 60.

His young wife, Anna, a Russian-born former Sadlers Wells ballerina was with him when he died.

They have a one-year-old son, Nicholas.

Mann made his home in London. He was in Berlin to make his 45th film, a spy story called "Dandy in Aspic."

His films included "El Cid," "Winchester 73," "Naked Spur," "Man from Laramie," "Bend of the River," "Strategic Air Command," "The Glen Miller Story," "Men in War," "God's Little Acre," "Heroes of Telemark" and "The Far Country."

An associate of Mann said his body would be flown to London, where he made his home, for cremation.

Mann was born in San Diego, Calif.

HELENE F. MAUBERRET

Requiem Mass for Helene F. Mauberret, mother of Edmond D. Mauberret of Mill Valley and sister of Marie Knapp of Tiburon, will be offered at 9 a.m. Monday at Notre Dame de Victoires Church, 566 Bush Street, San Francisco.

Burial will be at Los Gatos Memorial Park. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Halsted and Company, 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Mauberret died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital at 82. She is also survived by another son, Robert J. Mauberret of San Francisco, and two grandchildren. She was a native of San Francisco.

FRANK MOITOZA

Requiem Mass for Frank Garcia Moitoza, a resident of Tiburon for 56 years, was held yesterday at St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon. Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Moitoza died Thursday at the age of 91 at his home at 251 Moitoza Lane, the street built by him when his was the only house on the hill above Old St. Hilary's Church and only a handful of families lived on the peninsula. He had been in excellent health until suffering a mild stroke about a month ago.

He was born in San Pablo, Contra Costa County, but grew up in Pinole where his family moved while he was a child.

His early years were spent ranching on the family property outside Pinole, as a blacksmith and master tool dresser and an employee of the Hercules Powder Company.

He moved with his wife, Minnie Rogers Moitoza, and son, Frank Jr. to Tiburon in 1911 not long after his father perished in an explosion at the powder plant.

In Tiburon, he was blacksmith and tool dresser with Northwestern Pacific Railroad for many years, retiring in the late 1930's. During World War II, he came out of retirement to work as a foreman at Marinship in Sausalito, training younger men in blacksmithing skills suddenly in demand. He received a federal commendation for this service.

In 1946, he retired for the last time.

He was a member of Pinole Lodge, Unioa Portuguesa en estado da California.

Moitoza is survived by his wife; his son, who lives in Mill Valley; his sister, Virginia Marcos of Pinole, and three grandchildren.

MILDRED K. STEWART

Funeral for Mildred K. Stewart, mother of David M. Stewart of San Anselmo, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the chapel of N. Gray and Company, Divisadero and Post streets, San Francisco. Inurnment will be private.

Mrs. Stewart, 65, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. She was the wife of the late Malcolm L. Stewart. She was a past president of the National Restaurant Association and manager of restaurant operations for Manning's, Inc., in San Francisco.

Mrs. Stewart, a native of Wisconsin, was a member of the St. Francis Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Other survivors include her father, Albert Oosterhouse of Wisconsin; a brother, Carl Osterhouse of Indianapolis, Ind., and two grandchildren. The family prefers contributions to the San Francisco Heart Fund.

HAZEL WHITELEY

Mrs. Hazel Whiteley, 72, of 825 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, died early today in Marin General Hospital after collapsing in a Terra Linda beauty shop yesterday.

An autopsy was to be performed by the Marin coroner's office.

She was a native of Lathrop, Mo.

Survivors include her husband, John, and a son, Dr. Charles B. Peck of San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

BEFORE PRESBYTERIANS

Red China Recognition To Be Issue

The 179th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., which opens in Portland, Ore., May 18, is expected to be a historic one.

On the assembly's agenda is approval of a new Confession of Faith which has already been approved by a majority of the church's presbyteries and synods.

In line with the new confession assembly delegates will be asked to adopt a new policy urging "opening the way for full participation by the People's Republic of China in international life."

Playing a major role shaping the church's paper on Red China is Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, who will soon be leaving Marin County for a national church post in New York.

During January of this year Rev. Baker spent several weeks in New York helping to prepare the first draft of the paper which will go to an assembly committee for revision before introduction to delegate.s

"Respomse to our undertaking was overwhelming at the United Nation," Baker said. "I was given a free ticket to gain information and for interviews."

One of the most helpful persons was Arthur Goldberg, the U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Baker said. Also he interviewed both Chinese Nationalists and several Chinese from the mainland who work as civil servants at the U. N.

Rev. Baker emphasized that the paper has been rewritten several times and has been checked by church theologians and laymen as well, including Henry Luce just prior to his death in February.

Following are some of the excerpts from the paper:

"We can say that the recognition of the People's Republic of China by the United States is desirable and eventual seating of the PRC in the United Nations is a necessity.

"Our Confession of Faith (expected to be approved before the presentation of this paper) calls us to 'fresh and responsible relations across every line of conflict.

"Indeed it may well be that the solution of the problem of Chinas' dangerous isolation may have to be accompanied with the change of status for the United States."

The paper also specifically recommends "that as soon as the way be clear, the United States join other nations including the People's Republic of China in participation in an implementation of an inclusive Asia Redevelopment Program."

FIRST MASS OF CONCELEBRATION

Marin priests, nuns and laity gathered Thursday night in the gymnasium of Marin Catholic High School to participate in the area's first mass of concelebration. Principal celebrant, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John McGarr, Catholic Dean of Marin, (right center), was joined in saying the mass by 14 other Marin priests. The ceremony concluded the weekly series of informative lectures given during the month at the Catholic school.

Catholics Revolt In The Netherlands

THE HAGUE (UPI) —Roman Catholics in The Netherlands are staging a religious revolution which has split the nation's four million faithful and made itself felt in the highest quarters in Rome.

The fight is over future development of the church: Whether it should remain true to the traditions of 2,000 years and take its guidance only from the Pope, or widen its perspectives to meet the demands of 20th Century society in line with modern ecumenical movements.

Progressives undoubtedly have the upper hand. Already many Dutch Catholic churches have abandoned Latin as the standard language of services, and use modern hymn tunes rather than traditional music.

Others have changed the established form of Holy Communion, offer Mass on Saturdays instead of Sundays and even hold guitar-backed "pop" services for young people.

The progressives have forced into the open discussion on touchy topics such as celibacy of priests, forms of birth control and the right of the "typically Italian" Roman Curia to advise the Pope on all matters. They have been forthright in condemning what they regard as Rome's indecision on the future of the religion.

On the other side, traditionalist groups complain bitterly that the church in Holland is "doing away with itself" by even considering such renovations as permitting meat to be eaten on Friday or the possible use of a new catechism.

They condemn the progressives for acting as a pressure group without the backing of a majority of Dutch Catholics.

Caught in the middle are the Dutch hierarchy, generally progressive in outlook but firmly committed to follow Rome's lead.

In offical statements they have pleaded for renovation without rashness and for consideration for "those among our flock who cannot keep the pace."

This fence-sitting attitude has pleased neither side.

Progressives consider the hierarchy hidebound by tradition; traditionalists see the church leaders as ignoring the dangers of change — indeed the militant conservative group "Confrontatie" (confrontation) has several times bypassed the leadership to complain directly to Rome of the situation in the Netherlands.

The Dutch religious revolution is a post World War II development which has gathered strength in recent years.

Back in history Dutch Catholics were among the staunchest supporters of Rome's unquestioned authority, a feeling which persisted until the latter years of Pope Pius XII. By the time his successor, Pope John XXIII, announced plans for the Ecumenical Council, the progressive movement was expanding.

'Situation Ethics' In Today's Religion

By JAMES F. DONOHUE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Joseph F. Fletcher, professor of ethics at Cambridge Episcopal Theological School, says he would amend the biblical Ten Commandments to read this way:

"Thou shalt not covet, ordinarily.

"Thou shalt not kill, ordinarily.

"Thou shalt not commit adultery, ordinarily."

"In other words," Fletcher says, "for me there are no rules —none at all."

Fletcher is considered America's leading exponent of "situation ethics," which he says "declares that anything and everything is right or wrong according to the situation—what is wrong in some cases would be right in others."

"And this candid approach," he says, "is indeed a revolution in morals."

Fletcher explained in an interview that a situationist looks only at individual, concrete cases, not at abstract principles.

"I look at situations one at a time," he said. "You ask me how often premarital sex would be all right and I would say relatively infrequently. Maybe only once in 100 times. But in some situations unmarried love could be infintely more moral than married unlove."

"A situationist would discard all absolutes except the one absolute: always to act with loving concern," he said. "Oh, I know, the word 'love' is a swampy one, a semantic confusion.

"Put it this way then: A situationist is prepared in any concrete case to suspend, ignore or violate any principle if by doing so he can effect more good than by following it.

"What is good? Good is first and foremost the good of people. Christians call it love, meaning neighbor-concern—to seek the well-being of people.

"The good is what works. Apart from the helping or hurting of people, ethical judgments or evaluations are meaningless."

Situation ethics has been criticized, especially by Roman Catholics, who uphold certain absolute moral laws. An American Jesuit, the Rev. Robert Gleason, said: "It is not in Christian tradition to present love as the exclusive motive for moral action."

Fletcher added: "Situation ethics is criticized for saying everything is relative.

"But we say, 'Look boys, this is the 20th century. The scientifically sophisticated world view is relativistic. You are going to be left out in the cold if you think the moral sciences are somehow an exception to this rule and this influence'."

Fletcher, in turn, criticizes persons he calls legalists—"people who like to wallow or cower in the security of the law."

"They want to maintain absolutes of good and evil, but they are not going to get away with it," he said. "Goodness is what happens to a human act, it is not in the act itself."

Interfaith San Quentin Dinner Set

The sixth interfaith appreciation dinner at San Quentin Prison has been rescheduled for May 16.

Following a concert by outside and chapel musicians in the garden chapel at 6:30 p.m., the dinner will be held in the south dining hall.

The event was originally scheduled for Feb. 11 but was postponed because of a temporary ban on outside visitors.

The interfaith dinner is organized each year by the prison's staff chaplains to express appreciation of the volunteers and staff workers of the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish chapel programs.

Chaplains on the staff are John Mullen, Thomas Ahern, Byron E. Eshelman, George R. Tolson and Norman Twersky.

Hollis Will Speak On His Soviet Tour

Dr. Virgil Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, will speak on the Soviet Union at 9:40 a.m. tomorrow before the Novato Community Methodist Church's Adult Inquirers Class.

The school administrator will show films taken last year on an educational tour of Russia.

Bible Universal, Claims Theologian

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —A Lutheran theology professor says denominational differences cannot be detected in the Bible. "It ;our respective traditions that separate us most," according to Rev. Martin H. Scharleman.

Rev. Mr. Scharleman said Christians should reexamine their respective doctrines "in the light of Scripture as it is being interpreted today."

Lesson Topic

The parable of the Prodigal Son will be the responsive reading in a Bible lesson on "Everlasting Punishment" to be read in all Christian Science churches tomorrow.

St. Paul's Sets Programs On Drugs, Their Effects

LECTURER — Paul A. Erickson, Christian Science lecturer, will give a talk at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the First Church of Christ Scientist, Butte and Sacramento streets, in Sausalito. He will discuss "spiritual perception."

A series of two programs on drugs and the psychedelic experience will be presented tomorrow and May 7 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street in San Rafael.

The programs are designed to provide information for both youth and parents concerning the use and misuse of drugs.

Tomorrow's program will feature two speakers from Synanon House in Marshall — Nick Roberts and Ken Gulotta.

The second program will be a panel on the various forms of psychedelic experience. It will be composed of a psychiatrist, a person who has taken an LSD trip, one familiar with LSD research prior to federal restrictions and a speaker acquainted with the legality of the drug.

The sessions will be held in the Parish Hall and Room One of the church at 6:30 p.m. Both youth (above the seventh grade) and adults are invited.

Building Slump

MY FAIR LADY

Eliza Doolittle would feel right at home in this stately country mansion with its touches of Edwardian grandeur and magnificent English style gardens. Built in 1906 and modernized over the years, this venerable estate has seen the great and near-great enter its baronial hall and gather in the drawing room and high ceilinged music room. The dining room, with its breakfast alcove, has seated as many as 30 for dinner, and the social room with wet bar will hold dozens for more casual entertaining. 8 bedrooms, 6½ baths, 2 caretakers' cottages — all within the 2⅓ acres of grounds in the heart of old Ross.

EAST PARK HOMES

Design Plus Comfort

DESIGN — It's obvious in the interior and the exterior of every EAST PARK HOME. There are 4 floor plans with 3 different exterior designs for each, giving a total of 12 individual homes to choose from. In designing these homes, the architect has combined the rich textures and colors of natural materials to give each home its own individual style and beauty. These elegant homes have been planned so that every street in EAST PARK will have the style, individuality and prestige of a custom home community.

COMFORT — It surrounds you the moment you enter an EAST PARK HOME. These unique Wes Bailey homes include rich detailing that gives every home its own custom-designed look. You see it in such features as the sunken living room and separate family room with fireplace and bar. Graceful wrought iron railings, recessed kitchen light fixtures, master bedroom suite with separate dressing area are among the dozens of custom features you'll find at EAST PARK.

Decisions Grow Out Of Rumors

SANTA BARBARA — Rumors, despite their disastrous potential, are seen by a University of California sociologist here as a form of collective problem-solving.

Men caught together in an unclear situation "attempt a meaningful interpretation by pooling their intellectual resources," according to Dr. Tamotsu Shibutani.

"In order to act intelligently, such persons seek news," he writes in a new book, "Improvised News: A Sociological Study of Rumor" (Bobbs-Merrill). "Rumor is essentially a type of news."

Dr. Shibutani's study of rumors drawn from four years of field observation and an examination of historical cases, has revealed that the common concept of rumor as a statement passed along a chain of persons, with each making changes or embellishments, is oversimplified.

"Rumor," he states, "is not an individual creation that spreads, but arises in the collaboration of many."

Participants enact various roles, he notes.

Firt there is the messenger, who brings information to the group; then the interpreter who tries to place the news in context; the skeptic, who expresses doubt or urges caution; the protagonist, who, when there is more than one interpretation, sponsors one over another (he may also become the group's agitator); and the auditor, who listens but says little.

Last there is the decision-maker, who takes the lead in determining what ought to be done.

Brothers Claim Longevity Record

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — The five Moore brothers claim some sort of record for longevity.

John is 95; W. R., 93; George, 90; James, 87; and Samuel, 81.

All live here except James, a resident of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Constantine To Make Tour Of Army Camps

ATHENS (AP) — Greece began today a weekend of Orthodox Easter celebrations during which King Constantine is to make his first public appearance and tour of military camps since the armed forces took over the nation eight days ago.

The king and members of the new government are to mark the beginning of Easter with a religious service in a square before this capital's main cathedral. At midnight, the king traditionally proclaims, "Christ is risen."

Constantine visits military camps Sunday to crack red eggs with the soldiers, a custom that in the past has given the king a chance to fraternize with the armed forces.

Whether the same kind of public association with the troops would occur tomorrow remained to be seen. His statement of qualified acceptance of the military regime Wednesday included a call for a quick return to parliamentary government.

Since the coup, Constantine has been in seclusion at Tatoi, his country estate 16 miles from Athens.

No curfew was in force and Greeks could leave the country with a special permit. There was no censorship on outgoing cables and telephone calls, although foreign publications were barred. Local newspapers and magazines were heavily censored.

Brig Gen. Stylianos Patacos, the interior minister, said 6,509 persons were arrested following the coup.

Patacos said 1,328 have been released and 2,534 were being kept on the island of Yioura. He gave no details about the remainder, except to say that he discussed ths condition of all 5,181 detainees with King Constantine Friday night.

Bolinas Plans For Easing Of Traffic Viewed

Plans to ease traffic and parking problems in Bolinas have been made, but must be approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors before they can be carried out, Bolinas Community Inc. was told last night.

William Ott of the traffic and parking committee said county Traffic Engineer James Robinson prepared the changes after making a survey with the California Highway Patrol. Lower speed limits would be set and parking limited in congested areas along Wharf Road, Brighton Street and Terrace Avenue, streets most used by tourists and visitors.

The board also discussed higher rentals at the community center building to meet upkeep costs, but took no action.

Tiburon Seats A New Planner

Rampton W. Harvey took his oath of office Thursday night as a member of the Tiburon Planning Commission, which met in special session to study proposed zoning ordinance.

Harvey was appointed to the commission Monday by the city council to replace Stephen H. Nash, who resigned.

Erik Rettig, who has been vice-chairman, was unanimously elected chairman, and John McChesney as vice-chairman. Harvey was assigned to the board of design review, replacing Rettig.

Boat Motor Stolen

Arthur Flower of Channel Boat Sales, 115 Third Street, San Rafael, reported to police yesterday the theft of a $859 outboard motor together with a canvas boat top and side curtains worth $150.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

California's nearly $1 billion state medicare program will come to a near halt within days unless the legislature acts fast, the Reagan administration says.

THE ASSEMBLY

Bills passed:

PARKS — Gives uniformed county park employees authority to arrest persons committing misdemeanors; AB 339, Milias, R-Gilroy.

Juries — Prohibits elected public officials from serving on grand juries; AB 459, Milias.

Amendments rejected:

Medical — Amendments to bill which provides for medical assistance payments after April 30; AB 583, Veneman, R-Modesto.

THE SENATE

Met briefly and recessed until Monday.

Abercrombie Clears Issues In Drug Talk

Probation Officer Neil Abercrombie yesterday declared he did not advocate legalization of uncontrolled use of psychedelic drugs in remarks before an educators' workshop at Ross General Hospital last week.

Some of the throng attending the workshop understood Abercrombie as proposing removal of laws against use of the drugs.

HIS MEANING

Abercromibe said what he meant to advocate was "strict legal controls on the use and distribution of hallucinogenic drugs," but not simply handling as a criminal matter. "Handling on a strictly criminal basis will not solve the social and medical problems attendant on drug abuse," he said.

"People who are sick should be put in hospitals, not prisons," said Abercrombie, who in his speech strongly criticized the severity of present laws against drug use.

Use of the hallucinogenic drugs, he said yesterday, "should be controlled through some kind of civil proceedings."

Abercrombie declared he would not advocate removing criminal penalties for "pushing" drugs for use by others.

ALTERNATIVE

In his remarks at the Ross Hospital workshop, which included an initial speech of about 10 minutes and numerous responses to audience questions, Abercrombie offered, as an alternative to punishment for the use of LSD and other hallucinogenic drugs, government-controled psychedelic centers, "where you could go on a psychedelic vacation instead of going to Disneyland."

He said today, however, that he had not intended to advocate this, but merely offered it as a possible alternative that had been mentioned. He said he saw the proposal advanced as a serious suggestion in a University of California research report.

Abercrombie further stated his remarks were not a dissent to anything said by four psychiatrists who also spoke at the hospital workshop, as they were characterized in an Independent-Journal report.

"I did not and do not dissent in any way from the views of these men as printed and quoted in the column," he said. "I agree in detail with very quotation attributed to each of these gentlemen."

HIS DISSENT

The psychiatrists dealt principally with the effects of hallucinogenic drugs, from LSD down to marijuana — which [illegible] Abercrombie's dissent, he stressed, was to the treatment of drug use as a criminal matter, not to what the doctors said.

In a report Tuesday on arrest of a youth apparently on a "bad LSD trip," Charles E. Newman of Corte Madera police wrote: "If the esteemed probation officer that advocated making this junk legal could see these people at their finest, I'm sure he would possibly veer a mite to our side."

Newman said he referred to Abercrombie. However, Abercrombie emphasized that he does not advocate making drugs legal, but urges civil rather than merely criminal procedures to combat them.

Marin Group Honors Reagan

Eighteen directors of Marin Republican Council called on Gov. Ronald Reagan in Sacramento Thursday and named him honorary director of MRC.

Harry Diner, president of MRC, presented the Governor with a plaque designating him an honorary director.

The group also met with State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, and fellow MRC directors Paul Haerle and James Crumpacker, who now serve on the governor's staff.

Petaluma River Marina Proposed

A marina for 270 boats and allied yachting facilities on the Petaluma River at Petaluma has been proposed by Charles T Hover of Days Island, Novato in an application to the Army Corps of Engineers.

Hover has for a permit to dredge a basin and expand an existing 50-foot levee to 150 feet, Lt. Col. Frank C. Boerger, district engineer, has announced. The marina east of Highway 101 where it crosses the river would have a transient float, fuel dock and boat hauling facilities.

Protests may be submitted in triplicate no later than May 27 to the U. S. Army Engineer District, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, Boerger said.

Driver Is Shaken In Auto Accident

Audrey Mare Lang, 46, of 2790 Heatherstone Drive, Marinwood, suffered minor injuries Thursday when her eastbound car hit a parked auto on Blackstone Drive in Marinwood, California Highway Patrol reported.

Mrs. Lang said she swerved to avoid another auto and hit a parked sedan owned by Dale W. Clayton of 269 Blackstone Drive. She refused hospitalization.

Auditorium Used As Dorm For Laborers

MARYSVILLE (AP) — This community's civic auditorium has been pressed into kitchen and dormatory duty to help farm laborers out of work due to crop-delaying rains.

This was the situation yesterday as Abe Leal, manager of the local State Farm Labor office, commented "there's practically no work available."

The Marysville Memorial Auditorium was giving aid to about 60 men newly arrived from all parts of the West. This Sacramento Valley agricultural community's Twin Cities Rescue Mission also was busy.

Marysville Mayor George Bird and Yuba County Supervisor Karl Cozad appealed for public loans or donations of beds for the auditorium makeshift dormatory.

[illegible] men were reported [illegible] under bridges, on levees and on store doorsteps. They said they had no where else to turn because rains had delayed crops everywhere.

Last year's agriculture production in Yuba and Sutter counties totaled $95 million. This year's forecasts are gloomy.

Peach growers say their outlook is all right, but some rice growers say they won't plant at all this year and the prune and pear growers say they don't know what will happen yet.

Leal said "some farmers may jump the gun" and begin hiring next week if the weather clears. Some farmers predict it will be two weeks after the rains stop before jobs open.

The lack of farm work was also felt in the Richland housing area operated by the Sutter County Housing Authority in nearby Yuba City. The manager said 30 families may have to be evicted from their low-cost public rental units because they are months behind in payments due to the work shortage.

Growers say that when the farm work does begin they don't expect to have enough workers.

Owner Awarded $5,300 In Suit

Marian Frick, owner of an office building at 300 Valley Street, Sausalito, was awarded $5,300 by a Marin Superior Court jury Thursday night in her $110,000 cross-complaint suit against the building contractor and an engineer.

The contractor, Don Presco of 110 Belvedere Street, San Rafael originally sued her for $32,222 he alleged was still due him on the 1964-65 construction. Marian Frick then filed her suit against Presco and the engineer, Joseph W. Burton, alleging faulty workmanship, for loss of rent, bad engineering, and work done without authorization.

The jury awarded her $3,300 from Presco and $1,950 from Burton. Trial began April 11 before Judge Harold J. Haley.

Dorado Ruling Frees A Youth

OAKLAND (AP) — A murder charge against Danny Ellingsen, 16, was dismissed yesterday on a ruling based on the state Supreme Court's Dorado decision.

Superior Court Judge Redmond C. Staats ruled that the police gained a confession from Danny without properly informing him of his constitutional rights.

Ellingsen was accused of killing Mrs. Kimmie Turner, 30, of Alameda, who was stabbed 52 times. He had been staying with his grandmother in an upstairs flat in the same building.

No New Patients Are Being Taken

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No new patients are being accepted at the psychiatric ward of the U.S. Public Service Hospital in San Francisco.

A staff shortage caused the situation. Dr. Norbert McNamara, chief of psychiatry at the hospital, said Friday that the four or five patients left in the 11-bed ward would be phased out as soon as possible.

He said the ward would then close down completely until July 1 when he hoped more staff and funds would be available.

Pickets End Pastor Protest

NEWARK (UPI) — Parishioners at St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church have ended their picketing to protest the transfer of the assistant pastor.

The demonstration was stopped yesterday after Father Guido Ceotto, the assistant pastor, made a personal appeal to his supporters in the church parking lot.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Meningococcal Infections Can Be Very Swift Killers

VAN DELLEN

Meningococci can kill a human faster than any other infectious agent. These biscuit-shaped bacteria enter the body through the nose and throat, invade the bloodstream, and settle in the membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord. The outcome is a serious form of meningitis that proved fatal in 7 out of 10 victims prior to the discovery of the sulfonamides. Today 95 per cent recover.

FOR MANY decades meningococcal infections were more prevalent among military personnel especially when new recruits were sent to established camps. Many of the regulars were carriers who passed along the microbe to the newcomers, a certain percentage of whom developed the disease.

We do not know why many adults harbor these virulent organisms in their nose and throat without becoming ill. In all probability immunity from a past inflammatory process that remained localized in the throat is present.

Meningococcal infections are increasing in the general population.

THE MAJORITY occur in infants, teen-agers, and young adults. In addition, some forms of the organism are resistant to sulfonamides and antibiotics.

The disease spreads from person to person in much the same way as do colds. Many develop a sore throat with dryness or a slight nasal discharge. Shortly thereafter the organisms get into the boodstream leading to chills, fever, aching, headache, nausea, and vomiting. In some, a mottled purplish rash also may ensue.

PAIN AND STIFFNESS of the neck are the first signs of meningeal irritation involving the brain and spinal cord. The headache persists and the victim develops muscle spasms and becomes restless and irritable. The blood vessels in the eye are engorged and unless treatment is started immediately the individual may lapse into coma.

Laboratory diagnosis is made by identifying meningococci in the sputum, blood, or spinal fluid. The latter is done frequently. Remedies include sulfadiazine, sufisoxazole, or a broad spectrum antibiotic.

(Dr Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelops accompanies request to the I-J.)

TENDER FINGERTIPS

B. R. I. writes: The sense of touch at the ends of my fingers is impaired and the tops are tender. What could be responsible for this condition?

REPLY

A variety of neurological disorders could induce changes in sensation at the ends of the fingers. Included in the list are neuritis, nerve pressure, multiple sclerosis, ataxia, and degeneration of the spinal cord. Other orignis are anemia, arthritis, and the menopause.

ULCER

P. S. writes: What does prepyloric ulcer mean?

REPLY

The pyloric sphincter is located at the exit of the stomach. "Pre" means "before." By combining the two words we have an ulcer located almost but not quite at the pylorus.

REDFACED

F. V. writes: My face gets real red at least once a day, mostly after I finish work. This lasts for at least half an hour. Could you tell me why?

REPLY

Since you neglected to mention your age, it is difficult to say whether your difficulty is blushing or flushing.

SWOLLEN TOES

A. L. writes: My big toes swell when I drink beer. Why?

REPLY

If you are not a victim of gout, you may have an allergy to one of the ingredients in beer or to the brass on the footrail.

Novato Man Found Dead In Jail Cell

A 66-year-old Novato man was found dead today in a cell bunk of Marin County Jail, where he was serving a weekend sentence for drunken driving.

Homer Aitus Owen, a salesman, of 1617 Vallejo Avenue was discovered at 3:15 a.m. by cellmate Ralph Edward Simmons.

An autopsy was ordered today but Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig said death appeared due to natural causes. Owen had been under the care of a doctor for high blood pressure, said Craig.

Owen was a weekender, serving the second two-day stretch of a five-day jail sentence.

He checked into his cell at 6 p.m. yesterday and was last seen alive when he went to sleep in his bunk at 9:30 p.m., according to sheriff's deputies.

Kuchel Needs To Give California Some Time

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In some respects, Senator Tom Kuchel is politically a victim of his own idealistic and conscientious nature.

He is totally dedicated to the task of serving the people of California (and the rest of America) in the U.S. Senate.

Like a great competitive athlete, he gives his best on every effort, shutting out everything that would detract. This very dedication to his work in Washington has, so to speak, produced a crack in his political armor.

You might say he has neglected his political fence-mending, ignoring it because it would take him from his main job of giving his full time and energy to the multitude of problems and issues which face our nation in the capitol.

You can hear it said that "he is in political trouble back home," which is to say some political bigwigs, who feel they have been ignored by Senator Kuchel somewhere along the line, are less than completely enthusiastic about working energetically for his re-election.

To repeat, in some respects Senator Kuchel is a political victim of his own idealistic and conscientious nature.

DISTASTEFUL AS IT MAY be, Senator Kuchel must now temporarily put aside his transcendent concerns for the problems before the Senate. He must begin to visit California more often. His visits must be longer as well as more frequent.

He must roll up his sleeves and go to work in the political vineyard.

Privately, he tells close friends that he knows all this.

Then, almost plaintively, he asks rhetorically, "But how can I neglect all the really important things which need doing right here in the Senate?"

REMEMBER THAT FABLED candidate who "would rather be right than president"?

Listening to Senator Kuchel express some of his most personal thoughts, you come away with the impression that he well might prefer political defeat to any feeling that he had neglected his duty in Washington.

He would do well to understand that spending some considerable time in California, starting right now, could do much more than vastly improve his chances for re-election; it could increase his capacity to serve the people he represents.

For about 15 years, he has devoted his energies almost exclusively to his work in Washington.

California and its people have changed. Situations, needs and viewpoints have changed.

Tom Kuchel could better serve us in another six-year term in the U.S. Senate if he spent the next 12 months "politicking" among us — that is, visiting the state at every opportunity and meeting with as many groups and individuals as possible.

LET IT BE RECALLED that when Hubert Scudder first went to Washington as First District Representative in Congress, he was firm in the conviction that a two-year term for Congressmen was too short. It required too much political effort and left too little time for representing fully the interests of constituents.

Many terms later, Congressman Scudder reluctantly changed his mind. He came around to the view that two-year term for Congressmen required that they make frequent visits "home" and keep in close touch with constituents. This, Scudder observed, kept the House of Representatives more immediately responsive to the public will.

The founding fathers set the term of office for Senators at six years so as to make them less likely to be "stampeded" into unwise action. But every six years a Senator needs to bring himself up to date with his personal, first-hand contacts in the State whose people he represents.

In any event, it is to be hoped — for the greater good of California and the nation—that Senator Kuchel wins renomination and re-election next year.

Equally for the greater good of California and the nation, it is to be hoped that Senator Kuchel will spend more time between now and next year's elections meeting with groups and individuals whom he represents.

This would benefit the Senator politically.

And it would benefit all of us in that his refreshed knowledge of Californians' problems and viewpoints would enable Senator Kuchel to represent us even better for his next six-year term.

As Lovely As A Dirty Mop

Now that the Acacias are bloomed out, the remains of the blossoms are hanging soggily on the tree and falling to the ground, bit by bit. They are as lovely as a dirty mop.

We suppose that this is some kind of balance in Nature. A balance between beauty and ugliness. Perhaps a reminder not to be vain, a reminder of how ephemeral and fleeting mere physical beauty is.

Or so it seems to us.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Ralph Grossi of Novato and Mervyn T. Zimmerman of Marshall for winning $400 California Bankers Association scholarships as outstanding Future Farmers of America.

BRICKBATS to the dog poisoner in San Rafael, who is leaving strychnine with meat to lure unwary pets to agonizing death.

A BOUQUET to Jared Rossman, student body president of Drake High School, who won a $4,000 scholarship awarded by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Rossman also won second place in liberal arts in the Bank of America Achievement awards.

BOUQUETS to five Marin choral groups for winning top honors in the California Music Educators Association festival last week.

A BOUQUET to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton F. Stocking of Ross on their golden wedding anniversary. Both have been Marin residents for more than 60 years.

BOUQUETS to 15 youths who completed a 45 mile hike from Santa Venetia to Stinson Beach last Saturday.

A BOUQUET to Robert J. Kelly of San Rafael, who helped revive a 2-year-old neighbor boy, who had fallen into the family pool.

HEARING AID FOR DOG

Peter, a cocker spaniel, has the first hearing aid among the 250,000 dogs in Sydney, Australia.

The 10-year-old pet was given the device by his master, who fitted it by taking plaster cast of the dog's drooping ears.

The aging spaniel was able to hear his master's commands for the first time in years. He came when called, sat down and obeyed all instructions, obviously happy with his newly restored ability to hear.

At first the dog wore the device for a few hours at a time to become accustomed to sound again. "Now I don't think he could be without it," his pleased owner said.

Hearing is easy to take for granted. Show your personal appreciation for it by listening carefully to the words of wisdom that God sends to you through other people.

Given an attentive and sympathetic ear, too, to persons who are troubled or sorrowful and to whom few will listen.

"If you love to listen you will gain knowledge, and if you incline your ear you will become wise."

(Sirach 6:33)

Grant, O Jesus, that I may listen even more than I speak.

Volunteer Visitor Boon To 'Mary'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I have just come from my weekly visit with a very dear friend. The American Red Cross introduced us to each other a few weeks ago and even in such a short time, "Mary" and I have formed a rapport that one rarely finds even after years of friendship with others.

We spend a happy hour or two each week in her room at the Convalescent Home exchanging light chatter or taking a walk in the sunshine or enjoying the movie shown in the dining room on certain afternoons.

My good fortune in finding "Mary" is a direct result of an announcement I read in the Independent-Journal of a Training for Volunteer Visitors at the Red Cross in San Rafael. I phoned Red Cross for more information, learning that Volunteer Bureau also helps with recruiting for this personal visiting program.

The plan proved to be simple and interesting. I attended a series of four weekly meetings at the Red Cross headquarters along with more than 20 other volunteers, both men and women. . . .

Shortly after I had completed the "course," Miss Virginia Hinshaw, Coordinator of the Volunteer Visitors, called to give me "Mary's" name and brief background of interests and capabilities, and I was at last an active member of the Volunteer Visitors Service.

My first meeting with "Mary" was delightful. In fact, before I realized, two hours had elapsed. Because of family obligations, I am not able to visit the same time each week, or even the same day. This makes no difference in the Volunteer Visitor program as long as the one hour a week minimum is achieved. . . .

This has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my life. I look forward to my afternoons with "Mary." It may be that I am helping to brighten a small corner of "Mary's" life, but not nearly as much as she brightens mine.

Thanks Extended For 'Game Day'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On behalf of the Novato High School Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, its Executive Staff of Cadet Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers, and the Aerospace Education Instructors we take this opportunity to thank the very dedicated ladies of this community, who took the time and effort to organize and participate in the "Game Day" program at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Open Mess on March 30, 1967. The $160 donated to the AFJROTC Reserve Fund was used by the Corps to help defray expenses of the very successful Cadet "Spring" Military Ball held on April 8, 1967 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Open Mess.

We also would like to thank the general public, parents, and others who have supported another money raising projects such as Car Washes, Wrist Calendar sales, Tooth-Brush Set sales, and Newspaper Collection drive. These profits will be used to defray administrative and operational expenses for Field Trips not otherwise covered by appropriated funds of the United States Air Force or the Novato Unified School District (Novato High School). On Wednesday, May 31, 1967 such a field trip is planned for the Cadet Corps to Edwards Air Force Base Test Center, California to the Astronaut Pilot Training School where Cadets will meet trainees and see first-hand the famous X-15 and XB-70 plus others making aerospace headlines daily in our newspapers.

Through such wholehearted support of the community we can achieve our objectives of promoting habits of orderliness, precision, and respect for constituted authority; encourage a high degree of personal honor, self-reliance and discipline; provide education for Civil Defense and promote Patriotism; and finally provide a means for students to become better informed citizens on matters of national defense and the challenges of aerospace.

Find One 'Sane' Person Committed

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Last week, Joseph Kessel's letter stated that "sane persons" were unnecessarily committed to the state hospital by lazy judges and overpowerful court-appointed psychiatrists. I am sure the judges can defend themselves.

As one of the court-appointed psychiatrists, I challenge Mr. Kessel to produce a single unnecessary commitment from Marin County during the last five years. To fail to find such a case might be libel.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Friday, April 21, there appeared in the I-J a handsome picture of the young people who performed for the Thursday Musical Club the previous day. I am very proud of the work of my students at College of Marin, but I must point out that I have not had the pleasure of working with two of the young people in the picture. Mike Mello and Jean Franzini are students that any teacher would be happy to claim, but they have been trained by Faith France and to her must go the credit.

Thank you for your friendly coverage of our activities.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A NEWLY published little work called "The Language of Flowers" should prove invaluable to bashful lovers. For instance, if you want to tell a girl "Your looks freeze me," just send her a spray of ficoides. Indian jasmine signifies "I attach myself to you." A handful of dried white rose petals should stop an over-impetuous suitor squarely in his tracks: The message is "I prefer death to the loss of innocence." A gift of wild daisies seems safest for the cautious folk. This only means "I'll think it over."

Q. Why did a man hesitate at an intersection with a gun in one hand and a knife in the other?

A. He couldn't decide whether to shoot across the street or cut around the corner.

Q. What happens when you submerge a body in warm water?

A. The telephone rings.

Vietnam Critics Face Tough Chore When They Attack Cabot Lodge

WASHINGTON — The critics of war in Vietnam took after Gen. William C. Westmoreland for criticizing the critics but they will have a hard time doing the same thing to Henry Cabot Lodge who said the same thing as Westmoreland.

In this memorable week the two top Americans closest to the war for years — Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam, and Lodge, retiring U. S. ambassador to Vietnam — summed up their thinking within a day of each otheer

Thus this week the war was escalated on two fronts — for the United States intensified it by bombing the MIG bases in North Vieetnam and the argument over the war got hotter and more caustic.

WESTMORELAND, the U.S. military boss in Vietnam since 1964, this week in a New York speech went into detail to justify this country's presence in the war and in doing so answered many arguments of the critics.

In doing so he hit at them, saying the critcicisms here at home gives the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese an impression of Americans disunity and encourages them to keep fighting.

One senator and constant critic, George McGovern, D-S.D., resented the general's statement which, although brief, was a stinging attack on the critics. He claimed Westmoreland had "obviously" been put up to saying it by President Johnson.

BUT LODGE, first named ambassador to Vietnam in 1963 by President John F. Kennedy, in a long interview with the New York Times also made a brief but pointed criticism of the critics.

"I think," he said, "the big-thing outside Vietnam would be if, in the United States, we were to give the appearance of unity and if it were no longer possible for Hanoi to toss in some kind of bone and we all start snarling at each other over it. They have been very good at that, I think."

Lodge's interview was cool, well thought-out, and realistic about the whole picture in Vietnam. He doesn't think it is an easy road.

McGOVERN, IN A Senate speech Tuesday, dismissed as a "rationalization" the domino theory for this country's part in the war, a theory enunciated by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1954 and followed ever since by Johnson and Kennedy.

This was it: If the Communists were allowed to grab off Vietnam, the rest of Southeast Asia would fall like dominoes: Burma, Thailand, Indonesia, Formosa, the Philippines, and even Australia.

But Lodge who gave his interview before McGovern talked, supported the domino theory after four years of watching the Communist effort to take over South Vietnam. He said "the well-advertised domino theory applies here."

BOTH McGOVERN AND Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who has probably been more critical than anyone, have called the attempt by the North Vietnamese Communists to take over South Vietnam a civil war and said the United States butted into it.

McGovern said there was "no American interest, no issues of political freedom, no moral imperative that called for sending troops and bombers into Vietnam."

Lodge and Westmoreland both contradicted that viewpoint. Both called the struggle between the two Vietnams the result of aggression from the North.

The Lodge interview and the Westmoreland speech, taken together, are a detailed explanation for the U.S. involvement. They hit on some of the major points which the critics try to use to condemn the involvement.

Racist Hate Groups Are Still With Us

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG

Some people use hate like a car uses gasoline, to keep going. Most of us may harbor some petty prejudice about which we are ashamed and fight against, but there are some people so twisted and warped that they cannot exist without being dominated by passionate hatred toward members of a minority group.

Few know this better than do Negroes, who have been the prime targets for American racists for years. But other groups also catch some of the poison spewed out by the hatemongers. Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans, Indians, Jews, Catholics,—almost any group is prone to feel the bark, and sometimes the bite, of the haters.

AFTER THE HORRORS of Nazi persecutions, which killed 6 million people in Europe simply because they were Jews or had Jewish ancestors, it is particularly disturbing to find that anti-Semitism still exists. In Russia, Jews are not able to freely practice their religion or to continue their language and cultural life and are subject to restrictions not placed on other ethnic minorities. And there have been incidents in Argentina and other countries in which extremist elements are reported to have attacked Jewish citizens.

Here in America, groups like the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party bait Jews as well as Negroes, and some of the people familiar from Fascist movements of the 1930's are crawling out of the woodwork to continue their favorite pastime of sowing hate and pitting group against group.

And even people who should know better let their prejudices get the best of them. An example of this was the recent school board election in Wayne, N.J., in which two Jewish candidates were defeated after their religion was made a campaign issue. It is not surprising that this revolting incident took place in a town which has few Negro families and where minority groups are excluded from the "better" sections.

NEGROES KNOW THAT when someone admits to hating Jews, or Catholics, or Spanish speaking people, he probably has it in for Negroes too. And they know that while extremist groups fan the flames of prejudice, they succeed only because some people are so insecure and fearful of their own status that they turn to racism. Because of their intimate knowledge of the effects of hate, Negroes aren't falling for the anti-Semitic line.

There has been some discussion of this lately, but I know of no responsible Negro leader who has not forcibly spoken out against hatred of other groups. When a Negro monthly magazine ran an anti-Semitic article, two members of its advisory board—author James Baldwin and actor-playwright Ossie Davis—resigned and expressed their anger at the immorality of anti-Semitism.

A SOON TO BE published Anti-Defamation League study made by the University of California proves that, if anything, Negroes "feel more friendly toward Jews than toward other whites." Asked about treatment by landlords, storekeepers, and employers, an appreciable number of Negroes said that Jews were better than other whites, while most said there was no difference. Forty-five per cent believed Jews to be more in favor of civil rights than other whites, only 3 per cent felt Jews are less in favor.

Many of the groups which preach hate against Jews and Negroes as well as against other minorities have American or Christian in their names, but they are as un-American and un-Christian as it is possible to get.

Three-Pronged Air Siege Pummels North Vietnam

By HORST FAAS

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam is now under air siege from three directions — from the sea to the east, from South Vietnam, and from Thailand on the west. For reasons other than military, this air power is not used at more than a fraction of its potential, but it is nonetheless formidable.

By latest figures, 1,700 fixed-wing aircraft are now deployed in South Vietnam, and some 2,000 helicopters. The string of bases for this fleet runs all the way from the 17th Parallel south to the Mekong Delta. There is no place within South Vietnam that is not within range of quick air support.

Afloat, the so-called Yankee Station of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Gulf of Tonkin is always manned with three carriers. A fourth rotates in and out of the area on R&R, rest and recreation. Each carrier's complement is 60 to 90 planes, with the exception of the nuclear-powered Enterprise, which carries 70 to 100 planes.

In addition, there are several Marine helicopter carriers offshore, available to land a Marine "fire brigade" team in case of trouble along the coast or inland.

The United States air buildup in Thailand is growing steadily. B52 bombers are now stationed at Utapao, and other types of planes at many other Thai bases.

It is an open secret that there are at least two helicopter fields in Laos, close up to the border of North Vietnam. From these fields, the whirlybirds take off to rescue American airmen downed in enemy country. A similar field in eastern Thailand performs rescue missions over the Ho Chi Minh trail, which in this area winds down through Laos.

The air effort against North Vietnam is unlike that of any previous war. Targets are limited by political order, and the enemy's defense is relatively weak. There are no great bomber raids over North Vietnam, as in World War II over Germany, Italy and Japan, and the familiar dogfights between opposing fighters is almost unknown.

But there are targets—power plants, steel mills, oil dumps, railroad yards, mountain passes, radar stations, shore batteries, roads and bridges, missile bases and ammunition dumps. These targets are under steady attack, for the purpose of lessening the enemy's ability to send aid to the insurgent forces in South Vietnam.

Reagan Planning Bigger Voice For West At 1968 Convention

FRIENDLY APPROACH — Governor Ronald Reagan hugs his wife, Nancy, as she visits the Executive Offices in the State Capital. The Governor, who is mentioned as possible Presidential timber claims he's not a candidate, he's got a job in Sacramento for the next four years.

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Neighboring Governor Paul Laxalt, of Nevada, calls him a thoroughbred who will be in the horse race all the way. Eastern political pundits more often refer to him and his philosophy as a dark horse which cannot be overlooked in the 1968 presidential nominating convention.

What are the presidential aspirations, plans or chances of Governor Ronald Reagan of California? Or what of his announced plans to attempt to see the 13 western states wield more power at the convention than has been the case in the past?

Ask a dozen people and you may get a half-dozen different answers. Ask Reagan himself and he will tell you, there are no plans or aspirations. But he'll tell you of his hopes that the western states will have a decided voice at the convention. Reagan is not too clear on just how this is to come about, however.

Reagan's predecessor, Governor Edmund G. Brown, gained a reputation as a giant killer by defeating former Senator William F. Knowland and the former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But the presidential nod never came in his direction, although there was a time when he was making himself available for the No. 2 spot.

Naturally, a political newcomer who can win by a million votes in the most populous state in the nation, and a state controlled by the opposition party, never can be discounted. But many say he can be discounted until he has had some time in office to prove an ability other than charming the voters.

So there is a general concensus that the netx few cenus that the next few next year would have considerable bearing on the seriousness with which Reagan would be consideered in national politics. He has a thorny road ahead in this year.

Reagan has a fiscal deficit to make up, a record-breaking budget to get approved, and the biggest tax increase in history necessary to be pushed through the legislature. He has his stated attempts to trim some of the fat out of governmnet to bring to fruition.

Reagan has the biggest water project in the world going on under his administration which also has inherited a deficit of several hundreds of millions that must be kept on track. He has a higher education system, considered possibly the best in the world, but beset by campus disorders which make it possibly the most notorious in the world.

These are some of the problems which Reagan must solve and win before the eastern establishment will take him seriously.

At a recent press conference, Reagan was told that, like it or not, he was being considered a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1968 in many national magazines. Reagan said he felt this was as much an attempt to embarrass him and his philosophy as it was to take a friendly approach.

"I'm not a candidate," he said. "I'm governor of California."

He also was asked if he would accept the Vice Presidential nomination and his answer was a quick, flat, "No."

Another question was whether he was giving a Sherman-like statement on the vice presidency but not on the presidency. Newsmen are wont to overwork this reference to Sherman's statement that, if nominated, he would not campaign and, if elected, he would not serve. Reagan had an answer to that too:

"Look, Sherman is the only fellow that ever made a Sherman-like statement, and I figure he played that part to the hilt and there is no sense in me trying to."

If Reagan is averse to exploring the semantics of a Sherman-like statement, he takes an opposite track when it comes to the Republican party's "11th commandment" — speak ill of no other Republican. The governor credits much of his success at the polls in 1966 to this practice and loses no chance to recommend it to other Republicans.

To further this end, Reagan has said his own favorite son candidacy on the primary ballot next June — to lead a slate of delegates to the convention — is intended primarily to keep out other candidates who might cause a party-splitting fight in the primary, a la Rockefeller-Goldwater.

Some have referred to Reagan as a "favorite son of the west."

"I'm not advancing myself as a favorite son," Reagan said. "I'm simply advancing my favorite end of the country, the west, and I think the west should have a great deal more to say than it has."

On the latter, Reagan's strategy appears to be more of an agreement not to agree. He told newsmen he had no plans to seek to make pacts among the other western governors, either as to issues or candidates.

Reagan said he hoped other western governors merely would "realize how early it is and refrain from trading away our muscle or our strength in advance."

U.S. Is Cold, Lonely, Confusing To Viet Airmen

NEW YORK (AP) — To a young South Vietnamese airman for from home, America can be a lonely, cold and confusing place.

He thinks the girls are beautiful, but he has a hard time meeting any.

Americans are kind to him, but it is difficult for him to understand their language and anyway, everybody talks too fast.

Compared with the uniform Climate of his native land, American weather is unpredictable and almost always too chilly.

American food?

"No smell," says Nguyen Vinh, 22, of Saigon, one of 242 South Vietnamese learning to fly helicopters or fighter planes at four U.S. air and Army bases. "I can eat it, but I smell nothing."

Vinh is one of 172 cadets learning to fly fighter planes at Randolph Field, Tex. Thirty more are training on helicopters at Fort Wolters, Tex., and Fort Rucker, Ala., and 40 are finishing the fighter course at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

The rigorous, whirlwind training tour is financed under the military assistance program. The cadets are guests of the U.S. government.

"They are an extremely dedicated group," said Capt. Richard Timmersmeyer, the allied liaison officer at the Army's primary helicopter center at Fort Wolters.

"They realize the importance of their mission over here and the responsibility they have to their country. They work very hard."

Through an active, highly successfull sponsorship program at each base, the young cadets visit it frequently in civilian homes, exchanging views and learning how Americans live.

"The weather here is quite different than in my country," said Tranh Van Ngoc, 21, spokesman for the Fort Wolters group.

"In my country there are just two season. Wet and dry. Rainy about five months. About seven months is sunny. At first we couldn't get used to weather here. It is too cold."

A diminutive companion, Tran Quang Hung, was impressed by the pace of living, observing that "most of the Americans hurry. I think Americans have good ideas. They try hard at what they do."

A kitchen is available to them at Fort Wolters and they do much of their own cooking, mostly rice, the basic food of their country. Doughnuts, hamburgers and barbecue rank among the top American delicacies.

"Over here they eat meat much," said one. "In my country they eat rice much. I couldn't get used to it at first."

And girls?

"Over here having a girl friend is quite different," said Ngoc. "When you speak to a girl, she answers immediately. In my country, the girls are very shy. So shy, they keep quiet."

They view American prosperity with amazement.

"I think your country is very comfortable," volunteered Nguyen Van Khanh, explaining "If you want to have something you just go buy!"

At Randolph Field, young Vietnamese airmen who a few months ago did not even know how to drive a car will be winging off this summer in solo flights in fighter craft.

Most of the Vietnamese had never operated mechanical devices more complicated than a motor bike before they got to Randolph.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Svetlana Aliluyeva speaks the cold war language of two worlds yet she is a woman without a country.

The daughter of Josef Stalin spoke softly but firmly at a New York news conference this week. Her words told of despair and uncertainty, and of happiness and faith.

She spoke about the Soviet Union, the land of her birth. She spoke of the United States, the land of her choice, for the time being. She spoke of Christianity and Communism, freedom and government repression, self-expression and party control, love and murder.

Perhaps the most remarkable clash of opposites, however, was the sight of this plan, sensitively simple woman and the unalterable fact that her father was one of history's cruelest dictators.

She did not try to exonerate him, but she defended him as best she could: " . . . I believe that they should not accuse one person in the crimes in which so many people were involved . . ."

Around The World, Around The Clock

Moscow—Soviet cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov, 40, was killed Monday when his Soyuz I spacecraft plummeted 4.3 miles to the earth after the capsule's main parachute links snarled. Komarov thus became the first known astronaut to die on a space flight.

New York — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Commander of U.S. Forces in Vietnam, predicted "in the months ahead, some of the bitterested fighting of the war" . . . The General appealed for the support of the American people and added "I do not see any end of the war in sight."

Saigon—The United States staged unprecedented bombing raids against military targets near the centers of Hanoi and Haiphong, and, for the first time in the war, bombed Communist MIG fighter bases in North Vietnam.

Washington—The Senate Ethics Committee headed by Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., recommended that Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., be censured for conduct that "tend to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, April 29, the 119th day of 1967 with 246 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venue, Mars and Jupiter.

Born on this day in 1792 was Matthew Vassar, founder of Vassar College.

On this day in history:

In 1878, an advertisement in a Boston newspaper read: "A telephone complete, $3, guaranteed to work one mile. One guaranteed to work five miles, $5."

In 1913, Gideon Sundback of Hoboken, N.J., was granted a patent for the present-day zipper.

In 1945, the body of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini, executed by partisans, was hanged in a public square in Milan.

In 1965, an earthquake in the Pacific Northwest killed six persons and caused more than $12 million in damage.

A thought for the day—French actor Jean Baptiste Moiliere once said: "Doubts are more cruel than the worst of truths."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Scylla And Charybdis No Worse Than A Problem Of This Sort

It isn't generally known by professors of literature, but the fact is that Homer had a certain kind of bridge hand in mind when he wrote about Scylla and Charybdis.

If you try too hard to avoid one of them you get it in the neck from the other.

Opening lead -- ♠ 10

When today's hand came along a few weeks ago in the annual contest for the Harold S. Vanderbilt Cup, Norman Kay and Edgar Kaplan steered to a slam in notrump rather than in hearts to avoid the danger of an opening spade lead through South's king.

This exposed them to another danger.

SPADES LEAD

West led the ten of spades. and East took the ace and returned the queen to declarer's king.

Kay led a heart to dummy's king and continued with the queen of hearts. West discarded a spade and then threw another spade when Kay led a low heart to the ace.

CLUB DANGER

The spots suggested that West had started with only four spades, and West's reluctance to throw a diamond suggested that he had only four cards in that suit.

Since West had started with a singleton in hearts, it seemed to Kay that West held four clubs.

At six hearts North would need only three club tricks, but at six notrump declarer needed four club tricks.

This would be impossible by normal play of the clubs if West had started with four clubs to the jack.

Kay sighed and led the ten of clubs from his hand.

West played low, and Kay let the ten of clubs ride for a finesse.

When this held the trick, Kay could lead a club to the queen, return to his hand with the nine of hearts and then run the rest of the clubs.

Our modern Odysseus was now safe at home.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ K 6 3
♥ A 9 5 2
♦ 10
♣ A K 10 9 6

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. The hand is not worth a jump to three clubs after partner has opened with one diamond.

It is clearly worth a jump if partner opens with one heart. because you have so fine a fit for hearts.

If partner had opened with one spade you would have a very close question, and most experts would probably bid only two rather than three clubs.

Larger Federal Deficit Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drooping corporate profits — and the reduced tax revenues they're producing — could push the federal budget deficit beyond $10 billion during the current fiscal year.

The impact on tax revenues is likely to be greater during the next fiscal year, but the heightened deficit might put more pressure on Congress to increase taxes to keep the budget within bounds.

Novato Players Set New Musical Dates

"The Bells Are Ringing," the second Broadway musical hit to be undertaken by the Novato Community Players, will be presented starting at 8:30 p.m. next Friday and Saturday nights, and May 12, 13, 19 and 20 at the Novato Community House.

A large cast has been working for many weeks on the production of the book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolf Green with music by Jule Styne.

The plot revolves around a telephone answering service with Ella Peterson, played by Lois Wright, helping her cousin Sue, played by Jackie Hall, run the answering service.

Ella becomes involved in the lives of all of the customers of the answering service. She falls in love with Jeff Moss, played by Max Keeler, a writer who is having trouble writing on his next play. She also falls in love with Sandor, played by Donald Leaf, head of a record company that is actually a cover for a book making operation.

Others in the cast are: Scott Wright, Ernestine Barnwell, Rex Minshall, Joseph Jacob, Alex Consagra, Ray Brennan, Elaine Jacob, Maxine Buffo, Robert Cook, Russel Dreosch, Georgia Beebe, Louis Cook, Kenneth Craig, Saunde Brown, Ted Lane, Paul Terry, Thomas King, Scott Wright, Robert Whisenhunt, Otto Haiungs, Rodney Bagnall, Sharon Bond, Juan Harman, Dawn Scheiern, Claudia Bliss, Ellen Keeler, Michael Jones, Ruth Lombard, Scott Wright, Shirley Nilsen, Albert Richter, Laurene Clymer, Virginia Solomine, Sharon Bond, Lei Mann, Rose Michaelson, and Vivienne Terry.

Producer is Marilyn Casady and director is Arthur Bliss. Shari Leaf is assistant director. Musical director is Marie Bliss. Accompanists are Lorayne Corzier and Jean Teague. The choreography was done by Jeanne Hall.

Others are: Michael Jones, stage manager; Albert Richter, assistant manager; Gay Pittman and Jerry Young, set design; John Geser, construction; Patricia Conway and Stanley Conway, technicians; Penny Clark and Shirley Redley, makeup; Jan Krause, properties; Gerald Lombard spotlighting; Sally Geser and Lei Mann, publicity; Shirley Nilsen, programs; Penny Clark, poster design.

Tickets for Fridays may be obtained from Mrs. John Geser at 4 Concord Court, and for Saturdays from Mrs. Robert Ramsay at 110 Kaden Street.

Albertans Digging Out Of Big Snow

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (AP) — Southern Albertans began stirring today under a wet blanket of snow that isolated many farms, stranded scores of motorists and raised fears of serious spring flooding and widespread damage to crops and livestock.

More than 29 inches of snow fell since Thursday afternoon, bringing virtually everything except rescue vehicles to a halt. Snow was still falling early today.

A rescue train, pushing a snowplow, battled high drifts overnight to pick up 29 stranded motorists at Stirling, 19 miles south of this ranching area city 100 miles south of Calgary.

The motorists had been stranded since 9 a.m. Friday. All were believed to be in good condition.

The latest storm battered an area still recovering from a 27-inch snowfall last week.

Planes were grounded, buses halted, farms and ranches isolated, and livestock were without food.

The storm, driven by 50 mile an hour winds, struck an area from Crowsnest Pass in the Rockies to Swift Current, Sask. About 90 per cent of farms and ranches in southern Alberta were affected.

University Lets Students Back

REDLANDS (AP)—University of Redlands officials have reinstated 23 students suspended this month for violating policy forbidding a Communist "propagandist" to speak on campus.

The students were suspended April 12 for bringing self-proclaimed Communist Bettina Aptheker to the campus. The action touched off a controversy over the university ban.

Although it had been called "Presidio" — Spanish for "walled fort" —since its founding in 1776, the name Presidio of San Francisco was not officially adopted by the War Department until 1850.

Milhaud Festival Set At Katharine Branson

Katharine Branson School in Ross will have a music festival Monday through Thursday honoring world-famed composer Darius Milhaud.

The festival has been planned by Elinor Armer, concert pianist, teacher and former student under Milhaud, who heads the music program at the school.

Milhaud is composer-in-residence at Mills College in Oakland in alternate years when he is not teaching in his native France at the Paris Conservatoire. Along with Stravinsky and Ravel, he was responsible for much of the ferment and vitality that made Paris of the 1920s a musical world center.

Highlight and conclusion of the festival will be a concert Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the school's gymnasium, at which the composer and his wife will be present. Alumnae and friends of the school have been invited to attend a reception in their honor at conclusion of the concert.

For the concert Elinor Armer will perform a rag piece, "Caramel Mou," showing the influence of jazz in Milhaud's work, and his "Le Bal Martiniquais" for two pianos with Laurette Goldberg, East Bay musician.

The program will include works by Milhaud and Poulnec sung by the Katharine Branson Glee Club, directed by Barry Mineah. Mineah will also direct his Marin Country Day School children in a performance of "King Midas and the Ass's Ears," an entertainment for dance by David Lamb, a former Marin resident.

Festival programs for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will consist of lectures, playing of records of Milhaud's music and showing of excerpts from films dealing with his life and work.

A Watchdog Satellite Is Now Orbiting

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — One of two watchdog satellites to police the nuclear test-ban treaty was put into a circular orbit 69,000 miles above earth early today, the Air Force said.

It was the first adjustment made after a Titan 3 rocket boosted the two Sentry satellites and three data-gathering satellites into orbit early yesterday in a launch from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A spokesman at the Air Force's Space Systems Division in El Segundo said the second nuclear-detection craft would be commanded into the same circular orbit in 48 hours from the satellite control facility at Sunnyvale, Calif. It will wind up on the opposite side of the earth from the first.

The Titan booster put the $20-million, five-satellite payload into an elliptical path ranging from 5,379 to 69,159 miles. The three scientific satellites remain in that elliptical orbit.

The two nuclear-detection devices, called Velas, are to watch for violations of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty signed in 1963 by the United States, the Soviet Union and more than 100 other nations.

The pact forbids nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space and under water, but allows underground blasts.

Scientists say the Velas can detect nuclear blasts in earth's atmosphere and in deep space — perhaps as far away as Mars.

21-Year-Old Has Hearing On Burglary

James N. Litteral, 21, one of four youths including his brother charged with burglary, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on the felony charge.

His brother, Robert D. Litteral, 19, is being sought. Two other youths, aged 16 and 17, are in Marin Juvenile Hall for the burglary, the Wednesday daylight entry of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jules L. Gall, 920 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

Officers said the quartet took $7,000 in goods from the house. About $5,000 worth was recovered, however. Plea entry for James Litteral was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Monday. The brothers reside at 9 Taylor Street, San Rafael.

Drunken Driving Fine Is Imposed

Thomas Francis Sweeney, 52, of 2250 Juniperberry Road, Marinwood, was fined $289 and given five days in county jail yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving with a prior conviction.

He also was placed on a year's probation. Sweeney was arrested March 3 on Bridgeway by Sausalito police.

Arthur Mark Phelan, 63, of 300 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry, was fined $261 and placed on a year's probation for drunken driving April 18. California Highway Patrol arrested him on Reed Boulevard.

David Raymond Zehr, 24, of 23 Hillside Avenue, San Anselmo, was fined $289 and placed on a year's probation, also for drunken driving. Sheriff's officers arrested him yesterday on Tiburon Boulevard.

Surveyor 3 Making More Crust Tests

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Surveyor 3 conducted new tests of the lunar crust today to help determine if Apollo astronauts can land safely on the moon by 1970.

The spacecraft's "soil sampler" broadened and deepened a trench it had dug earlier and then the little power shovel pressed into the moon's soil to see how much weight it can support.

Scientists at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here can compute the surface strength by reading "strain gauges" which measure the pressure exerted. They then compare the pressure figure to the depth of the impression made in the soil.

Since its dramatic landing in the moon's Sea of Storms last April 19, Surveyor 3 has dug a number of trenches, some as long as 20 inches. It also has returned nearly 4,000 pictures of the lunar terrain, many taken through red, green and blue filters.

Yesterday Surveyor's shovel picked up a pebble the size of marble and dropped it into a lose mound of lunar soil to see what impact it would make.

However, scientists watching television pictures could not find the pebble afterwards—even when he "surface sampler" sifted through the soil.

The digging device's accordion-like arm experienced some trouble while cutting its latest trench yesterday, but controllers said they could not be sure if the problem was in a small electric motor or was due to the hardness of the soil at subsurface levels.

Students Wave Confederate Flags On Wallace's Arrival

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace was greeted by a dozen teen-age youths waving Conferate flags today as he stepped from a plane at Hulman Field to deliver a non-political speech at a college "Parents' Day" program.

Wallace, running nearly an hour behind schedule, arrived barely in time to reach the Rose Polytechnic Institute campus for a 10 a.m. (EST) engagement.

He cancelled a news conference which had been scheduled for 9:30.

Among a group of high school students carrying Confederate flags at the airport were Steve Wakefield, 15, a freshman at Schulte High School, and Dennis Ross, 17.

Wakefield, who said his father attended school with Wallace in Alabama, said, "I've read a lot about this and Governor Wallace is trying to wake people up."

Wallace had been forewarned—by Poly President Dr. John A. Logan—that no political or civil rights remarks were to spill over into the speech text which had been limited to a previously announced subject, "Is Our Education Meaningful."

In a speech to 250 polite but cool civil, legal and business leaders in Cleveland yesterday, Wallace called for a sweeping reform of the federal judiciary to preserve "local control."

He said that if he were President, he would push for election of district court judges "every six or eight years—maybe eight years." Federal judges now are appointed for life. He also recommended creation of a new appeals court.

This current trip is the third leg of a northern trip to test his potential as a presidential candidate. He said he is going to New Hampshire "next week to sound out sentiment, but nothing is definite yet."

He has talked about running as a third party candidate, but if he runs in the "first in the nation" presidential primary March 12, he must declare himself a Republican or a Democrat, the only two parties allowed on the ballot since no third party garnered 3 per cent or more of the votes in the last gubernatorial election.

In Indiana in 1964 he received 27 per cent of the votes cast in the Democratic presidential preference primary.

Congressman Makes Public Apollo Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A congressman today made public the full text of the secret "Phillips Report"—a critical assessment of the Apollo program before the Jan. 27 fire that killed three astronauts.

The space agency has declined to release the report and ignored an ultimatum by Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., do so. He set a deadline of 10 a.m. EST today and when the hour passed with no space agency action, Ryan's office handed out copies to reporters.

There was nothing significant in the full text that had not been made public previously by Ryan or others.

Beauty Contest In Final Round

LONG BEACH (AP)—Judges will choose Miss International Beauty of 1967 today from 15 semi-finalists.

Contestants took time off last night from the pageant tensions for a dance. About 100 fraternity men from California State College at Long Beach were their escorts.

Earlier, the beauties endured rehearsals for the finale today.

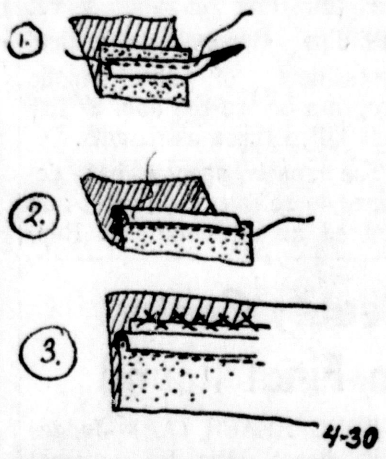
Area Measurements Are Most Important Part Of Pattern

By EUNICE FARMER



I think I've met my waterloo! I'm making shorts and according to the pattern measurements, I didn't have to make any allowance in the hips. I must be more rounded in the hips than the pattern allowed for because my shorts don't have enough room and pull through the crotch. Can I change my pattern to allow for this?

MRS. L.C.

DEAR MRS. LC.:

Yes, this is something we must all learn to do. The overall measurement is never as important as area measurements. Because you are more rounded, you are probably narrow through the hips but thicker from front front to back. Try adding ½ inch to the inner leg seam, front and back, gradually tapering this into the regular seam.

Girls, this is the beginning of the season for lots and lots of shorts for the whole family. If you have difficulty finding a pattern that fits you, you'll welcome a special pattern designed by a European patternmaker. This pattern can be used for 11 different styles of shorts and slacks, and the same pattern can be used to fit every size possible. Each and every pattern adjustment is explained in detail.

This pattern is not made by one of the popular companies. It is more expensive and takes time to work out, but I can guarantee it's worth it! I have had nothing but rave reports from our readers who have tried it.

If you can't find this pattern in your area, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope with your request and I shall send you the information immediately. Please send all of your mail to Eunice Farmer, in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Alice James, Troy, Mich., is this week's Tailor Trix winner for her following suggestion.

For a long time I toyed with a method of putting up a skirt or dress hem without having it show on the outside and shriek "it's homemade"! Now that we have 1 inch seam binding, the job can be done perfectly.

Measure, turn up and press hem, then measure and mark 2½ inches from bottom of hem. Sew 1 inch seam binding on the marked line, trim excess fabric ¼ inch above stitching line. Press seam binding up and over edge of hemline, sew as close as possible to folded line, catching both sides of seam tape.

Press unstitched edge of seam binding up and catch stitch to skirt. You are catching only the seam tape to skirt without any bulk of hem to the skirt, thus there is no visible hemline from the right side.

DEAR EUNICE,

My problem is in the back of the dresses I make. They are all too long from the neck to the waist, causing a large bulge across the back. Please help!

MRS. H.J.M.

DEAR MRS. H.J.M.:

Have someone measure you from the center of the shoulder to the waistline in back. (Tie a string tightly around the waist first so that this measurement will be accurate). If you are wearing a belt, you will have to allow a little extra length for ease.

Check this measurement with the actual pattern. Make a fold in your pattern about 3 inches above the waistline to shorten the pattern the necessary amount. Be sure to increase the size of the underarm dart at the bodice front so the underarm seams will come out even.

MRS. I. E. SAYS that if you are one of those gals who are plagued with perspiration and nothing anyone prescribes seems to work, try thoroughly saturating this area of your garment with the very new waterproof spray sutiable for use on fabrics. I've had perfect luck, but find I must re-spray with every wearing. It's worth it. I haven't ruined a dress since I began using it. I'd suggest trying the spray on a scrap of fabric or the inside of the hem if your garment was ready-made to be sure this spray will work on your particular fabric.

PINNED WITH HONOR

Mrs. Chester Hibbert received the honorary life membership award from the North Marin Council Parent-Teacher Association at the annual founders day luncheon in Novato yesterday. Mrs. Harold Marsh, at left, honorary life membership chairman presents the pin to Mrs. Hibbert as Mrs. Duane Moeller, new president of the council and Col. (ret.) L. E. McCormick, past president, looks on. Mrs. Thomas Easton was hospitality chairman for the luncheon. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Dinner Set By Legal Secretaries

The Marin County Legal Secretaries Association will hold its installation dinner on May 10 at the Tiburon Lodge in Tiburon.

Judge Peter Allen Smith will install the following officers: Mesdames Dorothy Hallett, President; Jane Swall, vice president; Elinor Rogers, recording secretary; Frank Staats, treasurer; Ralph Brisbin, Governor and Norman Steuer, parliamentarian.

There will be a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m., preceding dinner, and entertainment will be provided during the evening.

Reservations chairmen are Mesdames Benjamin Albritton and Lola Holt.

MacPhail Council To Review Films

A preview of select films on human development designed for high school students will be shown on Wednesday at 10 a.m. by members of the MacPhail Parent-Teacher Association Council.

Purpose of the showing, to which parents are invited, is to enable the public to approve or disapprove the possibility of the films being shown in the schools.

The films will be shown in the conference room at the Board of Education Bldg. in San Rafael.

Charleen Hale Engaged To Wed In Novato On June 17

Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson Hale of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Charleen Margaret Hale and William David McHenry, son of Mrs. Mark Anthony of Grants Pass, Ore.

Charleen is the sister of Walter Hale of Novato and Larry Hale of Ross. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. William Hale of Sebastopol and the late Mr. Hale and the late Capt. and Mrs. Charles White of Novato.

William is an airman at Hamilton Air Force Base. He is the brother of Mark Jr., Edward, and Elaine, Anthony and J. B. Price, all of Grants Pass.

CHARLEEN HALE

The couple will be married on June 17 at a garden wedding at the Robert Bourne home in Novato, following the bride-elect's graduation from Novato High School.

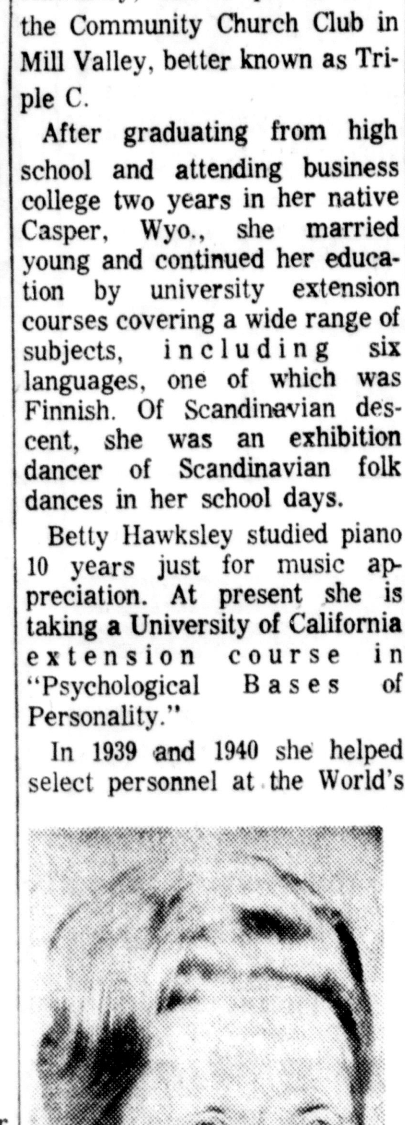
Mrs. R. W. Hawksley Named President Of The Triple C

Many interests have occupied the time of Mrs. Ray W. Hawksley, 1967-68 president of the Community Church Club in Mill Valley, better known as Triple C.

After graduating from high school and attending business college two years in her native Casper, Wyo., she married young and continued her education by university extension courses covering a wide range of subjects, including six languages, one of which was Finnish. Of Scandinavian descent, she was an exhibition dancer of Scandinavian folk dances in her school days.

Betty Hawksley studied piano 10 years just for music appreciation. At present she is taking a University of California extension course in "Psychological Bases of Personality."

In 1939 and 1940 she helped select personnel at the World's Fair on Treasure Island and was a volunteer worker with the USO, YWCA and United Nations later, for which she received a certificate of meritorious service for conducting an information booth in 1945 for visiting delegates from all over the world.



MRS. RAY W. HAWKSLEY

The Hawksleys moved to Mill Valley in 1955. Mr. Hawksley is a chemical engineer who has his own consulting firm in Richmond specializing in water polution, and he is president of the Power Service Corp, a national association of water treatment companies. He will be listed in the next issue of "Who's Who in the West."

To their home built in 1930 they have added a unique and authentic Finnish sauna and Japanese "Moon Watching Deck."

Their two married sons and six grandchildren live in Southern California.

The new president of Triple C has been a member since 1962 and is also a member of the Outdoor Art Club and the Women's Auxiliary of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Other officers to be installed in June with Mrs. Hawksley are Mesdames Richard Burns, vice president; Ewald Katzung, recording secretary; Harold Huycks, corresponding secretary; Joseph E. Bare, treasurer; Stanley C. Aitchison, historian; and Joel F. Gustafson, Willis Elliott and Alvin P. Baukol, directors.

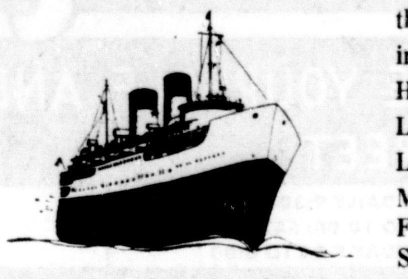
Marinites Are On The Move

By MOLLY MARIN



Many Marinites are planning trips . . . Mrs. Larry E. Bates of San Rafael will leave next weekend for an extensive trip through Australia and New Zealand. Upon her arrival in Sydney, Australia, she will see friends and former Marinites, Mrs. Robert Kellogg and Miss Betty Davis who are on an around the world trip. San Rafael residents, the Frank Nietos and Max Schuttes will leave next week abroad the Lurline for a trip to Hawaii and Mrs. Elvara Hall is enroute to Nassau aboard a P&O liner.

LEAVING MARIN, to make their home in London, are the Zane Sandoms and their children, Vanessa, Michele and John of San Rafael. They will visit in Chicago and New York before sailing aboard the Michelangelo. Mr. Sandom is vice president of the Credit Card Division of American Express in Europe.

THE FOUR CHILDREN of the Joseph Lococos of San Francisco will honor their parents at a dinner party tonight at the Meadow Club on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. More than 100 will attend the party for the couple who were married in San Francisco in 1917. Hosting the event are the Tom Lococos of Fairfax, John Lococos of Laguna and Mesdames Josephine Reid of Fairfax and Frances Martin of San Francisco.

SEVERAL cocktail parties are planned before the Belvedere Tennis Club's Tennis Ball at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club May 12. BTC President Myron Du Bain and Mrs. Du Bain will host a large gathering at their home in Kentfield. The Charles Whittinghams will give a party in Mill Valley. Mrs. and Mrs. Russell Gomez have invited friends to join them for a preball party in Belvedere, and Mrs Paul Ramey of Belvedere will be entertaining before the black tie dinner dance.

CHAMPAGNE AND a tiered wedding cake were served the 60 relatives and guests at Sunday's open house honoring the Clayton Stockings of Phoenix Lake, Ross. Hosts at the golden wedding celebration held at the home of their son, 'Mike' Stocking in San Rafael, were the 'Mike' Stockings and another son, Clayton Stocking Jr., and his wife and their daughter, Mrs. Russell Fraser of Mountain View. Grandchildren present were Jim, Craig and Brian Fraser of Mountain View, Michael and Laura Stocking of San Rafael and Jim Stocking of Kentfield. Unable to attend was Pfc. Pat Stocking of Kentfield who is serving with the Fourth Infantry Division in Vietnam. Other relatives at the open house were their great grandson, Mark Fraser of Mountain View and Miss Mildred Huffman of Sebastopol and Miss Abbie Stocking of San Rafael, sisters of Mrs. Stocking. The couple were married on April 23, 1917, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael and have lived in Ross for 45 years.

Ta Mar Chapter Elects Officers, Plans Club Year

Mrs. Philip Landa, the mother of five active youngsters, is the new president of Ta Mar Chapter of B'Nai B'Rith Women. She and her husband, who owns and operates Orchid Cleaners, have lived in Marin for 11 years and are the parents of Ardell, 15, Shellie, 13, Martin, 10, Cindy, 8, and Geralyn 2.

Evelyn Landa has held membership in B'Nai B'Rith 15 years and has been a member of Ta Mar for one and a half years. She held the office of vice president last year and is also active in Girl Scouts and Sisterhood of Congregation Rodef Sholom.

Plans for Ta Mar's club year include a rummage sale, fashion show luncheon, a booth at the Northgate Fair, expansion of Dolls For Democracy shows to school children and other activities of the Anti-Defamation League and interfaith programs.

Mrs. Landa, who attended Roosevelt College in Chicago, enjoys bowling, square and ballroom dancing, swimming and cooking. For relaxation she gardens and reads.

Serving with the new president are Mesdames Robert Auster, first vice president; Lawrence LeVine, second vice president; Irving Schwartz, third vice president; Maurice Weinger, financial secretary; Eugene Lee, recording secretary; Alfred Derrow, corresponding secretary; Sidney Allerhand, treasurer; and Norman Kemp, counselor.

CUB HERO

8-Year-Old Honored For Saving Life

A poised and alert San Rafael boy was honored by his Cub Scout pack last night, three months after he saved the life of his 2-year-old brother who had gulped 27 aspirin.

Matthew Jenkins, 8, of 8 Vineyard Drive, son of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Folsom Jenkins, was presented with a home safety plaque by Pack 36, sponsored by Coleman School Parent-Teacher Association, in ceremonies at Scout Hall. Cubmaster Robert Epstein made the award.

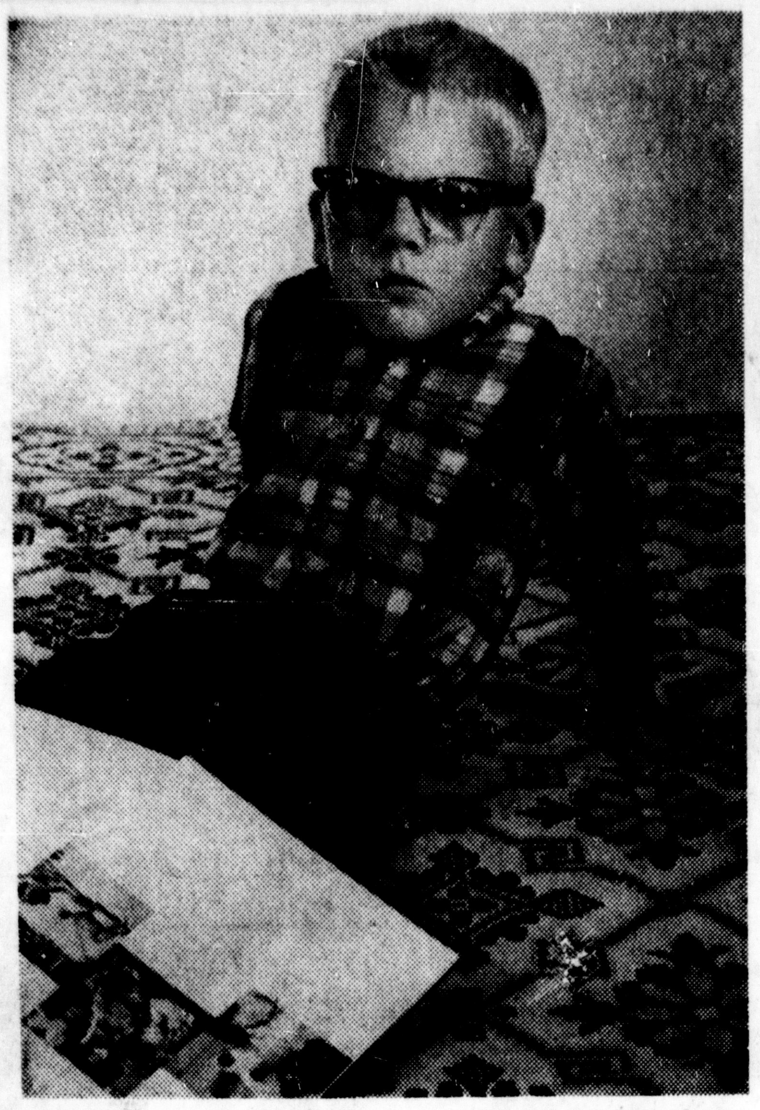
On Jan. 30, Matthew found a newly purchased bottle of aspirin nearly empty in his bedroom. Suspecting his brother, John, had consumed the missing pills, Matthew informed his mother.

Mrs. Jenkins, whose husband recently returned from Vietnam after a tour of duty aboard an oiler, telephoned a nurse, Mrs. Margaret Craig, who lives with Mrs. Jenkins' mother in Greenbrae. Mrs. Craig came to the home and took John to a hospital, where he was treated after doctors confirmed he had taken the aspirin.

Said Mrs. Jenkins of Matthew's action: "He demonstrated a lot of poise and good sense and we're proud of him."

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county director of public health, also had praise for Matthew, saying he "justly deserved" the award. She pointed out that aspirin is one of the largest accidental poisoners of children.

Last night's award was a surprise to John, who was accompanied to the ceremony by his father.



HONORED — Matthew Jenkins, 8, is wearing a new honor badge today. Last night he was honored by his San Rafael Cub Scout pack for saving the life of his 2-year-old brother who gulped 27 aspirin.

President Steals Limelight At Correspondents Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson stole the limelight from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and pianist-comedian Victor Borge at the White House correspondents dinner.

Humphrey was billed as the featured speaker and Borge was onstage when the President paid a surprise visit to the dinner.

Johnson quipped with newsmen, then grew serious and talked of Vietnam, saying of the war: "I hope and pray, but I cannot promise, that it will not be too long and that we will soon meet in peace."

The correspondents presented the Raymond Clapper award to Howard Simons, assistant managing editor of the Washington Post for a series of reports on locating and retrieving the U.S. H-bomb dropped in the Mediterranean.

Frank Cormier of the Associated Press was installed as president of the association, succeeding Robert Thompson of the Los Angeles Examiner.

Romney Aide Denies Pitch In Oregon For GOP Support

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—George Romney's top political aide denied his hour-long meeting with Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon yesterday was to line up support for the Michigan governor's possible Republican presidential bid.

Leonard Hall insisted the two spent most of the time discussing McCall's daily public receptions.

"I have not asked for any committments," Hall said.

Hall said the Republican governors are going to have a "tremendous impact" on the selection of a presidential candidate and said he did not view a recent McCall letter to 19 other chief executives as "an anti-Romney move."

McCall wrote the governors urging that they withhold final commitment to a candidate "to come down together on the side of a winner."

Hall, whose political career began as an assemblyman when Al Smith was governor of New York, said the Republican party "wants a winner."

"We need a candidate with broad appeal and I think Governor Romney has it," Hall said. He said he was "optimistic" that Romney would announce his candidacy this fall and that he would campaign in Oregon's May, 1968, primary.

He said that to date, Romney and former Vice President Richard Nixon were the leading contenders for the nomination but also noted it was "early yet."

Hall was asked if 1964 GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater's backers would attempt to block Romney.

"Goldwater's supporters are not going out to do or die against Romney," Hall said. He added that Goldwater himself has stated that he could support the Michigan governor.

Hall also predicted that former President Eisenhower would contrast his 1964 silence and come out for a candidate next year.

Yorty Raps Reagan's Job As Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty says California Gov. Ronald Reagan "is running for President too soon because he hasn't proved he can be governor."

The Democratic mayor, in a speech yesterday to the National Press Club, said Republican Reagan has shown vacillation and indecisiveness since becoming governor in January.

Yorty said he may have helped Reagan get elected, but contended his campaign primarily was against a fellow Democrat, former Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

He said his refusal to support Brown — and his backing of Republican Richard M. Nixon against John F. Kennedy in the 1960 presidential race — has caused him to be called a political maverick. Yorty said he doesn't mind the label or regret his past actions.

As to the future, Yorty said he couldn't foresee backing any Republican against President Johnson.

But on the other hand, "I can't think of anyone I wouldn't support against Bobby (Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.)" said the mayor.

Nurses Decide Not To Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sixty-two registered nurses at the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute say they have changed their minds about resigning Monday.

A spokesman for the California Nurses' Association said yesterday the nurses' decision came as Senate Bill 12, authorizing an average 15 per cent salary increase passed the State Senate.

Scout Troop Gets Charter

Boy Scout Troop 38, sponsored by St. Luke Presbyterian Church, San Rafael, received its charter Thursday in a candlelight ceremony at the church from Walter Zurcher, assistant district commissioner of the Marin Boy Scout Council.

Tenderfoot badges were given the youths by scoutmaster Bob Morrill and William Morrow, committee chairman.

Also participating in the ceremony were John Eagleston, institutional representative, and Rev. Henry Kent, who accepted the charter.

Press Director Gets State Job

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has appointed his Northern California campaign press director, Mrs. Janet K. McCoy of Palo Alto, as director of Tourism and Visitor Services.

Mrs. McCoy, a Republican, replaces the resigned Morris Ford of Sacramento in the $16,500-a-year post. Besides aiding Reagan, she served as Northern California press director during campaigns by Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller.

The appointment yesterday requires Senate confirmation.

Percy Demands More Allied Vietnam Help

MILWAUKEE (UPI) Sen. Charles H. Percy, mentioned as a GOP presidential possibility in '68, predicted yesterday the bitterest fighting of the Vietnam war lay ahead and called upon the United States to demand more help from its Asian allies in ending the war.

The solution to the war must be found in Asia itself, the Republican freshman from Illinois said. He said help from Asian nations thus far was "miniscule."

He also repeated his demand the United States try to bring about an all-Asian peace conference to try to settle the war.

Percy, who a day earlier had denied he had presidential aspirations in 1968, watched Gen. William C. Westmoreland's address to a joint session of Congress on television here. He then called a news conference to criticize some aspects of the Vietnam military commander's speech.

Percy criticized Westmoreland for not telling congressmen that additional troop escalation would be called for. The senator estimated that an additional 60,000 men would be called this year, and said this would put "a half million American men in the ground war in Vietnam."

Percy said he thought U.S. bombing should be concentrated on supply and infiltration routes into South Vietnam. He said if that were done, the bombing could proceed with more effect, and civilians could be warned to stay away from areas "where there is no question but that the supplies being brought in are from North Vietnam."

He said such concentration of bombing would do away with the "hysteria" induced by accidental civilian casualties.

Education Board Meets Tuesday

The San Rafael Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school administration building at Third and E streets, not Monday as reported in the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Before the board will be a report on proposals for distribution of High Times, a countywide student newspaper which came under fire a few months ago because of lack of responsibility for its contents.

The board will also hear salary proposals from two teacher organizations. A long series of resignations and hirings will be up for approval.

Gourmet Dinner

A wine tasting and gourmet dinner to raise funds is being planned for the Unitarian Church of Marin, 240 Channing Way, Terra Linda, May 13 at 6:30 p.m.

Woodacre Man Critical From Head Beating

A 57-year-old Woodacre man was in critical condition today in Marin General Hospital with head injuries which police said were suffered in a beating Tuesday outside a San Rafael auto body shop.

Police, still investigating, have made no arrest.

The victim is Samuel J. Smith of 176 Redwood Drive, a painter and handyman. He remained unconscious in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Witnesses told police he was struck outside the Superior Body and Fender Service, 26 Harbor Street, by an unidentified assailant.

Smith's wife, Gladys, said she accompanied her husband to the repair shop, where an argument over a bill ensued. She could not identify the assailant.

Rec Board Meeting

Terra Linda Recreation-Park District Board will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the community building instead of Wednesday for lack of quorum Wednesday.

Hang It Up, Abe—Tell It To John Wilkes Booth

By JIM MURRAY

There is a stillness at Appomattox, all right. The bugles of Shiloh lie mute.

The campfires on the Potomac have all burned out. The blood in the Rappahannock has all gone to sea.

The caissons no longer rot in the sun at Gettysburg. The trumpets in the dust of Bull Run are silted over.

Muffle the drums of Vicksburg. Bottle the fleets of Farragut. Call the roll of Chancellorsville, Fredericksburg, the Wilderness, Antietam.

Spike the guns of Sumter. Hobble the horses of Sheridan. Listen no more to the ghostly tread of Sherman's marchers to the sea.

Dismantle the gallows at Harper's Ferry. Burn the banners of the noblest cause man ever fought for. Scuttle the ironclads. Drop no flowers in the watery resting place of the Monitor off Hatteras.

Put the torch to Uncle Tom's Cabin. Flog Uncle Tom. It's OK. No one likes him anymore. Set the bloodhounds on Little Liza. Who cares?

Scrap the Gettysburg Address. It's just another piece of Fourth of July oratory, campaign promises, high-blown histrionics. Hang it up, Abe. Nobody's listening. Tell it to John Wilkes Booth.

"The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here." Right, Abe! "But it can never forget what they did here." Oh? Yes, it can, Abe.

You see, Cassius Marcellus Clay, one of the five greatest heroes in the history of his people, has decided to secede from the Union. He will not disgrace himself by wearing the uniform of the Army of the United States. He will not fight "a white man's war."

Not for all the gangrene in Andersonville will he march. From the safety of 103 years, he waves his fist at dead slaveowners. Down to his last four Cadillacs, the thud of Communist jackboots holds no dread for him. He is in this country but not for it. His only contact with America is by closed circuit. The devil is a white man. And vice versa.

After 100 years of freedom, he sulks, "We don't own no railroads." The attar of truth perfumes his charges. But only the scent. You buy railroads at the stock exchange the same way you buy silk shirts at the store. Clay has preferred to buy a religion, not New York Central. But, don't give us freedom, give us railroads.

So, turn off the watchfires of the night. Send OUR sword to Bobby Lee. Tell Jubal Early there's been a terrible mistake. Apologize to the

BRRRR-IGHT AND EARLY FOR TROUT SEASON

David Ramelli Jr. of Quincy is among the first to take advantage of the start of trout fishing today but he's dipping into the chilly waters of Buck's Lake in Quincy. Ramelli had to shovel and push to get his ski mobile to the 5,200-foot elevation, then had to put on snow shoes to get to the lake's edge. Both the fish and game departments have urged extreme caution at the higher altitude trout sites. It was considerably warmer in Marin where thousands flocked to Marin Municipal Water District lakes and streams for the opener. (AP Wirephoto)

Boxing World's Swift Reprisal

By LAWRENCE LEE

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Cassius Clay's lawyers readied fresh tactics in their intricate offensive to save him from jail and a stiff fine for refusing to heed his draft call.

As 10 other draftees stepped forward to take the Army oath yesterday, the 25-year-old Clay did not move, fulfilling his promise. He says that he is a Black Muslim minister by vocation and a boxer by avocation and that war contradicts the teachings of his faith.

The boxing world's reprisal was swift. The influential New York State Athletic Commission and the World Boxing Association stripped him of his world heavyweight title and announced they planned elimination tournaments to select his replacement.

THE CONTENDERS

Tournament contenders listed by New York were Floyd Patterson, Thad Spencer, George Chuvalo, Ernie Terrell, Oscar Bonavena, Karl Mildenberger, Jimmy Ellis and Joe Frazier.

Grimly running the gauntlet of waiting newsmen, Clay left the Houston Customs House, where the induction center is located, forged through a crowd of sympathetic Negro demonstrators and sped away in a black car.

While Clay was undergoing his round of physical examinations, all of which he completed satisfactorily, five of the Negroes outside the Customs House burned papers they said were their draft cards. None was arrested.

Their chant of "Burn, baby, burn," changed to a defiant "Hell no, we won't go," as Clay drove off with his lawyers.

Lawyers Hayden Covington of New York and Quinnan Hodges of Houston told the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, La. yesterday that they would appeal the ruling of U.S. District Court Judge Allen B. Hannay in Houston in refusing to hear Clay's suit challenging the composition of the Selective Service System. The suit says Negroes are underrepresented.

U. S. Atty. Morton Susman of Houston said, "It will take us 30 to 60 days to prepare charges. This matter could drag on in the courts for months and perhaps as much as two years." Maximum sentence would be five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

But, Covington said, "The champ will never see the inside of a jail."

Clay preached a sermon last night at the Muslim Mosque in Houston, his adopted hometown. He shied away from reporters, preferring to stand on the signed, flowery, four-page statement he doled out to newsmen after yesterday's four hours of military procedures.

It read something like a last will and testament, naming those who have helped him from his beginnings as the shy, 1960 Olympic boxer, through his days as the boasting quick-witted pro champ and to his present role as a critic of war and American society.

The other men in yesterday's draft group said afterwards that they were surprised by his genial, joking manner. He performed his famous "Ali shuffle" for them, dancing and punching, clad only in socks and underwear.

'I'M NOT GOING'

He said, "I can joke because I'm not going." One of the draftees, John McCullough, 22, of Huntsville, Tex., thought he saw Clay "the way he is when his lawyers and the Muslims are not telling him what to do."

The fighter said in his printed statement, and to the draftees, that his world title was something he earned himself and that cannot be taken from him.

Talking about the proposed elimination tournaments, Clay told one of the soldiers, "They'll pick up some dodo, or a junior champion. Some nonsense like that."

Clay indicated his next fight probably will be in a foreign country, and Susman said that with "special permission from a federal judge," Clay could go abroad while litigation continues, even after indictment. "I feel free and relaxed," Clay told a newsman last night. "I'll leave it all up to Allah."

Giants Find Batting Eyes; Juan Opposes L.A. Tonight

LOS ANGELES — Juan Marichal, the San Francisco $100,000 pitcher with the two-dollar record, hopes his Giants will continue their embarrassment of riches at the plate tonight when he opposes the Dodgers' Bob Miller here.

The Giants were powerhouses (for them) last night as they erupted for 10 hits, (count 'em), including a two-run double by catcher Tom Haller that gave San Francisco a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the Dodgers.

Haller had two hits as did Tito Fuentes, rookie Ken Henderson and Jesus Alou as the Giants more than doubled their usual hitting output.

Reliever Ron Herbel got the win, taking over for lefty Mike McCormick, who lasted only three and a third innings. Frank Linzy mopped up the final two innings of one-hit pitching.

The Giants got a quick 3-0 lead off Dodger curve-ball specialist Don Sutton, helped by a two-run homer by Henderson that Dodger outfielder Al Ferrara couldn't haul in, despite a three-row leap into the bleachers.

TV Schedule

Giant-Dodger games will be televised tonight, 7:55 o'clock, and tomorrow, 12:55 p.m. by KTVU, Channel 2, in color.

And Ferrara came back in the fourth inning to hit his own two-run homer that tied the game 3-3. Had he been able to complete his diving stab at Henderson's ball successfully, it might have brought the Dodgers the win.

But instead, Giants catcher Tom Haller hit a double in the eighth with men on second and third to drive in two runs and send the Giants on to victory.

Haller, who hasn't had much luck at the plate this season thus far, hit his game-winning double off relief pitcher Phil Regan on the first pitch after Regan had replaced Sutton, the loser, who was lifted when he gave up a single to Willie McCovey and a double to Jim Hart.

The Giants colleced nine hits off Sutton who did a little hitting himself, getting two doubles and breaking the 3-3 tie seventh when he led off with his second two-base hit and scored on Jim Hickman's single.

The Giants and Dodgers drew the smallest night game crowd at Los Angeles in the nine years that the clubs have been playing in the west as only 24,168 turned out because of rain which fell until a few minutes before the game started. The previous low attendance was 30,219 April 29, 1965.

OUCH! — Bob Goalby winces after driving into water and en route to a bogey on 18th hole in Texas Open yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

Charles Surprises In Texas Open Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bob Goalby, who is among the year's tournament winners, and Bob Charles, who's had a two-year dry spell, charged from back in the crowd yesterday to share the lead at 138 after two rounds of the $100,000 Texas Open.

Goalby, a 36-year-old Palm Springs pro, shot six birdies and got his only bogey while trying for one more birdie for a five-under par 66, the lowest round thus far in the tournament.

Charles birdied the last three holes of his round after finishing the 15th hole at even par. The fast finish of the New Zealander caught the gallery by surprise.

Chi Chi Rodriguez and Joe Campbell, the leaders after the first round with three-under 68s, faded. Campbell's game collapsed and his score ballooned to a 76, enabling him to make the cut by only one stroke.

Rodriguez complained, "The way I putted, I think I should start selling ice cream cones."

He disappointed a large gallery, affectionately called "Los Bandidos," by blowing to 73 for a 36-hole total of 141, three-strokes back.

Jerry Steelsmith, a 31-year-old Santa Barbara pro, carded a 69 to go with his first-round 70. He was alone at 139.

Roberto De Vicenzo of Buenos Aires, and Tom Weiskopf were two strokes back at 140. There are seven pros each at one-under and at even par.

Goalby's only bogey came as he was trying for a seventh birdie, the only one he needed to set a course record 64 and collect a side purse of $6,500 offered for the feat. But his drive on the final hole hooked into a creek. He was forced to drop out of the water hazard, losing a stroke, and then finished the round with a bogey.

Marin Cager Wins Honors; America's Yacht Launched

Bill Pandiani of San Rafael, College of Marin's mighty mite guard, this week received honors on two all-star basketball squads selected in a poll of junior college coaches throughout California.

Pandiani was named fourth team on the All-California squad and second team All-Northern California. The poll was conducted by J. C. Sportswire in conjunction with the Helms Athletic Foundation.

At 5 feet, 7 inches, Pandiani was the shortest of the more than 30 players honored on the two squads.

In scoring 533 points in 30 games last season, the San Rafael High School graduate became the third highest single-season scorer in College of Marin history. Only Brad Busch's 563 points in 1964 and Lynn Livie's 554 in 1962 stand above his record.

YACHTING

NEW YORK — Intrepid, one of three yachts from the United States which may defend the America's Cup in September, was launched yesterday at City Island.

The Intrepid, which is shorter than most yachts as it measures 64 feet in length, will compete against the Columbia, the 1958 cup winner, and the American Eagle. The winner will meet either Dame Pattie or Gretel, representing Australia.

TRACK AND FIELD

PHILADELPHIA — Dave Patrick, Villanova's sub-four-minute miler, led the Wildcats' distance medley relay team to a 9:39.6 clocking at the 73rd annual Penn Relays, beating the old mark by nearly seven seconds.

DES MOINES, Iowa — Randy Matson of Texas A&M captured his third straight discus title with a throw of 189 feet ½ inch in the 36 mile per hour winds at the opening of the 58th Drake Relays, and Jim Ryun of Kansas ran the meet's first sub four-minute mile as he anchored his victorious four-mile relay team in 3:59.1.

Dodger Johnson To Play In 10 Weeks, Doctor Says

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers got some "sweet" news today when they were informed that hustling outfielder Lou Johnson won't be out nearly as long as first expected.

Johnson underwent surgery on his left ankle yesterday and doctors said he would make a full recovery, but expect him to be out of action 10 weeks.

Doctors had first estimated that he would be out at least three months and possibly much longer.

Johnson broke a bone in his ankle Thursday night while trying to slide home in the first inning of a game with the Atlanta Braves. The spikes on Johnson's left shoe got tangled in the shinguard of catcher Joe Torre.

A Dodger spokesman said the surgery was performed to repair torn ligaments and to move a chip from the bone back into place before Johnson's ankle was placed back in a cast.

DRAKE WINS ! ! !

Stunning Upsets In Prep Baseball

Redwood High School's chief challengers for the Marin County Athletic League baseball title stopped to lay a pair of eggs in the middle of a race yesterday.

With a chance to gain some ground on the giants, who were busy blasting Burlingame 7-0 in a non-league game, both Marin Catholic and Terra Linda turned around and lost some, something neither could afford.

Terra Linda really walked into an unexpected ambush. The Trojans were neatly sewed up and hamstrung on a two-hitter by Ralph Asay, who pitches for Drake, whose last league victory is ancient history.

The Pirates, in less in four outings this year and owners of a perfect 0-12 mark last year, shelled the Trojans for two hits and three runs in the first inning and that was all she wrote as Drake won 3-0.

ONE BEHIND

That left Terra Linda, only half a game out prior to the game, with a 3-2 mark, a full game out.

Don Alvarado's two-run triple following a single and a walk did all the necessary damage for the Pirates.

Marin Catholic, meanwhile, in enough trouble as it is, added to its woes, getting hit with a four-run first inning by San Rafael and went on to lose 6-1 as lefty Joe Riekena, making his first start of the season for the Bulldogs, handcuffed the Wildcats on three hits.

Tom Schalich, part of the one-two punch of the Wildcats' pitching machine, received the big punch in the first inning. San Rafael brought home four runs on a run-scoring single, an infield out, an error and a walk that forced in a run with a full house.

The loss dropped the Wildcats back into fourth place, two full games behind Redwood and a half a game behind Terra Linda and Novato, which topped Tamalpais at Novato.

Redwood's Rusty Poole pitched a two-hitter and struck out 13 batters for the Giants in their eighth shutout victory of the season.

Novato, sparked by second baseman Frank Perachiotti's 375-foot, two-run homerun nicked the Tam Indians, 3-2, to climb inho a share of second place with Terra Linda.

Drake Swimmers Strengthen Lead

Terra Linda High School's "good" crack at a tie for the Marin County Athletic League swim title has dwindled to sub-so-so. And the Trojans can blame it all on Tamalpais, which jumped right into the same boat.

The Trojans, only one loss away from the undefeated Pirates of Drake yesterday morning, found themselves two lengths back after the Indians handed them a near-drowning in a rematch at Tamalpais, 62-33.

Not only was the win surprising but the margin was the big shocker. Terra Linda had measured the Indians 59-63 in an earlier meeting in the Trojan pool.

The Indians won both relays that they had lost in the first meet and took four additional victories, setting a school record of 3:39.3 in the 400 freestyle relay.

DRAKE ADVANCES

League-leading Drake, meanwhile, altered its potent lineup and splashed merrily along with 65-30 victory over winless San Rafael in the Bulldog pool as Paul Sagues captured three events and Ben Edmonds and Bob Girvin one each.

Redwood split the relays with Novato but got plenty of help in between to take its third win against four losses while the Hornets were tagged with their sixth loss in seven outings, 57½-37½.

The Tamalpais upset left Drake with a two-length edge in the MCAL derby, with the Trojans and Indians deadlocked with 5-2 marks.

USC Is Tied By Stanford; Cal Loses

Southern California and Stanford played four hours and 14 innings to a 3-3 tie yesterday with darkness finally forcing an end to the Pacific 8 baseball marathon at Palo Alto.

Former Terra Linda ace Bill Lee pitched the final four frames for USC in shutout style.

USC scored three runs in the first inning, then drew 13 straight goose eggs from three Stanford hurlers. Stanford tied the score in the bottom of the ninth.

Meanwhile, UCLA defeated California 1-0 at Berkeley and extended the Bruins' undefeated win streak to seven games.

California's record is 2-5.

Records Topple In Riverside Race Qualifying

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Eleven sports car drivers will qualify today to join the 22, including four record breakers, already in the field for tomorrow's U.S. Road Racing Championship run at Riverside Raceway.

A quartet of drivers broke the 108.333-mile-an-hour mark of Jerry Grant and Charlie Hayes during yesterday's qualifying session over the 2.6-mile course. They were:

George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., 111.032 m.p.h. in a Lola Chevy; Pete Revson of New York, 109.345 m.p.h. in a McLaren Chevy; Bob Bondurant of Los Angeles, 109.090 m.p.h. in a McLaren Chevy, and Mark Donohue of Stony Brook, N.Y., 108.584 m.p.h. in a Lola Chevy.

The 182-mile, $15,000 race is the second of six in the 1967 USRRC series. Donohue won the opener last weekend in Las Vegas, Nev.

Walter Hagen won four consecutive Professional Golfers' Association championships during his career.

Youths Invited To Sub Tour, Lacrosse Game

A Navy submarine stationed at Mare Island is the starting point for the Marin Lacrosse Club's Sunday game against the San Francisco Lacrosse Club.

Boys throughout Marin County, ages 10 through 15, are being invited to attend a tour of a modern submarine at 11 a.m., followed by the lacrosse game at the Mare Island Navy Base.

Marin Boys Club, sponsor of Pop Warner football, has joined with the Marin Lacrosse Club to promote the program for the youngsters. Weekend clinics are being held to teach boys the game.

Steve O'Brien, Marin Boys Club president, announced any boy interested may contact the following team representatives for the Sunday program: Bob Vallee, Redwood; Bob Martin, Tamalpais; Floyd Brian, Novato; Bob Ruggiera, San Rafael; Tony Barbera, Drake, and O'Brien, Terra Linda.

'Play Ball' Tomorrow For Little Leaguers

San Anselmo Little League, unable to open its season last Sunday due to wet grounds, will try again tomorrow. Ceremonies will begin at noon, honoring American Legion Post 179 and the Independent Order of Foresters. Games are played at Memorial Park.

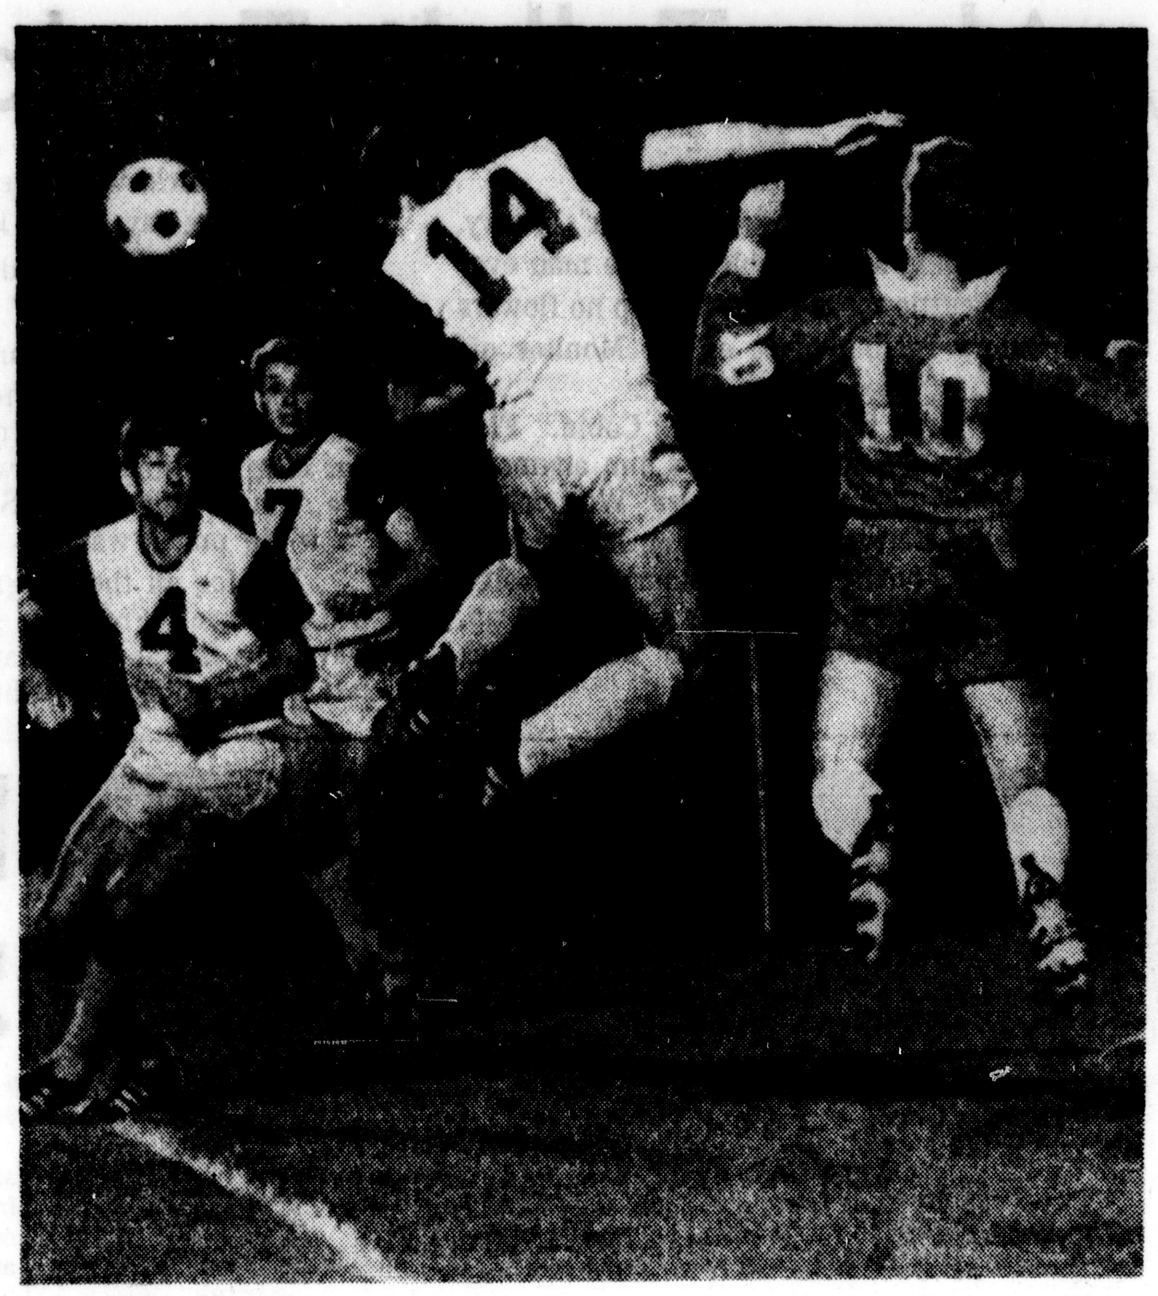
Braves To Play Pair Tomorrow

San Rafael Braves will catch double trouble, weather permitting, tomorrow afternoon at Marin Catholic High School's diamond.

The Braves open their summer semi-pro baseball season with a practice double-header against a pair of tough opponents in preparation for Western Association league play.

They'll take on San Francisco Triple A Winter League champ New Pisa at 1 p.m., then meet The Jeffersons, oldest semi-pro baseball club in California, at 3:30 p.m.

Four Litchfield's pitchers will see action in the double-header, with former Met Bill Wakefield and ex-Astro Ben Trujillo pitching in the opener and lefty Bob DeRosa and righthander Bill Clark sharing mound duties in the nightcap.



SKULL SESSION — Soccer players have all the basic skull skills for their job as Hector Martinez (14) of the Baltimore Bays demonstrates by butting the ball away from Chicago Spur Gerd Ziemann (10) in a professional soccer game last night. Bay defenders are David Primo (4) and Juan Santisteban (7).

Rush Floored Eight Times By Liston

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston was stunned today by a report his name was omitted by the New York Athletic Commission in a list of tournament eligibles who will fight for Cassius Clay's vacated title.

Liston, on a comeback trail since his title loss to Clay in 1964 and a subsequent 1965 return match, laid claim to the crown last night when he scored a sixth round knockout here over Elmer Rush of San Francisco.

"If needed," Liston said, "I will gladly enter an elimination tournament in the United States or Sweden."

Liston's name was not mentioned, however in the eight-man list issued yesterday by the New York Commission.

Liston, the ham-fisted fighter from Las Vegas, Nev., made Rush his personal punching bag as he decked the Californian eight times before posting the finishing blow. He weighed 223 to 216 for Rush.

The crowd of 11,000 booed loudly when it was announced Clay refused to enter the U.S. Army.

Cal Clippers Host Toronto Soccermen

The waterlogged California Clippers take on the winless Toronto Falcons in the National Professional Soccer League game at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Oakland Coliseum.

The fourth-place Clippers have come to know rain better than Noah in these early weeks of the season. Two of their three league games were played on wet grounds and during intermittent showers and their last game, at Atlanta Wednesday, was completely washed out.

The Atlanta rainout was a break for the Clippers' riddled roster. Two of their star defenders, Mel Scott and Momcilo Gavric were out of action with injured legs. But both will be among the starters against the Falcons tomorrow.

Last night the Baltimore Bays defeated the Chicago Spurs 2-0 at Soldier Field before 3,753 chilled fans.

Hipilito Chilinque, the Baltimore center forward, scored both goals for the winers. Chilinque scored the Baltimore first goal after 21 minutes of play in the first half and got his second goal after 41 minutes of the second period.

The game was marked by frequent fouls by Baltimore, which committed 19 to 7 for Chicago.

Joe Kennedy High Greenbrae Lanes Bowler With 691

Joe "Pappy" Kenney, a car radio salesman from San Venetia, blistered the pins for a 259 game and 691 series to headline the past week's bowling at Greenbrae Lanes.

Kenney also had games of 229 and 203 in his near-700 set in the 865 Scratch League. Phil Wallace, assistant manager at Greenbrae Lanes, rolled a 245 line and 828 four-game series in the 525 Masters Trio.

For the women, Lu Sharp rolled a 577 (206-191-180) series in the Hits and Mrs. League and Martha Moseley twirled a 223 game in the Coffee Cuppers.

Stanford Shell Places Second

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA has won the 13th annual Ed Harbach rowing regatta, the Bruins' varsity and junior varsity crews beating Stanford and Southern California in a heavy downpour.

The UCLA varsity was timed in 6:12 yesterday over the 2,000-meter Los Angeles Harbor course. Stanford was second, two lengths behind, and USC came in third.

The Bruins' junior varsity time was 6:15, with Stanford second and the Trojans third.

In the freshman race, Stanford won in 6:35, UCLA was second and USC third.

The Chicago Bears won 18 consecutive National Football League games in two occasions, a record.

Redwood Sweeps Track Honors, Still Unbeaten

Redwood High School's track and field teams yesterday swept to victory in all three divisions against visiting Marin Catholic as the undefeated Giant varsity thinclads rambled to their fourth Marin County Athletic League victory.

Bill Sather won both hurdle events, while all-around performer Jeff Hicks also was a double winner for the Giants in the 100-yard dash in 10.5 seconds and the pole vault at 12 feet.

In yesterday's other track action triple winner Reggie Walker paced Tamalpais (3-1) over host Terra Linda (2-2) although Terra Linda's Bob Bunnell bested his own record in the run, 4:35.7, and Lowell Harris' equalled the school record in the 180 low hurdles with a 19.6 performance.

Novato, meanwhile, dumped visiting San Rafael, 105-17.

Two Big Linemen Sign With 49ers

The San Francisco 49ers announced yesterday the signing of two hefty linemen draft choices.

Bart Templeman, 22, is an offensive center from Eastern Montana College at Billings. Templeman, from Salmon, Idaho, is 6-3 and weighs 248 pounds. He was the National Football League team's 16th draft choice.

Ken Carmann, 21, is a defensive tackle from Kearney State in Nebraska. The club's 11th draft choice, he is 6-4, weighs 265, and lives at Amhurst, Neb.

Bucs' Veale Stands Tall; Reds Streak

By MIKE RECHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Veale, already 6-feet-6, must feel about eight feet tall now after finally slicing the St. Louis Cardinals down to size.

The giant Pittsburgh left-hander looked more like a midget chopping away at the Cardinals in vain for two and a half years, but last night he stood over them with a 6-2 victory.

The triumph was the first for Veale over the Cardinals since July, 1964, and gave him half of Pittsburgh's six victories this season — he has yet to lose — as he continues to grow in stature as one of the National League's best hurlers.

The Atlanta Braves also faced a giant obstacle, an 8-0 deficit, but rose to the occasion and overcame the Philadelphia Phillies 9-8.

First place Cincinnati continued to stand tall with a 7-1 victory over the New York Mets while the Houston Astros outlasted the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in 13 innings and San Francisco stopped any growing pains Los Angeles entertained, 5-4.

Veale, who had lost six straight to St. Louis, made his mark on the Cardinals with a five-hitter, striking out nine and walking three, but he almost was not around at the end to admire his handiwork.

"I was pretty close to taking him out when they hit consecutive triples against him in the sixth inning," said Pirate Manager Harry Walker. "And if he had walked the first man in the ninth, I would have taken him out although I wanted him to get this one because he needed a victory against the Cardinals."

The triples highlighted a two-run inning and neutralized a two-run homer by Willie Stargell in the top of the sixth. But Bill Mazeroski singled in one run and Gene Alley's hit drove in two more in the eighth for a 5-2 lead and Veale's sizable problem ended.

The Braves spent much of their evening climbing uphill after Don Lock drove in four runs for the Phillies with a three-run homer and a single.

But Hank Aaron cut into the eight-run lead with a three-run homer and a run-scoring single as the Braves scored five times in the fourth and three in the fifth. Aaron then singled Felipe Alou to third in the ninth, from where he scored on a fielder's choice.

High-riding Cincinnati won its third straight and eighth in nine games on Sammy Ellis' six-hitter, including Ed Kranepool's homer for the only Met run. Vada Pinson and Pete Rose buried the Mets with three hits and two RBI each.

Eddie Mathews was the big man for Houston as he tripled leading off the 13th and scored on Aaron Pointer's sacrifice fly in an up-and-down contest.

Rookie Don Wilson had a one-hitter and a 2-0 lead in the eighth for Houston before Ron Santo capped a three-run outburst with a two-run single. But Cub reliever John Upham wild pitched the tying run home in the ninth with two out.

Houston almost won it in the 10th after Chicago took a 4-3 lead. Jim Wynn tied it with a homer, but Jim Landis was out trying to steal home with the bases loaded and two out.

Pro Athletes Deny Plans To Organize

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey have had one meeting, plan another but still maintain they aren's discussing a possible labor union.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, issued a brief statement on behalf of all the athletes after a closed meeting in his office yesterday.

"An informal meeting was held among representatives of players from baseball, football, basketball and hockey," he said. "The purpose of the meeting which was exploratory in nature, was to discuss common problems, exchange information and consider the possibility of a joint approach on legislative motions."

He denied that the meeting was concerned with the possibility of establishing a labor union for all major league sports. He said another meeting is scheduled in New York late in May and that all the athletes attending agreed to wait until later before making any detailed announcements.

Attending the meeting were Bob Rodgers of the California Angels, American League player representative; Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears, president of the National Football League Players' Association; Jack Kemp of Buffalo, president of the American Football League Players' Association; Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, president of the National Basketball Association's player group; and Bob Orr of the Boston Bruins, representing the National Hockey League.

Each player also had legal counsel.

Car, Boat Show Scheduled May 21

The Quick Changers of Marin is one of four car clubs that already have informed officials of the Drake Car and Boat Show they plan to enter some of their cars.

Mike Convis, Drake High School counselor and director of the show, said the Quick Changers Club will enter five cars in the show, scheduled May 21 at Sunny Hills, 910 Sir Franis Drake Boulevard, in San Anselmo.

Two clubs from the East Bay, the Bay Area 40's Club and West Coast Mustang Club, and the Wheelers Inc. of Sacramento also will enter, Convis said.

Tickets for the car and boat show went on sale this week at Drake High.

A Stillness At Appomattox

70,000 dead along the Rapidan. Cover the trenches of Petersburg. Tell those who fell in the "gloomy thickets of in the "gloomy tickets of Chickamauga," we're sorry. Come back, Gen. Rosecrans. You've been outflanked by a Louisville loudmouth. The Bill of Rights has been mugged.

Wave no poppies for Soldier Clay. John Brown's body may lie a-moldering in his grave, but Cassius' won't. Strip the laurel from the graves of the Blue. Let the willow wave over the GAR and the Gray alike.

When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom'd and the great star early droop'd in the western sky in the night, this legatee of Lincoln picked up his sword—Lincoln picked u phis sword — and ran it through his country's breast. The last full measure of his devotion. Twenty-five million of his people watched silently. He has posed a dreadful moral dilemma for them. Uncle Toms? Or rend the Union again? Serve or smite?

You were right, Abe. "We can not consecrate — we can not hallow." It is "far above our poor power." The point needs your wisdom: Is it our fault? Or his? Has he dishonored the dead? Or have we? Were we all listening when you said, "that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion — that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain — that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom"?

One of us wasn't listening. Which is why no leaves stir at Appomattox. But the blood still caulks the rocks at Shiloh.

Tam Tennis Team In League Lead

Tamalpais High School's tennis team gained a half step on its competitors yesterday by downing Novato, 4-1, at Tamalpais.

The Indians, who swept the singles and split the doubles, broke a three-wa yfirst-place tie in the Marin Athletic League with Redwood and San Rafael, for a 4-1 record. The idle Giants and Bulldogs are 3-1.

The results:

Singles — Barry Brink (T) d. Tom Gordon, 6-1, 6-2; Andy Moffat (T) d. Mike Aherne, 6-4, 6-3; Terry Moor (T) d. Steve Lyon, 6-1, 7-5. Doubles — Robbie McCormick-Jim Randolph (T) d. Jeff Parkinson-Hil Kruth, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2; Bill Ruehe-Mike DeMezas (N) d. Brian Spellman-Bill Everets, 1-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Marin: Its Verdant Hills And Hustling Vales

The contrast of rugged, sparsely settled uplands and populous valleys is sharply etched in this aerial study of Marin. On the flat highland plain to the right, the Meadow Club spreads its golf links near the still waters of Lagunitas Lake. Barely discernible as it threads its tortuous way past the club is the thin white line of Bolinas-Fairfax road. Moving to the left, the road disappears into the thick growth of the watershed, emerging near the center in Fairfax where it joins Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The boulevard, reaching toward the bay, follows its valley floor to San Anselmo's hub, where the Miracle Mile branches left to San Rafael and the boulevard itself bears right through Ross Valley. Out into the center the bay juts Tiburon Peninsula with Angel Island looming off its tip. In the upper left is Contra Costa County topped by Mount Diablo. Upper right is San Francisco, white with buildings. (Aero Photographers photo by Ed Brady)

May 7 Is Parade Day On San Francisco Bay

By ROB HARVEY

Some 1,500 boats are expected to participate in the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Association's Opening Day Power Cruiser and Sailboat Parade scheduled May 7, in San Francisco Bay.

Power cruisers will be divided into three fleets (green, blue and red), with Marin entrants lined in the first and last pairings.

With the first or green fleet will be the powerboats of the Corinthian Yacht Club, the San Francisco Yacht Club, the Sausalito Yacht Club, the Sausalito Cruising Club, the Paradise Key Yacht Club, and the Strawberry Cove Yacht Club.

In the third or red fleet will be the Marin Yacht Club, the San Rafael Yacht Club, the North Bay Yacht Club and the Loch Lomond Yacht Club.

Clubs will be competing for Claude H. Benham Trophy points, and there will also be competition among decorated boats for trophies and prizes.

RENDEZVOUS procedures, set from 10 to 11 a.m. for power boats and 10:30 a.m. to noon for both the east and west sailing fleets, get underway near Racoon Straits between the western tip of Angle Island and Corinthian Yacht Club in Tiburon.

The actual parade, slated to start approximately 11 a.m. for power cruisers and noon for sailing craft, will commence at Crissy Field and proceed down the Bay to Pier 45 (Fisherman's Wharf). Both decorated power and sailboats will maneuver — in single file — inside Anita Rock en route to Fisherman's Wharf, which will allow spectators a better view of the colorful spectacle from St. Francis Yacht Club, San Francisco.

THE REVIEWING boat will be anchored right off the tip of St. Francis Yacht Club.

Only power boats meeting the safety requirements of the Northern California Power Cruiser Association will be allowed to take part in this year's parade. Sailing craft must meet all safety standards of the Yacht Racing Association.

An opening day safety committee, headed by Charles Frey of San Carlos of the North Bay Yacht Club, with Jim Corbet of San Rafael Yacht Club and Rex Thompson of the Marin Yacht Club as members, has prepared a detailed set of instructions for power and sailing fleets planning to participate.

The Corinthian Yacht Club will again sponsor the ceremony of the "Blessing of the Pleasure Craft Fleet," involving members of the clergy representing the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths. The clergymen will be stationed aboard a Navy vessel anchored off the Corinthian Yacht Club breakwater.

Capt. Elmer Towle, USNR, as a member of Corinthian will chairman the arrangement, for the event as usual.

IN THE INTEREST of boating safety, yachtsmen are asked to pass by the Navy ship on her port side, approaching astern by way of Racoon Straits. Each yacht should pass by only once, and receive the blessing and then proceed on a southwesterly course toward the assembly areas for the parade.

All boats so blessed will receive a scroll commemorating the event. To receive the scroll, skippers should write to the Corinthian Yacht Club, either individually, or as a club collectively, giving name of boat, and owner's name and address.

Any unattached aspirants, either singles or group, may tuck in with one of the already-mentioned fleets.

Holiday Girl

Doesn't every cosmetics company have a Navy?

Probaby not. But then every cosmetics company isn't Holiday Magic. And every cosmetics company doesn't offer the opportunity for profit that Holiday Magic does. Our files are full of success stories: a 23-year-old bachelor earns $40,000 in a year; a man and wife team make an extra $2500 in a month; a doctor earns $6000 in one week. However, there is more to Holiday Magic than just making money. Holiday Magic is also a way of life for over 30,000 people in 50 states, Canada and Mexico. As distributors for the company, these people are working for themselves, running their own businesses, using talents which were often suppressed in former occupations. If you are interested in being your own man, in having things like a boat, a better home, education for your children, or in just more money, consider Holiday Magic. There are some good reasons why a firm founded less than three years ago is now doing close to five million dollars a month in sales. And has its own Navy, too! Shouldn't you find them out?

The Coast Guard Keeps Watch Over Ocean And Inland Waters

Serving the nation since 1790, the U. S. Coast Guard is our oldest continuous sea-going armed force and performs fulltime peacetime jobs throughout the world.

The 12th Coast Guard District, with headquarters at 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco, is charged with the protection of life and property on more than 500,000 square miles of ocean and inland waterways reaching from the California-Oregon border to just south of San Luis Obispo.

UNDER THE command of a rear admiral, over 1,900 officers and enlisted personnel carry out the Coast Guard's varied functions. Included in these duties are search and rescue, marine inspection, aids to navigation, port security and education of the boating public through mobile boarding teams and the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Rating high on the list of important duties is search and rescue.

San Francisco is the location of the 12th District's Rescue Coordination Center. From their office, Coast Guard forces, including 15 cutters, six rescue stations and an air station at San Francisco's International Airport, are directed to cover assigned search and rescue duties.

THE COAST Guard's Merchant Marine Office for Northern California is also located in San Francisco. In addition to issuing documents to merchant vessels and merchant mariners, they assure the proper design, construction and maintenance of merchant vessels.

Serving the mariners of the Bay Area is the Aids to Navigation Branch of the 12th District. Strategically placed along the coastal and inland waterways are 863 aids to assist mariners. In this total are three lightships, 16 light stations, 430 buoys, 86 daybeacons and 1 LORAN (Long Range Aids to Navigation) station.

Buoys and other aids in need of repair or overhaul are taken to Coast Guard Base, Yerba Buena Island.

PORT SECURITY in the San Francisco Bay Area is handled by the Captain of the Port with offices located at Pier 45½, San Francisco. Patrol boats and inspection parties operate around the clock to assure that regulations are obeyed.

The Coast Guard, charged with enforcement of federal boating laws, utilizes three mobile boarding teams to reach the outlying areas. Their primary mission is to educate the pleasure boaters by determining if the boats and equipment are safe.

They Serve The Cause Of Better Boating

By DON KEOWN

MARIN COUNTY
SHERIFF

ABOARD his Repo, Richard F. Cordall, owner, skipper and captain of the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol, hurries to answer a "May Day" call for a search and rescue mission, typical of the volunteer services performed by many Marinites on behalf of better, safer boating. With him are Chester W. Seely and William O. Muggenthaler of the patrol.

For most Marin boatmen, the sport is a recreation to be pursued either as competition or as relaxation.

But for them to fully enjoy their fun, others must contribute hours of their own time to the cause of safe and skillful boating.

In Marin, those who serve that worthwhile cause belong to one or more of three organizations:

THE MARIN Chapter of the United States Power Squadron, which conducts a series of free classes in boat piloting and handling at Redwood High School in Larkspur; the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol, a sort of sheriff's posse on the water that patrols the more heavily trafficked waters and conducts search and rescue missions, and Flotilla 14 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, which provides free courtesy inspections of watercraft to determine if they meet Coast Guard requirements and also offers an educational program in boating safety.

The power squadron with nearly 350 members conducts piloting classes each Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 at Redwood High. "Piloting" is defined as "the steering of a vessel—the work done by the helmsman."

George Swift of San Rafael is squadron commander. Edward J. Masonic of Corte Madera is the local board of piloting chairman, Albert MacCarthy of Mill Valley his assistant chairman.

RALEIGH G. YOUNG of San Rafael is the head proctor, with a staff of 15 fellow proctors who handle the task of correcting the papers of class members.

Instructors are squadron members who have not only completed the piloting course, but have also had advanced schooling including an "instructor's technique" course.

A class chairman and assistant chairman attend all sessions. But each evening a different instructor lectures.

EACH THURSDAY the class is confronted with a new phase or stage of a charting problem. The student then proceeds to establish his location by taking cross bearings, to plot a course on a chart, or to figure speed, time and distance for estimated time of arrival.

The problem phase the following Thursday will build upon that which has been learned the previous week.

Lectures are worked out by the instructors themselves, following a general outline for the subject they are to cover.

AT LEFT, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reisner of Belvedere, students in the boat piloting and handling class conducted by the Marin Chapter of the United States Power Squadron at Redwood High School on Thursday evenings, puzzle over a charting problem, with encouragement from Edward J. Masonic, right, the squadron's board of piloting chairman. The instruction is free to the public, with the current series of classes ending this coming week. A new "semester" will begin in September as the Power Squadron tutors another class of Marinites in safe and skillful boating.

Boating Has Its Safety Volunteers

THE CURRENT course began in early February and will be concluded next Thursday with a final examination. Students will then have attended 13 sessions covering such topics as safety, seamanship, small boat handling, river piloting, equipment, government regulations, rules of the road, the mariner's compass, aids to navigation, charts and piloting, customs and manners and radio telephone.

The United States Power Squadrons program had its origin on the East Coast in 1914, with an initial objective of safe and efficient boating that it has maintained ever since as it has spread across the country.

THE MARIN County Sheriff's Marine Patrol dates back to 1959 when Scott Waterman approached newly elected Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos with the idea for such an organization.

Mountanos was quick to recognize the merits of the plan, noting how the patrol could serve to augment the services of an overburdened Coast Guard in the waters of this area.

In its ninth year now, the patrol consists of 37 men who donate their time and the use of approximately a quarter of a million dollars worth of vessels and rescue equipment toward the important responsibilities they have assumed.

THEIR "FLEET" consists of 19 cruisers, up to 40 feet in length, eight small to medium-sized trailerable craft and one trailerable "mud sled" with a bed that can be lowered to the ground.

With the recent acquisition of the mud sled, virtually every area in Marin's surrounding waters has become accessible to the patrol.

The operations of the patrol, which since its inception has logged more than 10,000 man hours of volunteer duty, have saved Marin's taxpayers the many thousands of dollars that would be required to purchase,

Inspections, Patrols And Education

maintain and crew even one patrol-rescue boat.

MEMBERS OF the patrol are available, day or night, to emergency requests for their services from the sheriff's office.

Members must be thoroughly familiar with boats, boat-handling and boating laws, and must pass the usual thorough character screening of law enforcement agencies before they are sworn in as deputy sheriffs.

The newcomer undergoes training cruises in the company of more experienced officers before he is rated capable of patrol duty on his own.

Boat ownership is not required, since there is always a need for crew men to accompany the skippers under the patrol's "buddy system."

SHERIFF Mountanos carries the title of commodore of the patrol. Top officers are Capt. Richard F. Cordall, Lt. William H. Muggenthaler, Yeoman Alfred W. Miller, Purser Norman Tomlin and Master at Arms William O. Muggenthaler.

James E. Jones and Scott Waterman are the information and education officers, Victor A. Muzio the public relations officer and Charles S. Chapin the historian.

Inspector Bowen Bridges and Raymond H. Tschirgi of the sheriff's office serve as liaison men to the patrol.

A just-completed project of the patrol has been the development and printing of a grid chart system covering both San Pablo and San Francisco bays. With the help of these charts, vessels in distress can summon help in a minimum of time and make it much easier for the rescue unit to pinpoint the location of the craft in trouble.

COOPERATING with the sheriff's patrol, the U.S. Coast Guard has agreed to use the new charts in finding and aiding vessels in distress in bay waters.

Public Relations Officer Muzio points out that the charts, to be available to boaters and other rescue units at yacht clubs, at boating facilities and through patrol members, will also expedite boat owners in arranging a rendezvous or in finding favorable fishing sites.

between 60 and 70 members, all boat-owners.

FOR YEARS pleasure boat owners of Marin have learned to rely upon its trained inspectors to point out to them deficiencies of their craft that might cause them to fail to meet Coast Guard requirements or might create safety hazards.

Inspections are voluntary, made only upon request of owners. Once the inspection is made and the boat found to be in compliance with the laws and with auxiliary standards, the skipper is presented with a decal that notifies the regular Coast Guard that the vessel has been inspected by the auxiliary and found to be shipshape.

Peter Ditto is the present commander of Flotilla 14, and Charles Cusick is the head inspector.

INSPECTORS ARE required to pass examinations given by the Coast Guard every three years to maintain their official status.

Invited on board a boat for a courtesy check, an inspector will look into such matters as the availability, adequacy and condition of the identifying numerals and papers, fire extinguishers and other safety and life-saving devices, navigation lights, backfire flame control for the engine, the galley stove, the fuel tank installation, portable fuel tanks and containers, electrical wiring and circuits, carburetor drip collector, anchor and anchor line and the general condition of the vessel such as cleanliness of bilges and operability of pumps.

This year the inspectors are assuming a major new responsibility in the new ventilation regulations of the Coast Guard that go into effect after May 31.

THE COAST GUARD has long required efficient ventilation of power boats. Now, however, those requirements are being spelled out in detail.

At the minimum, the Coast Guard says, the ventilating system should be one that ducts fresh air into each engine and fuel tank compartment and carries dangerous fumes out of the vessel efficiently.

Of the intake or air supply system, the Coast Guard now says: "There must be one or more intake ducts into each fuel and engine compartment, fitted with a cowl (or scoop), extending from the open atmosphere to a level midway to the bilge (fuel compartment) or at least below the level of the carburetor (engine compartment)."

OF THE EXHAUST system, it says: "There must be one or more exhaust ducts from the lower portion of the bilge of each fuel and engine compartment to the free atmosphere, fitted with a cowl or equivalent such as wind-actuated rotary ex-

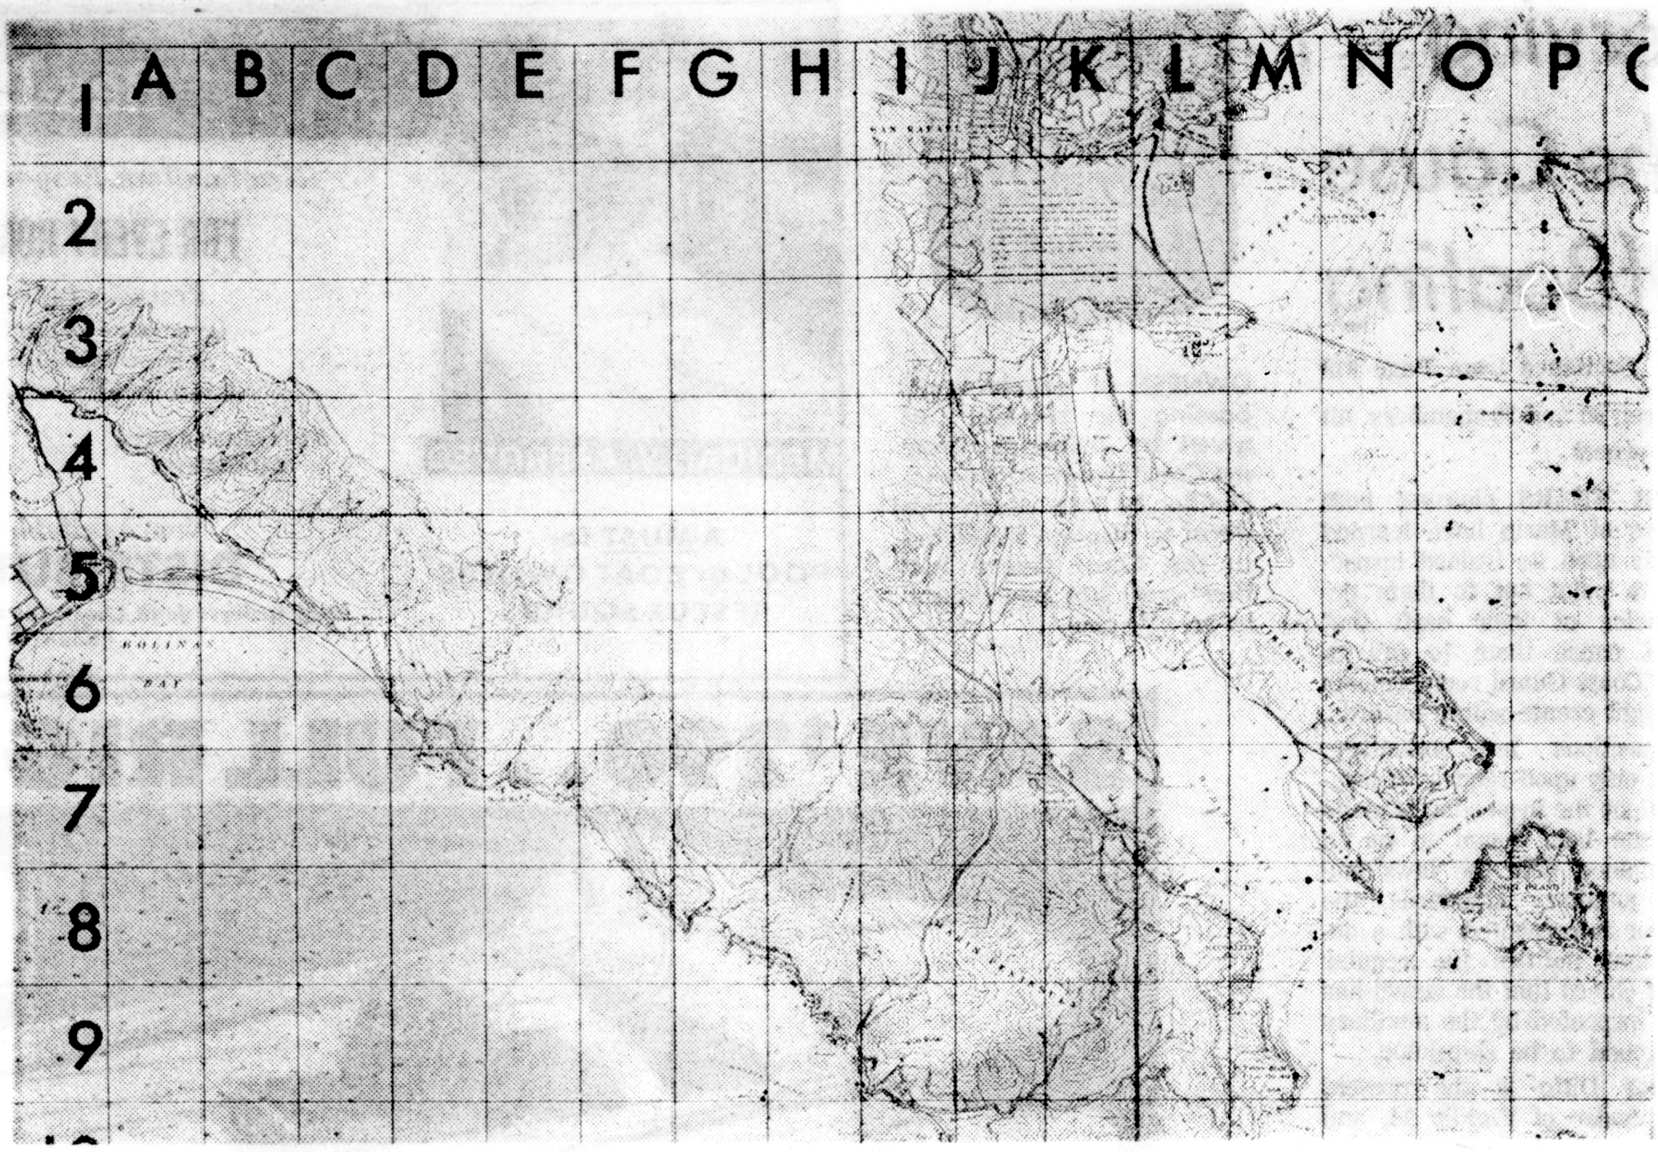
hauster or a mechanical blower."

Of ducting materials: "Ducts should be constructed of non-ferrous, galvanized ferrous or sturdy high temperature resistant non-metallic materials routed clear of and protected from contact with hot engine surfaces."

On positioning of cowls: "Normally, the intake cowl will face forward in an area of free underway airflow, and the exhaust cowl will face aft where a suction effect can be expected. They should be located with respect to each other so as to prevent the return of displaced vapors to any enclosed space, or to avoid the pick-up of vapors from fuel filling stations."



THIS IS A PART of the new grid chart system developed by the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol. The mapping covers the entire San Francisco-San Pablo Bay area, and is expected to expedite search and rescue missions when quick location of vessels in distress is essential.

OPENINGS IN engine compartments for entry of air to the carburetor are to be in addition to the ventilation system requirements.

As for size of the air conduits, the Coast Guard provides two tables for the guidance of boat owners.

The table for small power boats is based upon net compartment volume. The table for larger boats is based upon the vessel's beam.

ONLY OPEN boats are exempted from the ventilating requirements. The Coast Guard defines an "open" craft as:

1. Engine and fuel tank compartments shall have a minimum of 15 square inches of open area directly exposed to the atmosphere for each cubic foot of net compartment volume.

2. All such compartments must have at least one square inch of open area per cubic foot, within one inch of the compartment bilge level or floor, so that any vapors present will drain into open spaces.

3. There must be no long or narrow unventilated spaces accessible from such compartments in which flame front could propagate.

4. Long, narrow compartments such as side panels, if joining engine or fuel compartments and not serving as ducts thereto, shall have at least 15 square inches of open area per cubic foot provided by frequent openings along the full length of the compartment formed.

MILLER McNEAR, a veteran Flotilla 14 Coast Guard Auxiliary inspector, says very few Marin-owned boats will meet that definition.

And most Marin-moored boats, he adds, will fall into the two-intake, two-exhaust category, rather than the single intake and exhaust class.

IN THE PAST, McNear says, the most frequent deficiency encountered by inspectors has been the fire extinguisher. Improper numerals have been another cause of inspection failures. But this year, he anticipates, the new ventilating requirements will be far and away the biggest concern of boat owners and inspectors.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary also carries on patrol and search-and-rescue work in conjunction with the Coast Guard, and has its own educational program, conducting safe boating classes open to the public at San Rafael High School on Thursday nights at 8 o'clock.

Sailboats Of Wood Are Rare At The Shows This Year

By JACK WOLISTON
UPI Boating Writer

Boat shows around the country this year are displaying more sailboats than ever before — and only a few are made of wood.

Most of the racing classes that have not yet accepted fiberglass just aren't being shown. Famous designs brought out a few years ago in plywood have reappeared in glass.

In aluminum, sailboat hulls are totally new shapes drawn to take advantage of the light weight of the metal and to cope with the problems that light weight raises — aluminum sailboats must be extremely beamy, for example.

CONTRARILY, since glass is heavier than wood, these boats need less ballast than wood hulls.

There also has been a remarkable drop in the number of sailing catamarans shown.

Indeed, there are few radically new boats, but many more sophisticated refinements to both displacement and planing conventional craft.

In the displacement boats, both American and British designers have moved sharply toward the use of twin keels or even twin bilge boards in trunks like a centerboard. Twin keels have great advantages. They cut both weight and draft by one-third as compared with a fin keel of a fiberglass hull (the keels might have to be a bit heavier on a wood hull).

THEY ARE easier to build and a littler cheaper than a single keel. But the greatest advantage is that a twin keel boat won't careen and capsize if it runs aground as a single fin keel boat will.

In the planing hull sailboats, the most noticeable trend is the gradual disappearance of the centerboard trunk, whose vibration when underway puts such a strain on the hull.

The new planing boats are built with the cockpit floor well above the waterline and the bilges filled with foamed plastic. Thus, the centerboard simply drops through an open slot in the floor — there's only a vestigial trunk forward where the board pivots. Even the pivot pin that used to pierce the trunk is gone.

INSTEAD THE board has a round front and fixed pin that rides a hump-shaped track at the top of the trunk. The board can be lifted out of the trunk even when underway.

Centerboards themselves tend now to be long, narrow and just heavy enough to go down in salt water. This type will kick up the moment they touch the bottom, thus reducing the risk of capsizing in a strong breeze.

In cruisers and day sailers, the trends to simpler rings, lower aspect heights and less canvas are accentuated.

In the racing boats, both displacement and planing class, everything is just the opposite — taller masts, larger sails, and a bewildering assortment of traveler bars, adjusting lines, sam cleats and hiking trapezes designed to put maximum premium on the physical stamina and acrobatic agility of the crews.

SOCIAL OUTLETS

The Yacht Clubs Have Busy Slates

By BARBARA HOSMER

"Come aboard" — That's the usual friendly invitation of Marin's hospitable sailing and power boat enthusiasts when they gather aboard their craft.

Families from throughout the Bay region are members of Marin yacht clubs and boating associations, and all participate in social activities that naturally accompany in sailing and water sports. Much of the socializing among boating families is informal, yet many of the clubs run a varied season of organized social events ranging from after-racing brunches to supper dances to style shows of salty garb.

THE OLDEST IN Marin — the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere—has not only kept the distaff members working on invitations and the necessaries for the club's dinners, dances and regatta luncheons, but has sponsored a sailing program for women and given top support to the Adams Cup competition for lady sailors. In fact, last summer SFYC's women were hostesses to the all North America Adams Cup competition, a high honor.

In its service programs and assistance to the men's club activity, the auxiliary has changed its original emphasis, which was fund raising and furnishing the clubhouse. The auxiliary also carries on a program of luncheon and fashion shows and has a champagne party at Christmas time as well as a Santa party for the youngsters.

Mrs. William Healey of Belvedere, as president. has enjoyed taking the sailing instruction to assist aboard the Healeys' Cal-20. The sailing lessons began a few years ago under the guidance of Mrs. Benton Matthews.

ALSO WITH A long time sailing tradition is the Corinthian Yache Club of Tiburon, and its role as host club for many racing activities keeps the women busy assisting the men with the hospitality throughout the season.

Year around activities keep the women's auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Frank Sullivan of San

Marin Boat Clubs Keep Their Members Busy On Land As Well

Francisco, toeing the mark, as Corinthian initiated the mid-winter races which involve club hospitality as well. The auxiliary stages monthly luncheons with a variety of speakers and twice a year puts on style lunches for guests.

One Corinthian social tradition is the open day dance, dating from the days when the yachts wintered in a section of Richardson Bay and things were actually opened to get them to summer moorings at the club.

FAR NEWER and quite busy socially is the Belvedere Sailing Society, which plies the waters of Belvedere Lagoon.

It has official opening and closing activities for social and racing seasons of its four sailing fleets. Their opening is taking place this weekend, with party events at home along the lagoon, and the closing is usually a big costume ball in October.

Dr. Sam Mann, commodore, and his wife stay busy with the activities.

A CLUB OF salty sailors is the Sausalito Yacht Club, with an active auxiliary carrying on the social events, guided by Mrs. Theodore Nizenkoff, of San Rafael, president.

The women and children learned to sail through a auxiliary-sponsored program in past years. But parties abound also — especially notable is the Christmas party when Santa arrives by water. There are also fashion shows of nautical attire and an extensive social season at the clubhouse.

The club sometimes has "Family Fun Day" with crazy boat races for the youngsters.

MAINLY POWER boaters, the Sausalito Cruising Club has a full social schedule of parties and club cruises.

Headed by Mrs. Roy M. Schwartz of San Francisco, the auxiliary holds events ranging from post trophy race dinners and dancing to luaus, holiday boutiques and bazaars aboard the floating clubhouse.

FOR A CLUB only a little over a year old, the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club has a social calendar that includes the first overnight family cruise for each of the club's three fleets, the power, sail and ski boats, held last weekend; a steak barbecue in the evening followed by a gin fizz, bacon and egg breakfast the the next day. Crazy hats and singing and dancing constituted the entertainment.

Reciprocal overnight stays with the various yacht clubs with the first with Corinthin. Dances and parties are set for holidays such as Halloween and Christmas, and barbecues and parties are held throughout the year on the lagoon island called "Pleasure Island" at the Ignacio club.

For July Fourth a "Sail-a-bration" will be held all day, with boats decorated for a water parade, racing and fireworks. James Hudson is the club's press chairman for the activities of all three fleets.

MUCH OLDER and well established for Marin, San Francisco and East Bay members is the Marin Yacht Club with its attractive anchorage and clubhouse at the entrance of San Rafael Canal.

Marin usually carries on a season of club dinners and parties and plays host to club cruises in the summer months when its weather is superior to most of the bay. Well-known Marinites the Russell G. Smiths of Ross are leading the club this year, as he has just been elected commodore.

Many members also belong to larger yacht clubs such as St. Francis in San Francisco and are active in their social life, using Marin as their cozier, sunnier "home away from

SURELY ONE OF the most socially acitve is the Loch Lomond Yacht Club of San Rafael, with a full year of events for its sailing and power boat enthusiasts.

With Mrs. Robert Bohanna heading the entertainment committee, the club is carrying on 10 social events and 16 cruises plus planning a gala turnout for opening day when the club usually captures a prize for the most boats decorated from one club.

Parties this year range from a crab cioppino dinner to a Chinese New Year party, variety show, opening day dinner, both children's and adult Christmas parties, egg hunt, Halloween party and a luau. And there are steak dinners at the clubhouse on Saturdays.

IN CONTRAST the Strawberry Cove Yacht Club on the Tiburon Peninsula is socially active mainly for a July picnic at a nearby island or such.

Dr. Robert Cogswell Jr. has been the commodore and Mrs. Robert Allen is busy with the family side of the activity.

ANOTHER SAN RAFAEL based club is the North Bay Yacht Club, with craft kept both at Loch Lomond and Lowrie's harbor on the canal.

Next on the agenda is finding a suitable clubhouse site, and the auxiliary was organized two years ago to begin the fund-raising. Naturally it has meant social gatherings — a costume party, a fashion show at Peacock Gap, the commodore's ball at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel in San Francisco and a Halloween party in Marin. Upcoming is a club picnic. Mrs. C. Burt Kennedy of San Rafael is president for her second term.

Club members also enjoy weekend cruises, with plaques awarded for the greatest attendance by a craft. Next week after the opening day parade the club will gather at Lowrie's for a hotdog and beer party, and awards go to club members for best dressed craft in the parade.

ALTHOUGH CONSERVATION is their main purpose, the members of the auxiliary to the Marin Rod and Gun Club enjoy fishing, clam digging at Tomales Bay, crabbing at Fort Baker and salmon fishing, as well as the public dessert socials and games held the third Wednesday of the month at the Point San Quentin clubhouse.

They also run the dessert booth at the club picnic in July and stage two rummage sales a year.

Mrs. L. Feltz Smith of San Quentin, president, says that camperships are given to children for a school of outdoor education and to a prospective forestry major from Marin goes a college scholarship.

SAN RAFAEL Yacht Club on the canal holds a monthly party, usually the second Saturday unless an appropriate holiday makes a special date more desirable. Dinner and dancing is featured at the clubhouse for these occasions.

The club always participates in the opening day events, an installation dinner is an October tradition and a Christmas party is a must. The club's vice commodore, Dutch Raggio always does the cooking, but the auxiliary services and helps with all the parties. The women have their meetings at the same time as the men's club and they hold various sales and events to buy furnishings for the clubhouse.

Morrison Green of San Rafael is a leader of the San Rafael club, which has many cruises in the summer months, often to the delta region and many of the members keep boats up river and cruise there in groups.

A SAILING club on Tomales Bay is the Inverness Yacht Club which has a long history and an active summer sailing season of small craft.

It carries on a busy youth program through the sunny months when the summer colony is at its height, and its cioppino feast has been a tradition. Port captain is Dudley Dixon.

JUST 20 YEARS AGO, this scene at left, a dredged out basin among the tules midway up the San Rafael Canal, marked the beginning of the unfolding of a dream. It was the birth of Bud Lowrie's Yacht Harbor, started with 20 berths. Now, 20 years later, the completed project is one of Northern California's finest private yacht harbors, with a berthing area for approximately 110 boats 20 to 50 feet, and with water and electricity available for each. Visitors today to the bustling but snug harbor with its many beautiful yachts would never recognize the scene at left. Such growth, however, is illustrative of the rapid development of boating in Marin.

Don't Run Your Motor When It Isn't In Water

Some outboard boatmen make it a practice to start their motors after they have been removed from the water.

The idea is to expel any water that may be left in the cooling system. Although the theory is sound, this practice should be avoided, say the engineers at Evinrude Motors. In most cases, the water will drain out by itself and the small amount that may be left will not hurt anything.

Running an outboard motor out of water for even a short time can cause overheating and will invite water pump damage. If you want to make sure all of the water is out before putting the motor away for an extended period, disconnect the spark plugs and give the starter rope a few easy pulls.

Hull Refinements Mark '67 Boats

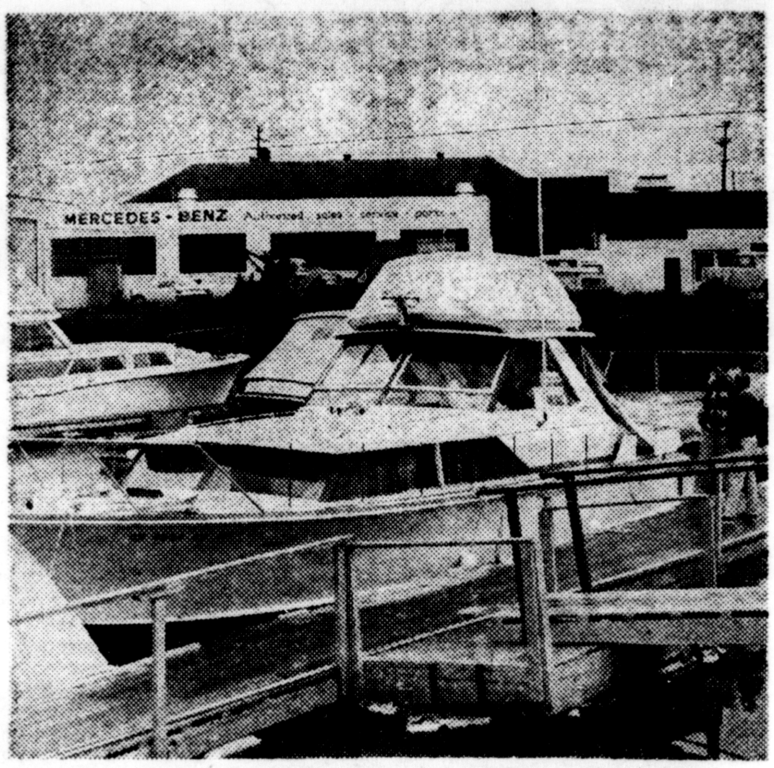
Motor boat builders are featuring hull refinements in their 1967 models, ranging from the smaller of outboard runabouts to racing inboards and ocean going cruisers.

There are several factors contributing to this emphasis on hull design. First there is the upsurge in power that is being provided in the modern gasoline and diesel marine engines. Twin power plants are commonplace in inboard craft today and larger outboard boats are designed to take motors of the highest horsepower or even a pair of them. Off-shore cruising, ocean racing and general speed increases are by-products.

Greater comfort also is stressed, with more versatile seating and steering arrangments being provided in the outboards and the expanding use of all electric galley equipment and pressurized water systems in the cruiser, which requires a generator to provide the necessary current.

The use of multiple engines or larger motors also involves, as a rule, installation of added fuel capacity. This along with the engines and other added equipment increases the weight load and distribution problems.

The combination of increased power and weight, together with a rise in speed, calls for rugged construction without sacrificing the performance capability of stylized lines of today's many types of recreational craft.



AT HIS Pearson Delta Yacht Sales on the San Rafael Canal, Howard Turner shows a prospective customer a trim craft for sale. Many Marinites do not realize just how many of the boats moored in their county fall in the medium to large-size category. But records show it is substantial.

Space Age Ignition Is Big News In Outboard Motors

The depth of selection in the various lines of 1967 outboard motors is the greatest in history.

But the newest innovation in the larger outboards is electronic or capacitive discharge ignition. This is hot stuff. Advantage of the new ignition system is that a roaring hot spark is fed to the spark plugs regardless of motor speed. Another of the new system's advantages is that it completely eliminates breaker points. Throwing away the points immediately increases reliability and eliminates critical adjustments.

Here's how the new space-age outboard ignition system works:

1. Ordinary 12 volt (starter battery) current is fed into a vibrator or chopper which converts the plain DC into alternating current.

2. A small transformer steps up the 12 volt "chopped current" to about 300 volts AC.

3. A solid state (transistor) rectifier converts the 300 volts AC to 300 volts DC and feeds it into a capacitor (condenser). The capacitor is kept charged at close to 300 volts at all times.

4. The capacitor feeds 300 volts DC to a silicon controlled rectifier (SCR). The controlled rectifier is an electrical valve or gate (like a vacuum tube thyratron). The controlled rectifier alternately allows current to flow through itself or blocks passage of the flow in accordance with "triggering" signals sent it by a low power trigger circuit. (The trigger circuit is like the grid circuit in a vacuum tube. Tiny current in the grid results in great current in the plate circuit.) The SCR can handle considerable amperage from the charged capacitor.

5. Timed pulses of current, at about 300 volts DC, flow from the capacitor through the SCR, then through a pulse transformer or spark coil.

6. The pulse transformer jacks up the surges of low voltage to spikes of terrific voltage, tens of thousands of volts. These hot spikes of searing voltage are then distributed to the plugs in the conventional manner.

7. Returning to the triggering: A sensor head and rotor replace conventional breaker points and cam. There is no mechanical switch at all. The sensor rotor is like a small generator sending weak pulses of current through the sensor head and to the "grid" of the SCR. The triggering pulses are, of course, mechanically timed and synchronized with the engine's speed of rotation.

Boating Is Big Business In Marin County

By HARRY CRAFT

According to the Department of Harbors and Waterways, there was not a single pleasure boat over 65 feet in length registered in Marin County last year.

As an isolated statistic this may be interesting but it has no real significance in the Marin boating picture. Such vessels are comparatively few and far between, and for the benefit of sightseers there always seems to be a fair share of visiting yachts of that class berthed or anchored here.

THE IMPORTANT thing is that over 21 per cent of Marin's registered 6,458 pleasurecraft are in the 22 to 64-foot class (70 of these were over 40 feet long in last year's tally). It means that one out of every five boats registered in the county is continually in the water — not parked in the yard and then hauled piggy-back or by trailer to river and pond, or parked at some remote vacation retreat.

Add to this number of approximately 1,300 vessels those that are registered elsewhere but berthed in Marin and you have some conception of the economic importance of the county's waterways and marine traffic.

The county assessor's office last year assessed 3,880 boats at a total $4,994,800. Apparently there is no record of the exact number of these in the water, but it must be substantial if the average assessed valuation figure is over $1,000 per boat. Many small boats registered in Marin and left outside the county are not assessed.

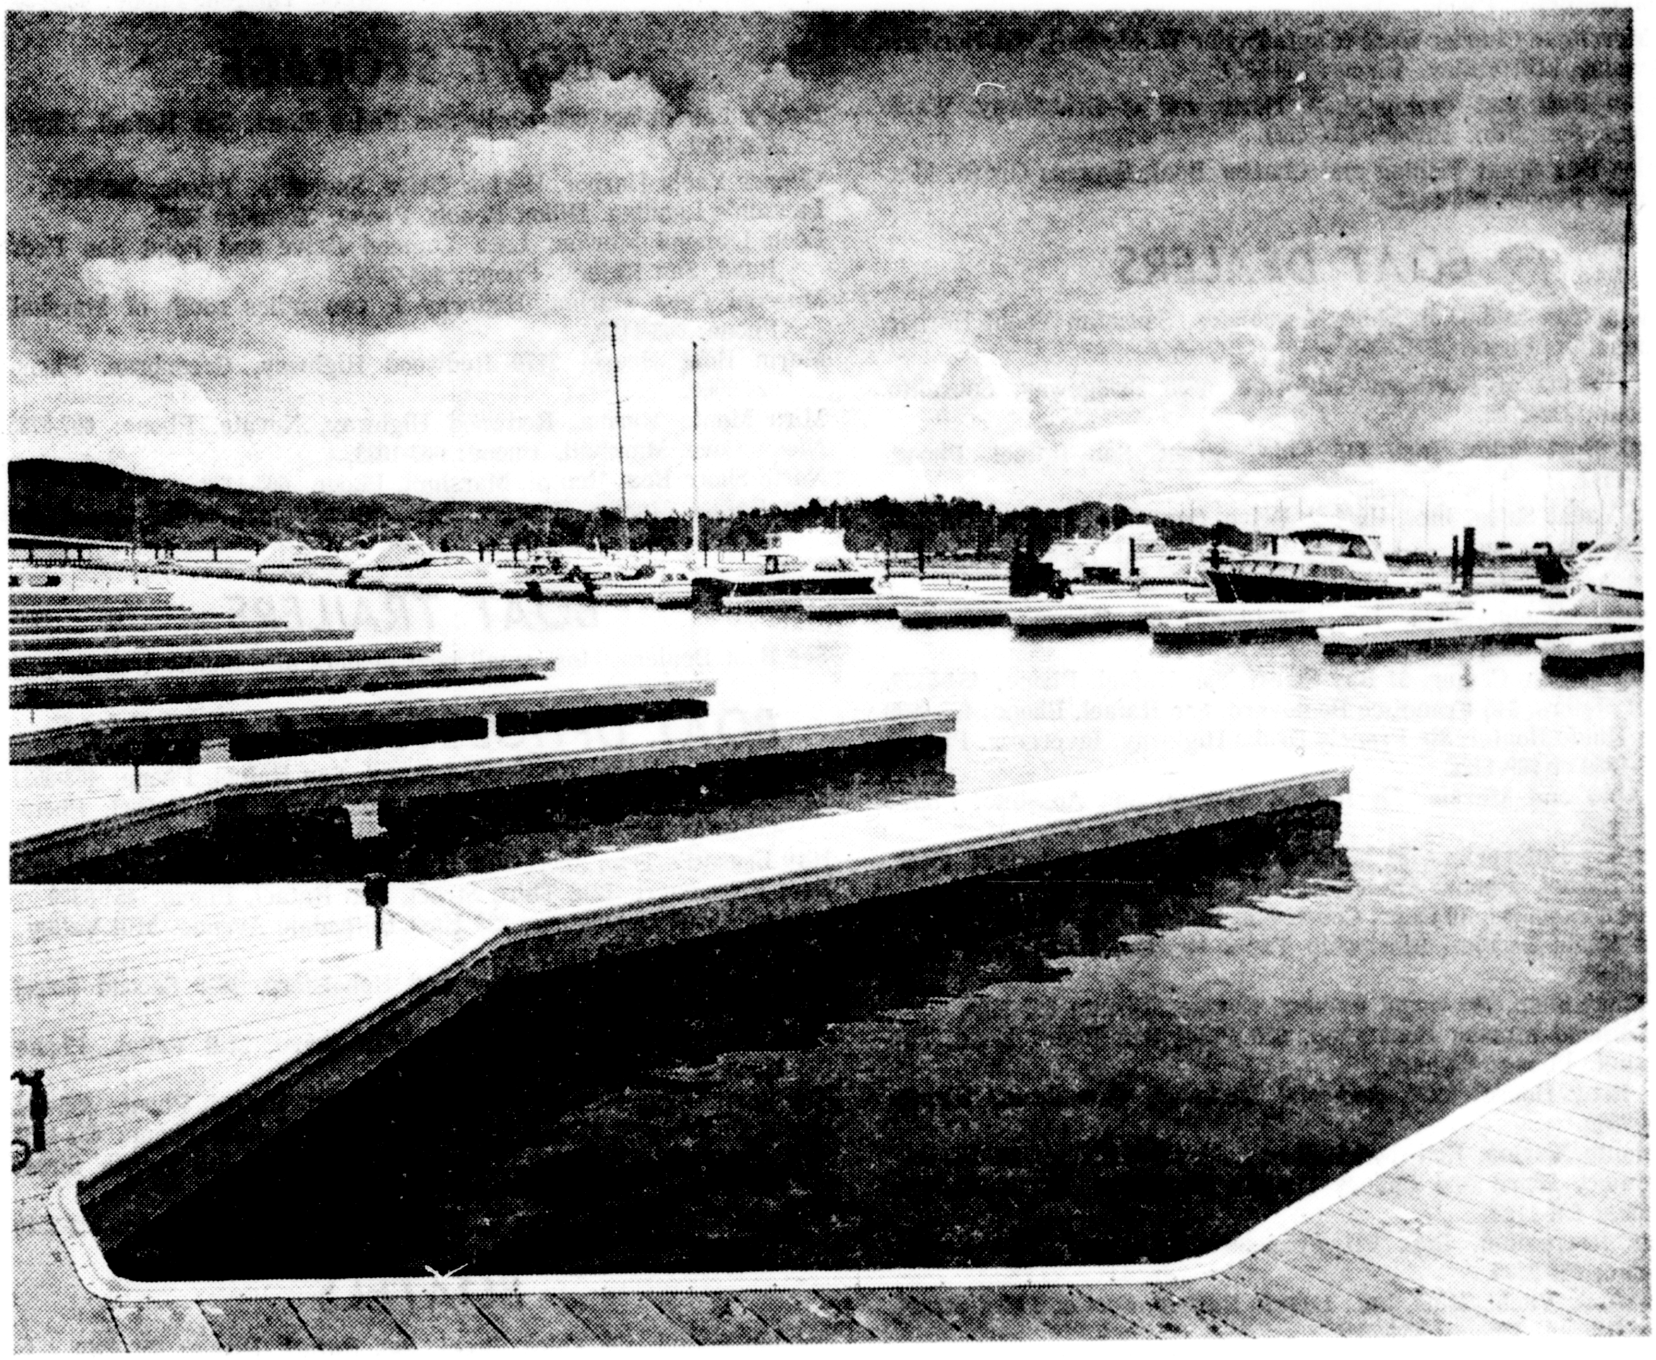
A SIDELIGHT on this tax revenue is that it is virtually "free and clear" as far as the county is concerned. It could be doubled or trebled without imposing any extra responsibilities or expense for new schools or other facilities which are required when any considerable numbers of new homeowners are added to the assessment rolls.

Understandably the percentage of large and medium-large craft in Marin is quite a bit higher than the statewide average which includes figures for landlocked counties with only river and lake boating. Local boat dealers seem convinced that this segment of the market is expanding here even more. Most sales, says Ray Gallagher of San Rafael Marine Repair for one, are now in the 26-foot class and already 1967 appears to be marked for a period of increased activity.

About 11 per cent of all Marin families own a boat of some kind. And boats, like automobiles, require upkeep. If the boats are berthed locally where the owners can take out their friends inevitably many of them seem to prove inadequate. There is always a considerable amount of "trading up" to something better.

ALL THIS activity requires boat dealers, boat repairers, launching sites, storage, harbors, drydocks and ways, equipment suppliers, marine service stations and related products and services. Taxable retail sales alone in these areas total between three and five million dollars per year.

The number of businesses involved is substantial and the list goes through many changes over a 12-month period. Our directory of boat services has been updated again this year and is easily removable from these pages. We hope you will find it to be a valuable reference guide.



WITH THE RECENT opening of its new Basin Four, Clipper Yacht Harbor, Sausalito, can now accommodate some 800 boats, making it the largest privately owned yacht harbor in Northern California. Among the features which make Basin Four uniquely modern are sufficient electrical capacity to handle every accessory the boat owner might wish to operate; individual electric meters at each berth, and custom designed fiberglass lockers on each dock. A Committee Sparks A Boating Surge

If over recent years Marin County has experienced a more pronounced "awakening" to its potential as an ideal area for boating, some credit must be given to one organization which has labored quietly in the background, with little publicity for its efforts.

This is the Boats and Harbor Committee, sponsored by the Marin Visitors Bureau.

ORIGINALLY SET up a number of years ago under the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the committee included some members of the old Marin Industrial Development Foundation. But after the Marin Visitors Bureau was detached from the chamber five years ago, the Boats and Harbor Committee seemed to find its best opportunity for expansion with this organization.

Among its members are yachtsmen, yacht harbor owners and developers, yacht clubs, those in the boating industry — and other individuals and groups having a vested or civic interest in this phase of the county's development.

Its declared purpose is to promote boating in Marin as a year-round attraction, to the end that the county eventually will be recognized as the primary boating and recreation center of the Bay Area.

IN THE PAST, according to committee chairman Bernard F. Seligman, the group has worked on such projects as the dredging of the San Rafael Canal, getting Angel Island for a state park, assisting on the Bolinas Harbor District and the Richardson Bay Assessment District.

And currently the committee functions as a sort of grassroots organization representing Marin on the California Marine Parks and Harbors Association in making local studies and recommendations leading to the acquisition of government funds for developing the county's marine facilities.

"If there is money available for such projects we want to do everything we can to get it," Seligman said.

SELIGMAN IS a director of the California association, as are also three other members of the Marin Boats and Harbors Committee — Admiral Clyde King, H. Morgan Noble and Leonard James.

Future plans of the committee include focusing more attention of boatsmen on Marin through promotion campaigns and publicity, reviewing legislation at all levels which affect boating and its supporting industries, promoting yachting and water events in Marin, assisting governmental bodies in planning for the most equitable use of Marin's shoreline, supporting the development of parks and recreational areas — and coordinating and communicating information on boating and water safety to the public.

"Also we hope to prepare literature on the county's facilities which will be helpful to visiting boatsmen," Seligman declared. "It has taken us several years of selectivity — but now I believe our membership is being nicely rounded out to include those who have the most to gain from developing Marin's tremendous boating potential."

Some Tips For Skippers From The Boating Experts

When moving in toward a pier, approach into the wind or current. That way you keep the most control over your boat and the wind or current won't be pushing you into the dock.

Always carry an extra coil of rope in good condition, advises the Johnson Motors News Bureau. This should be in addition to anchor line and regular dock lines. Besides its possible use in an emergency it can be used as a lifeline for swimmers.

If you own a small motor and remove it from the boat after each outing, Evinrude engineers suggest you hold it upright on the dock for a few moments so water will drain from the lower unit and not enter the cylinder and crankcase through the exhaust ports.

Stand to one side when winching a boat onto a trailer. If the taut cable should snap or the hook straighten while you are standing in front of the trailer you may be hit by the lashing cable.

Burgee Or Pennant? An Old Argument Among Boaters

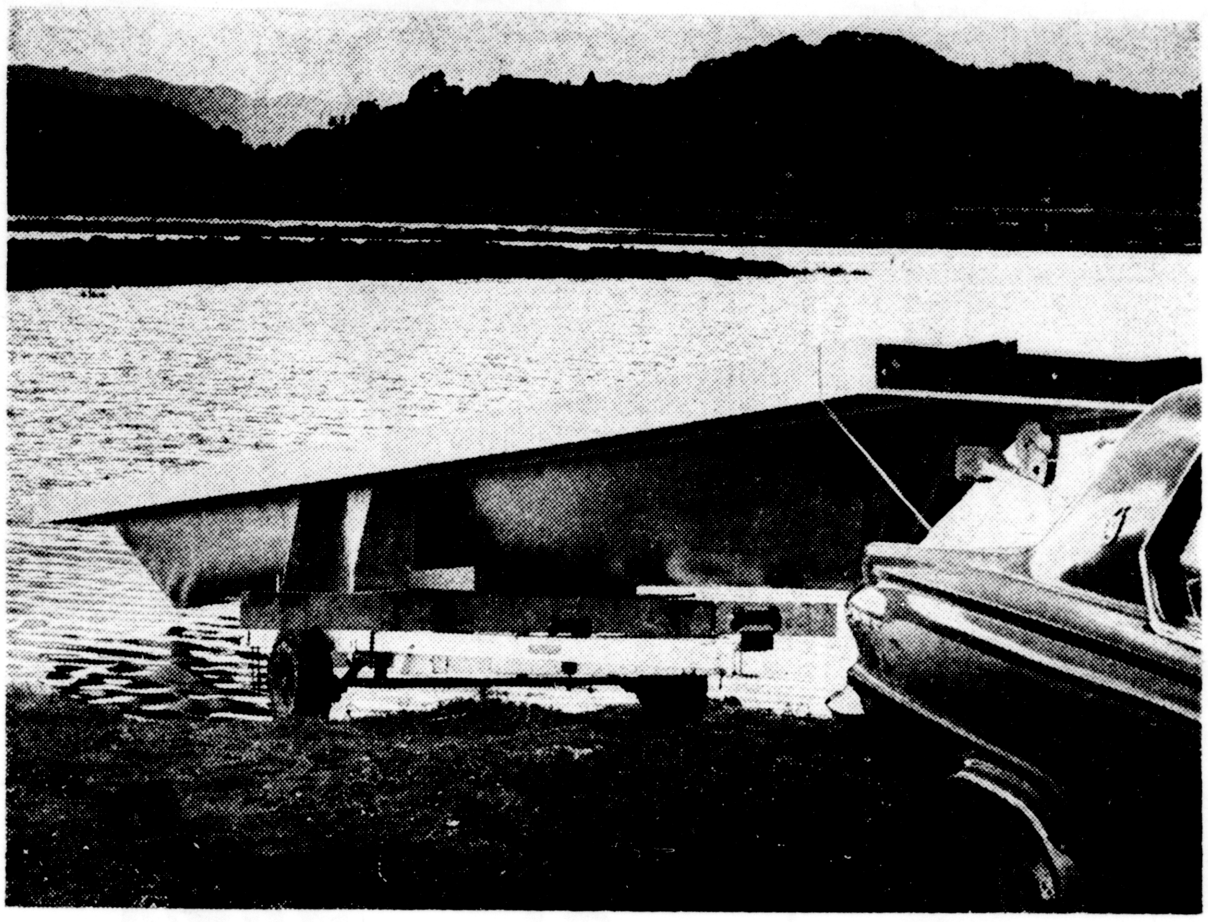
Over more years and cups of coffee than one cares to imagine, yachtsmen have discussed the difference (if there was one) between a pennant and a burgee.

The following is about as close as you can probably get.

A pennant is a flag, smaller at the fly than at the hoist which is (1) commonly pointed, triangular, (2) often truncated, as in some Navy signals, (3) sometimes swallow-tailed, (4) occasionally a long thin streamer.

A burgee is usually a swallow-tailed flag which is (1) often rectangular, (2) possibly pennant-shaped, and (3) by popular usage, the identifying signal of a yacht club, regardless of shape.

(The burgee, incidentally, seems to stem from medieval times, around the era of city-states. It is said that a chunk of the flag was cut out to signify the ranking noble was not in residence, but the fort was held by his retainers.)



THE ROLIN-TEE boat dock is launched easily with ordinary boat trailer, one of its unique features. Other features are amazing stability even in rough water, a rugged trouble-free design with one-piece steel hulls in lengths up to 60 feet. They are manufactured in San Rafael by the Rolin-Tee Co. of 110 Belvedere Street.

There's An Overlooked Member Of A Water Ski Team

While it may not be necessary for the driver of the family ski boat to be as adept as a show driver, authorities say there are some basic rules the weekend tow boat driver should observe.

FIRST OF all, it is the driver's duty to see that the equipment is in perfect condition. This includes the boat and motor and also the tow lines. The motor should perform smoothly and responsively. The tow line should be free of entanglements and worn spots.

Drivers, as well as skiers, should know and use the accepted hand signals.

A practice that increases the safety factor is to always have another person in the boat to act as an observer. A driver can't watch the skier and look ahead at the same time.

THE FIRST step in pulling a skier from a deep water start is to accelerate slowly until all slack in the tow line is taken up. Then, when the skier calls "hit it," the driver should accelerate steadily, but not too fast, until the skier is up on plane.

To return the tow line to a fallen skier, slowly drive around him in a semi-circle until he is able to grab the handle.

A responsible tow boat driver always shuts off the motor when picking up a fallen skier, instead of merely shifting the motor to neutral.

OFTEN OVERLOOKED in the sport of water skiing is the importance of the driver of the boat.

The Music Of San Domenico

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Music should be an integral part of, not just peripheral to, education.

It is advantageous for school and students to have a faculty of performing professional musicians.

Music appreciation should be an active, not passive, process.

THIS KIND OF philosophy has gained the music department of the new San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow a reputation as being especially noteworthy in an institution well known for quality education and for its cultural contributions.

The results of San Domenico's fresh approach to music will be demonstrated for the public next Saturday when the Schola Cantorum, the handbell choirs, the San Domenico Singers and the chamber ensemble of the upper school (grades nine through 12) join for a San Domenico Music and Art Festival program on the school grounds.

Faith Yost France, pianist and wife of San Rafael High School's music department chairman, Hugo Rinaldi, is the head of the San Domenico department.

SHE EXPLAINS her school's approach to the teaching of music to its girls:

"For over a hundred years the Dominican Sisters have believed that music study and music performance as a discipline give each student an added resource for improved learning skills in all fields," she says. "Contemporary educators are beginning to recognize and forward this belief.

"The school is continuing in the Dominican tradition of music established by Mother Mary Goemare when she founded the school in Monterey in 1850. Basic theory and history of music are taught in both upper and lower schools, with 65 lower school and 85 upper school students being given individual instruction.

"THE MUSIC department is also open for more than 100 students from other Marin schools."

"Beginning in grade one and continuing through high school," she continues, "we try to live and breathe a humanities approach to the arts. We relate the arts in every way possible in performance and in lecture.

"Members of the music faculty more and more often visit academic classes and give musical lectures on subjects related to the subject studied. For example, the senior American literature class recently had a two-hour session on American music followed by a forum-type discussion involving students, music teacher and the American literature teacher."

THE MUSIC department head goes on to explain how it is impossible for music appreciation at San Domenico to be a matter of sitting half-hypnotized or drowsy listening to dull lectures or even to live or recorded music while their thoughts go wool-gathering.

"In our music appreciation classes, students really learn about the music according to the sound principle of learning by doing, and they are kept too busy to get into mischief," Miss France says.

"In grades six, seven and eight we have special courses in directed listening in which students listen and participate in analyzing a Bach fugue, study and act out parts of an opera—this year it was 'Rigoletto' — and study a painting of Monet and listen to 'Play of the Wave' by Debussy.

"ALL GRADES, one through eight, listen to the individual instruments of the orchestra demonstrated by performing members of the faculty, and each child in grades four and five studies the recorder and learns about the music of early Elizabethan instruments."

"Music appreciation for the high school," she notes, "is based on an extensive cultural series of live performances by guest artists who analyze and discuss the material they perform.

"This year's series included maestro Nino-Comel and an opera trio; pianist Istvan Nadas' program on Mozart; violinist Austin Reller giving a detailed analysis of a Bartok concerto; harpist Joel Andrews lecturing on and playing the harp, and the Polyphonic Chorale and the Goliard Players of San Francisco.

"OUR MOST recent additions in this area is the quartet-in-residence composed of violinist Frances Wiener Shorr, violist Lucien Mitchell, cellist Jean Mitchell and myself as pianist.

"The quartet has given concerts and accompanied the choral concerts of the San Domenico Singers. Informal symphony previews are frequently given, the most recent being Jean Mitchells presentation of 'Don Quixote' by Richard Strauss, and many of our students attended the performance of this work given by the Marin Symphony in February."

"San Domenico music department believes that it is advantageous to have a professional performing faculty — one that is outstanding both in teaching and performance," Miss France explains. "Students are stimulated and enriched by observing their own teachers in practice, concert situations and performances."

FAITH FRANCE herself is a performing artist. Holder of bachelor's and master's degrees of music from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Kansas City, Mo., under Wiktor Labunski, she has studied at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and with such famed pianists as Egon Petri, Mme. Olga Samaroff-Stokowski and in master classes of Rudolf Firkusny and Mrs. Risain Lhevinne.

PRACTICING FOR THE Music and Art Festival to be held next Saturday at San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow are four student pianists. At farther piano are Catherine Oberto of San Rafael, left, and Sarah Leonard of Kenya, East Africa. At piano in the foreground are Joan Franzini of Santa Venetia, left, and Alice Williams of San Rafael. Listening as practice supervisor is Sister M. Francis Xavier, O.P.

She was a professional accompanist for the Westminster Choir College and performed as a soloist with Kansas City orchestras and most recently with the San Rafael Chamber Orchestra.

She was a teacher of piano, theory and history of music at Dominican Upper School for 12 years.

A VERY distinguished professional artist with San Domenico connections is Maestro Vincenzo Giannini, chorusmaster of the San Francisco Opera and of the San Francisco Polyphonic Chorus.

"Two years ago we approached Maestro Giannini about directing a choral group at San Domenico," Miss France remarked. "At first he refused, but we finally convinced him of the importance of bringing top musicians into the field of education. He brings in addition to his musical artistry a unique and brilliant background which inspires and occasionally dazzles the girls.

"He has two doctorate degrees from Naples Conservatory of Music in Italy, one in choral conducting and one on composition, and he has been chorusmaster in Paris, Berlin, Rome and London.

"THE GIRLS often attend his concerts in San Francisco and take a great interest in the performances of his concert chorale, polyphonic chorale and opera chorus."

"Lillian Loran, our voice and madrigal coach," Miss France adds, "has performed with the San Carlo Opera Company in Naples, Italy, and the Zurich Opera, Switzerland."

A number of San Domenico's other teachers have been and/or are now professional performing artists.

A STUDENT OF piano with Ethel Leginska and recently with Istvan Nadas, as well as of composition with Arnold Schoenberg, Ronald McFarland of Tiburon made his debut with the KFI Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra and has presented numerous recitals and chamber music concerts.

James Groves, who teaches handbell ringing, has presented concerts in Europe under the auspices of the United States State Department and has often appeared on the West Coast and in the Midwest.

Woodwinds teacher Frank Barbara was clarinetist 20 years with the San Francisco Symphony and has performed with the New York City Ballet orchestra and San Francisco Ballet orchestra and opera and on radio.

MEMBERS OF the Oakland Symphony are violinist Patricia Isham and principal flutist Gary Gray, formerly principal flutist with the U.S. Naval Academy band who has performed with the Baltimore Symphony and San Francisco Ballet and Symphony orchestras.

Mill Valley cellist Jean Mitchell is a member of the San Francisco and Marin Symphony orchestras and of the Marin Arts Quartet and da Vinci Quartet and has played with the San Francisco Ballet orchestra.

A unique position is that of Sister Francis Xavier, O.P. Like a watchful parent, she is the practice supervisor who makes sure the girls do the work without which lessons are useless. She is a former pianist, organist

"Can't Bonded Fabrics Be Made To Stay Together?"

We hope they can. Standards of manufacture have been set up which, if everyone cooperates, could eliminate this problem. Fabrics which are bonded together first appeared in 1963. More than 400 million yards of such fabrics reached the market last year and it is still growing.

Unfortunately, in such a large volume market some manufacturers endeavor to turn out greater quantities, cheaper, and do so. In many cases they do not use the proper adhesive nor cure it properly. In some instances the adhesive is dissolved by drycleaning solvent, causing the two fabrics to separate.

Bonded fabrics are immensely popular with the manufacturer because the built-in lining makes for economy of cutting and sewing of ready-made garments; alterations are quicker, easier and less costly; and a bonded garment is more comfortable because it is soft and the lining is shaped and fitted.

Bonded fabrics can be made to stay together if the proper fabrics are used and the right adhesive is applied at the right curing temperature—all a problem of manufacture.

At San Domenico Music Appreciation Is Never Passive

and choral conductor and former chairman of the Dominican College Department of Music.

SHE IS ALSO the founder and director of the Schola Cantorum at San Domenico.

Miss France tells something of the school's various performing musical groups, which will be heard in the festival next Saturday.

"The Schola Cantorum, the oldest musical organization on the campus, sing the Proper of the mass each Sunday in San Domenico," she says. "It was founded almost 40 years ago and is composed of 30 girls.

"THE SAN DOMENICO Singers, a chorus of 30 girls, was organized in 1965 and gave their first performances in San Francisco and Sacramento in February, 1966. Since then they have appeared in many campus events and public concerts as well as on radio, and they have made a recording."

"Membership in the chorus is by highly competitive tryouts open to all upper school students," Miss France says. "Singing with the girls frequently are two professional singers, soprano Gloria Enander (Mrs. Giannini) and contralto Ann Graber, a graduate of Dominican Upper School."

"As far as I know," Miss France continues, "San Domenico is the only school in the Bay Area to offer classes in handbell ringing. Handbell ringing as a means of music education in a school curriculum was recently rated as a superior innovation in a report by the United States Department of Education.

"WE HAVE three groups of bell ringers, one class of seventh and eighth grade girls and two of freshmen and sophomores who perform on a set of 40 English bells which were cast in the famous Whitechapel Foundry in London, makers of Big Ben and our own Liberty Bell.

"The groups were formed last September under a James Groves, a recognized authority on handbells whose former choirs made a four-state tour in 1966 and appeared at New York's World Fair and at the national cathedral in Washington, D.C. in 1965.

"Our chamber ensemble consisting of 12 instrumentalists directed by Mrs. Isham performs mostly for school events."

THE TWO members of the professional quartet in residence who do not teach at San Domenico, violinist Frances Wiener Shorr and violinist Lucien Mitchell, also have distinguished performing backgrounds. Both are graduates of the Curtis Institute.

Mrs. Shorr was for 15 years a soloist on the National Broadcasting Co. network's "Masters of Melody" program. She is a member with her husband, pianist Lev Shorr, of a noted sonata team and has performed with many major orchestras in the country.

Mitchell was for 25 years principal violinist of the San Francisco Opera orchestra and is currently a member of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, principal violinist with the Marin Symphony and a member of various chamber groups.

"FIRST ADVENTURE in Music" at San Domenico is this little rhythm band composed of first through third graders from San Anselmo families, who are taught according to the Kodaly-Richards method by Sister M. Amata, O.P. Directing the band is Cynthia Podesta.

AS FAR AS IS known, San Domenico is the only school in the Bay Area to offer classes in handbell ringing. The set of 40 English handbells used was made in the same London foundry which cast the Liberty Bell. James Groves directs a group of eighth grade girls.

SAN DOMENICO SINGERS, who have performed in public concerts in the Bay Area, are directed by one of Northern California's most distinguished musicians, Vincenzo Giannini of Tiburon, the director of the San Francisco Opera chorus. During a recent practice session for the school's Music and Art Festival to be held next Saturday Giannini was surprised with a birthday cake presented by Bernadette Schafer on behalf of the chorus.

exciting concepts from Orinda pools

One reason more people are buying ORINDA pools this year is because ORINDA pools cost less to buy. Your ORINDA custom pool representative, in fact, can show you on paper that, not only is the base price lower in most cases, but when you add the options you want, the price advantage of an ORINDA pool becomes even greater.

And because it is an ORINDA pool, you get all the advantages of an ORINDA pool. The uncommon luxury of design and engineering by Orinda, and styling leadership that has made ORINDA Pools the best selling in northern California.

All of which is still just the beginning. *A giant Laars boiler is included with the 1967 Orinda Custom Royal Series providing low cost heating year long. You also have the traditionally conservative value of an ORINDA pool to enjoy. On top of all the other advantages.

Low monthly payments on ten year plan from northern California's oldest major pool builder.

Look to the ORINDA organization's mark of excellence.

A Grand Old Man Of Baseball

Reviews Of New Reading

CASEY by Joseph Durso, Prentice-Hall, 203 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

Casey is none other than Charles Dillon Stengel, the "perfessor" the genius of the New York Yankees, the beloved grand master of the inept Mets and one of baseball's immortal clowns.

This wistful biography attempts to keep an eye on both Stengel the man and Stengel the legend, but inevitably, the legend keeps bursting through.

This is a must for the loyal baseball fan, for the people who wish for the return of the greats of yesteryear. They are all here, Gehrig, Ruth, Chance and Evers, and some of the lesser known but equally colorful men who helped baseball turn the corner from a rough-and-tumble sport to the million-dollar business that it is today.

There is a note of nostalgia throughout the book, for, while it is the story of Casey from the lusty pre-World War minor leagues to the Mets, it is also the story of baseball itself.

Stengel was by no means just another ballplayer like his successor for the Yankees, Ralph Houk. He had his moments of memorable glory and some that were just downright flamboyant. It is when the book concentrates on his playing and early managing days with the aptly nicknamed Bums that the book flows smoothly, like a slightly tainted 1920 newsreel.

It is almost worth the whole price for the reprint of Damon Runyon's famed coverage of the day Stengel, in the twilight of his playing days, slammed an inside-the-park home run for the New York Giants against the Yankees in the 1923 World Series. That's the report that starts . . . "This is how Casey ran."

As a sports writer, I can find little fault in the affectionately told story of the always fascinating Stengel. It is like Stengel himself — you can hate him or love him or laugh at him but he will not bore you.

A New Twist To The American-In-Paris-In-1920s Novel

THE PASTE-POT MAN by Edwin Lanham, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 465 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

An American in Paris in the 1920s has long been a source of material for novelists, but Lanham has tapped a new vein, a psychological study of one of the Lost Generation.

Both the strength and the weakness of the story lie in this approach which probes deeper into the psyche of those who sought to "find themselves" along the Left Bank.

There is drama in unravelling the mystery of what makes a man tick, but there also is tedious boredom in lengthy passages covering his sessions with a Freudian psychiatrist.

The man under study in this case is Alan Shell, a young Texan, long under the wing of a maiden aunt, who virtually escapes from custody to take up art in Paris.

The reader may often wonder why Shell acts as he does, but Lanham fails to generate sympathy for him, and there are times when a reader just doesn't care what happens to him.

There are several flashbacks to Shell's early life in Texas that move the story along nicely, but then again it bogs down in psychiatric passages.

There are times when a reader may wonder if there wasn't a better story in the life of Frank Neal, Shell's Texas boyhood friend who serves as the narrator.

A publicity release, accompanying the book, claimed that it was a "gradual unfolding" of Shell's dissociated personality. To this reader, the unfolding was much too gradual.

Edmund Wilson's Discovery Scores Again With Novellas

THE DAY IS DARK and THREE TRAVELERS by Marie-Giroux, 783 pages, $4.95. Re-Girous, 183 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

These two novellas, translated by Derek Coltman, were published before "A Season in the Life of Emmanuel" which won the 1966 Prix Medicis for this young Canadian author.

Both selections are experimental in form, but the first, "The Day is Dark," is so successful that you will soon forget that the form is unconventional and enjoy it without limit.

If you are old enough to have been reared without television, you may remember how much more we enjoyed Jack Benny, Fred Allen, and Burns & Allen on the radio then we did when they transferred to TV. In listening to the radio we were allowed to supply our own physical descriptions and scene settings — this is what Blais does in both of these love stories.

But in the first one we have full lyrical sound effects to keep us in the intended frame of reference. In the second selection the structure is not so obvious, consequently the reading is not as effortless. However, it's still enjoyable.

Edmund Wilson seems to have discovered this writer. If this is true, it only supplies further testimony to his greatness as a critic.

The Bounty From Our Orchards

SO GOOD WITH FRUIT by Better Homes and Gardens editors, Meredith, 160 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

In this state so blessed with orchards and their fruits, far too many cooks fail to take advantage of that bounty. Fruit is something to be eaten out of hand. And there is no quarreling with that. But it can also serve as the focal point for recipes of supreme taste and eye appeal offering marvelous health benefits.

This newest Better Homes and Gardens cookbook points up what those who have failed to realize the full potential of fruit in the kitchen have been missing.

It offers fruit-accented recipes for every course — from appetizers through desserts.

The entrees, for instance, include such zesty suggestions as cranberry meat loaves, roast pork tangerine, apricot stuffed chops, raisin ham logs, bananas in ham blankets, ginger peachy casserole, chicken and cherries, turkey Hawaiian, plum glazed chicken and tuna-lemon loaf.

The beverages, the relishes, the salads, the breads, the dressings, etc., are as refreshing in their promise as their wonderful ingredients would indicate.

Like all Better Homes & Gardens, this one is beautifully illustrated in color. And fruit lends itself particularly well to a pictorial presentation. The photos alone are worth the price of the book, and guarantee that once you make the purchase, you will be unable to resist putting its contents to use.

Eyewitness Accounts Of How Pirates Plagued The Spanish

THE BUCCANEERS OF AMERICA by John Esquemeling, Dover Publications, 500 pages, paperback, $2.75. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Of all the British pirates who scourged the Spanish possessions in the New World in the 17th century, the most daring and successful was Henry Morgan. And when, after his depredations were over, he was placed on trial in England, he not only won his freedom, but was knighted to boot.

Serving with him as a surgeon was a Frenchman, John Esquemeling. And after his return to Europe, he wrote an account of Morgan's adventures, together with those of such other pirates as Francis Lolonois and Bartholomew Portuges, which was translated into English under the title, "The Buccaneers of America."

To this was subsequently added the account by the Englishman Basil Ringrose of his adventures with another buccaneer leader, Bartholomew Sharp, who crossed the Isthmus of Panama and sailed around South America in an epic voyage of depredation.

Cap'n Flint and Long John Silver of Stevenson's "Treasure Island" were but copies of the characters who throng the pages of "Buccaneers of America." These are eyewitness stories of a lawless age, when Britain and France supported or winked at piracy against Spain in the lands given the Catholic kingdom by a Papal bull.

The quaint and flowery English of the late 17th century adds to rather than detracts from these accounts.

The Game Analyzed

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE CHESS PLAYER by Reuben Fine, Dover, 74 pages, paperback, $1. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

A psychoanalyst and chess player, Dr. Fine analyzes the game itself and the characteristics of its champions. The original volume was published in 1956.

This is an entertaining book in spite of a pedestrian opening. But it's hard to tell whether the author intended it to be as humorous as it actually is.

Muckraking Reporter Takes On U.S. Medical 'Establishment'

By DON KEOWN

THE PLOT AGAINST THE PATIENT by Fred J. Cook, Prentice-Hall, 372 pages, $5.95.

THE NEW LONDON SPY edited by Hunter Davies, David White Co., 295 pages, $6.

Fred J. Cook is an investigative, crusading reporter of the old muckraking school.

He delights in deflating the powerful, the pompous and the arrogant.

He has tweaked the noses of the likes of J. Edgar Hoover and his agents, has traded shots with the Pentagon and its industrial complex allies, and has exposed big-time gambling. Now he takes on another formidable foe with his "The Plot Against the Patient." His adversary is the health care establishment of this country in general and the American Medical Association in particular.

Cook's thesis is that affluent America should be providing its citizenry with the finest health care in the world. But he cites statistics and case histories which he says show instead a shocking inadequacy in our medical system.

Hospitals, he contends, are too many and too small, poorly distributed, engaged in wasteful duplication, often antiquated and understaffed, and frequently resort to "soaking" the well-to-do to cover charitable or less profitable services to the poor, so that major illnesses have catastrophic economic consequences.

Commercial blood banks and laboratories, too, are flayed for slipshod, sometimes fraudulent work that jeopardizes patients' lives.

Health insurance plans are scored for their inadequacies.

But Cook aims his angriest blows at the AMA and the men who dominate its hierarchy — "One of the most autocratic, domineering and anti-democratic organizations in American life," he says.

He scorches the association as responsible for creating a critical shortage of doctors, and for opposing measures such as Blue Cross, Social Security and Medicare. Doctors, he says, have sometimes been more jealous of their freewheeling right to set and collect their fees directly from their patients than they have been interested in their obligation to minister to the sick and injured.

He accuses doctors of milking health funds through unnecessary surgery and hospital admissions. He enumerates a long list of deaths by "therapeutic misadventure" in a chapter entitled "We Bury Our Mistakes." He says older physicians are often stubbornly opposed to younger specialists, particularly those serving on salary on the staffs of clinics.

He suggests that the solution to America's health problems lies ultimately in the development of true medical centers in place of the disorganized, piecemeal network of small hospitals that has mushroomed unplanned, in the abandonment by the doctor of his "lone eagle" obsession and his recognition of the need for cooperative action by his profession, and in the development of a national insurance system under Social Security to guarantee care and to provide for its financing.

The medical profession will not be long in replying to Cook's charges, and some heated dialogue can be expected. Which is all to the good. The American people should benefit from any such airing.

Cook's book is not above criticism. Much of his material comes from New York City and Southern California, hardly typical America. There are insertions that indicate Cook began his research with a personal axe to grind against the medical profession. No doubt he sought out and splashed upon the book's pages that which has shown organized mediicne in its worst light. But the fact that those instances and statistics were there for him to find and use is still a sobering, disturbing thought.

It is altogether likely that this book will provoke the same kind of anger from doctors that Norman Dacey's best-selling "How to Avoid Probate" drew from attorneys and Jessica Mitford's book aroused from morticians. One thing is certain, however. Doctors, or at least surgeons, need not fear the do-it-yourself threat that Dacey hung over the lawyers.

IT WAS IN 1703 that the original Ned Ward "The London Spy" was published.

Ward was an inquisitive tavern-keeper and man-about-town who observed and recorded the London scene of his time with emphasis on the offbeat.

"The New London Spy" put together by London columnist-novelist Hunter Davies represents an effort to produce a contemporary version of the Ward book, and it is subtitled "Discreet Guide to the City's Pleasures." There are a number of contributors.

Much of the book deals with "pleasures" and subjects of little or no interest to the typical London visitor — homosexual and lesbian haunts and practices, prostitutes, the underworld, the rougher seamen's pubs, etc. An inordinate amount of space is devoted to gambling. Chapters such as those on junk stalls, London society and the various ethnic sections of the city will appeal to only limited groups. The same is even more true of the advice for the destitute.

But there is a great deal of more general and useful information including some particularly good discussions of parks, pubs, restaurants, art galleries and shops. Nightclubs are evaluated. Best of all are the suggested "innocent pleasures" available at no or nominal cost.

The book is notably weak in its coverage of hotel accommodations and in transportation information.

This is hardly the best available guidebook for the average London-bound traveler, and it is steeply priced, but it does have its strongpoints, particularly for so-called "swingers." And among its contents are listings of other recommended guides, both specialized and general.

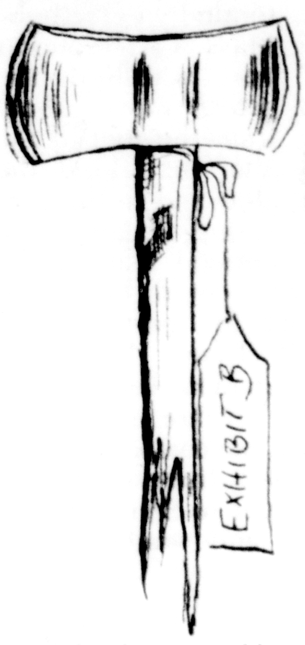
MIDSUMMER LOKKI by Eva-Lis Wuorio, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 192 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The greatest strength of Canadian Eva-Lis Wuorio in her novels of international intrigue lies in her effective use of European geography and customs.

"Midsummer Lokki" is set principally in Finland, the land where the author was born. Her empathy for that country and its people is apparent, and adds immensely to the reader's enjoyment of the book.

On the debit side is an overly complicated plot, so involved that the reader never really has time to become concerned or even to get really acquainted with some of the leading characters.



Canadian newspaperman Luke Ramsey finds himself drafted by forces seeking to foil an internation plot that threatens the peace of the world. Despite the too-busy storyline, it is an entertaining yarn well worth the reading.

ABINGDON PRESS has announced a 1968 award of $5,000 for the religious book that "most effectively communicates the Christian faith in fresh and forceful terms." Manuscripts accompanied by official entry forms are to be submitted between Jan. 1 and March 1 of 1968.

Have you ever attended a Catholic Mass service and as you watched the priest move about from the foot of the altar to behind the altar and to the presiding chair, you noticed that all the time you could hear him speaking the prayers very clearly? Even though at times he had his back to you!

Or, if you are not church oriented, have you ever been to a theatre dinner club, like the Nugget in Sparks-Reno, Nevada and watched the singing female attraction ride out onto the stage on the back of an elephant, then slide down its trunk and move out to stage center and noticed that during all this time her voice rang out clearly, yet not a wire could be seen trailing behind her? Or have you watched Arthur Godfrey move about between the dinner tables, talking to the guests, singing their favorite tunes and noticed that his voice filled the room.

These people are wearing wireless microphone. A good wireless microphone system is quite expensive costing over $500.00. They consist of two items—one item is a microphone with a built-in miniature FM transmitter (radio station). The user wears this around his neck, the neck cord sometimes acting as the antenna. The second item is an FM radio receiver tuned to the frequency of the microphone transmitter. This receiver is generally located off to some side area where it picks up the radio signals from the transmitter. The output of the receiver is connected by wire to the sound system.

The person speaking or singing has complete freedom of movement, yet his voice is being radioed back to the sound system where it is amplified and sent out through the loudspeakers.

We have installed several of these in Marin County and throughout the Bay Area. It's a fascinating use of electronics.

There are many uses for the wireless microphone systems. They are used successfully for broadcasting sports events right from the field of action. They are often used at conventions to transmit from the many areas of the floor to a central point. They are used to radio back the voices of audience-participants during lecturing, so that they can be heard over the sound system. And, of course, they make good eavesdropping devices.

MONK IN FRANCE—Thelonious Monk—Riverside 491:

Many LPs now coming out are re-issues, and many of these are welcome by collectors because, like this one, they are usually worthwhile recordings. Unfortunately some labels are not indicating on the re-release that it is a re-release, and this leads to much confusion.

This one is selected from an earlier Riverside two-LP package of European Concerts by Monk titled "Two Hours With Thelonious." That LP was taped in Milan and Paris, and obviously the Paris tracks are presented on the new LP. They are six in number and include such typical Monk originals as "Well You Needn't" and "Off Minor."

Charlie Rouse joins Monk in the Quartet.

PORTRAIT OF WES — The Wes Montgomery Trio—Riverside 492:

Working with organ and drums, electric guitarist Montgomery has a unique style and great skill that made him so important in the old Mastersounds combo. There are those who think him one of the finest guitarists in jazz today. Six longish tracks give plenty of time for relaxing development by this well-knit group.

Country Club living in a Peacock Hill
townhouse

WE OFFER townhouse living to people who have had their fill of taking care of a house and garden, and who want freedom to enjoy activity of more absorbing interest.

THIS EXCLUSIVE development of high quality dwellings lies in the heart of lovely Peacock Gap and captures a delightful view of Mt. Tamalpais and wooded hills. Peacock Hill is a community of cottages in a garden setting. Living areas are laid out on a single level, eliminating stair climbing to an upper floor.

PRICES START at $29,000 for a 2-bedroom/2-bath townhouse and top out at $33,500 for 3-bedrooms. Financing is available at prime rates. Immediate occupancy.

TOTAL MONTHLY costs at Peacock Hill run no more than rent for comparable quality and location, but with the tremendous advantage of sizable income tax savings which are denied renters.

THE TIME TO BUY is now. A very limited number of homes are available.

A furnished model is open daily from 12 to 5

Limburg's Variety Adds Spice To The Tourist's Life

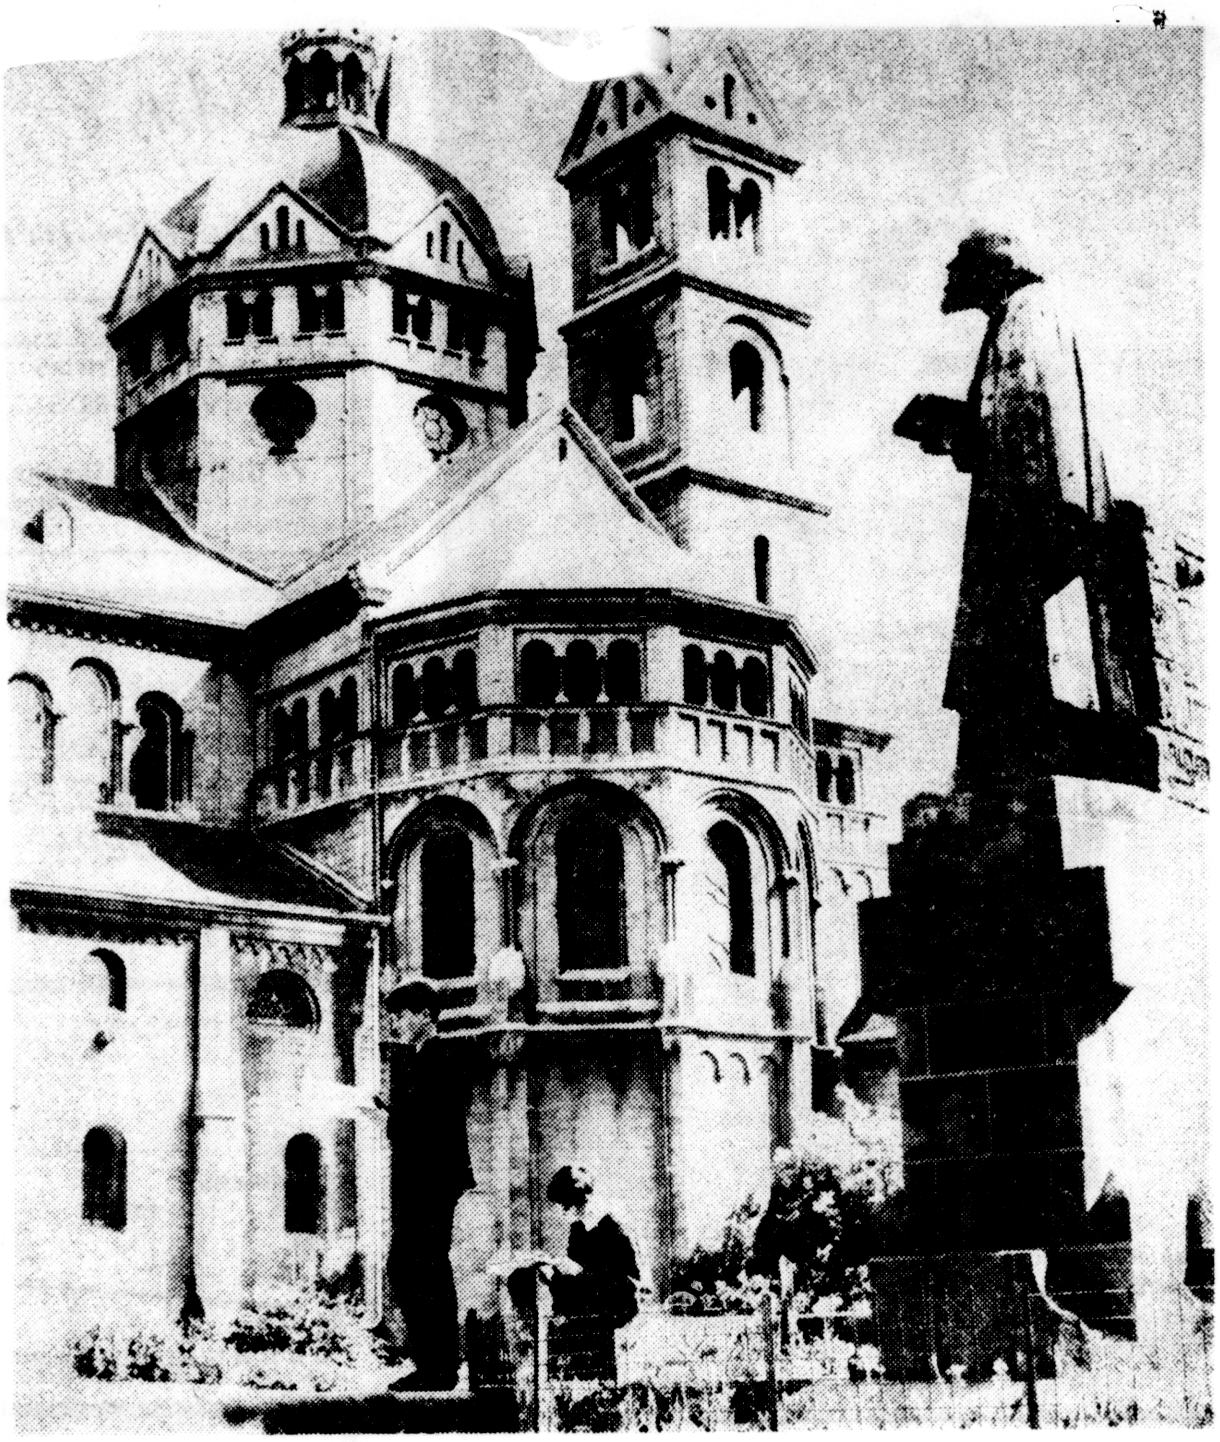
Fairy tale castles rise out of the mist, neat farms open into Roman courtyards, and the sidewalk cafes may remind you of France.

But, you are in Limburg, a Dutch province of such variety that it can add spice to any traveler's life. Hollanders settled there long ago, and over the centuries, visitors from other countries have left their imprint everywhere.

IF YOU ASK "Parlez vous Francais?" to a Hollander in this area, he'll undoubtedly answer "Mais oui," because four languages — Flemish, Dutch, German and English are spoken here and three currencies are used.

You can see Roman baths, or a 14th century church built by the French monks of Champagne, all in the same day and only a few miles apart. The enchanting castles dotting the hills take you to yet another world; some of them are museums and others have been converted into comfortable hotels or restaurants with tapestries, paintings and other baronial trappings.

The provincial capital city, Maastricht, is a scenic delight from the Helport Gate, with its twin turrets and crenalated towers, to the tree-lined city square, rimmed with gay cafes. The great gate was once part of an old Roman fortress; the cafes are contemporary and feature fine local products such as beer, and a cheese called "Rommedou," which is delicate and rarely exported. A rich spice cake is also made here and is a perfect accompaniment to coffee or tea.



AN ARCHITECTURAL masterpiece is Munsterkerk in Roermond, a pretty town nestled in the woods in the south of Holland. Art students often sketch the stately structure, constructed in the 13th century.

THE SIGHTS IN Masstricht are plentiful. The local tourist office, known as "VVV," can help you plan to see them all.

Those who like great houses of worship will be enthralled with the gigantic cathedral named for St. Servatius, which was built over a period of centuries. Its portal dates from 1225, and is one of the best examples of Gothic sculpture in all of Europe.

Another impressive sight is the 11th century Romanesqu

"Drive" the Inside Passage to Prince Rupert (then "circle" back!)

Cruise Georgia Strait to scenic Vancouver Island – then drive north to Kelsey Bay and the new car-ferry, Queen of Prince Rupert. Ahead lies an unforgettable 330-mile Inside Passage cruise past coastal fjords and snow-capped mountains. At Prince Rupert, drive off and travel the "totem route" inland through a land of magnificent mountain scenery, renowned for fabulous hunting and fishing, to Prince George, hub city of British Columbia's northern interior. Then complete the "circle" with a return drive south through the historic Cariboo and Fraser Canyon. Advance berth and passage reservations recommended for Queen of Prince Rupert. Deluxe Motor Coach service makes connections from Vancouver and Victoria with the Queen of Prince Rupert at Kelsey Bay. Services also from Prince Rupert to North Central B.C., Alberta and Alaska points.

Jamaica - 6 nights from $$343^{50}$
Puerto Rico - 6 nights from $$384^{15}$

Jamaica is where nature spilled her paints and created a Technicolor world, to the accompaniment of carefree calypso with a British accent. It's where beaches are white, mountains are blue, the ocean turquoise and hotels are oases of tropic luxury in between.

Pick Puerto Rico for a world of wonderful contrasts . . . the grandeur of 16th century Spain and the bold design of today. Delicate balconies and colorful tiled patios . . . ultra modern hotels and pulse-quickening casinos.

Rates are per person, double occupancy, including round-trip Jetourist Caribbean Excursion air fare (17-day limit to Jamaica, 30-day limit to Puerto Rico), airport transfers and sightseeing tour in Puerto Rico. Yes, Rover Can Roam With You

Are you a dog owner who is reluctant to plan a vacation because Rover would have to be left behind with friends, or in a kennel? You needn't be.

Roaming with Rover can be an adventure in discovering America, rather than a burden, if properly planned, says Donald Y. McCoy, executive director of Discover America, Inc.

McCoy, proud possessor of an assortment of pets, heads the non-profit organization which is dedicated to encouraging Americans to tour the nation and discover the natural and scenic beauties of America. "Traveling with dogs can be done successfully and enjoyably," he says, "if pet owners will prepare for their vacations properly."

FOR EXAMPLE, he says, before starting out on a planned trip, it's a good idea to determine in advance possible stopping spots where Rover will be welcome.

As a general rule, the sporting thing to do is to make sure Rover won't cause any damage or create disturbances that might annoy fellow lodgers in such accommodations. To this end, pet owners should follow certain fundamental rules:

1. Keep Rover on a leash in public.

2. Don't take Rover into dining rooms, no matter where.

3. Rover should be cared for and regularly exercised. Make sure while being exercised he does not soil walks or garden areas.

4. Is Rover accustomed to being left alone? He shouldn't be if he is likely to bark or be destructive.

(As a matter of fact, pet owners should be prepared to pay for any damage caused by their dogs.)

5. If Rover is untrained, he should be confined to a crate or sleeping box while in rooms.

OTHER POINTS to remember for enjoyable roaming with Rover are: Take along a small kit or suitcase for his grooming aids and pans for food and water; prevent sudden changes in his diet by bringing several packages of his regular dog food; a large plastic container is useful for carrying drinking water. Also, take along a blanket or dog bed. Most hotel keepers resent having their bedding used for this purpose.

In certain areas of the country it may be necessary for motel owners to use ant poisons that are toxic to dogs. Make sure there is nothing of this nature in the room or other areas where Rover may eat or drink.

Lovely Limburg Offers Many Travel Attractions

Basilica of Our Lady, and there's a 13th century Dominican church, now a stately concert hall.

Two miles south of the capital is one of the great wonders of Europe, the tunneled hill of St. Pietersburg. Quarried since primitive times for a special sandstone, this 360 foot high hill is a man-made labyrinth of more than 220 tunnels with great vaulted galleries up to 50 feet high. The walls are easily the world's most valuable "autograph book." They are covered with signatures dating back to 1037.

NAPOLEON, THE Duke of Alva and Voltaire are just a few who have signed here, and you will be invited to do the same.

St. Pietersburg played a vital role during World War II. When things looked grimmest, brave Hollanders turned the caves into an underground village for 20,000 inhabitants, complete with dorms, a bakery, hospital, recreational facilities and the rest. The caves housed many of the old masters during the war years, including Rembrandt's famous "Night Watch."

You'll want to shop in this area. The lovely locally-made wares include hand-blown glass, pottery and beautifully enameled jewelry. Cigars are made here, also, and known the world over for their excellence.

NO TOUR OF this part of Holland would be complete without a stop at the calm and beautiful American military cemetery at Margraten. Only a few miles from Maastricht, it is the most hallowed American spot in Holland. Its many handsomely lanscaped, carefully tended acres are a touching tribute to those men from the United States who lost their lives in Holland during World War II.

There could not be a more fitting place in The Netherlands for this memorial than Limburg, the province of wooded beauty and serenity.

Here's How To Care For Marble

With all the advantages of marble for table tops and other purposes, it is breakable and it does stain.

But as long as you have all the pieces, a broken marble slab can be made whole again with hardly a trace of the repairs visible And stains can be removed if you know how to go about it.

FOR REPAIRING broken marble, you will need some acetone, which is used only for cleaning the edges to be joined; some polyester-resin in powder form; and a liquid catalyst. In purchasing the last two items from a marble dealer, buy the smallest quantity possible, since you will need only two tablespoons of resin and 15 drops of catalyst.

In matching up a batch of cement, the amount of catalyst determines the setting time of the mixture. The two tablespoon-15 drop proportion allows 20 minutes working time. Use a small, clean paint brush to coat the edges to be joined.

After application, press the pieces together immediately and remove excess cement with a putty knife. Clamping is unnecessary.

BROKEN CORNERS call for another technique, using marble dust — the same color as the slab to be repaired — and the resin cement. Your proportions here should give you a mixture suitable for pouring. About the consistency of honey will do.

You'll need two pieces of wood about 12 inches by three inches and the same thickness as the marble. Make certain all edges of the wood are square.

Cover two edges with wax paper and butt these sides against the marble. The 90-

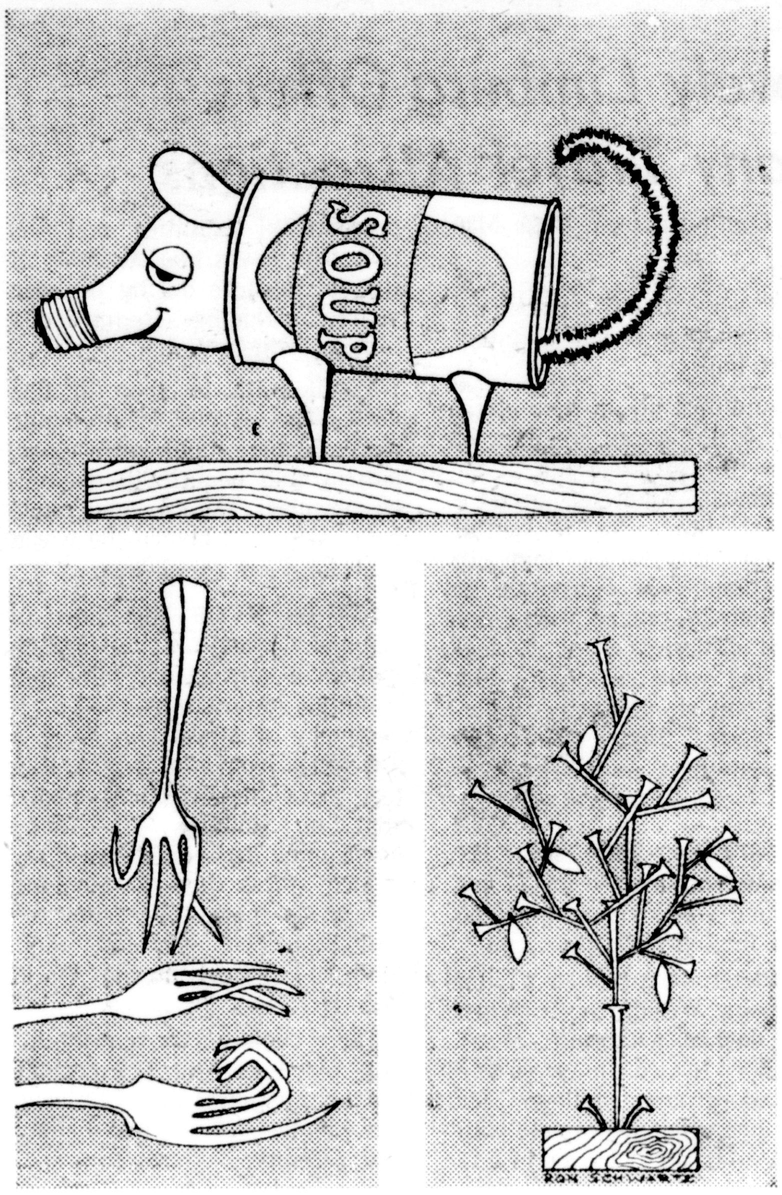
BRIGHT IDEAS



ART IS WHERE you find it these days, and it turns up in some strange places and from strange materials. For instance, let's take epoxy glue, soldering irons, metal cutters, pliers, or what have you. You can fashion all sorts of weird shapes from utilitarian objects, such as twisted forks, tin cans, bent wire hangers, spoons that become African masks, etc. Or a nail tree with a small wooden block as a base, and small leaves of metal or foil. For statuary, use a tin can, pipe cleaner, light bulb, paint or nail polish, and go on from there. Just look around the house for objects of inspiration.

Marble: How To Repair The Breaks, Remove The Stains

degree angle where the wood joins should form the pattern for the corner repair. Into this well pour the resin solution and overflow slightly. After overnight drying, remove the forms.

ORGANIC STAINS on marble are caused by tea, coffee, tobacco, wet bark, flowers and leached colors from paper or textiles. Removal is through the application of a poultice made from facial tissues soaked in a 20-volume solution of hydrogen peroxide. Apply the soggy mass and cover with a plastic garment bag to prevent evaporation. Depending upon the depth of the stain, the process will require from one to 48 hours.

Full-strength household ammonia can be used in place of the peroxide, but the fumes may be too much for you.

To detect an oil stain, dampen a piece of blotting paper with cleaning fluid. Apply to the stained area, press down and remove. If the blotter absorbs some stain, it is most likely oily in nature. Again treat with tissue poultice—this time soaked with amyl acetate or acetone. Your neighborhood drug or hardware store can supply this.

Rust stains will generally take the shape of the ferrous material that caused the trouble. Commercial iron rust remover is called for here, applied as a poultice.

Exotic Is The Word

Some Plants Give Garden Tropic Touch

THE ARALIA is a tropical-looking shrub that qualifies as an exotic, yet does well in California. Use it wherever you want bold, green foliage, giving it a rich soil and plenty of moisture throughout the year. Otherwise it demands very little in the way of care. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen)

The term exotic is often over used, but you have to stretch to find a better description for certain plants.

Take the lovely Bird of Paradise, for instance. If it's not exotic, we'd like to know what is.

Bird of Paradise is most often seen in Southern California. In fact, it's the official flower for the city of Los Angeles. But the "Bird" is more adaptable than many give it credit for being and lovely plantings can be seen in our Bay Area.

WHEN YOU SEE the striking orange, blue and purple flowers of Bird of Paradise you can easily accept its common name. For, truly, it looks like some beautiful tropical bird, poised for flight.

Give it a protected spot in sun or part shade. Be sure the soil is well drained and rich in humus. You'll be more than rewarded for your attention to these incidentals.

Also deserving the appellation "exotic" are the tree ferns. These look like oversized greenhouse plants, which, in many climates, they actually are.

HERE IN California, they grow to perfection in our gardens, needing only a rich soil, a reasonable amount of water and protection from excessive frost, though the New Zealand Tree Fern is exceptionally hardy.

The two principal trees ferns are the Australian Tree Fern, largest of the lot and also the fastest grower; and the New Zealand Tree Fern, which is hardier and slower to reach maturity. They both have gently arching fronds and a lacy, tropical look which transports one to a Polynesian paradise. There are others.

There are many other exotic plants such as hibiscus and gardenia to name only two.

Botanical note: The Bird of Paradise is Strelitzia reginae; New Zealand Tree Fern is Dicksonia antarctica; Australian Tree Fern is Asophila australis.

The Vines Are The Show-Offs Of Our Plant World

The biggest show-offs in the plant world are the vines.

Who can dispute this after seeing a high-climbing bougainvillea in full bloom or a wisteria that covers a country mile of arbor? Even our more refined and confined vines such as clematis are more than most flowering shrubs or trees could hope to compete with.

WE ASKED THE California Association of Nurserymen for a rundown on some of the showiest summer vines and what follows is a selection from the association's many recommendations:

For a gaudy display, try one of the bougainvilleas. These are part and parcel of California's history, having arrived not too long after the mission fathers and the grape.

There is nothing more colorful for draping a pergola or a roof, and it's not the flowers which provide the color. Rather it is the showy bracts which surround rather insignificant flowers. Color is not always magenta or purple, as some think.

To be different try varieties California Gold, Pink Tiara, and Orange King. But don't overlook the true purple of the variety Convent.

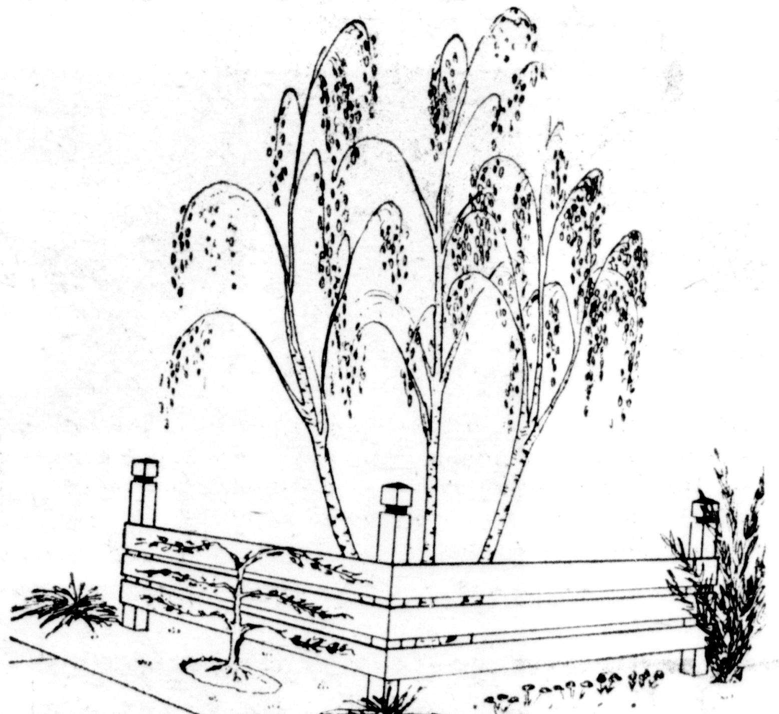
OTHERS ARE available at nurseries.

Scarlet Trumpet Vine is a wise-ranging vine with a mass of big, fluted blooms, scarlet at the lip, yellow-orange in the throat. A mature vine will nearly smother a large house.

Guinea Gold Vine is a woody vine with glossy, dark green leaves and a generous sprinkling of open-faced, gold blooms primarily in the warm months but often in good supply throughout the year, especially here in coastal areas.

CLEMATIS IN its many forms is a vine of refined habit and an unbelievably beautiful show of flowers, be they white, lavender, blue or pink. Nurserymen recommend the lavender Jackmani Clematis with its huge blooms, often eight inches across. And the evergreen Armandi Clematis is a grand show of white in early spring.

There may be showier vines than clematis, but none more beautiful.



CORNER LOTS invite cut-across traffic, resulting in won't-grow spots. The cure? This attractive three-rail fence of one-by-fours nailed to four-by-four posts does it, and makes a showplace for a few special plants including a prickly spreading juniper that further discourages cutting across. In neighborhoods where thoughtless pet-owners allow their dogs to roam, it will also serve to discourage the canines from visiting your lawn and prized shrubs.

Summer Has Its Bulbs; Don't Pass Them Up

Garden Pages

If you think that spring is the bulb's main season of bloom perhaps you're wrong. Summer brings us so many bulbs with so much to offer the gardener that it certainly rivals the vernal season for bulb color.

The fabulous lily family, for instance, is largely composed of summer color bearers. It's too late to plant them now if you haven't done so already, but it's not too late to plant other bulb color for bloom this very year.

ONE OF THE finest summer bulbs is the tuberous begonia and started plants of these are available now. Seedlings, which bloom from mid-summer into fall, and established year-old plants, which start blooming earlier than the seedlings, can be found in most nurseries.

Tuberous begonias like a shaded or semi-shaded location, with plenty of leaf mold in the soil and excellent drainage. They are ideally suited to pot culture, also, and such handling makes it possible to move them into the foreground when their exotic blooms are full.

The other most popular summer bulb is the gladiolus and gardeners can continue planting them until June, at least.

THIS IS AN amazing bulb. You make early planting shortly after Christmas and late planting in late spring — all for bloom during the same year. Bulbs set out now will give you color during summer. Bulbs planted next month and in June will bloom in fall.

The agapanthus, or blue Lily of the Nile, as some prefer to call it, is another summer-blooming beauty.

Nurserymen offer these showy bulbs already started in gallon cans. Set them out in a sunny location with good drainage and figure on dividing them every few years for more plants. The tall stems with their cluster of blue at the top can become a feature in your summer border.

Try planting them with pink Amaryllis for striking effect. Also try planting them in tubs or containers for a really fine display on the deck or terrace. They give a spring-like look to your garden all summer long.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- ✓ Plant tuberous begonias this week from seedling stock available in nursery flats.
- ✓ Plant gladiolus if you haven't already. A second or even third planting can be made now and still another planting a month from now.
- ✓ Spray roses regularly. No reason to wait for any visitation of insects or mildew.
- ✓ Chrysanthemum and carnation plants may both be set out now for late summer or fall bloom.
- ✓ Feed camellias and azaleas with an acid plant food now and again each month, throughout the summer.
- ✓ Don't let up the battle against slugs and snails.
- ✓ This is the season for more frequent mowings of the lawn. Spring rains are conducive to rapid growth. Make certain your lawn mower is sharp and in good repair before tackling the job.
- ✓ Remember — Mother's Day is approaching. A plant makes a thoughtful, pleasing gift.

THE WEEKEND SHOWS

A Beauty Pageant And Baseball Share Television Honors Tonight

The finals of the 15th annual International Beauty Congress Pageant, the largest beauty pageant of the year, will be televised tonight at 9:30 o'clock on Channels 7 and 11, replacing "The Hollywood Palace" this weekend.

Other shows of special interest this weekend:

TONIGHT: The San Francisco Giants meet the Los Angeles Dodgers in a televised major league baseball game at 7:55 p.m. on Channel 2, preceded by the pre-game shows. Tomorrow's game will be seen on the same channel at 12:55 p.m.

The great Paul Klee Retrospective Exhibition currently on view at the San Francisco Museum of Art will be the subject of a half-hour special on Channel 9 at 9 p.m.

With elections in Germany beginning to reflect the growing power of the right-wing National Democratic Party, Intertel assesses the new Germany in an hour-long special, "Germany and its Shadow," at 7 p.m. on Channel 9.

The second part of the Belgian-made film "Masters of the Congo Jungle," journeys into the heart of the Congo jungle to visit people whose lives have not changed for thousands of years on Channel 7's "Wild Adventure" at 6:30 p.m.

Igor Stravinsky's desire, after World War I, to compose music inexpensively and for a wide audience, resulted in "L'Histoire du Soldat," a theater piece to be read, played and danced for Channel 9's audience at 8 p.m.

Bette Davis makes a rare guest appearance as an embittered ranch woman who, with her four sons, holds Marshal Dillon and Kitty prisoner while plotting the marshal's execution in the repeat telecast of a "Gunsmoke" episode at 10 o'clock on Channels 5 and 10.

John Wayne, Lee Marvin and Jack Warden star as three ex-Navy men who remain to live on

KTIM

In The Public Interest

KTIM-FM

When I was a youngster during the depression of the thirties I saw an obviously very successful man drive through our run-down neighborhood in a big, shining-new, expensive car. To a boy a car is often everything and I said, "Gee, he's lucky," and my mother hearing me said, "Don't envy him—emulate him. You've got the same opportunity." Although many years and many shiny new cars have passed since then I've never forgotten the wisdom of her words.

Frequently native-born Americans will envy and resent the success of those who have come here from foreign lands. These newcomers recognize the unlimited opportunities that they formerly didn't have and quickly and intelligently capitalize on them.

George D. Mardikian, author of "Song of America" and successful American businessman, told of his experience in an article he wrote for This Week Magazine's "Words To Live By" series. He wrote:

"The other day, in Seattle, Washington, I gave a talk before several hundred people, and told them I thought America was a strong, beautiful, and righteous country. A young man came up to me afterward and said with a knowing smile, 'No wonder you go about singing the praise of America. In Europe, you were nothing. America has made you rich and famous.' Before I could reply he was gone.

"It's true America has been good to me, and I count my blessings every day. But I wanted to find that young man and say, 'You miss my point. The priceless thing America has given to me has nothing to do with money or fame. Some would call it national pride. I call it the dignity of being American.'

"To someone born here . . . born free . . . it's hard to understand. He's never known what it is to be without it. I was born in Armenia. Today, I cannot find my Armenia . . . the Armenia of my fathers . . . on the map.

"Forty years ago, when I came to America, I had to flee my home like a criminal. Yet my only crime was being an Armenian. That July morning, when I first saw the Statue of Liberty from the deck of the immigrant steamer, it was like suddenly hearing a hymn of hope. It lifted my head, and my heart. I took deep breaths of the fresh harbor air. For the first time in my life, I felt free . . . thrillingly and blessedly free.

"This, thank God, is not a private experience. There are millions like me in America today . . . fugitives from unhappy lands across the seas. We're grateful of course for our three meals a day, and our jobs, and for the opportunities that America has so generously given to us and our children.

"But we'd fight and die before we'd give up that feeling of dignity . . . that right to hold up our heads, look the world in the eye, and call ourselves Americans."

Those are the words of George D. Mardikian who's just as American as you and I are. The only differences are perhaps a few generations, the origin of the immigrant, and habit of taking freedom for granted.

Thomas Wolfe wrote: "To every man his chance. To every man, regardless of his birth, his shining, golden opportunity. To every man the right to live, to work, to be himself, and to become whatever his manhood and his vision can combine to make him. This, seeker, is the promise of America."

ROY THINNES, in his starring role as David Vincent, is the only man who knows that aliens from another planet have landed on earth and intend to make the world their own, in "The Invaders" Tuesday evenings at 8:30 on Channels 7 and 11.

Lassie's Best Friend Is Show's Director

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lassie's best friend may well be William Beaudine, who has directed the talented pooch through 75 chapters of the long-run series and appears ready to direct 75 more.

Big Bill knows just how to wring the right emotion from Lassie and — just as importantly — how to bring the films in on budget or under.

"I've never gone over a shooting schedule in my whole career,'' the director says proudly.

AND WHAT A career it has been! At 75 Bill Beaudine claims to have been a director longer than anyone else in Hollywood.

"I directed my first picture starting on Oct. 12, 1915,'' he recalled. "It was a one-reel comedy called — get this — 'Minnie the Lion.'

"I don't know of anyone who started before I did. Raoul Walsh? He was still an actor for D. W. Griffith. Jack Ford was an assistant for his brother Francis. George Marshall was an actor.''

FOR OVER A half-century, Beaudine has pursued his profession with only rare intervals between pictures. He is proudest of two Mary Pickford movies, "Sparrow" and "Little Annie Rooney.'' He has no illusions about most of the others.

"Long ago I quit thinking that every picture I did was going to be an Academy Award contender,'' he said. "I'm a commercial director; I know how to save money and get something on the screen. I let those arty guys shoot the scenes through chandeliers or from behind a wine glass. That's not for me.

"I'd like to see a George Stevens or a William Wyler shoot a Lassie in three days, the way I do. Heck, they'd be three days trying to make up their minds about the first shot.''

BEAUDINE IS A big, cheery man with a pointed mustache. He figures he has turned out 200-300 television shows — "Naked City,'' Rin Tin Tin,'' "Racket Squad,'' "Walt Disney Presents,'' etc. He receives from $1,200 to $1,500 for a half-hour show and nets an equal amount in residual payments for the first six reruns.

FIRST AID FOR A STRICKEN YACHT

John Weismuller of Sausalito Underwater Search, assisted by Sue Thompson, helps save the stricken schooner Aeolus in Sausalito Yacht Harbor. The 40-foot gaff-rigged sailing vessel was spotted sinking at her berth shortly before 7 p.m. yesterday, taking water through a faulty bilge pump fitting. While Weismuller manned the pump, Mrs. Thompson's husband, Jerry, owner of the waterfront firm, worked below to plug the leak. Initial pumping was done by the Sausalito Fire Department which dispatched a 150-gallon-a-minute pump. Battle Over Funding Poses Medi-Cal Threat

Senate, Assembly Divided

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The $904 million Medi-Cal program faces a gradual death beginning next week unless the Senate and Assembly settle their squabble over its financing.

Health and Welfare Administrator Spencer Williams said he would "provide for an orderly phase out of the program" starting next Friday if the legislature does not vote before that time to keep it going.

REJECTS PLAN

Rebellious Assembly Democrats yesterday rejected a Medi-Cal compromise hammered out earlier in the week during secret negotiations in Gov. Ronald Reagan's office.

Defeat of the proposal means legislative authorization of the program will expire Monday.

Williams said he would allow a one-week grace period before ordering a shutdown of the program which pays the doctor bills of 1.5 million needy Californians, most of them welfare recipients.

DEADLINE NEAR

But, he said, if the legislature does not reach an agreement, "no payments will be made by the state for hospital services on new admissions after May 5."

He added, "no payments for dentistry, optometry, pediatry or other like services will be made after May 12 and no medical services for other than emergency life-saving care will be paid after May 19."

The Assembly, by a 27-39 vote, refused to accept the Senate version of a bill intended to

U.S. Planes Drop MIGs In Dogfight

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Air Force F-105 jets from Thailand bombed rail and highway targets on the outskirts of Hanoi yesterday and shot down two Communist MIGs in eight dogfights above the North Vietnamese capital, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Radio Hanoi said seven American aircraft were shot down, three of them over Hanoi, but Hanoi's claims are usually exaggerated.

The Americans did not report any losses since announcements are held up 24 hours to protect rescue operations for any downed pilots.

American air power scored a significant victory in South Vietnam where two days of assaults by bombs and napalm drove a Communist battalion of 350-400 men from Hill 861, controllling five Communist invasion routes from the Laotian border five miles to the west.

U.S. Marines had battled for the hill just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) for four days and called in artillery and strikes by B-52 bombers and jet fighter-bombers to pound the heavily fortified trenches and bunkers blocking their advance. Marines were reported to have swarmed to the top today and found only 15 Communist bodies.

In line with the U.S. policy of getting increasingly rough with the Communists, a battalion of U.S. Marines (1,200 to 1,500 men) landed from U.S. 7th Fleet ships on the coast 25 miles south of Da Nang to break up a Communist concentration. Initial contact was light; two Communists were killed against no U.S. losses.

The chief American worry at the moment was a concentration of north Vietnamese troops in or just above the six-mile-wide DMZ. Washington sources estimated the Red strength at four divisions and Saigon reports said as many as five. A North Vietnamese division runs up to 10,000 men but usually operates in smaller numbers.

State Department officials expecting an invasion across the DMZ at any time warned yesterday that the United States is ready to play rough if that is what Hanoi wants. The United States recently flew in an estimated 10,000 soldiers to back up Marines blocking the invasion routes.

Doves Predict War Increase; Hawks: Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Critics dourly predicted today further escalation of the Vietnam fighting while supporters foresaw a stiffening of homefront resolve as the result of Gen. William C. Westmoreland's Washington rounds.

Addressing Congress, briefing governors and conferring personally with key legislators yesterday, the U.S. commander in Vietnam won high praise from both opponents and supporters of President Johnson's policies for his direction of the military effort against the Communists.

But it was apparent Westmoreland had failed to turn the tide of crackling congressional criticism directed at Johnson's intensification of the war and at his action in bringing the general home to report at a crucial time in the battle for public opinion.

The returns from the outlying precincts would determine how the country might respond to the televised and broadcast appeal of the tall, handsomely graying general for continued strong popular support he called "vital to the success of our mission."

Thief Eludes Corte Madera Police Hunt

Yelling "I'm going to kill you . . . I'm going to kill you," a burglar attacked the owner of Bill's Refrigeration Service, Corte Madera, early today with two screwdrivers when he was surprised inside the shop.

After a brief scuffle, owner Bill Williams eluded the thief and bolted from the premises to telephone police. He escaped with arm scratches and a ripped shirt.

Also fleeing the shop, the burglar, described as a Negro about 45, headed for his car, a late model station wagon, but first had to move William's pick-up truck which had his vehicle wedged in.

The thief moved the truck, but then noticed the keys to his vehicle were missing—taken by Williams when he arrived at his shop at 6:10 a.m. and noticed the station wagon in the lot and the back door to the premises open.

Running from the lot, the burglar, who was believed to have been scratched on the face by Williams, fled north toward

Chinese Workers Demand Mao End Cultural Purge

HONG KONG (UPI)—Thousands of Chinese Communist workers, weary of the "cultural revolution," have demanded that Mao Tse-tung bring the costly purge to a halt, the Hong Kong Star reported today from Canton.

The reported disenchantment with the revolution appeared to be having no effect. Peking Red Guards again denounced Foreign Minister Chen Yi and told disgraced propaganda chief Fo Tao-chu he was "guilty of offenses punishable by death."

The Star, a right-wing newspaper, said arrivals from Kwangtung province reported Canton workers had sent a petition to Mao with the backing of military officers and government officials asking the cultural revolution be called off. They described it as an ultimatum rather than a request.

"The ultimatum threatened that if he did not end the cultural revolution and disband the Red Guards there would be a mass strike," the Star said. "It was reported to have said that the Red Guards, described as nuisances, were harassing peasants and workers in the province and have done more harm than good."

A Chinese document made available today in Hong Kong and reported to have been written by Red Guards accused Fo of secretly opposing party chairman Mao and of using his powerful position as propaganda chief "to uphold his bourgeois rule."

FULL, ACTIVE LIFE

Mill Valleyan To Be 100 Monday

Adolph Eberhart, son of a Forty-Niner and first to hold the title of mayor of Mill Valley, will celebrate one of Nature's rarest gifts on Monday: 100 years of life.

For Eberhart it has been a full and active century, blessed by good health and a steady job . . . so steady, in fact, that in 1964, at the age of 97, he was still commuting by bus from Mill Valley to San Francisco's White House department store, where he had been working since 1889.

He was paymaster and had no intention of quitting, he declared, but the store went out of business in January of 1965.

For more than 50 years, Eberhart lived at 185 Molino Avenue in Mill Valley, in the house he and his late wife built in 1911. For the past year, he has been a resident of Kentfield's Center Medical Hospital, where his son, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, all residents of Marin, will help him observe his centennial.

From 1924 to 1936, he served on Mill Valley's governing body, becoming the first mayor in 1926 when the city changed from a board of trustees to the council form of government.

But it is not his work, nor his years of public service, that Eberhart looks back on with most relish today. His fondest memories are the tales his father told him of Gold Rush days and his own observation of the Bay Area during a century of living.

He enjoys telling how his Swiss-born father in 1849 rounded Cape Horn on a windjammer, which dropped anchor in San Francisco Bay and was promptly abandoned by everyone in the rush for the gold fields.

Eberhart was born in San Francisco in the house his father built, the first brick one built on Telegraph Hill. He recalls that bricks of the day made locally with salt water, "wept" so copiously that gutters had to be built to carry off the seepage.

Growing up in San Francisco in the days when Victoria of England was only midway through her long imperial reign, when the United States was still digesting the continent she had won and large areas of the West were still territories, life was a matter of simple pleasures for a boy.

There were no playgrounds then in his native city, Eberhart notes, but there were plenty of vacant lots for baseball and lots of open land to roam. "We had a lot of fun, maybe

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Judy Denies Quitting Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Judy Garland and 20th Century-Fox Studio are unable to agree over the circumstances of her abrupt departure from the movie "Valley of the Dolls."

Judy

A spokesman for the film company said yesterday, "She withdrew Thursday for personal reasons."

Miss Garland, 44, said "I have not withdrawn. How dare they say I've withdrawn? I was up at six this morning to go to work. I've done my work," she said.

"It's a shocking thing. Why? That's what I want to know, why?" Miss Garland asked.

The studio said no replacement has been named.

Sympathy To Doves And Hawks

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Gov. George Romney spoke out on Vietnam yesterday and managed to convey sympathy to both the doves and the hawks.

Romney

Romney criticized U.S. escalation of the war but also criticized anti-war demonstrations and supported the propriety of Gen. William Westmoreland's address to Congress on the present state of the war.

Romney told a news conference following the general's talk that North Vietnam has been able to meet U.S military escalation so far, despite "repeated assurances" such moves would take the United States closer to a settlement of the war.

Hess Claims He's Not Crazy

BERLIN (AP) — Rudolph Hess, former deputy to Adolf Hitler and the last remaining inmate in West Berlin's big Spandau war crimes prison, claims that he is mentally and physically sound.

"He said that except for some stomach troubles he has had over the years, he is totally healthy," Alfred Seidl, lawyer for the onetime Nazi bigwig, told newsmen yesterday after a half-hour visit with Hess.

It was the fourth visit by Seidl since Hess was sentenced to life in prison in 1946 by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal.

Hess, who was 73 three days ago, often has been reported suffering from mental illness.

"He asked me specifically to counter any newspaper or press reports that he is mentally sick," Seidl said.

To Visit Ike

PALM DESERT (UPI) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland was expected to visit former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today at Eisenhower's El Dorado Country Club home.

Gen. Westmoreland, commander of United States forces in Vietnam, was due at Palm Springs airport this afternoon and then was to be driven to the Eisenhower winter residence.

Work Force Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's civilian work force climbed 18,000 to 2.88 million employees in March, a joint congressional committee reported today.

Hike Protests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Public Utilities Commission reports about 1,400 letters have been received from subscribers to the Pacific Telephone Co., protesting a proposed $181 million rate increase. The commission hearing in Los Angeles closed yesterday only moments after it opened.

Out Of Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frederic March has left a hospital after a 10-day stay for what his physician described as a physical checkup. The 69-year-old actor was discharged Thursday from Good Samaritan Hospital and returned to the Beverly Hills hotel where he had been staying.

Defends Actions

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Campaigning for next Wednesday's election, President Chung Hee Park defended himself today against charges by his main opponent, who wants to take South Korean troops out of Vietnam. Park did not refer to his opponent's charge that the government planned to send 50,000 more soldiers to Vietnam after the election.

Returns Plant

JAKARTA (UPI) — The Indonesian government today returned ownership of a rubber tire and hose factory in Gobor, West Java, to Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. The plant was seized by the ousted Sukarno government.

Tiger Rampage

AALBORG, Denmark (UPI) — An angry tigress broke loose aboard a Danish freighter today and terrorized crewmen for several hours. The animal eventually was locked in an empty cabin aboard the 1,875-ton ship Borreby by armed Danish coast guard and zoo officials.

Strong Support

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, says a poll taken by mail in his district indicates strong support for liberalizing California's 106-year-old abortion law.

Monagan said yesterday that 76 per cent of those answering his questionnaire favored changing the law. He said 16 per cent were opposed and 8 per cent undecided.

Saboteurs Fail

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Saboteurs tried but failed yesterday to blow up Israel's main network of water supply pipes, military officials said. They said a complaint was made to the U.N. mixed armistice commission in charge of Syrian-Israeli affairs.

Millionth Member

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald Harris, a junior high school teacher in Corona, Calif., is the millionth member of the National Education Association. The professional teachers organization honored Harris and its 500,000th member, Mrs. Eloise Pendarvis of North Augusta, S.C., during ceremonies Friday.

Coast Guard Fights To Save Shipping Vessels

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard fought today to save two fishing vessels battered by huge waves off Nantucket Island as winds of up to 50 miles per hour continued to churn the Atlantic Ocean.

The huge waves, endangering shipping along the Atlantic seaboard, sank two fishing boats Friday, one with the loss of a six-man crew.

An 89-foot vessel, the Noreen, with a crew of 11, radioed that it was taking on water 75 miles east of Nantucket at midmorning today.

Another Coast Guard cutter was alongside the 102-foot trawler Plymouth about 75 miles east-southeast of Nantucket.

Congress Expected To Follow Plea On Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears certain to grant President Johnson's request for a 47-day extension of the no-strike period in the nationwide dispute between the railroads and six shop craft unions.

But several senators made clear their support was based on the President's pledge that he would submit legislation within a few days to solve the dispute.

The Senate Labor Committee approved the extension resolution 15 to 0 yesterday afternoon, within several hours after the decision to request it had been reached at a morning White House conference.

The House Commerce Committee appeared ready to follow suit Monday morning.

New Coppolino Trial Is Asked

By DON NORTH

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—A new trial was asked for Dr. Carl Coppolino just hours after his conviction on charges of slaying his first wife, a defense attorney said today.

Assistant defense counsel James McEwen said a hearing on the new trial motion will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday before Circuit Court Judge Lynn Silvertooth who sentenced Coppolino Friday to life imprisonment.

McEwen said the defense will seek to have Coppolino released on bond during appeal of the case.

Two Young Sisters Are Strangled

DETROIT (UPI) —Police today hunted the killer of two young sisters who were raped and strangled yesterday while returning home from school a block away.

Police in the suburb of Westland said they had questioned some suspects, but were not holding anyone.

The nude bodies of Deborah Louise Crowther, 8, and her sister, Kimberly Faith, 6, were found in a vacant field by Allan McNally, 16, shortly after they were slain, about a half block from their home.

McNally told police he was walking his dog through the field when he spotted a bundle of clothes and "thought they belonged to a doll or something."

The children were the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crowther.

Westland Police Chief Garrison Clayton said a six-pack of empty beer cans was found behind a bush and about 15 empty glue tubes were found about 30 yards from the bodies.

Teachers and students at the Stottlemeyer School, which the girls attended, had been warned of a possible molester in the area after Westland Police received a report a man had tried to pick up some children in his car about a mile from the school.

The girls' home was only about a block from their school.

The Wrong Bird

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When members of the Oregon Audubon Society saw a new 20-cent airmail stamp unveiled at the post office, they identified the bird on the stamp as a Central American magpie jay. The stamp, however, was supposed to honor a Columbia River Basin jay.

Brazen Thief

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Someone has stolen Postal Inspector Victor Short's car and $300 worth of golf clubs in the trunk. The car was taken from the parking lot behind the San Francisco police headquarters.

Peace Cards Instead Of Anti-War Pickets

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Women who oppose the war in Vietnam but balk at walking a picket line are sending a Mother's Day card instead to President Johnson.

Its simple message: "War is not healthy for children and other living things. Talk peace."

VOLUNTEER GROUP

The protest is the creation of "Another Mother For Peace," a volunteer group formed five weeks ago at the home of Barbara Avedon, an Oscar-winning film and television writer.

Since then, more than 175,000 cards have been sold throughout the country. Mrs. Avedon hopes one million will reach Washington by May 14.

Working day and night to fill the orders are movie and television personalities and the wives of producers, directors, lawyers and doctors.

The mailing operation fills the second floor of an office building in a fashionable business district. Orders already are in from New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Texas and many other states.

THEIR WISH

Said Mrs. Avedon: "It all started when I had some Hollywood friends over to see my son Josh, who was about to have his first birthday. The year had gone so fast. I realized then that someday I may have to send him to war."

The women agreed what they wanted most for Mother's Day was peace.

Actress Joanne Woodward wrote a letter to go with the cards, asking the recipient to drum up support through women's clubs and other organizations. Mrs. Avedon and the others used their Christmas mailing lists to send them to friends.

The gently worded cards, free of polemics, were a big success.

Inside, the cards continue:

"For my Mother's Day gift this year I don't want candy or flowers. I want an end to killing. We who have given life must be dedicated to preserving it. Please talk peace."

MALE BOOSTER

Actor Robert Vaughn, star of the "Man From U.N.C.L.E." television series, is among the group's top male boosters. He plugs the cards at personal appearances and even helps stuff envelopes.

Other volunteers are actresses Whitney Blake, Lauren Bacall, Janice Rule (Mrs. Ben Gazzarra) and Donna Winters, plus the wives of Dean Martin, Dick Van Dyke and Herschel Bernardi.

The wife of conductor Leonard Bernstein offered help from New York, and an order came from Gloria Vanderbilt.

Child Beating Hearing Held For Father

Herbert Paul Stonecipher, 34, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on misdeameanor charges of mistreating two children.

Judge Peter Allen Smith scheduled plea entry for May 5 at 1:30 p.m.

Stonecipher, of 245 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, was arrested early yesterday by San Anselmo police for the second night in a row. He was booked in county jail for disturbing the peace.

Officers said they were called by neighbors who said Stonecipher "was beating his family again." They said they found Mrs. Stonecipher and two children, Anita Mills, 10, and Sandra Mills, 9, outside the house in night clothes and barefooted. Stonecipher and two younger children, Debra Stonecipher, 4, and Kenneth Stonecipher, 3, were inside the locked house, they added.

Mrs. Stonecipher told police her husband had beaten the two youngest children "black and blue" Wednesday.

Stonecipher was free yesterday on $110 bail.

WARREN SUPPORTS THE U.C. FACULTY

13,000 Teachers Hear Chief Justice Call Proposed Tuition Hike A Burden

BERKELEY (UPI) — University of California professors protested en masse Friday the tuition and budget proposals of Gov. Ronald Reagan and the January firing of President Clark Kerr.

Some 13,000 teachers donned caps and gowns to attend a "faculty power" rally in U. C.'s picturesque, outdoor Greek theater on the edge of the campus. The extraordinary convocation was orderly.

GUEST BACKERS

The academic community was supported by Chief Justice Earl Warren, historian Richard Hofstadter and economist John Kenneth Galbraith, who all addressed the assemblage.

"Only twice in a hundred years has tuition been seriously suggested, but in both instances (1895 and 1899) understanding governors rejected the idea," said Warren, a former California governor and an "Old Blue" of the U.C. Class of 1912.

The Chief Justice, who did not mention Reagan by name, also said any additional costs to the students would be "a real burden on them and in the case of many would mean 'drop out.' "

All three speakers praised Kerr as a great educator and administrator.

Neither Kerr nor Reagan was at the convocation.

The U.C. regents, including the governor, fired Kerr in January. The action came just after the new governor proposed tuition for all nine campuses of the university. Kerr had said he was opposed to tuition.

The academic rally was organized by criminology Prof. Bernard Diamond who said, "The threat of political intervention and fiscal irresponsibility of unwarranted budgetary restrictions strikes at the very heart of the university's greatness."

Warren also told the professors, "This is the time for us to do our utmost for the university because it has done its utmost for us."

ANOTHER SLAP

The Chief Justice's 30-minute speech was interrupted nine times by loud applause. He received standing ovations before and after his remarks.

Galbraith took a direct slap at the Reagan administration by saying:

"There is no need to tell you the recent history of the University of California—the politically motivated discharge of the best known and quite possibly the best regarded university administrator in the United States . . . "

Sen. Long Charges Dodd's Censure—Scapegoat Tactic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate ethics committee members say they're prepared to meet Sen. Russell B. Long's challenge to their recommendation that Sen. Thomas J. Dodd be censured for financial misconduct.

Long, the Louisianian who is assistant Democratic leader, accused the bipartisan committee yesterday of making a scapegoat of Dodd, whom he defended as "a fine, decent, honest man — a fine father and family man."

In talking with a reporter Long first said half the committee couldn't withstand the investigation Dodd went through. In a later interview with newsmen he upped that to half the Senate.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., ethics panel chairman, declined comment. But vice chairman Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, of the six-member committee said the other 94 senators will have an opportunity "to decide whether the senator from Louisiana is right or the committee is right."

Another member of the committee, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., told a reporter Long is "the only senator I've heard of who has expressed dissatisfaction with our report."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., also on the committee, said it took "the greatest care" in its 14-month investigation of Dodd, a 59-year-old Connecticut Democrat who has denied any wrongdoing.

The question, he said, is whether funds raised for Dodd at testimonials were put to proper use.

The committee unanimously recommended Dodd be censured for diverting to his personal use $116,083 in political funds and for double billing the Senate and private organizations for travel expenses.

Guilty Plea Entered In Morals Case

William Duncan Lindley, 21-year-old San Rafael resident, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two misdemeanor charges of attempted child molesting.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. dismissed for lack of evidence a felony charge of an attempt on a 12-year-old boy March 23 in San Rafael and ordered psychiatric examination of Lindley.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas refiled the dismissed felony charge as a misdemeanor.

Lindley, of 101 H Street, was on two years probation for child molesting in San Anselmo on March 11, 1966, when he committed the offenses to which he pleaded guilty yesterday: attempted molesting of two boys, aged 14 and 15, on Jan. 28 in San Rafael.

Judge Goldstein said that if examination shows Lindley to be a sexual psychopath, he will be sent to Atascadero State Hospital for treatment. If not judged a psychopath, he will be returned to municipal court for sentencing.

Pair Arrested For Marijuana

Sausalito police arrested two San Francisco men today, saying they found a small amount of marijuana and a bottle of liquor in their car.

Booked into Marin County Jail were James F. Johnson, 29, the driver, and a passenger, Jerry Smith, 24. An 18-year-old San Francisco girl riding with them was released to her parents.

The arrest occurred in front of 310 Valley Street at 3:30 a.m.

the marshes.

Found in the station wagon, according to police, were brass and copper fittings stolen from Williams' shop and from other premises the thief is believed to have broken into during the night.

Police also are checking on the possibility the theft of a truck early today at the Nelson Fire Equipment Co., 523 Jacoby Street, San Rafael, may have been connected. It was unknown whether gear similar to that found in the station wagon was stolen from the Nelson firm.

When surprised in the Corte Madera shop, the thief had just completed peeling open a large floor safe, but had not managed to steal anything from it.

MASKED BANDIT HEAVES DEEP SIGH OF RELIEF

Sheriff's deputies told today about the masked bandit who never really had his heart in it.

Kenneth W. Campbell, 26, a vending machine service man, told officers he was on a routine call at 49 Cole Drive, Marin City, Thursday when he happened to glance behind him.

He said he saw a youth with a stocking pulled over his face and a small revolver held in the right hand. The man demanded money.

When Campbell, without thinking of his wallet, said: "I haven't got any," the would-be bandit heaved a sigh, turned round and walked away.

more than boys do nowadays," he claims.

Marin in those days was truly rural and Eberhart looks back with pleasure on excursions from San Francisco to tramp this county's hills and valleys or to spend the day fishing at Point Bonita.

Now he lives in once-pastoral Ross Valley, become one of the most densely populated parts of Marin, threaded by heavily-travelled Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, the county's major east-west route.

As he reads his daily paper he measures the chronicle of current events against a century of experience. But ask him for some words of guidance and he refuses with a smile. "Everyone must live his own life," he replies.

County Costs Prompt Library Union Study

By CAROL MARSH

Corte Madera's dues to the Marin County library system this year came to $32,115, including payment of $8,400 into a building fund county officials agree is earmarked to build a branch library in Novato.

Corte Madera is considering dropping out of the county library system to join with Larkspur in building a new library for the twin cities.

Tangible benefits of the county library membership consists of a branch library with 9,100 books, with an annual circulation of 36,000 books, open 31 hours a week, administered by the county system, and bookmobile service one hour a week at the Paradise Drive Shopping Center.

Larkspur's library has more than 21,000 books, an annual circulation of 54,000 books, is open 34 hours a week. The cost to Larkspur for the library this year was $20,245.

Corte Madera residents are allowed free use of the Larkspur library, which itself has free access to many of the benefits of the county system.

County administrative analyst Randall Shores, asked to explain the county's expenses related to Corte Madera's membership, said obvious local expenses connected with the local branch and bookmobile service came to $9,093.

This includes rent, librarian Dorothy Malmgrem's salary, janitor and telephone service, fringe benefits, bookmobile salary and operation, and the services of a part-time page.

Indirect expenses, Shores said, related exclusively to running the Corte Madera branch come to $21,153.

For this, Shores said, the library gets 3,000 to 4,000 books a year from the main library, which are the result of constant circulation of books among the branches.

The main library processes all of the branch's books, handles the business end of the branch operation, as well as book binding and mending. Corte Madera residents can order books from the main library at the local branch, which are delivered twice a week to Corte Madera. And Corte Madera residents can use the county library. This indirect service, Shores said, accounts for more than two-thirds of the cost of membership to Corte Madera taxpayers.

Only 5 cents of the 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax rate for the county library went into a building fund. The county system this year completed payment to the county for the library's $793,846 share of space at the Civic Center, with $86,153 left over in the building fund.

Corte Madera's share of the building fund was $8,400, according to Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher. The Marin County Board of Supervisors in January 1965 voted that Novato would be the first branch library built with the money in the fund, after the Civic Center cost was paid.

Shores estimated the cost of the planned Novato Library at $300,000, of which $100,000 might be paid by the federal government. He said it will be three or four years before the building fund is large enough to pay for the Novato library. In the meantime, Corte Madera will continue to contribute to the fund, if the town remains in the library system.

continue the program. The measure will be sent back to the Senate Monday and probably will go to a Senate Assemly will go to a Senate Assembly conference committee where a compromise could be drafted.

Four Republicans joined a solid bloc of Democrats in opposing the measure. All votes for the plan were cast by Republicans.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, led the opposition. He predicted the program would be operated for a few days at least after the Monday deadline.

"I think we can take time to work out a better bill than this," Unruh said.

Assembly Democrats objected to a section of the bill that would have required the counties to pay a larger share of the cost of the financially-troubled program.

In effect, the measure was two bills in one. One section would have renewed authorization for the program. The other section would have required the counties to pay half of increases in some program costs beginning in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The bill, introduced by Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, originally was intended only to overcome the effect of an attorney general's opinion that the program would overspend its authorization on Monday.

Attacks Soviet Union

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger today accused the Soviet Union of preventing true peace in Europe by insisting that West Germany accept the consequences of World War II.

School Plans On Narcotics To Be Outlined

The Marin County Board of Education will hear a report Monday from James Carroll, chairman of the board's educational services committee, on an immediate-action program for narcotics education.

The board meets at 8 p.m. in the county schools' office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Carroll said today he hoped the program would be under way by the time the board meets and that its three activities will be available to school districts next month.

The program includes first, preparation of instruction on marijuana and LSD for junior high and high school students; secondly, development of a drug abuse center with audio-visual and printed material for use by teachers, and, thirdly, a community-school resources bureau with a list of persons and agencies available to build classroom programs on narcotics instruction.

Carroll will also report on residential education: educationally handicapped classes at St. Vincent's School for Boys, Bayview Schools at San Quentin Prison and Sunny Hills School, and on pre-school education.

The board will consider a federally funded $11,900 project to add extra services and equipment at Loma Alta school, recommended for approval by the educational services committee Thursday.

A Rain-Free Weekend Seen

Marin's first rain-free weekend in more than a month was predicted today by the Weather Bureau.

Partly cloudy skies, with chances of rain only one in 10, were forecast. But cool temperatures would continue, the weatherman said.

A high pressure system off the coast brought an end to rainy conditions in most parts of the state, at least for the time being. However, light scattered snowfall was expected today in the mountains.

Superjets Authorized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson announced today that he has authorized the signing of contracts to build two prototype supersonic transport planes capable of speeds near 1,800 miles an hour.

OBITUARIES

William F. Bundesen Dies At 76

William Frederick Bundesen Sr., member of a Novato ranching family whose dairy interests in Marin go back 100 years, died yesterday at his home at 190 South Novato Boulevard at the age of 76.

Bundesen, who had a history of heart trouble, was believed to have died of a heart attack, but a routine autopsy was ordered.

Bundesen was born in Petaluma, to ranching parents who settled in the North Marin-South Sonoma area in the 1860s.

He was a dairy and poultry rancher all his life, operating ranches in various parts of Sonoma and Marin counties. Since his retirement some years ago, the Bundesen Novato ranch has been run by his son, Frederick Jr.

He was a member of the Nicasio Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Petaluma Chapter 26 of Herman's Sons; the Bennett Valley Grange of Santa Rosa, a charter member of the Wilson Gun Club of Novato, and an elder of the United Church of Christ.

He is survived by two sons, William F. Jr. of Novato and Herbert M. Bundesen of Santa Rosa; a daughter, Mrs. Aletha Bertsche of Geyserville; a sister, Mrs. Selda Wiley of Sacramento, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral will be Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Sorensen Funeral Home, 400 Washington Street, Petaluma. Contributions to favorite charities are preferred by the family.

JAMES H. DEIGNAN

James H. Deignan, a frequent visitor to Mill Valley, died yesterday at the age of 91 at his home in White Plains, N.Y., after a short illness.

On his annual visits, Deignan, an attorney, stayed at the Mill Valley home of his nephew, John E. Deignan, by whom he is survived.

Private funeral will be held in the East.

CRITICS

ovation when he told Congress: "Backed at home by resolve, confidence, patience, determination and continued support, we will prevail in Vietnam over Communist aggression."

Such influential members as House Speaker John W. McCormack and Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thought this appeal would "increase the spirit of resolve" at home to see the war through to victory.

Among the war policy critics, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., made clear he is not toning down his dissent. McGovern's critical speech touched off a Senate uproar over the propriety of Westmoreland's mission home.

Talking later at the White House to 26 governors and 100 congressmen, Westmoreland said North Vietnamese Gen. Ho Nuyen Giap listed growing dissent within the United States to the war as a major factor favoring eventual North Vietnamese success.

Westmoreland told his White House audience he deferred "to your judgment" in assessing Giap's appraisal, but added: "It is the central consideration."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was disappointed Westmoreland did not emphasize "the struggle to provide a better life for the people" of South Vietnam.

The railyard is the biggest in North Vietnam and the most important; the highway causeway handles traffic into Hanoi from the industrial Red River Valley.

Air Force pilots reported the Communists sent up 21 MIGs to challenge them.

DAVID HAWKINS

Retired Rear Admiral David Hawkins, 60, of 49 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera, died today in Marin General Hospital after collapsing in his home yesterday.

The Marin coroner's office ruled dead apparently from natural causes, pending an autopsy.

Hawkins, a graduate of the Naval Academy, was born in St. Joseph, Mo., and lived in California since 1955. He moved to Marin a year later.

Survivors include his wife, Anne, and a daughter, Mrs. Marie Robbins of Castro Valley.

The Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, is in charge of arrangements.

GILBERT F. KNEELAND

Funeral for Gilbert F. Kneeland of 526 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be at Mt. Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Kneeland, 54, died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was a retired correctional officer at San Quentin Prison. His father, the late Eugene Kneeland, was also a correctional officer at San Quentin.

Kneeland was a lifelong resident of Marin County although born at an Oakland hospital.

He is survived by his wife Marie S. Kneeland of San Rafael; a daughter, Mrs. Shanna Hall of Whittier; a son, Charles S. Daniels, in the U.S. Army in Vietnam; his mother, Helen Kneeland of Petaluma, and three grandchildren.

ANTHONY MANN

BERLIN (UPI) — American movie producer and director Anthony Mann died of a heart attack in his Berlin hotel room, it was announced today. He was 60.

His young wife, Anna, a Russian-born former Sadlers Wells ballerina was with him when he died.

They have a one-year-old son, Nicholas.

Mann made his home in London. He was in Berlin to make his 45th film, a spy story called "Dandy in Aspic."

His films included "El Cid," "Winchester 73," "Naked Spur," "Man from Laramie," "Bend of the River," "Strategic Air Command," "The Glen Miller Story," "Men in War," "God's Little Acre," "Heroes of Telemark" and "The Far Country."

An associate of Mann said his body would be flown to London, where he made his home, for cremation.

Mann was born in San Diego, Calif.

HELENE F. MAUBERRET

Requiem Mass for Helene F. Mauberret, mother of Edmond D. Mauberret of Mill Valley and sister of Marie Knapp of Tiburon, will be offered at 9 a.m. Monday at Notre Dame de Victoires Church, 566 Bush Street, San Francisco.

Burial will be at Los Gatos Memorial Park. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Halsted and Company, 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Mauberret died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital at 82. She is also survived by another son, Robert J. Mauberret of San Francisco, and two grandchildren. She was a native of San Francisco.

FRANK MOITOZA

Requiem Mass for Frank Garcia Moitoza, a resident of Tiburon for 56 years, was held yesterday at St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon. Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Moitoza died Thursday at the age of 91 at his home at 251 Moitoza Lane, the street built by him when his was the only house on the hill above Old St. Hilary's Church and only a handful of families lived on the peninsula. He had been in excellent health until suffering a mild stroke about a month ago.

He was born in San Pablo, Contra Costa County, but grew up in Pinole where his family moved while he was a child.

His early years were spent ranching on the family property outside Pinole, as a blacksmith and master tool dresser and an employee of the Hercules Powder Company.

He moved with his wife, Minnie Rogers Moitoza, and son, Frank Jr. to Tiburon in 1911 not long after his father perished in an explosion at the powder plant.

In Tiburon, he was blacksmith and tool dresser with Northwestern Pacific Railroad for many years, retiring in the late 1930's. During World War II, he came out of retirement to work as a foreman at Marinship in Sausalito, training younger men in blacksmithing skills suddenly in demand. He received a federal commendation for this service.

In 1946, he retired for the last time.

He was a member of Pinole Lodge, Unioa Portuguesa en estado da California.

Moitoza is survived by his wife; his son, who lives in Mill Valley; his sister, Virginia Marcos of Pinole, and three grandchildren.

MILDRED K. STEWART

Funeral for Mildred K. Stewart, mother of David M. Stewart of San Anselmo, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the chapel of N. Gray and Company, Divisadero and Post streets, San Francisco. Inurnment will be private.

Mrs. Stewart, 65, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. She was the wife of the late Malcolm L. Stewart. She was a past president of the National Restaurant Association and manager of restaurant operations for Manning's, Inc., in San Francisco.

Mrs. Stewart, a native of Wisconsin, was a member of the St. Francis Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Other survivors include her father, Albert Oosterhouse of Wisconsin; a brother, Carl Osterhouse of Indianapolis, Ind., and two grandchildren. The family prefers contributions to the San Francisco Heart Fund.

HAZEL WHITELEY

Mrs. Hazel Whiteley, 72, of 825 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, died early today in Marin General Hospital after collapsing in a Terra Linda beauty shop yesterday.

An autopsy was to be performed by the Marin coroner's office.

She was a native of Lathrop, Mo.

Survivors include her husband, John, and a son, Dr. Charles B. Peck of San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

FIRST MASS OF CONCELEBRATION

Marin priests, nuns and laity gathered Thursday night in the gymnasium of Marin Catholic High School to participate in the area's first mass of concelebration. Principal celebrant, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John McGarr, Catholic Dean of Marin, (right center), was joined in saying the mass by 14 other Marin priests. The ceremony concluded the weekly series of informative lectures given during the month at the Catholic school. (Lee Blodget photo)

Catholics Revolt In The Netherlands

THE HAGUE (UPI) —Roman Catholics in The Netherlands are staging a religious revolution which has split the nation's four million faithful and made itself felt in the highest quarters in Rome.

The fight is over future development of the church: Whether it should remain true to the traditions of 2,000 years and take its guidance only from the Pope, or widen its perspectives to meet the demands of 20th Century society in line with modern ecumenical movements.

Progressives undoubtedly have the upper hand. Already many Dutch Catholic churches have abandoned Latin as the standard language of services, and use modern hymn tunes rather than traditional music.

Others have changed the established form of Holy Communion, offer Mass on Saturdays instead of Sundays and even hold guitar-backed "pop" services for young people.

The progressives have forced into the open discussion on touchy topics such as celibacy of priests, forms of birth control and the right of the "typically Italian" Roman Curia to advise the Pope on all matters. They have been forthright in condemning what they regard as Rome's indecision on the future of the religion.

On the other side, traditionalist groups complain bitterly that the church in Holland is "doing away with itself" by even considering such renovations as permitting meat to be eaten on Friday or the possible use of a new catechism.

They condemn the progressives for acting as a pressure group without the backing of a majority of Dutch Catholics.

Caught in the middle are the Dutch hierarchy, generally progressive in outlook but firmly committed to follow Rome's lead.

In offical statements they have pleaded for renovation without rashness and for consideration for "those among our flock who cannot keep the pace."

This fence-sitting attitude has pleased neither side.

Progressives consider the hierarchy hidebound by tradition; traditionalists see the church leaders as ignoring the dangers of change — indeed the militant conservative group "Confrontatie" (confrontation) has several times bypassed the leadership to complain directly to Rome of the situation in the Netherlands.

The Dutch religious revolution is a post World War II development which has gathered strength in recent years.

Back in history Dutch Catholics were among the staunchest supporters of Rome's unquestioned authority, a feeling which persisted until the latter years of Pope Pius XII. By the time his successor, Pope John XXIII, announced plans for the Ecumenical Council, the progressive movement was expanding.

BEFORE PRESBYTERIANS

Red China Recognition To Be Issue

The 179th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., which opens in Portland, Ore., May 18, is expected to be a historic one.

On the assembly's agenda is approval of a new Confession of Faith which has already been approved by a majority of the church's presbyteries and synods.

In line with the new confession assembly delegates will be asked to adopt a new policy urging "opening the way for full participation by the People's Republic of China in international life."

Playing a major role shaping the church's paper on Red China is Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, who will soon be leaving Marin County for a national church post in New York.

During January of this year Rev. Baker spent several weeks in New York helping to prepare the first draft of the paper which will go to an assembly committee for revision before introduction to delegate.s

"Respomse to our undertaking was overwhelming at the United Nation," Baker said. "I was given a free ticket to gain information and for interviews."

One of the most helpful persons was Arthur Goldberg, the U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Baker said. Also he interviewed both Chinese Nationalists and several Chinese from the mainland who work as civil servants at the U. N.

Rev. Baker emphasized that the paper has been rewritten several times and has been checked by church theologians and laymen as well, including Henry Luce just prior to his death in February.

Following are some of the excerpts from the paper:

"We can say that the recognition of the People's Republic of China by the United States is desirable and eventual seating of the PRC in the United Nations is a necessity.

"Our Confession of Faith (expected to be approved before the presentation of this paper) calls us to 'fresh and responsible relations across every line of conflict.

"Indeed it may well be that the solution of the problem of Chinas' dangerous isolation may have to be accompanied with the change of status for the United States."

The paper also specifically recommends "that as soon as the way be clear, the United States join other nations including the People's Republic of China in participation in an implementation of an inclusive Asia Redevelopment Program."

'Situation Ethics' In Today's Religion

By JAMES F. DONOHUE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Joseph F. Fletcher, professor of ethics at Cambridge Episcopal Theological School, says he would amend the biblical Ten Commandments to read this way:

"Thou shalt not covet, ordinarily.

"Thou shalt not kill, ordinarily.

"Thou shalt not commit adultery, ordinarily."

"In other words," Fletcher says, "for me there are no rules —none at all."

Fletcher is considered America's leading exponent of "situation ethics," which he says "declares that anything and everything is right or wrong according to the situation—what is wrong in some cases would be right in others."

"And this candid approach," he says, "is indeed a revolution in morals."

Fletcher explained in an interview that a situationist looks only at individual, concrete cases, not at abstract principles.

"I look at situations one at a time," he said. "You ask me how often premarital sex would be all right and I would say relatively infrequently. Maybe only once in 100 times. But in some situations unmarried love could be infintely more moral than married unlove."

"A situationist would discard all absolutes except the one absolute: always to act with loving concern," he said. "Oh, I know, the word 'love' is a swampy one, a semantic confusion.

"Put it this way then: A situationist is prepared in any concrete case to suspend, ignore or violate any principle if by doing so he can effect more good than by following it.

"What is good? Good is first and foremost the good of people. Christians call it love, meaning neighbor-concern—to seek the well-being of people.

"The good is what works. Apart from the helping or hurting of people, ethical judgments or evaluations are meaningless."

Situation ethics has been criticized, especially by Roman Catholics, who uphold certain absolute moral laws. An American Jesuit, the Rev. Robert Gleason, said: "It is not in Christian tradition to present love as the exclusive motive for moral action."

Fletcher added: "Situation ethics is criticized for saying everything is relative.

"But we say, 'Look boys, this is the 20th century. The scientifically sophisticated world view is relativistic. You are going to be left out in the cold if you think the moral sciences are somehow an exception to this rule and this influence'."

Fletcher, in turn, criticizes persons he calls legalists—"people who like to wallow or cower in the security of the law."

"They want to maintain absolutes of good and evil, but they are not going to get away with it," he said. "Goodness is what happens to a human act, it is not in the act itself."

Interfaith San Quentin Dinner Set

The sixth interfaith appreciation dinner at San Quentin Prison has been rescheduled for May 16.

Following a concert by outside and chapel musicians in the garden chapel at 6:30 p.m., the dinner will be held in the south dining hall.

The event was originally scheduled for Feb. 11 but was postponed because of a temporary ban on outside visitors.

The interfaith dinner is organized each year by the prison's staff chaplains to express appreciation of the volunteers and staff workers of the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish chapel programs.

Chaplains on the staff are John Mullen, Thomas Ahern, Byron E. Eshelman, George R. Tolson and Norman Twersky.

Hollis Will Speak On His Soviet Tour

Dr. Virgil Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, will speak on the Soviet Union at 9:40 a.m. tomorrow before the Novato Community Methodist Church's Adult Inquirers Class.

The school administrator will show films taken last year on an educational tour of Russia.

Bible Universal, Claims Theologian

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —A Lutheran theology professor says denominational differences cannot be detected in the Bible. "It ;our respective traditions that separate us most," according to Rev. Martin H. Scharleman.

Rev. Mr. Scharleman said Christians should reexamine their respective doctrines "in the light of Scripture as it is being interpreted today."

Lesson Topic

The parable of the Prodigal Son will be the responsive reading in a Bible lesson on "Everlasting Punishment" to be read in all Christian Science churches tomorrow.

St. Paul's Sets Programs On Drugs, Their Effects

LECTURER — Paul A. Erickson, Christian Science lecturer, will give a talk at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the First Church of Christ Scientist, Butte and Sacramento streets, in Sausalito. He will discuss "spiritual perception."

A series of two programs on drugs and the psychedelic experience will be presented tomorrow and May 7 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 1123 Court Street in San Rafael.

The programs are designed to provide information for both youth and parents concerning the use and misuse of drugs.

Tomorrow's program will feature two speakers from Synanon House in Marshall — Nick Roberts and Ken Gulotta.

The second program will be a panel on the various forms of psychedelic experience. It will be composed of a psychiatrist, a person who has taken an LSD trip, one familiar with LSD research prior to federal restrictions and a speaker acquainted with the legality of the drug.

The sessions will be held in the Parish Hall and Room One of the church at 6:30 p.m. Both youth (above the seventh grade) and adults are invited.

MY FAIR LADY

Eliza Doolittle would feel right at home in this stately country mansion with its touches of Edwardian grandeur and magnificent English style gardens. Built in 1906 and modernized over the years, this venerable estate has seen the great and near-great enter its baronial hall and gather in the drawing room and high ceilinged music room. The dining room, with its breakfast alcove, has seated as many as 30 for dinner, and the social room with wet bar will hold dozens for more casual entertaining. 8 bedrooms, 6½ baths, 2 caretakers' cottages — all within the 2⅓ acres of grounds in the heart of old Ross.

EAST PARK HOMES

Design Plus Comfort

DESIGN — It's obvious in the interior and the exterior of every EAST PARK HOME. There are 4 floor plans with 3 different exterior designs for each, giving a total of 12 individual homes to choose from. In designing these homes, the architect has combined the rich textures and colors of natural materials to give each home its own individual style and beauty. These elegant homes have been planned so that every street in EAST PARK will have the style, individuality and prestige of a custom home community.

COMFORT — It surrounds you the moment you enter an EAST PARK HOME. These unique Wes Bailey homes include rich detailing that gives every home its own custom-designed look. You see it in such features as the sunken living room and separate family room with fireplace and bar. Graceful wrought iron railings, recessed kitchen light fixtures, master bedroom suite with separate dressing area are among the dozens of custom features you'll find at EAST PARK.

Prices start at

Decisions Grow Out Of Rumors

SANTA BARBARA — Rumors, despite their disastrous potential, are seen by a University of California sociologist here as a form of collective problem-solving.

Men caught together in an unclear situation "attempt a meaningful interpretation by pooling their intellectual resources," according to Dr. Tamotsu Shibutani.

"In order to act intelligently, such persons seek news," he writes in a new book, "Improvised News: A Sociological Study of Rumor" (Bobbs-Merrill). "Rumor is essentially a type of news."

Dr. Shibutani's study of rumors drawn from four years of field observation and an examination of historical cases, has revealed that the common concept of rumor as a statement passed along a chain of persons, with each making changes or embellishments, is oversimplified.

"Rumor," he states, "is not an individual creation that spreads, but arises in the collaboration of many."

Participants enact various roles, he notes.

Firt there is the messenger, who brings information to the group; then the interpreter who tries to place the news in context; the skeptic, who expresses doubt or urges caution; the protagonist, who, when there is more than one interpretation, sponsors one over another (he may also become the group's agitator); and the auditor, who listens but says little.

Last there is the decision-maker, who takes the lead in determining what ought to be done.

Brothers Claim Longevity Record

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — The five Moore brothers claim some sort of record for longevity.

John is 95; W. R., 93; George, 90; James, 87; and Samuel, 81.

All live here except James, a resident of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Constantine To Make Tour Of Army Camps

ATHENS (AP) — Greece began today a weekend of Orthodox Easter celebrations during which King Constantine is to make his first public appearance and tour of military camps since the armed forces took over the nation eight days ago.

The king and members of the new government are to mark the beginning of Easter with a religious service in a square before this capital's main cathedral. At midnight, the king traditionally proclaims, "Christ is risen."

Constantine visits military camps Sunday to crack red eggs with the soldiers, a custom that in the past has given the king a chance to fraternize with the armed forces.

Whether the same kind of public association with the troops would occur tomorrow remained to be seen. His statement of qualified acceptance of the military regime Wednesday included a call for a quick return to parliamentary government.

Since the coup, Constantine has been in seclusion at Tatoi, his country estate 16 miles from Athens.

No curfew was in force and Greeks could leave the country with a special permit. There was no censorship on outgoing cables and telephone calls, although foreign publications were barred. Local newspapers and magazines were heavily censored.

Brig Gen. Stylianos Patacos, the interior minister, said 6,509 persons were arrested following the coup.

Patacos said 1,328 have been released and 2,534 were being kept on the island of Yioura. He gave no details about the remainder, except to say that he discussed ths condition of all 5,181 detainees with King Constantine Friday night.

Bolinas Plans For Easing Of Traffic Viewed

Plans to ease traffic and parking problems in Bolinas have been made, but must be approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors before they can be carried out, Bolinas Community Inc. was told last night.

William Ott of the traffic and parking committee said county Traffic Engineer James Robinson prepared the changes after making a survey with the California Highway Patrol. Lower speed limits would be set and parking limited in congested areas along Wharf Road, Brighton Street and Terrace Avenue, streets most used by tourists and visitors.

The board also discussed higher rentals at the community center building to meet upkeep costs, but took no action.

Tiburon Seats A New Planner

Rampton W. Harvey took his oath of office Thursday night as a member of the Tiburon Planning Commission, which met in special session to study proposed zoning ordinance.

Harvey was appointed to the commission Monday by the city council to replace Stephen H. Nash, who resigned.

Erik Rettig, who has been vice-chairman, was unanimously elected chairman, and John McChesney as vice-chairman. Harvey was assigned to the board of design review, replacing Rettig.

Boat Motor Stolen

Arthur Flower of Channel Boat Sales, 115 Third Street, San Rafael, reported to police yesterday the theft of a $859 outboard motor together with a canvas boat top and side curtains worth $150.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

California's nearly $1 billion state medicare program will come to a near halt within days unless the legislature acts fast, the Reagan administration says.

THE ASSEMBLY

Bills passed:

PARKS — Gives uniformed county park employees authority to arrest persons committing misdemeanors; AB 339, Milias, R-Gilroy.

Juries — Prohibits elected public officials from serving on grand juries; AB 459, Milias.

Amendments rejected:

Medical — Amendments to bill which provides for medical assistance payments after April 30; AB 583, Veneman, R-Modesto.

THE SENATE

Met briefly and recessed until Monday.

Abercrombie Clears Issues In Drug Talk

Probation Officer Neil Abercrombie yesterday declared he did not advocate legalization of uncontrolled use of psychedelic drugs in remarks before an educators' workshop at Ross General Hospital last week.

Some of the throng attending the workshop understood Abercrombie as proposing removal of laws against use of the drugs.

HIS MEANING

Abercromibe said what he meant to advocate was "strict legal controls on the use and distribution of hallucinogenic drugs," but not simply handling as a criminal matter. "Handling on a strictly criminal basis will not solve the social and medical problems attendant on drug abuse," he said.

"People who are sick should be put in hospitals, not prisons," said Abercrombie, who in his speech strongly criticized the severity of present laws against drug use.

Use of the hallucinogenic drugs, he said yesterday, "should be controlled through some kind of civil proceedings."

Abercrombie declared he would not advocate removing criminal penalties for "pushing" drugs for use by others.

ALTERNATIVE

In his remarks at the Ross Hospital workshop, which included an initial speech of about 10 minutes and numerous responses to audience questions, Abercrombie offered, as an alternative to punishment for the use of LSD and other hallucinogenic drugs, government-controled psychedelic centers, "where you could go on a psychedelic vacation instead of going to Disneyland."

He said today, however, that he had not intended to advocate this, but merely offered it as a possible alternative that had been mentioned. He said he saw the proposal advanced as a serious suggestion in a University of California research report.

Abercrombie further stated his remarks were not a dissent to anything said by four psychiatrists who also spoke at the hospital workshop, as they were characterized in an Independent-Journal report.

"I did not and do not dissent in any way from the views of these men as printed and quoted in the column," he said. "I agree in detail with very quotation attributed to each of these gentlemen."

HIS DISSENT

The psychiatrists dealt principally with the effects of hallucinogenic drugs, from LSD down to marijuana — which Abercrombie [illegible]

Abercrombie's dissent, he stressed, was to the treatment of drug use as a criminal matter, not to what the doctors said.

In a report Tuesday on arrest of a youth apparently on a "bad LSD trip," Charles E. Newman of Corte Madera police wrote: "If the esteemed probation officer that advocated making this junk legal could see these people at their finest, I'm sure he would possibly veer a mite to our side."

Newman said he referred to Abercrombie. However, Abercrombie emphasized that he does not advocate making drugs legal, but urges civil rather than merely criminal procedures to combat them.

Marin Group Honors Reagan

Eighteen directors of Marin Republican Council called on Gov. Ronald Reagan in Sacramento Thursday and named him honorary director of MRC.

Harry Diner, president of MRC, presented the Governor with a plaque designating him an honorary director.

The group also met with State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, and fellow MRC directors Paul Haerle and James Crumpacker, who now serve on the governor's staff.

Petaluma River Marina Proposed

A marina for 270 boats and allied yachting facilities on the Petaluma River at Petaluma has been proposed by Charles T Hover of Days Island, Novato in an application to the Army Corps of Engineers.

Hover has for a permit to dredge a basin and expand an existing 50-foot levee to 150 feet, Lt. Col. Frank C. Boerger, district engineer, has announced. The marina east of Highway 101 where it crosses the river would have a transient float, fuel dock and boat hauling facilities.

Protests may be submitted in triplicate no later than May 27 to the U. S. Army Engineer District, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, Boerger said.

Driver Is Shaken In Auto Accident

Audrey Mare Lang, 46, of 2790 Heatherstone Drive, Marinwood, suffered minor injuries Thursday when her eastbound car hit a parked auto on Blackstone Drive in Marinwood, California Highway Patrol reported.

Mrs. Lang said she swerved to avoid another auto and hit a parked sedan owned by Dale W. Clayton of 269 Blackstone Drive. She refused hospitalization.

Auditorium Used As Dorm For Laborers

MARYSVILLE (AP) — This community's civic auditorium has been pressed into kitchen and dormatory duty to help farm laborers out of work due to crop-delaying rains.

This was the situation yesterday as Abe Leal, manager of the local State Farm Labor office, commented "there's practically no work available."

The Marysville Memorial Auditorium was giving aid to about 60 men newly arrived from all parts of the West. This Sacramento Valley agricultural community's Twin Cities Rescue Mission also was busy.

Marysville Mayor George Bird and Yuba County Supervisor Karl Cozad appealed for public loans or donations of beds for the auditorium makeshift dormatory.

[illegible] men were reported [illegible] under bridges, on levees and on store doorsteps. They said they had no where else to turn because rains had delayed crops everywhere.

Last year's agriculture production in Yuba and Sutter counties totaled $95 million. This year's forecasts are gloomy.

Peach growers say their outlook is all right, but some rice growers say they won't plant at all this year and the prune and pear growers say they don't know what will happen yet.

Leal said "some farmers may jump the gun" and begin hiring next week if the weather clears. Some farmers predict it will be two weeks after the rains stop before jobs open.

The lack of farm work was also felt in the Richland housing area operated by the Sutter County Housing Authority in nearby Yuba City. The manager said 30 families may have to be evicted from their low-cost public rental units because they are months behind in payments due to the work shortage.

Growers say that when the farm work does begin they don't expect to have enough workers.

Owner Awarded $5,300 In Suit

Marian Frick, owner of an office building at 300 Valley Street, Sausalito, was awarded $5,300 by a Marin Superior Court jury Thursday night in her $110,000 cross-complaint suit against the building contractor and an engineer.

The contractor, Don Presco of 110 Belvedere Street, San Rafael originally sued her for $32,222 he alleged was still due him on the 1964-65 construction. Marian Frick then filed her suit against Presco and the engineer, Joseph W. Burton, alleging faulty workmanship, for loss of rent, bad engineering, and work done without authorization.

The jury awarded her $3,300 from Presco and $1,950 from Burton. Trial began April 11 before Judge Harold J. Haley.

Dorado Ruling Frees A Youth

OAKLAND (AP) — A murder charge against Danny Ellingsen, 16, was dismissed yesterday on a ruling based on the state Supreme Court's Dorado decision.

Superior Court Judge Redmond C. Staats ruled that the police gained a confession from Danny without properly informing him of his constitutional rights.

Ellingsen was accused of killing Mrs. Kimmie Turner, 30, of Alameda, who was stabbed 52 times. He had been staying with his grandmother in an upstairs flat in the same building.

No New Patients Are Being Taken

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No new patients are being accepted at the psychiatric ward of the U.S. Public Service Hospital in San Francisco.

A staff shortage caused the situation. Dr. Norbert McNamara, chief of psychiatry at the hospital, said Friday that the four or five patients left in the 11-bed ward would be phased out as soon as possible.

He said the ward would then close down completely until July 1 when he hoped more staff and funds would be available.

Pickets End Pastor Protest

NEWARK (UPI) — Parishioners at St. Edward's Roman Catholic Church have ended their picketing to protest the transfer of the assistant pastor.

The demonstration was stopped yesterday after Father Guido Ceotto, the assistant pastor, made a personal appeal to his supporters in the church parking lot.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Meningococcal Infections Can Be Very Swift Killers

VAN DELLEN

Meningococci can kill a human faster than any other infectious agent. These biscuit-shaped bacteria enter the body through the nose and throat, invade the bloodstream, and settle in the membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord. The outcome is a serious form of meningitis that proved fatal in 7 out of 10 victims prior to the discovery of the sulfonamides. Today 95 per cent recover.

FOR MANY decades meningococcal infections were more prevalent among military personnel especially when new recruits were sent to established camps. Many of the regulars were carriers who passed along the microbe to the newcomers, a certain percentage of whom developed the disease.

We do not know why many adults harbor these virulent organisms in their nose and throat without becoming ill. In all probability immunity from a past inflammatory process that remained localized in the throat is present.

Meningococcal infections are increasing in the general population.

THE MAJORITY occur in infants, teen-agers, and young adults. In addition, some forms of the organism are resistant to sulfonamides and antibiotics.

The disease spreads from person to person in much the same way as do colds. Many develop a sore throat with dryness or a slight nasal discharge. Shortly thereafter the organisms get into the boodstream leading to chills, fever, aching, headache, nausea, and vomiting. In some, a mottled purplish rash also may ensue.

PAIN AND STIFFNESS of the neck are the first signs of meningeal irritation involving the brain and spinal cord. The headache persists and the victim develops muscle spasms and becomes restless and irritable. The blood vessels in the eye are engorged and unless treatment is started immediately the individual may lapse into coma.

Laboratory diagnosis is made by identifying meningococci in the sputum, blood, or spinal fluid. The latter is done frequently. Remedies include sulfadiazine, sufisoxazole, or a broad spectrum antibiotic.

(Dr Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelops accompanies request to the I-J.)

TENDER FINGERTIPS

B. R. I. writes: The sense of touch at the ends of my fingers is impaired and the tops are tender. What could be responsible for this condition?

REPLY

A variety of neurological disorders could induce changes in sensation at the ends of the fingers. Included in the list are neuritis, nerve pressure, multiple sclerosis, ataxia, and degeneration of the spinal cord. Other orignis are anemia, arthritis, and the menopause.

ULCER

P. S. writes: What does prepyloric ulcer mean?

REPLY

The pyloric sphincter is located at the exit of the stomach. "Pre" means "before." By combining the two words we have an ulcer located almost but not quite at the pylorus.

REDFACED

F. V. writes: My face gets real red at least once a day, mostly after I finish work. This lasts for at least half an hour. Could you tell me why?

REPLY

Since you neglected to mention your age, it is difficult to say whether your difficulty is blushing or flushing.

SWOLLEN TOES

A. L. writes: My big toes swell when I drink beer. Why?

REPLY

If you are not a victim of gout, you may have an allergy to one of the ingredients in beer or to the brass on the footrail.

Novato Man Found Dead In Jail Cell

A 66-year-old Novato man was found dead today in a cell bunk of Marin County Jail, where he was serving a weekend sentence for drunken driving.

Homer Aitus Owen, a salesman, of 1617 Vallejo Avenue was discovered at 3:15 a.m. by cellmate Ralph Edward Simmons.

An autopsy was ordered today but Deputy County Coroner Keith C. Craig said death appeared due to natural causes. Owen had been under the care of a doctor for high blood pressure, said Craig.

Owen was a weekender, serving the second two-day stretch of a five-day jail sentence.

He checked into his cell at 6 p.m. yesterday and was last seen alive when he went to sleep in his bunk at 9:30 p.m., according to sheriff's deputies.

Kuchel Needs To Give California Some Time

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In some respects, Senator Tom Kuchel is politically a victim of his own idealistic and conscientious nature.

He is totally dedicated to the task of serving the people of California (and the rest of America) in the U.S. Senate.

Like a great competitive athlete, he gives his best on every effort, shutting out everything that would detract. This very dedication to his work in Washington has, so to speak, produced a crack in his political armor.

You might say he has neglected his political fence-mending, ignoring it because it would take him from his main job of giving his full time and energy to the multitude of problems and issues which face our nation in the capitol.

You can hear it said that "he is in political trouble back home," which is to say some political bigwigs, who feel they have been ignored by Senator Kuchel somewhere along the line, are less than completely enthusiastic about working energetically for his re-election.

To repeat, in some respects Senator Kuchel is a political victim of his own idealistic and conscientious nature.

DISTASTEFUL AS IT MAY be, Senator Kuchel must now temporarily put aside his transcendent concerns for the problems before the Senate. He must begin to visit California more often. His visits must be longer as well as more frequent.

He must roll up his sleeves and go to work in the political vineyard.

Privately, he tells close friends that he knows all this.

Then, almost plaintively, he asks rhetorically, "But how can I neglect all the really important things which need doing right here in the Senate?"

REMEMBER THAT FABLED candidate who "would rather be right than president"?

Listening to Senator Kuchel express some of his most personal thoughts, you come away with the impression that he well might prefer political defeat to any feeling that he had neglected his duty in Washington.

He would do well to understand that spending some considerable time in California, starting right now, could do much more than vastly improve his chances for re-election; it could increase his capacity to serve the people he represents.

For about 15 years, he has devoted his energies almost exclusively to his work in Washington.

California and its people have changed. Situations, needs and viewpoints have changed.

Tom Kuchel could better serve us in another six-year term in the U.S. Senate if he spent the next 12 months "politicking" among us — that is, visiting the state at every opportunity and meeting with as many groups and individuals as possible.

LET IT BE RECALLED that when Hubert Scudder first went to Washington as First District Representative in Congress, he was firm in the conviction that a two-year term for Congressmen was too short. It required too much political effort and left too little time for representing fully the interests of constituents.

Many terms later, Congressman Scudder reluctantly changed his mind. He came around to the view that two-year term for Congressmen required that they make frequent visits "home" and keep in close touch with constituents. This, Scudder observed, kept the House of Representatives more immediately responsive to the public will.

The founding fathers set the term of office for Senators at six years so as to make them less likely to be "stampeded" into unwise action. But every six years a Senator needs to bring himself up to date with his personal, first-hand contacts in the State whose people he represents.

In any event, it is to be hoped — for the greater good of California and the nation—that Senator Kuchel wins renomination and re-election next year.

Equally for the greater good of California and the nation, it is to be hoped that Senator Kuchel will spend more time between now and next year's elections meeting with groups and individuals whom he represents.

This would benefit the Senator politically.

And it would benefit all of us in that his refreshed knowledge of Californians' problems and viewpoints would enable Senator Kuchel to represent us even better for his next six-year term.

As Lovely As A Dirty Mop

Now that the Acacias are bloomed out, the remains of the blossoms are hanging soggily on the tree and falling to the ground, bit by bit. They are as lovely as a dirty mop.

We suppose that this is some kind of balance in Nature. A balance between beauty and ugliness. Perhaps a reminder not to be vain, a reminder of how ephemeral and fleeting mere physical beauty is.

Or so it seems to us.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Ralph Grossi of Novato and Mervyn T. Zimmerman of Marshall for winning $400 California Bankers Association scholarships as outstanding Future Farmers of America.

BRICKBATS to the dog poisoner in San Rafael, who is leaving strychnine with meat to lure unwary pets to agonizing death.

A BOUQUET to Jared Rossman, student body president of Drake High School, who won a $4,000 scholarship awarded by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Rossman also won second place in liberal arts in the Bank of America Achievement awards.

BOUQUETS to five Marin choral groups for winning top honors in the California Music Educators Association festival last week.

A BOUQUET to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton F. Stocking of Ross on their golden wedding anniversary. Both have been Marin residents for more than 60 years.

BOUQUETS to 15 youths who completed a 45 mile hike from Santa Venetia to Stinson Beach last Saturday.

A BOUQUET to Robert J. Kelly of San Rafael, who helped revive a 2-year-old neighbor boy, who had fallen into the family pool.

HEARING AID FOR DOG

Peter, a cocker spaniel, has the first hearing aid among the 250,000 dogs in Sydney, Australia.

The 10-year-old pet was given the device by his master, who fitted it by taking plaster cast of the dog's drooping ears.

The aging spaniel was able to hear his master's commands for the first time in years. He came when called, sat down and obeyed all instructions, obviously happy with his newly restored ability to hear.

At first the dog wore the device for a few hours at a time to become accustomed to sound again. "Now I don't think he could be without it," his pleased owner said.

Hearing is easy to take for granted. Show your personal appreciation for it by listening carefully to the words of wisdom that God sends to you through other people.

Given an attentive and sympathetic ear, too, to persons who are troubled or sorrowful and to whom few will listen.

"If you love to listen you will gain knowledge, and if you incline your ear you will become wise."

(Sirach 6:33)

Grant, O Jesus, that I may listen even more than I speak.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

What Kind Of Service Is This?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your paper printed an article last week which described the mental breakdown of a resident of this county. You were also kind enough to identify the person by name and address so that all who read the article would be fully informed.

Would you be kind enough to inform this writer and your readers why you choose to use your paper in this way. In addition, please tell me what you contributed to the community with this article.

Volunteer Visitor Boon To 'Mary'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I have just come from my weekly visit with a very dear friend. The American Red Cross introduced us to each other a few weeks ago and even in such a short time, "Mary" and I have formed a rapport that one rarely finds even after years of friendship with others.

We spend a happy hour or two each week in her room at the Convalescent Home exchanging light chatter or taking a walk in the sunshine or enjoying the movie shown in the dining room on certain afternoons.

My good fortune in finding "Mary" is a direct result of an announcement I read in the Independent-Journal of a Training for Volunteer Visitors at the Red Cross in San Rafael. I phoned Red Cross for more information, learning that Volunteer Bureau also helps with recruiting for this personal visiting program.

The plan proved to be simple and interesting. I attended a series of four weekly meetings at the Red Cross headquarters along with more than 20 other volunteers, both men and women. . . .

Shortly after I had completed the "course," Miss Virginia Hinshaw, Coordinator of the Volunteer Visitors, called to give me "Mary's" name and brief background of interests and capabilities, and I was at last an active member of the Volunteer Visitors Service.

My first meeting with "Mary" was delightful. In fact, before I realized, two hours had elapsed. Because of family obligations, I am not able to visit the same time each week, or even the same day. This makes no difference in the Volunteer Visitor program as long as the one hour a week minimum is achieved. . . .

This has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my life. I look forward to my afternoons with "Mary." It may be that I am helping to brighten a small corner of "Mary's" life, but not nearly as much as she brightens mine.

Thanks Extended For 'Game Day'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On behalf of the Novato High School Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, its Executive Staff of Cadet Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers, and the Aerospace Education Instructors we take this opportunity to thank the very dedicated ladies of this community, who took the time and effort to organize and participate in the "Game Day" program at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Open Mess on March 30, 1967. The $160 donated to the AFJROTC Reserve Fund was used by the Corps to help defray expenses of the very successful Cadet "Spring" Military Ball held on April 8, 1967 at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Open Mess.

We also would like to thank the general public, parents, and others who have supported another money raising projects such as Car Washes, Wrist Calendar sales, Tooth-Brush Set sales, and Newspaper Collection drive. These profits will be used to defray administrative and operational expenses for Field Trips not otherwise covered by appropriated funds of the United States Air Force or the Novato Unified School District (Novato High School). On Wednesday, May 31, 1967 such a field trip is planned for the Cadet Corps to Edwards Air Force Base Test Center, California to the Astronaut Pilot Training School where Cadets will meet trainees and see first-hand the famous X-15 and XB-70 plus others making aerospace headlines daily in our newspapers.

Through such wholehearted support of the community we can achieve our objectives of promoting habits of orderliness, precision, and respect for constituted authority; encourage a high degree of personal honor, self-reliance and discipline; provide education for Civil Defense and promote Patriotism; and finally provide a means for students to become better informed citizens on matters of national defense and the challenges of aerospace.

Find One 'Sane' Person Committed

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Last week, Joseph Kessel's letter stated that "sane persons" were unnecessarily committed to the state hospital by lazy judges and overpowerful court-appointed psychiatrists. I am sure the judges can defend themselves.

As one of the court-appointed psychiatrists, I challenge Mr. Kessel to produce a single unnecessary commitment from Marin County during the last five years. To fail to find such a case might be libel.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On Friday, April 21, there appeared in the I-J a handsome picture of the young people who performed for the Thursday Musical Club the previous day. I am very proud of the work of my students at College of Marin, but I must point out that I have not had the pleasure of working with two of the young people in the picture. Mike Mello and Jean Franzini are students that any teacher would be happy to claim, but they have been trained by Faith France and to her must go the credit.

Thank you for your friendly coverage of our activities.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A NEWLY published little work called "The Language of Flowers" should prove invaluable to bashful lovers. For instance, if you want to tell a girl "Your looks freeze me," just send her a spray of ficoides. Indian jasmine signifies "I attach myself to you." A handful of dried white rose petals should stop an over-impetuous suitor squarely in his tracks: The message is "I prefer death to the loss of innocence." A gift of wild daisies seems safest for the cautious folk. This only means "I'll think it over."

Vietnam Critics Face Tough Chore When They Attack Cabot Lodge

WASHINGTON — The critics of war in Vietnam took after Gen. William C. Westmoreland for criticizing the critics but they will have a hard time doing the same thing to Henry Cabot Lodge who said the same thing as Westmoreland.

In this memorable week the two top Americans closest to the war for years — Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam, and Lodge, retiring U. S. ambassador to Vietnam — summed up their thinking within a day of each otheer

Thus this week the war was escalated on two fronts — for the United States intensified it by bombing the MIG bases in North Vieetnam and the argument over the war got hotter and more caustic.

WESTMORELAND, the U.S. military boss in Vietnam since 1964, this week in a New York speech went into detail to justify this country's presence in the war and in doing so answered many arguments of the critics.

In doing so he hit at them, saying the critcicisms here at home gives the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese an impression of Americans disunity and encourages them to keep fighting.

One senator and constant critic, George McGovern, D-S.D., resented the general's statement which, although brief, was a stinging attack on the critics. He claimed Westmoreland had "obviously" been put up to saying it by President Johnson.

BUT LODGE, first named ambassador to Vietnam in 1963 by President John F. Kennedy, in a long interview with the New York Times also made a brief but pointed criticism of the critics.

"I think," he said, "the biggest thing outside Vietnam would be if, in the United States, we were to give the appearance of unity and if it were no longer possible for Hanoi to toss in some kind of bone and we all start snarling at each other over it. They have been very good at that, I think."

Lodge's interview was cool, well thought-out, and realistic about the whole picture in Vietnam. He doesn't think it is an easy road.

McGOVERN, IN A Senate speech Tuesday, dismissed as a "rationalization" the domino theory for this country's part in the war, a theory enunciated by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1954 and followed ever since by Johnson and Kennedy.

This was it: If the Communists were allowed to grab off Vietnam, the rest of Southeast Asia would fall like dominoes: Burma, Thailand, Indonesia, Formosa, the Philippines, and even Australia.

But Lodge who gave his interview before McGovern talked, supported the domino theory after four years of watching the Communist effort to take over South Vietnam. He said "the well-advertised domino theory applies here."

BOTH McGOVERN AND Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who has probably been more critical than anyone, have called the attempt by the North Vietnamese Communists to take over South Vietnam a civil war and said the United States butted into it.

McGovern said there was "no American interest, no issues of political freedom, no moral imperative that called for sending troops and bombers into Vietnam."

Lodge and Westmoreland both contradicted that viewpoint. Both called the struggle between the two Vietnams the result of aggression from the North.

The Lodge interview and the Westmoreland speech, taken together, are a detailed explanation for the U.S. involvement. They hit on some of the major points which the critics try to use to condemn the involvement.

Racist Hate Groups Are Still With Us

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG

Some people use hate like a car uses gasoline, to keep going. Most of us may harbor some petty prejudice about which we are ashamed and fight against, but there are some people so twisted and warped that they cannot exist without being dominated by passionate hatred toward members of a minority group.

Few know this better than do Negroes, who have been the prime targets for American racists for years. But other groups also catch some of the poison spewed out by the hatemongers. Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans, Indians, Jews, Catholics,—almost any group is prone to feel the bark, and sometimes the bite, of the haters.

AFTER THE HORRORS of Nazi persecutions, which killed 6 million people in Europe simply because they were Jews or had Jewish ancestors, it is particularly disturbing to find that anti-Semitism still exists. In Russia, Jews are not able to freely practice their religion or to continue their language and cultural life and are subject to restrictions not placed on other ethnic minorities. And there have been incidents in Argentina and other countries in which extremist elements are reported to have attacked Jewish citizens.

Here in America, groups like the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party bait Jews as well as Negroes, and some of the people familiar from Fascist movements of the 1930's are crawling out of the woodwork to continue their favorite pastime of sowing hate and pitting group against group.

And even people who should know better let their prejudices get the best of them. An example of this was the recent school board election in Wayne, N.J., in which two Jewish candidates were defeated after their religion was made a campaign issue. It is not surprising that this revolting incident took place in a town which has few Negro families and where minority groups are excluded from the "better" sections.

NEGROES KNOW THAT when someone admits to hating Jews, or Catholics, or Spanish speaking people, he probably has it in for Negroes too. And they know that while extremist groups fan the flames of prejudice, they succeed only because some people are so insecure and fearful of their own status that they turn to racism. Because of their intimate knowledge of the effects of hate, Negroes aren't falling for the anti-Semitic line.

There has been some discussion of this lately, but I know of no responsible Negro leader who has not forcibly spoken out against hatred of other groups. When a Negro monthly magazine ran an anti-Semitic article, two members of its advisory board—author James Baldwin and actor-playwright Ossie Davis—resigned and expressed their anger at the immorality of anti-Semitism.

A SOON TO BE published Anti-Defamation League study made by the University of California proves that, if anything, Negroes "feel more friendly toward Jews than toward other whites." Asked about treatment by landlords, storekeepers, and employers, an appreciable number of Negroes said that Jews were better than other whites, while most said there was no difference. Forty-five per cent believed Jews to be more in favor of civil rights than other whites, only 3 per cent felt Jews are less in favor.

Many of the groups which preach hate against Jews and Negroes as well as against other minorities have American or Christian in their names, but they are as un-American and un-Christian as it is possible to get.

Three-Pronged Air Siege Pummels North Vietnam

By HORST FAAS

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam is now under air siege from three directions — from the sea to the east, from South Vietnam, and from Thailand on the west. For reasons other than military, this air power is not used at more than a fraction of its potential, but it is nonetheless formidable.

By latest figures, 1,700 fixed-wing aircraft are now deployed in South Vietnam, and some 2,000 helicopters. The string of bases for this fleet runs all the way from the 17th Parallel south to the Mekong Delta. There is no place within South Vietnam that is not within range of quick air support.

Afloat, the so-called Yankee Station of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Gulf of Tonkin is always manned with three carriers. A fourth rotates in and out of the area on R&R, rest and recreation. Each carrier's complement is 60 to 90 planes, with the exception of the nuclear-powered Enterprise, which carries 70 to 100 planes.

In addition, there are several Marine helicopter carriers offshore, available to land a Marine "fire brigade" team in case of trouble along the coast or inland.

The United States air buildup in Thailand is growing steadily. B52 bombers are now stationed at Utapao, and other types of planes at many other Thai bases.

It is an open secret that there are at least two helicopter fields in Laos, close up to the border of North Vietnam. From these fields, the whirlybirds take off to rescue American airmen downed in enemy country. A similar field in eastern Thailand performs rescue missions over the Ho Chi Minh trail, which in this area winds down through Laos.

The air effort against North Vietnam is unlike that of any previous war. Targets are limited by political order, and the enemy's defense is relatively weak. There are no great bomber raids over North Vietnam, as in World War II over Germany, Italy and Japan, and the familiar dogfights between opposing fighters is almost unknown.

But there are targets—power plants, steel mills, oil dumps, railroad yards, mountain passes, radar stations, shore batteries, roads and bridges, missile bases and ammunition dumps. These targets are under steady attack, for the purpose of lessening the enemy's ability to send aid to the insurgent forces in South Vietnam.

Reagan Planning Bigger Voice For West At 1968 Convention

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Neighboring Governor Paul Laxalt, of Nevada, calls him a thoroughbred who will be in the horse race all the way. Eastern political pundits more often refer to him and his philosophy as a dark horse which cannot be overlooked in the 1968 presidential nominating convention.

What are the presidential aspirations, plans or chances of Governor Ronald Reagan of California? Or what of his announced plans to attempt to see the 13 western states wield more power at the convention than has been the case in the past?

Ask a dozen people and you may get a half-dozen different answers. Ask Reagan himself and he will tell you, there are no plans or aspirations. But he'll tell you of his hopes that the western states will have a decided voice at the convention. Reagan is not too clear on just how this is to come about, however.

Reagan's predecessor, Governor Edmund G. Brown, gained a reputation as a giant killer by defeating former Senator William F. Knowland and the former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But the presidential nod never came in his direction, although there was a time when he was making himself available for the No. 2 spot.

Naturally, a political newcomer who can win by a million votes in the most populous state in the nation, and a state controlled by the opposition party, never can be discounted. But many say he can be discounted until he has had some time in office to prove an ability other than charming the voters.

So there is a general concensus that the netx few cenus that the next few next year would have considerable bearing on the seriousness with which Reagan would be consideered in national politics. He has a thorny road ahead in this year.

FRIENDLY APPROACH — Governor Ronald Reagan hugs his wife, Nancy, as she visits the Executive Offices in the State Capital. The Governor, who is mentioned as possible Presidential timber claims he's not a candidate, he's got a job in Sacramento for the next four years.

Reagan has a fiscal deficit to make up, a record-breaking budget to get approved, and the biggest tax increase in history necessary to be pushed through the legislature. He has his stated attempts to trim some of the fat out of governmnet to bring to fruition.

Reagan has the biggest water project in the world going on under his administration which also has inherited a deficit of several hundreds of millions that must be kept on track. He has a higher education system, considered possibly the best in the world, but beset by campus disorders which make it possibly the most notorious in the world.

These are some of the problems which Reagan must solve and win before the eastern establishment will take him seriously.

At a recent press conference, Reagan was told that, like it or not, he was being considered a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1968 in many national magazines. Reagan said he felt this was as much an attempt to embarrass him and his philosophy as it was to take a friendly approach.

"I'm not a candidate," he said. "I'm governor of California."

He also was asked if he would accept the Vice Presidential nomination and his answer was a quick, flat, "No."

Another question was whether he was giving a Sherman-like statement on the vice presidency but not on the presidency. Newsmen are wont to overwork this reference to Sherman's statement that, if nominated, he would not campaign and, if elected, he would not serve. Reagan had an answer to that too:

"Look, Sherman is the only fellow that ever made a Sherman-like statement, and I figure he played that part to the hilt and there is no sense in me trying to."

If Reagan is averse to exploring the semantics of a Sherman-like statement, he takes an opposite track when it comes to the Republican party's "11th commandment" — speak ill of no other Republican. The governor credits much of his success at the polls in 1966 to this practice and loses no chance to recommend it to other Republicans.

To further this end, Reagan has said his own favorite son candidacy on the primary ballot next June — to lead a slate of delegates to the convention — is intended primarily to keep out other candidates who might cause a party-splitting fight in the primary, a la Rockefeller-Goldwater.

Some have referred to Reagan as a "favorite son of the west."

"I'm not advancing myself as a favorite son," Reagan said. "I'm simply advancing my favorite end of the country, the west, and I think the west should have a great deal more to say than it has."

On the latter, Reagan's strategy appears to be more of an agreement not to agree. He told newsmen he had no plans to seek to make pacts among the other western governors, either as to issues or candidates.

Reagan said he hoped other western governors merely would "realize how early it is and refrain from trading away our muscle or our strength in advance."

U.S. Is Cold, Lonely, Confusing To Viet Airmen

NEW YORK (AP) — To a young South Vietnamese airman for from home, America can be a lonely, cold and confusing place.

He thinks the girls are beautiful, but he has a hard time meeting any.

Americans are kind to him, but it is difficult for him to understand their language and anyway, everybody talks too fast.

Compared with the uniform Climate of his native land, American weather is unpredictable and almost always too chilly.

American food?

"No smell," says Nguyen Vinh, 22, of Saigon, one of 242 South Vietnamese learning to fly helicopters or fighter planes at four U.S. air and Army bases. "I can eat it, but I smell nothing."

Vinh is one of 172 cadets learning to fly fighter planes at Randolph Field, Tex. Thirty more are training on helicopters at Fort Wolters, Tex., and Fort Rucker, Ala., and 40 are finishing the fighter course at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

The rigorous, whirlwind training tour is financed under the military assistance program. The cadets are guests of the U.S. government.

"They are an extremely dedicated group," said Capt. Richard Timmersmeyer, the allied liaison officer at the Army's primary helicopter center at Fort Wolters.

"They realize the importance of their mission over here and the responsibility they have to their country. They work very hard."

Through an active, highly successfull sponsorship program at each base, the young cadets visit it frequently in civilian homes, exchanging views and learning how Americans live.

"The weather here is quite different than in my country," said Tranh Van Ngoc, 21, spokesman for the Fort Wolters group.

"In my country there are just two season. Wet and dry. Rainy about five months. About seven months is sunny. At first we couldn't get used to weather here. It is too cold."

A diminutive companion, Tran Quang Hung, was impressed by the pace of living, observing that "most of the Americans hurry. I think Americans have good ideas. They try hard at what they do."

A kitchen is available to them at Fort Wolters and they do much of their own cooking, mostly rice, the basic food of their country. Doughnuts, hamburgers and barbecue rank among the top American delicacies.

"Over here they eat meat much," said one. "In my country they eat rice much. I couldn't get used to it at first."

And girls?

"Over here having a girl friend is quite different," said Ngoc. "When you speak to a girl, she answers immediately. In my country, the girls are very shy. So shy, they keep quiet."

They view American prosperity with amazement.

"I think your country is very comfortable," volunteered Nguyen Van Khanh, explaining: "If you want to have something you just go buy!"

At Randolph Field, young Vietnamese airmen who a few months ago did not even know how to drive a car will be winging off this summer in solo flights in fighter craft.

Most of the Vietnamese had never operated mechanical devices more complicated than a motor bike before they got to Randolph.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Svetlana Aliluyeva speaks the cold war language of two worlds yet she is a woman without a country.

The daughter of Josef Stalin spoke softly but firmly at a New York news conference this week. Her words told of despair and uncertainty, and of happiness and faith.

She spoke about the Soviet Union, the land of her birth. She spoke of the United States, the land of her choice, for the time being. She spoke of Christianity and Communism, freedom and government repression, self-expression and party control, love and murder.

Perhaps the most remarkable clash of opposites, however, was the sight of this plan, sensitively simple woman and the unalterable fact that her father was one of history's cruelest dictators.

She did not try to exonerate him, but she defended him as best she could: " . . . I believe that they should not accuse one person in the crimes in which so many people were involved . . ."

Around The World, Around The Clock

Moscow—Soviet cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov, 40, was killed Monday when his Soyuz I spacecraft plummeted 4.3 miles to the earth after the capsule's main parachute links snarled. Komarov thus became the first known astronaut to die on a space flight.

New York — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Commander of U.S. Forces in Vietnam, predicted "in the months ahead, some of the bitterested fighting of the war" . . . The General appealed for the support of the American people and added "I do not see any end of the war in sight."

Saigon—The United States staged unprecedented bombing raids against military targets near the centers of Hanoi and Haiphong, and, for the first time in the war, bombed Communist MIG fighter bases in North Vietnam.

Washington—The Senate Ethics Committee headed by Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., recommended that Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., be censured for conduct that "tend to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, April 29, the 119th day of 1967 with 246 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venue, Mars and Jupiter.

Born on this day in 1792 was Matthew Vassar, founder of Vassar College.

On this day in history:

In 1878, an advertisement in a Boston newspaper read: "A telephone complete, $3, guaranteed to work one mile. One guaranteed to work five miles, $5."

In 1913, Gideon Sundback of Hoboken, N.J., was granted a patent for the present-day zipper.

In 1945, the body of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini, executed by partisans, was hanged in a public square in Milan.

In 1965, an earthquake in the Pacific Northwest killed six persons and caused more than $12 million in damage.

A thought for the day—French actor Jean Baptiste Moiliere once said: "Doubts are more cruel than the worst of truths."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Scylla And Charybdis No Worse Than A Problem Of This Sort

It isn't generally known by professors of literature, but the fact is that Homer had a certain kind of bridge hand in mind when he wrote about Scylla and Charybdis.

If you try too hard to avoid one of them you get it in the neck from the other.

Opening lead — ♠ 10

When today's hand came along a few weeks ago in the annual contest for the Harold S. Vanderbilt Cup, Norman Kay and Edgar Kaplan steered to a slam in notrump rather than in hearts to avoid the danger of an opening spade lead through South's king.

This exposed them to another danger.

SPADES LEAD

West led the ten of spades, and East took the ace and returned the queen to declarer's king.

Kay led a heart to dummy's king and continued with the queen of hearts. West discarded a spade and then threw another spade when Kay led a low heart to the ace.

CLUB DANGER

The spots suggested that West had started with only four spades, and West's reluctance to throw a diamond suggested that he had only four cards in that suit.

Since West had started with a singleton in hearts, it seemed to Kay that West held four clubs.

At six hearts North would need only three club tricks, but at six notrump declarer needed four club tricks.

This would be impossible by normal play of the clubs if West had started with four clubs to the jack.

Kay sighed and led the ten of clubs from his hand.

West played low, and Kay let the ten of clubs ride for a finesse.

When this held the trick, Kay could lead a club to the queen, return to his hand with the nine of hearts and then run the rest of the clubs.

Our modern Odysseus was now safe at home.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ K 6 3
♥ A 9 5 2
♦ 10
♣ A K 10 9 6

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. The hand is not worth a jump to three clubs after partner has opened with one diamond.

It is clearly worth a jump if partner opens with one heart, because you have so fine a fit for hearts.

If partner had opened with one spade you would have a very close question, and most experts would probably bid only two rather than three clubs.

Novato Players Set New Musical Dates

"The Bells Are Ringing," the second Broadway musical hit to be undertaken by the Novato Community Players, will be presented starting at 8:30 p.m. next Friday and Saturday nights, and May 12, 13, 19 and 20 at the Novato Community House.

A large cast has been working for many weeks on the production of the book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolf Green with music by Jule Styne.

The plot revolves around a telephone answering service with Ella Peterson, played by Lois Wright, helping her cousin Sue, played by Jackie Hall, run the answering service.

Ella becomes involved in the lives of all of the customers of the answering service. She falls in love with Jeff Moss, played by Max Keeler, a writer who is having trouble writing on his next play. She also falls in love with Sandor, played by Donald Leaf, head of a record company that is actually a cover for a book making operation.

Others in the cast are: Scott Wright, Ernestine Barnwell, Rex Minshall, Joseph Jacob, Alex Consagra, Ray Brennan, Elaine Jacob, Maxine Buffo, Robert Cook, Russel Dreosch, Georgia Beebe, Louis Cook, Kenneth Craig, Saunde Brown, Ted Lane, Paul Terry, Thomas King, Scott Wright, Robert Whisenhunt, Otto Haiungs, Rodney Bagnall, Sharon Bond, Juan Harman, Dawn Scheiern, Claudia Bliss, Ellen Keeler, Michael Jones, Ruth Lombard, Scott Wright, Shirley Nilsen, Albert Richter, Laurene Clymer, Virginia Solomine, Sharon Bond, Lei Mann, Rose Michaelson, and Vivienne Terry.

Producer is Marilyn Casady and director is Arthur Bliss. Shari Leaf is assistant director. Musical director is Marie Bliss. Accompanists are Lorayne Corzier and Jean Teague. The choreography was done by Jeanne Hall.

Others are: Michael Jones, stage manager; Albert Richter, assistant manager; Gay Pittman and Jerry Young, set design; John Geser, construction; Patricia Conway and Stanley Conway, technicians; Penny Clark and Shirley Redley, makeup; Jan Krause, properties; Gerald Lombard spotlighting; Sally Geser and Lei Mann, publicity; Shirley Nilsen, programs; Penny Clark, poster design.

Tickets for Fridays may be obtained from Mrs. John Geser at 4 Concord Court, and for Saturdays from Mrs. Robert Ramsay at 110 Kaden Street.

Albertans Digging Out Of Big Snow

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (AP) — Southern Albertans began stirring today under a wet blanket of snow that isolated many farms, stranded scores of motorists and raised fears of serious spring flooding and widespread damage to crops and livestock.

More than 29 inches of snow fell since Thursday afternoon, bringing virtually everything except rescue vehicles to a halt. Snow was still falling early today.

A rescue train, pushing a snowplow, battled high drifts overnight to pick up 29 stranded motorists at Stirling, 19 miles south of this ranching area city 100 miles south of Calgary.

The motorists had been stranded since 9 a.m. Friday. All were believed to be in good condition.

The latest storm battered an area still recovering from a 27-inch snowfall last week.

Planes were grounded, buses halted, farms and ranches isolated, and livestock were without food.

The storm, driven by 50 mile an hour winds, struck an area from Crowsnest Pass in the Rockies to Swift Current, Sask. About 90 per cent of farms and ranches in southern Alberta were affected.

University Lets Students Back

REDLANDS (AP)—University of Redlands officials have reinstated 23 students suspended this month for violating policy forbidding a Communist "propagandist" to speak on campus.

The students were suspended April 12 for bringing self-proclaimed Communist Bettina Aptheker to the campus. The action touched off a controversy over the university ban.

Larger Federal Deficit Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drooping corporate profits — and the reduced tax revenues they're producing — could push the federal budget deficit beyond $10 billion during the current fiscal year.

The impact on tax revenues is likely to be greater during the next fiscal year, but the heightened deficit might put more pressure on Congress to increase taxes to keep the budget within bounds.

Although it had been called "Presidio" — Spanish for "walled fort" —since its founding in 1776, the name Presidio of San Francisco was not officially adopted by the War Department until 1850.

Milhaud Festival Set At Katharine Branson

Katharine Branson School in Ross will have a music festival Monday through Thursday honoring world-famed composer Darius Milhaud.

The festival has been planned by Elinor Armer, concert pianist, teacher and former student under Milhaud, who heads the music program at the school.

Milhaud is composer-in-residence at Mills College in Oakland in alternate years when he is not teaching in his native France at the Paris Conservatoire. Along with Stravinsky and Ravel, he was responsible for much of the ferment and vitality that made Paris of the 1920s a musical world center.

Highlight and conclusion of the festival will be a concert Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the school's gymnasium, at which the composer and his wife will be present. Alumnae and friends of the school have been invited to attend a reception in their honor at conclusion of the concert.

For the concert Elinor Armer will perform a rag piece, "Caramel Mou," showing the influence of jazz in Milhaud's work, and his "Le Bal Martiniquais" for two pianos with Laurette Goldberg, East Bay musician.

The program will include works by Milhaud and Poulnec sung by the Katharine Branson Glee Club, directed by Barry Mineah. Mineah will also direct his Marin Country Day School children in a performance of "King Midas and the Ass's Ears," an entertainment for dance by David Lamb, a former Marin resident.

Festival programs for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will consist of lectures, playing of records of Milhaud's music and showing of excerpts from films dealing with his life and work.

A Watchdog Satellite Is Now Orbiting

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — One of two watchdog satellites to police the nuclear test-ban treaty was put into a circular orbit 69,000 miles above earth early today, the Air Force said.

It was the first adjustment made after a Titan 3 rocket boosted the two Sentry satellites and three data-gathering satellites into orbit early yesterday in a launch from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A spokesman at the Air Force's Space Systems Division in El Segundo said the second nuclear-detection craft would be commanded into the same circular orbit in 48 hours from the satellite control facility at Sunnyvale, Calif. It will wind up on the opposite side of the earth from the first.

The Titan booster put the $20-million, five-satellite payload into an elliptical path ranging from 5,379 to 69,159 miles. The three scientific satellites remain in that elliptical orbit.

The two nuclear-detection devices, called Velas, are to watch for violations of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty signed in 1963 by the United States, the Soviet Union and more than 100 other nations.

The pact forbids nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space and under water, but allows underground blasts.

Scientists say the Velas can detect nuclear blasts in earth's atmosphere and in deep space — perhaps as far away as Mars.

21-Year-Old Has Hearing On Burglary

James N. Litteral, 21, one of four youths including his brother charged with burglary, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on the felony charge.

His brother, Robert D. Litteral, 19, is being sought. Two other youths, aged 16 and 17, are in Marin Juvenile Hall for the burglary, the Wednesday daylight entry of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jules L. Gall, 920 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

Officers said the quartet took $7,000 in goods from the house. About $5,000 worth was recovered, however. Plea entry for James Litteral was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Monday. The brothers reside at 9 Taylor Street, San Rafael.

Drunken Driving Fine Is Imposed

Thomas Francis Sweeney, 52, of 2250 Juniperberry Road, Marinwood, was fined $289 and given five days in county jail yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving with a prior conviction.

He also was placed on a year's probation. Sweeney was arrested March 3 on Bridgeway by Sausalito police.

Arthur Mark Phelan, 63, of 300 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry, was fined $261 and placed on a year's probation for drunken driving April 18. California Highway Patrol arrested him on Reed Boulevard.

David Raymond Zehr, 24, of 23 Hillside Avenue, San Anselmo, was fined $289 and placed on a year's probation, also for drunken driving. Sheriff's officers arrested him yesterday on Tiburon Boulevard.

Surveyor 3 Making More Crust Tests

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Surveyor 3 conducted new tests of the lunar crust today to help determine if Apollo astronauts can land safely on the moon by 1970.

The spacecraft's "soil sampler" broadened and deepened a trench it had dug earlier and then the little power shovel pressed into the moon's soil to see how much weight it can support.

Scientists at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here can compute the surface strength by reading "strain gauges" which measure the pressure exerted. They then compare the pressure figure to the depth of the impression made in the soil.

Since its dramatic landing in the moon's Sea of Storms last April 19, Surveyor 3 has dug a number of trenches, some as long as 20 inches. It also has returned nearly 4,000 pictures of the lunar terrain, many taken through red, green and blue filters.

Yesterday Surveyor's shovel picked up a pebble the size of marble and dropped it into a lose mound of lunar soil to see what impact it would make.

However, scientists watching television pictures could not find the pebble afterwards—even when he "surface sampler" sifted through the soil.

The digging device's accordion-like arm experienced some trouble while cutting its latest trench yesterday, but controllers said they could not be sure if the problem was in a small electric motor or was due to the hardness of the soil at subsurface levels.

Students Wave Confederate Flags On Wallace's Arrival

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace was greeted by a dozen teen-age youths waving Confederate flags today as he stepped from a plane at Hulman Field to deliver a non-political speech at a college "Parents' Day" program.

Wallace, running nearly an hour behind schedule, arrived barely in time to reach the Rose Polytechnic Institute campus for a 10 a.m. (EST) engagement.

He cancelled a news conference which had been scheduled for 9:30.

Among a group of high school students carrying Confederate flags at the airport were Steve Wakefield, 15, a freshman at Schulte High School, and Dennis Ross, 17.

Wakefield, who said his father attended school with Wallace in Alabama, said, "I've read a lot about this and Governor Wallace is trying to wake people up."

Wallace had been forewarned —by Poly President Dr. John A. Logan—that no political or civil rights remarks were to spill over into the speech text which had been limited to a previously announced subject, "Is Our Education Meaningful."

In a speech to 250 polite but cool civil, legal and business leaders in Cleveland yesterday, Wallace called for a sweeping reform of the federal judiciary to preserve "local control."

He said that if he were President, he would push for election of district court judges "every six or eight years—maybe eight years." Federal judges now are appointed for life. He also recommended creation of a new appeals court.

This current trip is the third leg of a northern trip to test his potential as a presidential candidate. He said he is going to New Hampshire "next week to sound out sentiment, but nothing is definite yet."

He has talked about running as a third party candidate, but if he runs in the "first in the nation" presidential primary March 12, he must declare himself a Republican or a Democrat, the only two parties allowed on the ballot since no third party garnered 3 per cent or more of the votes in the last gubernatorial election.

In Indiana in 1964 he received 27 per cent of the votes cast in the Democratic presidential preference primary.

Congressman Makes Public Apollo Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A congressman today made public the full text of the secret "Phillips Report"—a critical assessment of the Apollo program before the Jan. 27 fire that killed three astronauts.

The space agency has declined to release the report and ignored an ultimatum by Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., do so. He set a deadline of 10 a.m. EST today and when the hour passed with no space agency action, Ryan's office handed out copies to reporters.

There was nothing significant in the full text that had not been made public previously by Ryan or others.

Beauty Contest In Final Round

LONG BEACH (AP)—Judges will choose Miss International Beauty of 1967 today from 15 semi-finalists.

Contestants took time off last night from the pageant tensions for a dance. About 100 fraternity men from California State College at Long Beach were their escorts.

Earlier, the beauties endured rehearsals for the finale today.

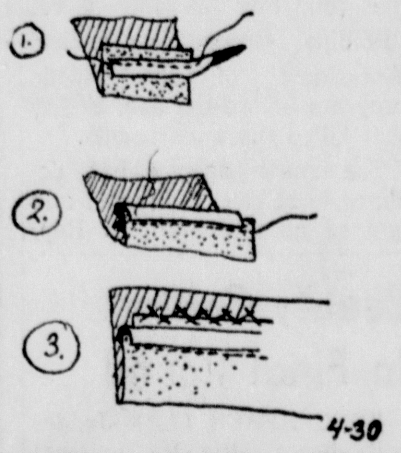
Area Measurements Are Most Important Part Of Pattern

By EUNICE FARMER



I think I've met my waterloo! I'm making shorts and according to the pattern measurements, I didn't have to make any allowance in the hips. I must be more rounded in the hips than the pattern allowed for because my shorts don't have enough room and pull through the crotch. Can I change my pattern to allow for this?

MRS. L.C.

DEAR MRS. LC.:

Yes, this is something we must all learn to do. The overall measurement is never as important as area measurements. Because you are more rounded, you are probably narrow through the hips but thicker from front front to back. Try adding ½ inch to the inner leg seam, front and back, gradually tapering this into the regular seam.

Girls, this is the beginning of the season for lots and lots of shorts for the whole family. If you have difficulty finding a pattern that fits you, you'll welcome a special pattern designed by a European patternmaker. This pattern can be used for 11 different styles of shorts and slacks, and the same pattern can be used to fit every size possible. Each and every pattern adjustment is explained in detail.

This pattern is not made by one of the popular companies. It is more expensive and takes time to work out, but I can guarantee it's worth it! I have had nothing but rave reports from our readers who have tried it.

If you can't find this pattern in your area, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope with your request and I shall send you the information immediately. Please send all of your mail to Eunice Farmer, in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Alice James, Troy, Mich., is this week's Tailor Trix winner for her following suggestion.

For a long time I toyed with a method of putting up a skirt or dress hem without having it show on the outside and shriek "it's homemade"! Now that we have 1 inch seam binding, the job can be done perfectly.

Measure, turn up and press hem, then measure and mark 2½ inches from bottom of hem. Sew 1 inch seam binding on the marked line, trim excess fabric ¼ inch above stitching line. Press seam binding up and over edge of hemline, sew as close as possible to folded line, catching both sides of seam tape.

Press unstitched edge of seam binding up and catch stitch to skirt. You are catching only the seam tape to skirt without any bulk of hem to the skirt, thus there is no visible hemline from the right side.

DEAR EUNICE,

My problem is in the back of the dresses I make. They are all too long from the neck to the waist, causing a large bulge across the back. Please help!

MRS. H.J.M.

DEAR MRS. H.J.M.:

Have someone measure you from the center of the shoulder to the waistline in back. (Tie a string tightly around the waist first so that this measurement will be accurate). If you are wearing a belt, you will have to allow a little extra length for ease.

Check this measurement with the actual pattern. Make a fold in your pattern about 3 inches above the waistline to shorten the pattern the necessary amount. Be sure to increase the size of the underarm dart at the bodice front so the underarm seams will come out even.

MRS. I. E. SAYS that if you are one of those gals who are plagued with perspiration and nothing anyone prescribes seems to work, try thoroughly saturating this area of your garment with the very new waterproof spray sutiable for use on fabrics. I've had perfect luck, but find I must re-spray with every wearing. It's worth it. I haven't ruined a dress since I began using it. I'd suggest trying the spray on a scrap of fabric or the inside of the hem if your garment was ready-made to be sure this spray will work on your particular fabric.

PINNED WITH HONOR

Mrs. Chester Hibbert received the honorary life membership award from the North Marin Council Parent-Teacher Association at the annual founders day luncheon in Novato yesterday. Mrs. Harold Marsh, at left, honorary life membership chairman presents the pin to Mrs. Hibbert as Mrs. Duane Moeller, new president of the council and Col. (ret.) L. E. McCormick, past president, looks on. Mrs. Thomas Easton was hospitality chairman for the luncheon. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

The Marin County Legal Secretaries Association will hold its installation dinner on May 10 at the Tiburon Lodge in Tiburon.

Judge Peter Allen Smith will install the following officers: Mesdames Dorothy Hallett, President; Jane Swall, vice president; Elinor Rogers, recording secretary; Frank Staats, treasurer; Ralph Brisbin, Governor and Norman Steuer, parliamentarian.

There will be a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m., preceding dinner, and entertainment will be provided during the evening.

Reservations chairmen are Mesdames Benjamin Albritton and Lola Holt.

MacPhail Council To Review Films

A preview of select films on human development designed for high school students will be shown on Wednesday at 10 a.m. by members of the MacPhail Parent-Teacher Association Council.

Purpose of the showing, to which parents are invited, is to enable the public to approve or disapprove the possibility of the films being shown in the schools.

The films will be shown in the conference room at the Board of Education Bldg. in San Rafael.

Marin Women

Charleen Hale Engaged To Wed In Novato On June 17

CHARLEEN HALE

Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson Hale of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Charleen Margaret Hale and William David McHenry, son of Mrs. Mark Anthony of Grants Pass, Ore.

Charleen is the sister of Walter Hale of Novato and Larry Hale of Ross. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. William Hale of Sebastopol and the late Mr. Hale and the late Capt. and Mrs. Charles White of Novato.

William is an airman at Hamilton Air Force Base. He is the brother of Mark Jr., Edward, and Elaine, Anthony and J. B. Price, all of Grants Pass.

The couple will be married on June 17 at a garden wedding at the Robert Bourne home in Novato, following the bride-elect's graduation from Novato High School.

Mrs. R. W. Hawksley Named President Of The Triple C

Many interests have occupied the time of Mrs. Ray W. Hawksley, 1967-68 president of the Community Church Club in Mill Valley, better known as Triple C.

After graduating from high school and attending business college two years in her native Casper, Wyo., she married young and continued her education by university extension courses covering a wide range of subjects, including six languages, one of which was Finnish. Of Scandinavian descent, she was an exhibition dancer of Scandinavian folk dances in her school days.

Betty Hawksley studied piano 10 years just for music appreciation. At present she is taking a University of California extension course in "Psychological Bases of Personality."

In 1939 and 1940 she helped select personnel at the World's Fair on Treasure Island and was a volunteer worker with the USO, YWCA and United Nations later, for which she received a certificate of meritorious service for conducting an information booth in 1945 for visiting delegates from all over the world.

MRS. RAY W. HAWKSLEY

The Hawksleys moved to Mill Valley in 1955. Mr. Hawksley is a chemical engineer who has his own consulting firm in Richmond specializing in water polution, and he is president of the Power Service Corp, a national association of water treatment companies. He will be listed in the next issue of "Who's Who in the West."

To their home built in 1930 they have added a unique and authentic Finnish sauna and Japanese "Moon Watching Deck."

Their two married sons and six grandchildren live in Southern California.

The new president of Triple C has been a member since 1962 and is also a member of the Outdoor Art Club and the Women's Auxiliary of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Other officers to be installed in June with Mrs. Hawksley are Mesdames Richard Burns, vice president; Ewald Katzung, recording secretary; Harold Huycks, corresponding secretary; Joseph E. Bare, treasurer; Stanley C. Aitchison, historian; and Joel F. Gustafson, Willis Elliott and Alvin P. Baukol, directors.

West Novato P-TA Officer Is Active In The Community

MRS. STANLEY CONWAY

Mrs. Stanley E. Conway, new president of the West Novato School Parent-Teacher Association, served as vice president this past school year.

She is active also as a member of the Novato Community Methodist Church and Women's Society of Christian Service, a leader of girl scout junior troop 2040, member of the Novato Community players and a regular bowler for Marin Automotive in the Alley Katz League.

The new president attended schools in Texas and retains her Southern accent. She also attended Eastern New Mexico University.

A Marin resident for more than two years, Patricia Conway and her husband, a radar technician, have four children. Mickie is 12, Karen 10, Ronald, 8 and Terry, 5 years of age.

Patricia enjoys sewing and does some designing of clothes. She says she "enjoys children and often has a yard full, entertaining friends and working with people." She works as a lunch time supervisor at Loma Verde School.

Projects for the West Novato P-TA are the May Fiesta, the annual fund raising event, the continuation of the parent education program and landscaping the school grounds.

Other officers elected for the 1967-68 year are Mrs. E. T. Nhirardo, first vice president; Donald Wineland, second vice president; Mrs. Thomas Easton, secretary; Mrs. Richard Melendy, treasurer; William Eckhoff, auditor and Mrs. Edward Adams, historian.

'At Home With The Swedes' Triple C's Program Topic

"At Home With the Swedes" will be the title of the program which Dr. Louis Wasserman will present at Wednesday's 12:15 p.m., luncheon meeting of the Mill Valley Community Church Club.

A resident of Mill Valley, Dr. Wasserman is professor of political science at San Franicsco State College. He has had two books and various articles on political philosophy published both in America and Europe. He was director of student-teacher study tours sponsored by the college from 1952 to 1965.

In 1964-65 he served as resident director, California State International Program in Sweden and was visiting professor at Stockholm and Uppsala Universities. His talk will be an illustrated summary of his year's sabbatical in Sweden.

Program chairman Mrs. Willis G. Elliott will introduce the speaker after the luncheon, for which Mrs. John C. Burnham is chairman.

Bonnie Foley Will Marry Joseph Huff

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick T. Foley of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Bonnie, to Joseph Allen Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Huff of Hayward.

Bonnie, the sister of Lynn and Pat Foley of Novato, was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed with Bank of America in Novato. She is a Novato Hospital volunteer.

Joseph attended San Lorenzo High School, University of Pacific and California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo. He is employed as a customer engineer for International Business Machines.

A June 11 wedding in Castro Valley is planned.

JUNE NUPTIALS are set by Bonnie Foley and Joseph Allen Huff in Novato. (Russ Booth photo)

Marion P-TA Officer Is Also Student

The newly-elected president of the Marion School Parent-Teacher Association in Novato is not only a parent she is a student as well.

Mrs. Robert L. Orison attended San Rafael High School but was not graduated. She is now enrolled in the Novato Adult Evening High School and is looking forward to eventully getting her high school diploma. She likes to sew and read when time permits.

Dee Orison and her husband, a landscape gardener, have three children, Jesslyn 13, Robbin 12 and David, seven years of age.

MRS. ROBERT ORISON

They have lived in Marin County 17 years.

The new president has served as secretary, publicity, hospitality and movie and television chairman.

Serving with Mrs. Orison are Mrs. Robert Listman, first vice president; Earl Farris, second vice president; Mrs. Larry Cato, secretary; Mrs. Warren Smith, treasurer and Mrs. Jack Pinckney, historian.

Leaflet Cites Studies On Smoking Menace

A new leaflet, "What to Tell Your Parents About Smoking," available through the Marin County Heart Assn. will help convince youngsters and their parents that smoking is a health menace.

The leaflet cites scientific studies which point to the relation between cigarette smoking and heart disease, lung and throat cancer, emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

Upon request, the Marin County Heart Assn. along with other heart associations will be distributing the new leaflet elementary, junior high and high schools, youth organizations and church groups.

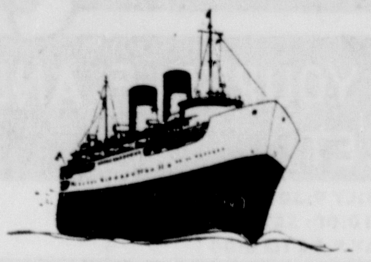
Marinites Are On The Move

By MOLLY MARIN



Many Marinites are planning trips . . . Mrs. Larry E. Bates of San Rafael will leave next weekend for an extensive trip through Australia and New Zealand. Upon her arrival in Sydney, Australia, she will see friends and former Marinites, Mrs. Robert Kellogg and Miss Betty Davis who are on an around the world trip. San Rafael residents, the Frank Nietos and Max Schuttes will leave next week abroad the Lurline for a trip to Hawaii and Mrs. Elvara Hall is enroute to Nassau aboard a P&O liner.

LEAVING MARIN, to make their home in London, are the Zane Sandoms and their children, Vanessa, Michele and John of San Rafael. They will visit in Chicago and New York before sailing aboard the Michelangelo. Mr. Sandom is vice president of the Credit Card Division of American Express in Europe.

THE FOUR CHILDREN of the Joseph Lococos of San Francisco will honor their parents at a dinner party tonight at the Meadow Club on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. More than 100 will attend the party for the couple who were married in San Francisco in 1917. Hosting the event are the Tom Lococos of Fairfax, John Lococos of Laguna and Mesdames Josephine Reid of Fairfax and Frances Martin of San Francisco.

SEVERAL cocktail parties are planned before the Belvedere Tennis Club's Tennis Ball at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club May 12. BTC President Myron Du Bain and Mrs. Du Bain will host a large gathering at their home in Kentfield. The Charles Whittinghams will give a party in Mill Valley. Mrs. and Mrs. Russell Gomez have invited friends to join them for a pre-ball party in Belvedere, and Mrs Paul Ramey of Belvedere will be entertaining before the black tie dinner dance.

CHAMPAGNE AND a tiered wedding cake were served the 60 relatives and guests at Sunday's open house honoring the Clayton Stockings of Phoenix Lake, Ross. Hosts at the golden wedding celebration held at the home of their son, 'Mike' Stocking in San Rafael, were the 'Mike' Stockings and another son, Clayton Stocking Jr., and his wife and their daughter, Mrs. Russell Fraser of Mountain View. Grandchildren present were Jim, Craig and Brian Fraser of Mountain View, Michael and Laura Stocking of San Rafael and Jim Stocking of Kentfield. Unable to attend was Pfc. Pat Stocking of Kentfield who is serving with the Fourth Infantry Division in Vietnam. Other relatives at the open house were their great grandson, Mark Fraser of Mountain View and Miss Mildred Huffman of Sebastopol and Miss Abbie Stocking of San Rafael, sisters of Mrs. Stocking. The couple were married on April 23, 1917, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael and have lived in Ross for 45 years.

Ta Mar Chapter Elects Officers, Plans Club Year

Mrs. Philip Landa, the mother of five active youngsters, is the new president of Ta Mar Chapter of B'Nai B'Rith Women. She and her husband, who owns and operates Orchid Cleaners, have lived in Marin for 11 years and are the parents of Ardell, 15, Shellie, 13, Martin, 10, Cindy, 8, and Geralyn 2.

Evelyn Landa has held membership in B'Nai B'Rith 15 years and has been a member of Ta Mar for one and a half years. She held the office of vice president last year and is also active in Girl Scouts and Sisterhood of Congregation Rodef Sholom.

Plans for Ta Mar's club year include a rummage sale, fashion show luncheon, a booth at the Northgate Fair, expansion of Dolls For Democracy shows to school children and other activities of the Anti-Defamation League and interfaith programs.

Mrs. Landa, who attended Roosevelt College in Chicago, enjoys bowling, square and ballroom dancing, swimming and cooking. For relaxation she gardens and reads.

Serving with the new president are Mesdames Robert Auster, first vice president; Lawrence LeVine, second vice president; Irving Schwartz, third vice president; Maurice Weinger, financial secretary; Eugene Lee, recording secretary; Alfred Derrow, corresponding secretary; Sidney Allerhand, treasurer; and Norman Kemp, counselor.

CUB HERO

8-Year-Old Honored For Saving Life

A poised and alert San Rafael boy was honored by his Cub Scout pack last night, three months after he saved the life of his 2-year-old brother who had gulped 27 aspirin.

Matthew Jenkins, 8, of 8 Vineyard Drive, son of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Folsom Jenkins, was presented with a home safety plaque by Pack 36, sponsored by Coleman School Parent-Teacher Association, in ceremonies at Scout Hall. Cubmaster Robert Epstein made the award.

On Jan. 30, Matthew found a newly purchased bottle of aspirin nearly empty in his bedroom. Suspecting his brother, John, had consumed the missing pills, Matthew informed his mother.

Mrs. Jenkins, whose husband recently returned from Vietnam after a tour of duty aboard an oiler, telephoned a nurse, Mrs. Margaret Craig, who lives with Mrs. Jenkins' mother in Greenbrae. Mrs. Craig came to the home and took John to a hospital, where he was treated after doctors confirmed he had taken the aspirin.

Said Mrs. Jenkins of Matthew's action: "He demonstrated a lot of poise and good sense and we're proud of him."

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county director of public health, also had praise for Matthew, saying he "justly deserved" the award. She pointed out that aspirin is one of the largest accidental poisoners of children.

Last night's award was a surprise to John, who was accompanied to the ceremony by his father.

HONORED — Matthew Jenkins, 8, is wearing a new honor badge today. Last night he was honored by his San Rafael Cub Scout pack for saving the life of his 2-year-old brother who gulped 27 aspirin.

President Steals Limelight At Correspondents Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson stole the limelight from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and pianist-comedian Victor Borge at the White House correspondents dinner.

Humphrey was billed as the featured speaker and Borge was onstage when the President paid a surprise visit to the dinner.

Johnson quipped with newsmen, then grew serious and talked of Vietnam, saying of the war: "I hope and pray, but I cannot promise, that it will not be too long and that we will soon meet in peace."

The correspondents presented the Raymond Clapper award to Howard Simons, assistant managing editor of the Washington Post for a series of reports on locating and retrieving the U.S. H-bomb dropped in the Mediterranean.

Frank Cormier of the Associated Press was installed as president of the association, succeeding Robert Thompson of the Los Angeles Examiner.

Romney Aide Denies Pitch In Oregon For GOP Support

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—George Romney's top political aide denied his hour-long meeting with Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon yesterday was to line up support for the Michigan governor's possible Republican presidential bid.

Leonard Hall insisted the two spent most of the time discussing McCall's daily public receptions.

"I have not asked for any committments," Hall said.

Hall said the Republican governors are going to have a "tremendous impact" on the selection of a presidential candidate and said he did not view a recent McCall letter to 19 other chief executives as "an anti-Romney move."

McCall wrote the governors urging that they withhold final commitment to a candidate "to come down together on the side of a winner."

Hall, whose political career began as an assemblyman when Al Smith was governor of New York, said the Republican party "wants a winner."

"We need a candidate with broad appeal and I think Governor Romney has it," Hall said. He said he was "optimistic" that Romney would announce his candidacy this fall and that he would campaign in Oregon's May, 1968, primary.

He said that to date, Romney and former Vice President Richard Nixon were the leading contenders for the nomination but also noted it was "early yet."

Hall was asked if 1964 GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater's backers would attempt to block Romney.

"Goldwater's supporters are not going out to do or die against Romney," Hall said. He added that Goldwater himself has stated that he could support the Michigan governor.

Hall also predicted that former President Eisenhower would contrast his 1964 silence and come out for a candidate next year.

Yorty Raps Reagan's Job As Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty says California Gov. Ronald Reagan "is running for President too soon because he hasn't proved he can be governor."

The Democratic mayor, in a speech yesterday to the National Press Club, said Republican Reagan has shown vacillation and indecisiveness since becoming governor in January.

Yorty said he may have helped Reagan get elected, but contended his campaign primarily was against a fellow Democrat, former Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

He said his refusal to support Brown — and his backing of Republican Richard M. Nixon against John F. Kennedy in the 1960 presidential race — has caused him to be called a political maverick. Yorty said he doesn't mind the label or regret his past actions.

As to the future, Yorty said he couldn't foresee backing any Republican against President Johnson.

But on the other hand, "I can't think of anyone I wouldn't support against Bobby (Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.)" said the mayor.

Nurses Decide Not To Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sixty-two registered nurses at the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute say they have changed their minds about resigning Monday.

A spokesman for the California Nurses' Association said yesterday the nurses' decision came as Senate Bill 12, authorizing an average 15 per cent salary increase passed the State Senate.

Scout Troop Gets Charter

Boy Scout Troop 38, sponsored by St. Luke Presbyterian Church, San Rafael, received its charter Thursday in a candlelight ceremony at the church from Walter Zurcher, assistant district commissioner of the Marin Boy Scout Council.

Tenderfoot badges were given the youths by scoutmaster Bob Morrill and William Morrow, committee chairman.

Also participating in the ceremony were John Eagleston, institutional representative, and Rev. Henry Kent, who accepted the charter.

Press Director Gets State Job

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has appointed his Northern California campaign press director, Mrs. Janet K. McCoy of Palo Alto, as director of Tourism and Visitor Services.

Mrs. McCoy, a Republican, replaces the resigned Morris Ford of Sacramento in the $16,500-a-year post. Besides aiding Reagan, she served as Northern California press director during campaigns by Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller.

The appointment yesterday requires Senate confirmation.

Percy Demands More Allied Vietnam Help

MILWAUKEE (UPI) Sen. Charles H. Percy, mentioned as a GOP presidential possibility in '68, predicted yesterday the bitterest fighting of the Vietnam war lay ahead and called upon the United States to demand more help from its Asian allies in ending the war.

The solution to the war must be found in Asia itself, the Republican freshman from Illinois said. He said help from Asian nations thus far was "miniscule."

He also repeated his demand the United States try to bring about an all-Asian peace conference to try to settle the war.

Percy, who a day earlier had denied he had presidential aspirations in 1968, watched Gen. William C. Westmoreland's address to a joint session of Congress on television here. He then called a news conference to criticize some aspects of the Vietnam military commander's speech.

Percy criticized Westmoreland for not telling congressmen that additional troop escalation would be called for. The senator estimated that an additional 60,000 men would be called this year, and said this would put "a half million American men in the ground war in Vietnam."

Percy said he thought U.S. bombing should be concentrated on supply and infiltration routes into South Vietnam. He said if that were done, the bombing could proceed with more effect, and civilians could be warned to stay away from areas "where there is no question but that the supplies being brought in are from North Vietnam."

He said such concentration of bombing would do away with the "hysteria" induced by accidental civilian casualties.

Education Board Meets Tuesday

The San Rafael Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school administration building at Third and E streets, not Monday as reported in the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Before the board will be a report on proposals for distribution of High Times, a countywide student newspaper which came under fire a few months ago because of lack of responsibility for its contents.

The board will also hear salary proposals from two teacher organizations. A long series of resignations and hirings will be up for approval.

Gourmet Dinner

A wine tasting and gourmet dinner to raise funds is being planned for the Unitarian Church of Marin, 240 Channing Way, Terra Linda, May 13 at 6:30 p.m.

Woodacre Man Critical From Head Beating

A 57-year-old Woodacre man was in critical condition today in Marin General Hospital with head injuries which police said were suffered in a beating Tuesday outside a San Rafael auto body shop.

Police, still investigating, have made no arrest.

The victim is Samuel J. Smith of 176 Redwood Drive, a painter and handyman. He remained unconscious in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Witnesses told police he was struck outside the Superior Body and Fender Service, 26 Harbor Street, by an unidentified assailant.

Smith's wife, Gladys, said she accompanied her husband to the repair shop, where an argument over a bill ensued. She could not identify the assailant.

Rec Board Meeting

Terra Linda Recreation-Park District Board will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the community building instead of Wednesday for lack of quorum Wednesday.

Hang It Up, Abe—Tell It To John Wilkes Booth

By JIM MURRAY

There is a stillness at Appomattox, all right. The bugles of Shiloh lie mute.

The campfires on the Potomac have all burned out. The blood in the Rappahannock has all gone to sea.

The caissons no longer rot in the sun at Gettysburg. The trumpets in the dust of Bull Run are silted over.

Muffle the drums of Vicksburg. Bottle the fleets of Farragut. Call the roll of Chancellorsville, Fredericksburg, the Wilderness, Antietam.

Spike the guns of Sumter. Hobble the horses of Sheridan. Listen no more to the ghostly tread of Sherman's marchers to the sea.

Dismantle the gallows at Harper's Ferry. Burn the banners of the noblest cause man ever fought for. Scuttle the ironclads. Drop no flowers in the watery resting place of the Monitor off Hatteras.

Put the torch to Uncle Tom's Cabin. Flog Uncle Tom. It's OK. No one likes him anymore. Set the bloodhounds on Little Liza. Who cares?

Scrap the Gettysburg Address. It's just another piece of Fourth of July oratory, campaign promises, high-blown histrionics. Hang it up, Abe. Nobody's listening. Tell it to John Wilkes Booth.

"The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here." Right, Abe! "But it can never forget what they did here." Oh? Yes, it can, Abe.

You see, Cassius Marcellus Clay, one of the five greatest heroes in the history of his people, has decided to secede from the Union. He will not disgrace himself by wearing the uniform of the Army of the United States. He will not fight "a white man's war."

Not for all the gangrene in Andersonville will he march. From the safety of 103 years, he waves his fist at dead slaveowners. Down to his last four Cadillacs, the thud of Communist jackboots holds no dread for him. He is in this country but not for it. His only contact with America is by closed circuit. The devil is a white man. And vice versa.

After 100 years of freedom, he sulks, "We don't own no railroads." The attar of truth perfumes his charges. But only the scent. You buy railroads at the stock exchange the same way you buy silk shirts at the store. Clay has preferred to buy a religion, not New York Central. But, don't give us freedom, give us railroads.

So, turn off the watchfires of the night. Send OUR sword to Bobby Lee. Tell Jubal Early there's been a terrible mistake. Apologize to the

BRRRR-IGHT AND EARLY FOR TROUT SEASON

David Ramelli Jr. of Quincy is among the first to take advantage of the start of trout fishing today but he's dipping into the chilly waters of Buck's Lake in Quincy. Ramelli had to shovel and push to get his ski mobile to the 5,200-foot elevation, then had to put on snow shoes to get to the lake's edge. Both the fish and game departments have urged extreme caution at the higher altitude trout sites. It was considerably warmer in Marin where thousands flocked to Marin Municipal Water District lakes and streams for the opener. (AP Wirephoto)

Boxing World's Swift Reprisal

By LAWRENCE LEE

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Cassius Clay's lawyers readied fresh tactics in their intricate offensive to save him from jail and a stiff fine for refusing to heed his draft call.

As 10 other draftees stepped forward to take the Army oath yesterday, the 25-year-old Clay did not move, fulfilling his promise. He says that he is a Black Muslim minister by vocation and a boxer by avocation and that war contradicts the teachings of his faith.

The boxing world's reprisal was swift. The influential New York State Athletic Commission and the World Boxing Association stripped him of his world heavyweight title and announced they planned elimination tournaments to select his replacement.

THE CONTENDERS

Tournament contenders listed by New York were Floyd Patterson, Thad Spencer, George Chuvalo, Ernie Terrell, Oscar Bonavena, Karl Mildenberger, Jimmy Ellis and Joe Frazier.

Grimly running the gauntlet of waiting newsmen, Clay left the Houston Customs House, where the induction center is located, forged through a crowd of sympathetic Negro demonstrators and sped away in a black car.

While Clay was undergoing his round of physical examinations, all of which he completed satisfactorily, five of the Negroes outside the Customs House burned papers they said were their draft cards. None was arrested.

Their chant of "Burn, baby, burn," chenged to a defiant "Hell no, we won't go," as Clay drove off with his lawyers.

Lawyers Hayden Covington of New York and Quinnan Hodges of Houston told the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, La. yesterday that they would appeal the ruling of U.S. District Court Judge Allen B. Hannay in Houston in refusing to hear Clay's suit challenging the composition of the Selective Service System. The suit says Negroes are underrepresented.

U. S. Atty. Morton Susman of Houston said, "It will take us 30 to 60 days to prepare charges. This matter could drag on in the courts for months and perhaps as much as two years." Maximum sentence would be five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

But, Covington said, "The champ will never see the inside of a jail."

Clay preached a sermon last night at the Muslim Mosque in Houston, his adopted hometown. He shied away from reporters, preferring to stand on the signed, flowery, four-page statement he doled out to newsmen after yesterday's four hours of military procedures.

It read something like a last will and testament, naming those who have helped him from his beginnings as the shy, 1960 Olympic boxer, through his days as the boasting quick-witted pro champ and to his present role as a critic of war and American society.

The other men in yesterday's draft group said afterwards that they were surprised by his genial, joking manner. He performed his famous "Ali shuffle" for them, dancing and punching, clad only in socks and underwear.

'I'M NOT GOING'

He said, "I can joke because I'm not going." One of the draftees, John McCullough, 22, of Huntsville, Tex., thought he saw Clay "the way he is when his lawyers and the Muslims are not telling him what to do."

The fighter said in his printed statement, and to the draftees, that his world title was something he earned himself and that cannot be taken from him.

Talking about the proposed elimination tournaments, Clay told one of the soldiers, "They'll pick up some dodo, or a junior champion. Some nonsense like that."

Clay indicated his next fight probably will be in a foreign country, and Susman said that with "special permission from a federal judge," Clay could go abroad while litigation continues, even after indictment. "I feel free and relaxed." Clay told a newsman last night. "I'll leave it all up to Allah."

Giants Find Batting Eyes; Juan Opposes L.A. Tonight

LOS ANGELES — Juan Marichal, the San Francisco $100,000 pitcher with the two-dollar record, hopes his Giants will continue their embarrassment of riches at the plate tonight when he opposes the Dodgers' Bob Miller here.

The Giants were powerhouses (for them) last night as they erupted for 10 hits, (count 'em), including a two-run double by catcher Tom Haller that gave San Francisco a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the Dodgers.

Haller had two hits as did Tito Fuentes, rookie Ken Henderson and Jesus Alou as the Giants more than doubled their usual hitting output.

Reliever Ron Herbel got the win, taking over for lefty Mike McCormick, who lasted only three and a third innings. Frank Linzy mopped up the final two innings of one-hit pitching.

The Giants got a quick 3-0 lead off Dodger curve-ball specialist Don Sutton, helped by a two-run homer by Henderson that Dodger outfielder Al Ferrara couldn't haul in, despite a three-row leap into the bleachers.

And Ferrara came back in the fourth inning to hit his own two-run homer that tied the game 3-3. Had he been able to complete his diving stab at Henderson's ball successfully, it might have brought the Dodgers the win.

But instead, Giants catcher Tom Haller hit a double in the eighth with men on second and third to drive in two runs and send the Giants on to victory.

Haller, who hasn't had much luck at the plate this season thus far, hit his game-winning double off relief pitcher Phil Regan on the first pitch after Regan had replaced Sutton, the loser, who was lifted when he gave up a single to Willie McCovey and a double to Jim Hart.

The Giants colleced nine hits off Sutton who did a little hitting himself, getting two doubles and breaking the 3-3 tie seventh when he led off with his second two-base hit and scored on Jim Hickman's single.

The Giants and Dodgers drew the smallest night game crowd at Los Angeles in the nine years that the clubs have been playing in the west as only 24,168 turned out because of rain which fell until a few minutes before the game started. The previous low attendance was 30,219 April 29, 1965.

TV Schedule

Giant-Dodger games will be televised tonight, 7:55 o'clock, and tomorrow, 12:55 p.m. by KTVU, Channel 2, in color.

OUCH! — Bob Goalby winces after driving into water and en route to a bogey on 18th hole in Texas Open yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

Charles Surprises In Texas Open Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bob Goalby, who is among the year's tournament winners, and Bob Charles, who's had a two-year dry spell, charged from back in the crowd yesterday to share the lead at 138 after two rounds of the $100,000 Texas Open.

Goalby, a 36-year-old Palm Springs pro, shot six birdies and got his only bogey while trying for one more birdie for a five-under par 66, the lowest round thus far in the tournament.

Charles birdied the last three holes of his round after finishing the 15th hole at even par. The fast finish of the New Zealander caught the gallery by surprise.

Chi Chi Rodriguez and Joe Campbell, the leaders after the first round with three-under 68s, faded. Campbell's game collapsed and his score ballooned to a 76, enabling him to make the cut by only one stroke.

Rodriguez complained, "The way I putted, I think I should start selling ice cream cones."

He disappointed a large gallery, affectionately called "Los Bandidos," by blowing to 73 for a 36-hole total of 141, three-strokes back.

Jerry Steelsmith, a 31-year-old Santa Barbara pro, carded a 69 to go with his first-round 70. He was alone at 139.

Roberto De Vicenzo of Buenos Aires, and Tom Weiskopf were two strokes back at 140. There are seven pros each at one-under and at even par.

Goalby's only bogey came as he was trying for a seventh birdie, the only one he needed to set a course record 64 and collect a side purse of $6,500 offered for the feat. But his drive on the final hole hooked into a creek. He was forced to drop out of the water hazard, losing a stroke, and then finished the round with a bogey.

Marin Cager Wins Honors; America's Yacht Launched

Bill Pandiani of San Rafael, College of Marin's mighty mite guard, this week received honors on two all-star basketball squads selected in a poll of junior college coaches throughout California.

Pandiani was named fourth team on the All-California squad and second team All-Northern California. The poll was conducted by J. C. Sportswire in conjunction with the Helms Athletic Foundation.

At 5 feet, 7 inches, Pandiani was the shortest of the more than 30 players honored on the two squads.

In scoring 533 points in 30 games last season, the San Rafael High School graduate became the third highest single-season scorer in College of Marin history. Only Brad Busch's 563 points in 1964 and Lynn Livie's 554 in 1962 stand above his record.

YACHTING

NEW YORK — Intrepid, one of three yachts from the United States which may defend the America's Cup in September, was launched yesterday at City Island.

The Intrepid, which is shorter than most yachts as it measures 64 feet in length, will compete against the Columbia, the 1958 cup winner, and the American Eagle. The winner will meet either Dame Pattie or Gretel, representing Australia.

TRACK AND FIELD

PHILADELPHIA — Dave Patrick, Villanova's sub-four-minute miler, led the Wildcats' distance medley relay team to a 9:39.6 clocking at the 73rd annual Penn Relays, beating the old mark by nearly seven seconds.

DES MOINES, Iowa — Randy Matson of Texas A&M captured his third straight discus title with a throw of 189 feet ½ inch in the 36 mile per hour winds at the opening of the 58th Drake Relays, and Jim Ryun of Kansas ran the meet's first sub four-minute mile as he anchored his victorious four-mile relay team in 3:59.1.

GOLF

PINEHURST, N. C. — Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., a Walker Cup player for the sixth time, trimmed Wake Forest College player Leonard Thompson, 5 and 4, and gained the final of the North and South Amateur Tournament.

BOWLING

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., — Mark Kuglitsch and Ron Wheeler of Milwaukee, Wis., fired a 1,357 seried and took first place in the regular doubles division of the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

TENNIS

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad — Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., scored a 6-2, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4 decision over Jamaican Richard Russell as the United States took a 2-0 lead over the West Indies in an American Zone first round Davis Cup match.

Dodger Johnson To Play In 10 Weeks, Doctor Says

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers got some "sweet" news today when they were informed that hustling outfielder Lou Johnson won't be out nearly as long as first expected.

Johnson underwent surgery on his left ankle yesterday and doctors said he would make a full recovery, but expect him to be out of action 10 weeks.

Doctors had first estimated that he would be out at least three months and possibly much longer.

Johnson broke a bone in his ankle Thursday night while trying to slide home in the first inning of a game with the Atlanta Braves. The spikes on Johnson's left shoe got tangled in the shinguard of catcher Joe Torre.

A Dodger spokesman said the surgery was performed to repair torn ligaments and to move a chip from the bone back into place before Johnson's ankle was placed back in a cast.

DRAKE WINS ! ! !

Stunning Upsets In Prep Baseball

Redwood High School's chief challengers for the Marin County Athletic League baseball title stopped to lay a pair of eggs in the middle of a race yesterday.

With a chance to gain some ground on the giants, who were busy blasting Burlingame 7-0 in a non-league game, both Marin Catholic and Terra Linda turned around and lost some, something neither could afford.

Terra Linda really walked into an unexpected ambush. The Trojans were neatly sewed up and hamstrung on a two-hitter by Ralph Asay, who pitches for Drake, whose last league victory is ancient history.

The Pirates, in less in four outings this year and owners of a perfect 0-12 mark last year, shelled the Trojans for two hits and three runs in the first inning and that was all she wrote as Drake won 3-0.

ONE BEHIND

That left Terra Linda, only half a game out prior to the game, with a 3-2 mark, a full game out.

Don Alvarado's two-run triple following a single and a walk did all the necessary damage for the Pirates.

Marin Catholic, meanwhile, in enough trouble as it is, added to its woes, getting hit with a four-run first inning by San Rafael and went on to lose 6-1 as lefty Joe Riekena, making his first start of the season for the Bulldogs, handcuffed the Wildcats on three hits.

Tom Schalich, part of the one-two punch of the Wildcats' pitching machine, received the big punch in the first inning. San Rafael brought home four runs on a run-scoring single, an infield out, an error and a walk that forced in a run with a full house.

The loss dropped the Wildcats back into fourth place, two full games behind Redwood and a half a game behind Terra Linda and Novato, which topped Tamalpais at Novato.

Redwood's Rusty Poole pitched a two-hitter and struck out 13 batters for the Giants in their eighth shutout victory of the season.

Novato, sparked by second baseman Frank Perachiotti's 375-foot, two-run homerun nicked the Tam Indians, 3-2, to climb inho a share of second place with Terra Linda.

Drake Swimmers Strengthen Lead

Terra Linda High School's "good" crack at a tie for the Marin County Athletic League swim title has dwindled to sub-so-so. And the Trojans can blame it all on Tamalpais, which jumped right into the same boat.

The Trojans, only one loss away from the undefeated Pirates of Drake yesterday morning, found themselves two lengths back after the Indians handed them a near-drowning in a rematch at Tamalpais, 62-33.

Not only was the win surprising but the margin was the big shocker. Terra Linda had measured the Indians 59-63 in an earlier meeting in the Trojan pool.

The Indians won both relays that they had lost in the first meet and took four additional victories, setting a school record of 3:39.3 in the 400 freestyle relay.

DRAKE ADVANCES

League-leading Drake, meanwhile, altered its potent lineup and splashed merrily along with 65-30 victory over winless San Rafael in the Bulldog pool as Paul Sagues captured three events and Ben Edmonds and Bob Girvin one each.

Redwood split the relays with Novato but got plenty of help in between to take its third win against four losses while the Hornets were tagged with their sixth loss in seven outings, 57½-37½.

The Tamalpais upset left Drake with a two-length edge in the MCAL derby, with the Trojans and Indians deadlocked with 5-2 marks.

USC Is Tied By Stanford; Cal Loses

Southern California and Stanford played four hours and 14 innings to a 3-3 tie yesterday with darkness finally forcing an end to the Pacific 8 baseball marathon at Palo Alto.

Former Terra Linda ace Bill Lee pitched the final four frames for USC in shutout style.

USC scored three runs in the first inning, then drew 13 straight goose eggs from three Stanford hurlers. Stanford tied the score in the bottom of the ninth.

Meanwhile, UCLA defeated California 1-0 at Berkeley and extended the Bruins' undefeated win streak to seven games.

California's record is 2-5.

Records Topple In Riverside Race Qualifying

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Eleven sports car drivers will qualify today to join the 22, including four record breakers, already in the field for tomorrow's U.S. Road Racing Championship run at Riverside Raceway.

A quartet of drivers broke the 108.333-mile-an-hour mark of Jerry Grant and Charlie Hayes during yesterday's qualifying session over the 2.6-mile course. They were:

George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., 111.032 m.p.h. in a Lola Chevy; Pete Revson of New York, 109.345 m.p.h. in a McLaren Chevy; Bob Bondurant of Los Angeles, 109.090 m.p.h. in a McLaren Chevy, and Mark Donohue of Stony Brook, N.Y., 108.584 m.p.h. in a Lola Chevy.

The 182-mile, $15,000 race is the second of six in the 1967 USRRC series. Donohue won the opener last weekend in Las Vegas, Nev.

Walter Hagen won four consecutive Professional Golfers' Association championships during his career.

Youths Invited To Sub Tour, Lacrosse Game

A Navy submarine stationed at Mare Island is the starting point for the Marin Lacrosse Club's Sunday game against the San Francisco Lacrosse Club.

Boys throughout Marin County, ages 10 through 15, are being invited to attend a tour of a modern submarine at 11 a.m., followed by the lacrosse game at the Mare Island Navy Base.

Marin Boys Club, sponsor of Pop Warner football, has joined with the Marin Lacrosse Club to promote the program for the youngsters. Weekend clinics are being held to teach boys the game.

Steve O'Brien, Marin Boys Club president, announced any boy interested may contact the following team representatives for the Sunday program: Bob Vallee, Redwood; Bob Martin, Tamalpais; Floyd Brian, Novato; Bob Ruggiera, San Rafael; Tony Barbera, Drake, and O'Brien, Terra Linda.

'Play Ball' Tomorrow For Little Leaguers

San Anselmo Little League, unable to open its season last Sunday due to wet grounds, will try again tomorrow. Ceremonies will begin at noon, honoring American Legion Post 179 and the Independent Order of Foresters. Games are played at Memorial Park.

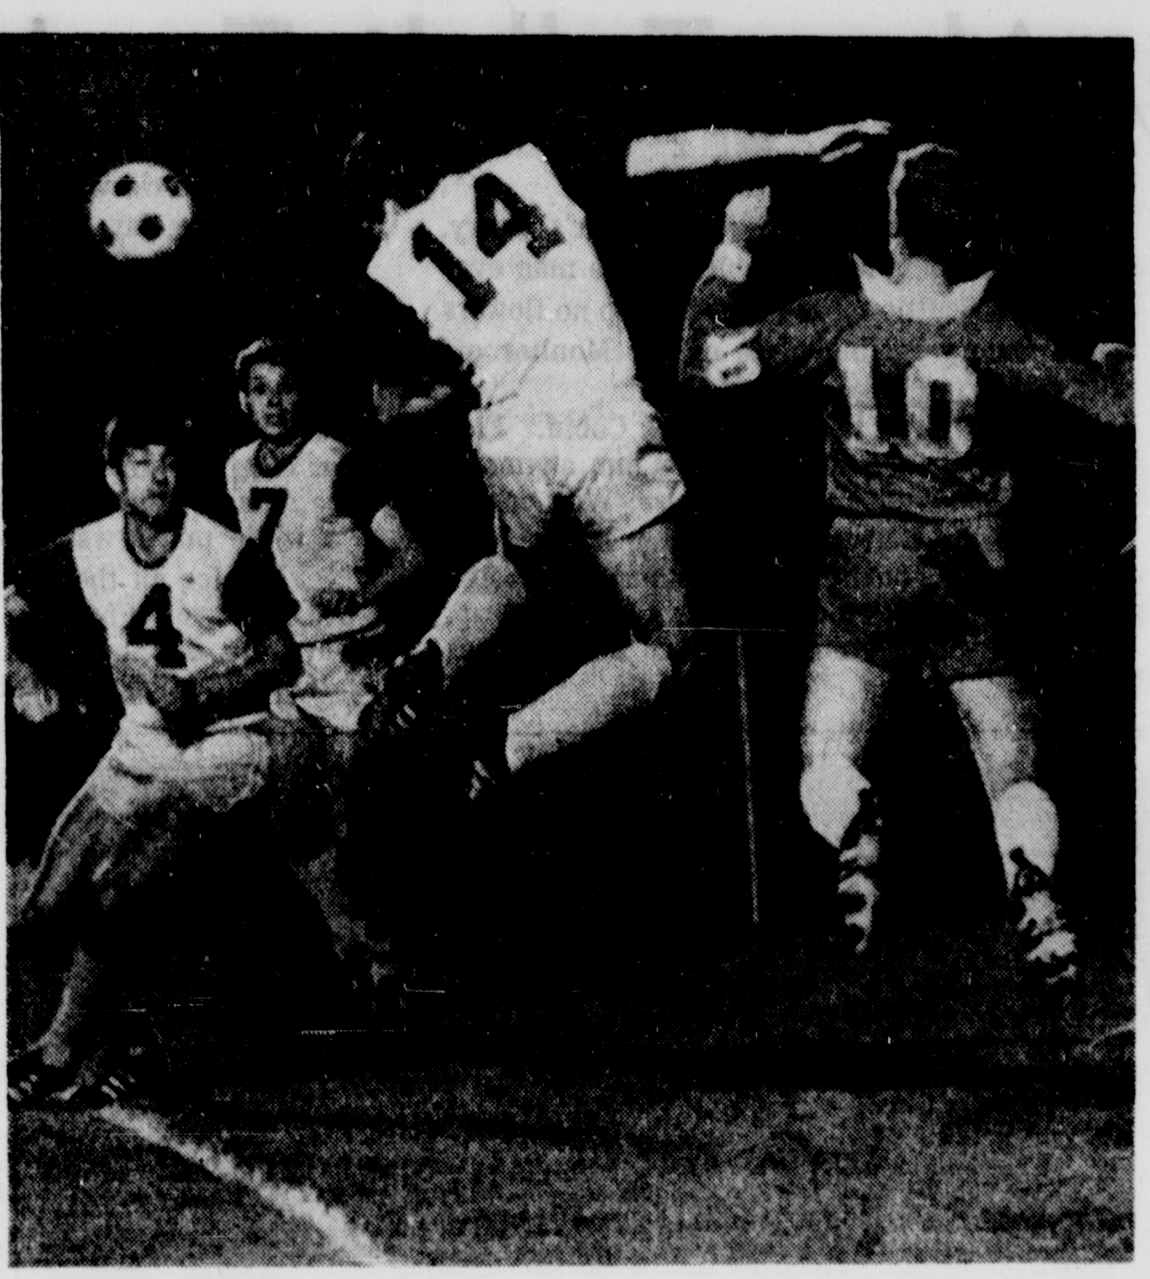
Braves To Play Pair Tomorrow

San Rafael Braves will catch double trouble, weather permitting, tomorrow afternoon at Marin Catholic High School's diamond.

The Braves open their summer semi-pro baseball season with a practice double-header against a pair of tough opponents in preparation for Western Association league play.

They'll take on San Francisco Triple A Winter League champ New Pisa at 1 p.m., then meet The Jeffersons, oldest semi-pro baseball club in California, at 3:30 p.m.

Four Litchfield's pitchers will see action in the double-header, with former Met Bill Wakefield and ex-Astro Ben Trujillo pitching in the opener and lefty Bob DeRosa and righthander Bill Clark sharing mound duties in the nightcap.



SKULL SESSION — Soccer players have all the basic skull skills for their job as Hector Martinez (14) of the Baltimore Bays demonstrates by butting the ball away from Chicago Spur Gerd Ziemann (10) in a professional soccer game last night. Bay defenders are David Primo (4) and Juan Santisteban (7).

Rush Floored Eight Times By Liston

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston was stunned today by a report his name was omitted by the New York Athletic Commission in a list of tournament eligibles who will fight for Cassius Clay's vacated title.

Liston, on a comeback trail since his title loss to Clay in 1964 and a subsequent 1965 return match, laid claim to the crown last night when he scored a sixth round knockout here over Elmer Rush of San Francisco.

"If needed," Liston said, "I will gladly enter an elimination tournament in the United States or Sweden."

Liston's name was not mentioned, however in the eight-man list issued yesterday by the New York Commission.

Liston, the ham-fisted fighter from Las Vegas, Nev., made Rush his personal punching bag as he decked the Californian eight times before posting the finishing blow. He weighed 223 to 216 for Rush.

The crowd of 11,000 booed loudly when it was announced Clay refused to enter the U.S. Army.

Cal Clippers Host Toronto Soccermen

The waterlogged California Clippers take on the winless Toronto Falcons in the National Professional Soccer League game at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Oakland Coliseum.

The fourth-place Clippers have come to know rain better than Noah in these early weeks of the season. Two of their three league games were played on wet grounds and during intermittent showers and their last game, at Atlanta Wednesday, was completely washed out.

The Atlanta rainout was a break for the Clippers' riddled roster. Two of their star defenders, Mel Scott and Momcilo Gavric were out of action with injured legs. But both will be among the starters against the Falcons tomorrow.

Last night the Baltimore Bays defeated the Chicago Spurs 2-0 at Soldier Field before 3,753 chilled fans.

Hipilito Chilinque, the Baltimore center forward, scored both goals for the winers. Chilinque scored the Baltimore first goal after 21 minutes of play in the first half and got his second goal after 41 minutes of the second period.

The game was marked by frequent fouls by Baltimore, which committed 19 to 7 for Chicago.

Joe Kennedy High Greenbrae Lanes Bowler With 691

Joe "Pappy" Kenney, a car radio salesman from San Venetia, blistered the pins for a 259 game and 691 series to headline the past week's bowling at Greenbrae Lanes.

Kenney also had games of 229 and 203 in his near-700 set in the 865 Scratch League. Phil Wallace, assistant manager at Greenbrae Lanes, rolled a 245 line and 828 four-game series in the 525 Masters Trio.

For the women, Lu Sharp rolled a 577 (206-191-180) series in the Hits and Mrs. League and Martha Moseley twirled a 223 game in the Coffee Cuppers.

Stanford Shell Places Second

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA has won the 13th annual Ed Harbach rowing regatta, the Bruins' varsity and junior varsity crews beating Stanford and Southern California in a heavy downpour.

The UCLA varsity was timed in 6:12 yesterday over the 2,000-meter Los Angeles Harbor course. Stanford was second, two lengths behind, and USC came in third.

The Bruins' junior varsity time was 6:15, with Stanford second and the Trojans third.

In the freshman race, Stanford won in 6:35, UCLA was second and USC third.

The Chicago Bears won 18 consecutive National Football League games in two occasions, a record.

Redwood Sweeps Track Honors, Still Unbeaten

Redwood High School's track and field teams yesterday swept to victory in all three divisions against visiting Marin Catholic as the undefeated Giant varsity thinclads rambled to their fourth Marin County Athletic League victory.

Bill Sather won both hurdle events, while all-around performer Jeff Hicks also was a double winner for the Giants in the 100-yard dash in 10.5 seconds and the pole vault at 12 feet.

In yesterday's other track action triple winner Reggie Walker paced Tamalpais (3-1) over host Terra Linda (2-2) although Terra Linda's Bob Bunnell bested his own record in the run, 4:35.7, and Lowell Harris' equalled the school record in the 180 low hurdles with a 19.6 performance.

Novato, meanwhile, dumped visiting San Rafael, 105-17.

Bucs' Veale Stands Tall; Reds Streak

By MIKE RECHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Veale, already 6-feet-6, must feel about eight feet tall now after finally slicing the St. Louis Cardinals down to size.

The giant Pittsburgh left-hander looked more like a midget chopping away at the Cardinals in vain for two and a half years, but last night he stood over them with a 6-2 victory.

The triumph was the first for Veale over the Cardinals since July, 1964, and gave him half of Pittsburgh's six victories this season — he has yet to lose — as he continues to grow in stature as one of the National League's best hurlers.

The Atlanta Braves also faced a giant obstacle, an 8-0 deficit, but rose to the occasion and overcame the Philadelphia Phillies 9-8.

First place Cincinnati continued to stand tall with a 7-1 victory over the New York Mets while the Houston Astros outlasted the Chicago Cubs 5-4 in 13 innings and San Francisco stopped any growing pains Los Angeles entertained, 5-4.

Veale, who had lost six straight to St. Louis, made his mark on the Cardinals with a five-hitter, striking out nine and walking three, but he almost was not around at the end to admire his handiwork.

"I was pretty close to taking him out when they hit consecutive triples against him in the sixth inning," said Pirate Manager Harry Walker. "And if he had walked the first man in the ninth, I would have taken him out although I wanted him to get this one because he needed a victory against the Cardinals."

The triples highlighted a two-run inning and neutralized a two-run homer by Willie Stargell in the top of the sixth. But Bill Mazeroski singled in one run and Gene Alley's hit drove in two more in the eighth for a 5-2 lead and Veale's sizable problem ended.

The Braves spent much of their evening climbing uphill after Don Lock drove in four runs for the Phillies with a three-run homer and a single.

But Hank Aaron cut into the eight-run lead with a three-run homer and a run-scoring single as the Braves scored five times in the fourth and three in the fifth. Aaron then singled Felipe Alou to third in the ninth, from where he scored on a fielder's choice.

High-riding Cincinnati won its third straight and eighth in nine games on Sammy Ellis' six-hitter, including Ed Kranepool's homer for the only Met run. Vada Pinson and Pete Rose buried the Mets with three hits and two RBI each.

Eddie Mathews was the big man for Houston as he tripled leading off the 13th and scored on Aaron Pointer's sacrifice fly in an up-and-down contest.

Rookie Don Wilson had a one-hitter and a 2-0 lead in the eighth for Houston before Ron Santo capped a three-run outburst with a two-run single. But Cub reliever John Upham wild pitched the tying run home in the ninth with two out.

Houston almost won it in the 10th after Chicago took a 4-3 lead. Jim Wynn tied it with a homer, but Jim Landis was out trying to steal home with the bases loaded and two out.

Pro Athletes Deny Plans To Organize

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey have had one meeting, plan another but still maintain they aren's discussing a possible labor union.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, issued a brief statement on behalf of all the athletes after a closed meeting in his office yesterday.

"An informal meeting was held among representatives of players from baseball, football, basketball and hockey," he said. "The purpose of the meeting which was exploratory in nature, was to discuss common problems, exchange information and consider the possibility of a joint approach on legislative motions."

He denied that the meeting was concerned with the possibility of establishing a labor union for all major league sports. He said another meeting is scheduled in New York late in May and that all the athletes attending agreed to wait until later before making any detailed announcements.

Attending the meeting were Bob Rodgers of the California Angels, American League player representative; Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears, president of the National Football League Players' Association; Jack Kemp of Buffalo, president of the American Football League Players' Association; Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, president of the National Basketball Association's player group; and Bob Orr of the Boston Bruins, representing the National Hockey League.

Each player also had legal counsel.

Car, Boat Show Scheduled May 21

The Quick Changers of Marin is one of four car clubs that already have informed officials of the Drake Car and Boat Show they plan to enter some of their cars.

Mike Convis, Drake High School counselor and director of the show, said the Quick Changers Club will enter five cars in the show, scheduled May 21 at Sunny Hills, 910 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, in San Anselmo.

Two clubs from the East Bay, the Bay Area 40's Club and West Coast Mustang Club, and the Wheelers Inc. of Sacramento also will enter, Convis said.

Tickets for the car and boat show went on sale this week at Drake High.

A Stillness At Appomattox

70,000 dead along the Rapidan. Cover the trenches of Petersburg. Tell those who fell in the "gloomy thickets of in the "gloomy tickets of Chickamauga," we're sorry. Come back, Gen. Rosecrans. You've been outflanked by a Louisville loudmouth. The Bill of Rights has been mugged.

Wave no poppies for Soldier Clay. John Brown's body may lie a-moldering in his grave, but Cassius' won't. Strip the laurel from the graves of the Blue. Let the willow wave over the GAR and the Gray alike.

When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom'd and the great star early droop'd in the western sky in the night, this legatee of Lincoln picked up his sword—Lincoln picked u phis sword — and ran it through his country's breast. The last full measure of his devotion. Twenty-five million of his people watched silently. He has posed a dreadful moral dilemma for them. Uncle Toms? Or rend the Union again? Serve or smite?

You were right, Abe. "We can not consecrate — we can not hallow." It is "far above our poor power." The point needs your wisdom: Is it our fault? Or his? Has he dishonored the dead? Or have we? Were we all listening when you said, "that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion — that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain — that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom"?

One of us wasn't listening. Which is why no leaves stir at Appomattox. But the blood still caulks the rocks at Shiloh.

Tam Tennis Team In League Lead

Tamalpais High School's tennis team gained a half step on its competitors yesterday by downing Novato, 4-1, at Tamalpais.

The Indians, who swept the singles and split the doubles, broke a three-wa yfirst-place tie in the Marin Athletic League with Redwood and San Rafael, for a 4-1 record. The idle Giants and Bulldogs are 3-1.

The results:

Singles — Barry Brink (T) d. Tom Gordon, 6-1, 6-2; Andy Moffat (T) d. Mike Aherne, 6-4, 6-3; Terry Moor (T) d. Steve Lyon, 6-1, 7-5. Doubles — Robbie McCormick-Jim Randolph (T) d. Jeff Parkinson-Hil Kruth, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2; Bill Ruehe-Mike DeMezas (N) d. Brian Spellman-Bill Everets, 1-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Marin: Its Verdant Hills And Hustling Vales

The contrast of rugged, sparsely settled uplands and populous valleys is sharply etched in this aerial study of Marin. On the flat highland plain to the right, the Meadow Club spreads its golf links near the still waters of Lagunitas Lake. Barely discernible as it threads its tortuous way past the club is the thin white line of Bolinas-Fairfax road. Moving to the left, the road disappears into the thick growth of the watershed, emerging near the center in Fairfax where it joins Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The boulevard, reaching toward the bay, follows its valley floor to San Anselmo's hub, where the Miracle Mile branches left to San Rafael and the boulevard itself bears right through Ross Valley. Out into the center the bay juts Tiburon Peninsula with Angel Island looming off its tip. In the upper left is Contra Costa County topped by Mount Diablo. Upper right is San Francisco, white with buildings. (Aero Photographers photo by Ed Brady)

ONE OF THE MOST impressive sights of the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Association's traditional opening day of the boating season parade on San Francisco Bay is the procession of sailing craft. The 1967 opening day event will take place May 7 with Marin power boats and sailboats to be well represented as usual. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

May 7 Is Parade Day On San Francisco Bay

By ROB HARVEY

Some 1,500 boats are expected to participate in the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Association's Opening Day Power Cruiser and Sailboat Parade scheduled May 7, in San Francisco Bay.

Power cruisers will be divided into three fleets (green, blue and red), with Marin entrants lined in the first and last pairings.

With the first or green fleet will be the powerboats of the Corinthian Yacht Club, the San Francisco Yacht Club, the Sausalito Yacht Club, the Sausalito Cruising Club, the Paradise Key Yacht Club, and the Strawberry Cove Yacht Club.

In the third or red fleet will be the Marin Yacht Club, the San Rafael Yacht Club, the North Bay Yacht Club and the Loch Lomond Yacht Club.

Clubs will be competing for Claude H. Benham Trophy points, and there will also be competition among decorated boats for trophies and prizes.

RENDEZVOUS procedures, set from 10 to 11 a.m. for power boats and 10:30 a.m. to noon for both the east and west sailing fleets, get underway near Racoon Straits between the western tip of Angle Island and Corinthian Yacht Club in Tiburon.

The actual parade, slated to start approximately 11 a.m. for power cruisers and noon for sailing craft, will commence at Crissy Field and proceed down the Bay to Pier 45 (Fisherman's Wharf). Both decorated power and sailboats will maneuver — in single file — inside Anita Rock en route to Fisherman's Wharf, which will allow spectators a better view of the colorful spectacle from St. Francis Yacht Club, San Francisco.

THE REVIEWING boat will be anchored right off the tip of St. Francis Yacht Club.

Only power boats meeting the safety requirements of the Northern California Power Cruiser Association will be allowed to take part in this year's parade. Sailing craft must meet all safety standards of the Yacht Racing Association.

An opening day safety committee, headed by Charles Frey of San Carlos of the North Bay Yacht Club, with Jim Corbet of San Rafael Yacht Club and Rex Thompson of the Marin Yacht Club as members, has prepared a detailed set of instructions for power and sailing fleets planning to participate.

The Corinthian Yacht Club will again sponsor the ceremony of the "Blessing of the Pleasure Craft Fleet," involving members of the clergy representing the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths. The clergymen will be stationed aboard a Navy vessel anchored off the Corinthian Yacht Club breakwater.

Capt. Elmer Towle, USNR, as a member of Corinthian will chairman the arrangement, for the event as usual.

IN THE INTEREST of boating safety, yachtsmen are asked to pass by the Navy ship on her port side, approaching astern by way of Racoon Straits. Each yacht should pass by only once, and receive the blessing and then proceed on a southwesterly course toward the assembly areas for the parade.

All boats so blessed will receive a scroll commemorating the event. To receive the scroll, skippers should write to the Corinthian Yacht Club, either individually, or as a club collectively, giving name of boat, and owner's name and address.

Any unattached aspirants, either singles or group, may tuck in with one of the already-mentioned fleets.

Doesn't every cosmetics company have a Navy?

Probaby not. But then every cosmetics company isn't Holiday Magic. And every cosmetics company doesn't offer the opportunity for profit that Holiday Magic does. Our files are full of success stories: a 23-year-old bachelor earns $40,000 in a year; a man and wife team make an extra $2500 in a month; a doctor earns $6000 in one week. However, there is more to Holiday Magic than just making money. Holiday Magic is also a way of life for over 30,000 people in 50 states, Canada and Mexico. As distributors for the company, these people are working for themselves, running their own businesses, using talents which were often suppressed in former occupations. If you are interested in being your own man, in having things like a boat, a better home, education for your children, or in just more money, consider Holiday Magic. There are some good reasons why a firm founded less than three years ago is now doing close to five million dollars a month in sales. And has its own Navy, too! Shouldn't you find them out?

The Coast Guard Keeps Watch Over Ocean And Inland Waters

Serving the nation since 1790, the U. S. Coast Guard is our oldest continuous sea-going armed force and performs fulltime peacetime jobs throughout the world.

The 12th Coast Guard District, with headquarters at 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco, is charged with the protection of life and property on more than 500,000 square miles of ocean and inland waterways reaching from the California-Oregon border to just south of San Luis Obispo.

UNDER THE command of a rear admiral, over 1,900 officers and enlisted personnel carry out the Coast Guard's varied functions. Included in these duties are search and rescue, marine inspection, aids to navigation, port security and education of the boating public through mobile boarding teams and the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Rating high on the list of important duties is search and rescue.

San Francisco is the location of the 12th District's Rescue Coordination Center. From their office, Coast Guard forces, including 15 cutters, six rescue stations and an air station at San Francisco's International Airport, are directed to cover assigned search and rescue duties.

THE COAST Guard's Merchant Marine Office for Northern California is also located in San Francisco. In addition to issuing documents to merchant vessels and merchant mariners, they assure the proper design, construction and maintenance of merchant vessels.

Serving the mariners of the Bay Area is the Aids to Navigation Branch of the 12th District. Strategically placed along the coastal and inland waterways are 863 aids to assist mariners. In this total are three lightships, 16 light stations, 430 buoys, 86 daybeacons and 1 LORAN (Long Range Aids to Navigation) station.

Buoys and other aids in need of repair or overhaul are taken to Coast Guard Base, Yerba Buena Island.

PORT SECURITY in the San Francisco Bay Area is handled by the Captain of the Port with offices located at Pier 45½, San Francisco. Patrol boats and inspection parties operate around the clock to assure that regulations are obeyed.

The Coast Guard, charged with enforcement of federal boating laws, utilizes three mobile boarding teams to reach the outlying areas. Their primary mission is to educate the pleasure boaters by determining if the boats and equipment are safe.

They Serve The Cause Of Better Boating

By DON KEOWN

MARIN COUNTY
SHERIFF

ABOARD his Repo, Richard F. Cordall, owner, skipper and captain of the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol, hurries to answer a "May Day" call for a search and rescue mission, typical of the volunteer services performed by many Marinites on behalf of better, safer boating. With him are Chester W. Seely and William O. Muggenthaler of the patrol.

For most Marin boatmen, the sport is a recreation to be pursued either as competition or as relaxation.

But for them to fully enjoy their fun, others must contribute hours of their own time to the cause of safe and skillful boating.

In Marin, those who serve that worthwhile cause belong to one or more of three organizations:

THE MARIN Chapter of the United States Power Squadron, which conducts a series of free classes in boat piloting and handling at Redwood High School in Larkspur; the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol, a sort of sheriff's posse on the water that patrols the more heavily trafficked waters and conducts search and rescue missions, and Flotilla 14 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, which provides free courtesy inspections of watercraft to determine if they meet Coast Guard requirements and also offers an educational program in boating safety.

The power squadron with nearly 350 members conducts piloting classes each Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 at Redwood High. "Piloting" is defined as "the steering of a vessel—the work done by the helmsman."

George Swift of San Rafael is squadron commander. Edward J. Masonic of Corte Madera is the local board of piloting chairman, Albert MacCarthy of Mill Valley his assistant chairman.

RALEIGH G. YOUNG of San Rafael is the head proctor, with a staff of 15 fellow proctors who handle the task of correcting the papers of class members.

Instructors are squadron members who have not only completed the piloting course, but have also had advanced schooling including an "instructor's technique" course.

A class chairman and assistant chairman attend all sessions. But each evening a different instructor lectures.

EACH THURSDAY the class is confronted with a new phase or stage of a charting problem. The student then proceeds to establish his location by taking cross bearings, to plot a course on a chart, or to figure speed, time and distance for estimated time of arrival.

The problem phase the following Thursday will build upon that which has been learned the previous week.

Lectures are worked out by the instructors themselves, following a general outline for the subject they are to cover.

THE CURRENT course began in early February and will be concluded next Thursday with a final examination. Students will then have attended 13 sessions covering such topics as safety, seamanship, small boat handling, river piloting, equipment, government regulations, rules of the road, the mariner's compass, aids to navigation, charts and piloting, customs and manners and radio telephone.

The United States Power Squadrons program had its origin on the East Coast in 1914, with an initial objective of safe and efficient boating that it has maintained ever since as it has spread across the country.

THE MARIN County Sheriff's Marine Patrol dates back to 1959 when Scott Waterman approached newly elected Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos with the idea for such an organization.

Mountanos was quick to recognize the merits of the plan, noting how the patrol could serve to augment the services of an overburdened Coast Guard in the waters of this area.

In its ninth year now, the patrol consists of 37 men who donate their time and the use of approximately a quarter of a million dollars worth of vessels and rescue equipment toward the important responsibilities they have assumed.

THEIR "FLEET" consists of 19 cruisers, up to 40 feet in length, eight small to medium-sized trailerable craft and one trailerable "mud sled" with a bed that can be lowered to the ground.

With the recent acquisition of the mud sled, virtually every area in Marin's surrounding waters has become accessible to the patrol.

The operations of the patrol, which since its inception has logged more than 10,000 man hours of volunteer duty, have saved Marin's taxpayers the many thousands of dollars that would be required to purchase, maintain and crew even one patrol-rescue boat.

Inspections, Patrols And Education

MEMBERS OF the patrol are available, day or night, to emergency requests for their services from the sheriff's office.

Members must be thoroughly familiar with boats, boat-handling and boating laws, and must pass the usual thorough character screening of law enforcement agencies before they are sworn in as deputy sheriffs.

The newcomer undergoes training cruises in the company of more experienced officers before he is rated capable of patrol duty on his own.

Boat ownership is not required, since there is always a need for crew men to accompany the skippers under the patrol's "buddy system."

SHERIFF Mountanos carries the title of commodore of the patrol. Top officers are Capt. Richard F. Cordall, Lt. William H. Muggenthaler, Yeoman Alfred W. Miller, Purser Norman Tomlin and Master at Arms William O. Muggenthaler.

James E. Jones and Scott Waterman are the information and education officers, Victor A. Muzio the public relations officer and Charles S. Chapin the historian.

Inspector Bowen Bridges and Raymond H. Tschirgi of the sheriff's office serve as liaison men to the patrol.

A just-completed project of the patrol has been the development and printing of a grid chart system covering both San Pablo and San Francisco bays. With the help of these charts, vessels in distress can summon help in a minimum of time and make it much easier for the rescue unit to pinpoint the location of the craft in trouble.

COOPERATING with the sheriff's patrol, the U.S. Coast Guard has agreed to use the new charts in finding and aiding vessels in distress in bay waters.

Public Relations Officer Muzio points out that the charts, to be available to boaters and other rescue units at yacht clubs, at boating facilities and through patrol members, will also expedite boat owners in arranging a rendezvous or in finding favorable fishing sites.

between 60 and 70 members, all boat-owners.

FOR YEARS pleasure boat owners of Marin have learned to rely upon its trained inspectors to point out to them deficiencies of their craft that might cause them to fail to meet Coast Guard requirements or might create safety hazards.

Inspections are voluntary, made only upon request of owners. Once the inspection is made and the boat found to be in compliance with the laws and with auxiliary standards, the skipper is presented with a decal that notifies the regular Coast Guard that the vessel has been inspected by the auxiliary and found to be shipshape.

Peter Ditto is the present commander of Flotilla 14, and Charles Cusick is the head inspector.

INSPECTORS ARE required to pass examinations given by the Coast Guard every three years to maintain their official status.

Invited on board a boat for a courtesy check, an inspector will look into such matters as the availability, adequacy and condition of the identifying numerals and papers, fire extinguishers and other safety and life-saving devices, navigation lights, backfire flame control for the engine, the galley stove, the fuel tank installation, portable fuel tanks and containers, electrical wiring and circuits, carburetor drip collector, anchor and anchor line and the general condition of the vessel such as cleanliness of bilges and operability of pumps.

This year the inspectors are assuming a major new responsibility in the new ventilation regulations of the Coast Guard that go into effect after May 31.

THE COAST GUARD has long required efficient ventilation of power boats. Now, however, those requirements are being spelled out in detail.

At the minimum, the Coast Guard says, the ventilating system should be one that ducts fresh air into each engine and fuel tank compartment and carries dangerous fumes out of the vessel efficiently.

Of the intake or air supply system, the Coast Guard now says: "There must be one or more intake ducts into each fuel and engine compartment, fitted with a cowl (or scoop), extending from the open atmosphere to a level midway to the bilge (fuel compartment) or at least below the level of the carburetor (engine compartment)."

OF THE EXHAUST system, it says: "There must be one or more exhaust ducts from the lower portion of the bilge of each fuel and engine compartment to the free atmosphere, fitted with a cowl or equivalent such as wind-actuated rotary ex-

OWNERS of power boats passing the courtesy test given by inspectors from the Coast Guard Auxiliary's Flotilla 14 are given this decal to display, signifying to the Coast Guard that their craft has been found to be shipshape.

hauster or a mechanical blower."

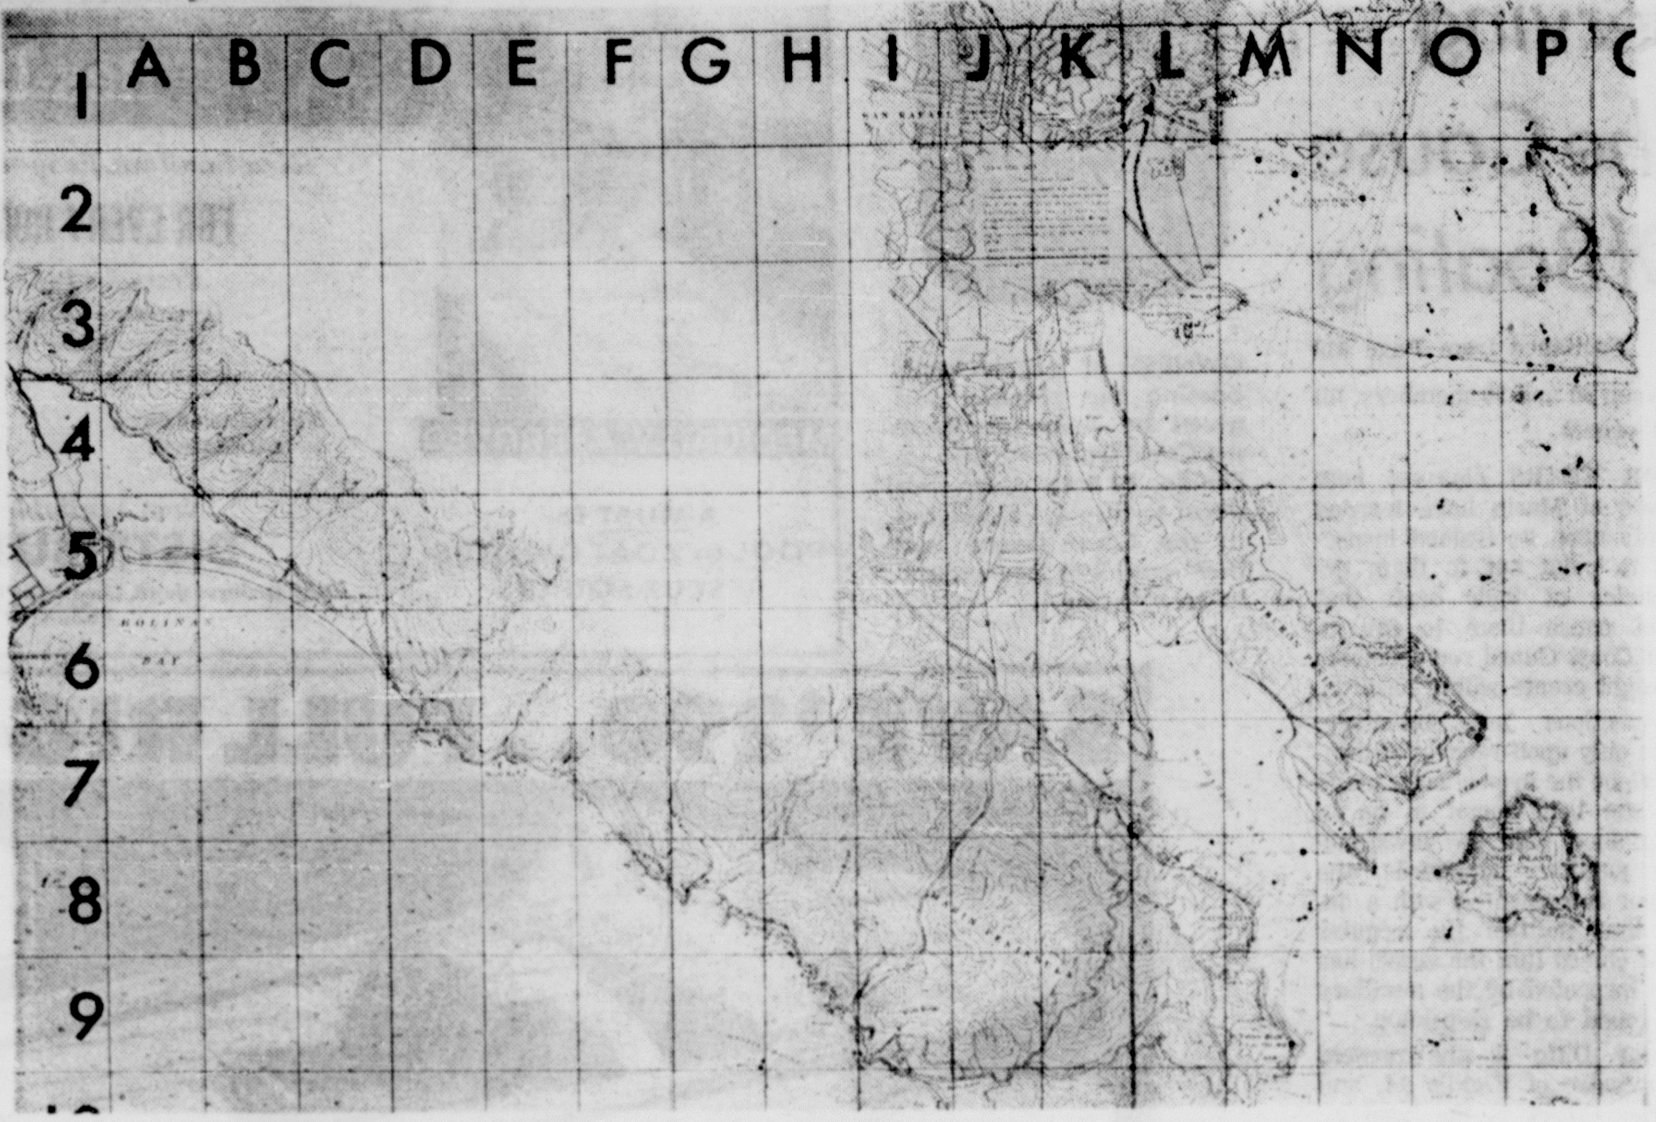
Of ducting materials: "Ducts should be constructed of non-ferrous, galvanized ferrous or sturdy high temperature resistant non-metallic materials routed clear of and protected from contact with hot engine surfaces."

On positioning of cowls: "Normally, the intake cowl will face forward in an area of free underway airflow, and the exhaust cowl will face aft where a suction effect can be expected. They should be located with respect to each other so as to prevent the return of displaced vapors to any enclosed space, or to avoid the pick-up of vapors from fuel filling stations."

OPENINGS IN engine compartments for entry of air to the carburetor are to be in addition to the ventilation system requirements.

As for size of the air conduits, the Coast Guard provides two tables for the guidance of boat owners.

The table for small power boats is based upon net compartment volume. The table for larger boats is based upon the vessel's beam.



THIS IS A PART of the new grid chart system developed by the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol. The mapping covers the entire San Francisco-San Pablo Bay area, and is expected to expedite search and rescue missions when quick location of vessels in distress is essential.

ONLY OPEN boats are exempted from the ventilating requirements. The Coast Guard defines an "open" craft as:

1. Engine and fuel tank compartments shall have a minimum of 15 square inches of open area directly exposed to the atmosphere for each cubic foot of net compartment volume.

2. All such compartments must have at least one square inch of open area per cubic foot, within one inch of the compartment bilge level or floor, so that any vapors present will drain into open spaces.

3. There must be no long or narrow unventilated spaces accessible from such compartments in which flame front could propagate.

4. Long, narrow compartments such as side panels, if joining engine or fuel compartments and not serving as ducts thereto, shall have at least 15 square inches of open area per cubic foot provided by frequent openings along the full length of the compartment formed.

MILLER McNEAR, a veteran Flotilla 14 Coast Guard Auxiliary inspector, says very few Marin-owned boats will meet that definition.

And most Marin-moored boats, he adds, will fall into the two-intake, two-exhaust category, rather than the single intake and exhaust class.

IN THE PAST, McNear says, the most frequent deficiency encountered by inspectors has been the fire extinguisher. Improper numerals have been another cause of inspection failures. But this year, he anticipates, the new ventilating requirements will be far and away the biggest concern of boat owners and inspectors.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary also carries on patrol and search-and-rescue work in conjunction with the Coast Guard, and has its own educational program, conducting safe boating classes open to the public at San Rafael High School on Thursday nights at 8 o'clock.

Sailboats Of Wood Are Rare At The Shows This Year

By JACK WOLISTON
UPI Boating Writer

Boat shows around the country this year are displaying more sailboats than ever before — and only a few are made of wood.

Most of the racing classes that have not yet accepted fiberglass just aren't being shown. Famous designs brought out a few years ago in plywood have reappeared in glass.

In aluminum, sailboat hulls are totally new shapes drawn to take advantage of the light weight of the metal and to cope with the problems that light weight raises — aluminum sailboats must be extremely beamy, for example.

CONTRARILY, since glass is heavier than wood, these boats need less ballast than wood hulls.

There also has been a remarkable drop in the number of sailing catamarans shown.

Indeed, there are few radically new boats, but many more sophisticated refinements to both displacement and planing conventional craft.

In the displacement boats, both American and British designers have moved sharply toward the use of twin keels or even twin bilge boards in trunks like a centerboard. Twin keels have great advantages. They cut both weight and draft by one-third as compared with a fin keel of a fiberglass hull (the keels might have to be a bit heavier on a wood hull).

THEY ARE easier to build and a littler cheaper than a single keel. But the greatest advantage is that a twin keel boat won't careen and capsize if it runs aground as a single fin keel boat will.

In the planing hull sailboats, the most noticeable trend is the gradual disappearance of the centerboard trunk, whose vibration when underway puts such a strain on the hull.

The new planing boats are built with the cockpit floor well above the waterline and the bilges filled with foamed plastic. Thus, the centerboard simply drops through an open slot in the floor — there's only a vestigial trunk forward where the board pivots. Even the pivot pin that used to pierce the trunk is gone.

INSTEAD THE board has a round front and fixed pin that rides a hump-shaped track at the top of the trunk. The board can be lifted out of the trunk even when underway.

Centerboards themselves tend now to be long, narrow and just heavy enough to go down in salt water. This type will kick up the moment they touch the bottom, thus reducing the risk of capsizing in a strong breeze.

In cruisers and day sailers, the trends to simpler rings, lower aspect heights and less canvas are accentuated.

In the racing boats, both displacement and planing class, everything is just the opposite — taller masts, larger sails, and a bewildering assortment of traveler bars, adjusting lines, sam cleats and hiking trapezes designed to put maximum premium on the physical stamina and acrobatic agility of the crews.

SOCIAL OUTLETS

The Yacht Clubs Have Busy Slates

By BARBARA HOSMER

"Come aboard" — That's the usual friendly invitation of Marin's hospitable sailing and power boat enthusiasts when they gather aboard their craft.

Families from throughout the Bay region are members of Marin yacht clubs and boating associations, and all participate in social activities that naturally accompany in sailing and water sports. Much of the socializing among boating families is informal, yet many of the clubs run a varied season of organized social events ranging from after-racing brunches to supper dances to style shows of salty garb.

THE OLDEST IN Marin — the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere—has not only kept the distaff members working on invitations and the necessaries for the club's dinners, dances and regatta luncheons, but has sponsored a sailing program for women and given top support to the Adams Cup competition for lady sailors. In fact, last summer SFYC's women were hostesses to the all North America Adams Cup competition, a high honor.

In its service programs and assistance to the men's club activity, the auxiliary has changed its original emphasis, which was fund raising and furnishing the clubhouse. The auxiliary also carries on a program of luncheon and fashion shows and has a champagne party at Christmas time as well as a Santa party for the youngsters.

Mrs. William Healey of Belvedere, as president, has enjoyed taking the sailing instruction to assist aboard the Healeys' Cal-20. The sailing lessons began a few years ago under the guidance of Mrs. Benton Matthews.

ALSO WITH A long time sailing tradition is the Corinthian Yache Club of Tiburon, and its role as host club for many racing activities keeps the women busy assisting the men with the hospitality throughout the season.

Year around activities keep the women's auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Frank Sullivan of San

Marin Boat Clubs Keep Their Members Busy On Land As Well

Francisco, toeing the mark, as Corinthian initiated the mid-winter races which involve club hospitality as well. The auxiliary stages monthly luncheons with a variety of speakers and twice a year puts on style lunches for guests.

One Corinthian social tradition is the open day dance, dating from the days when the yachts wintered in a section of Richardson Bay and things were actually opened to get them to summer moorings at the club.

FAR NEWER and quite busy socially is the Belvedere Sailing Society, which plies the waters of Belvedere Lagoon.

It has official opening and closing activities for social and racing seasons of its four sailing fleets. Their opening is taking place this weekend, with party events at home along the lagoon, and the closing is usually a big costume ball in October.

Dr. Sam Mann, commodore, and his wife stay busy with the activities.

A CLUB OF salty sailors is the Sausalito Yacht Club, with an active auxiliary carrying on the social events, guided by Mrs. Theodore Nizenkoff, of San Rafael, president.

The women and children learned to sail through a auxiliary-sponsored program in past years. But parties abound also — especially notable is the Christmas party when Santa arrives by water. There are also fashion shows of nautical attire and an extensive social season at the clubhouse.

The club sometimes has "Family Fun Day" with crazy boat races for the youngsters.

MAINLY POWER boaters, the Sausalito Cruising Club has a full social schedule of parties and club cruises.

Headed by Mrs. Roy M. Schwartz of San Francisco, the auxiliary holds events ranging from post trophy race dinners and dancing to luaus, holiday boutiques and bazaars aboard the floating clubhouse.

FOR A CLUB only a little over a year old, the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club has a social calendar that includes the first overnight family cruise for each of the club's three fleets, the power, sail and ski boats, held last weekend; a steak barbecue in the evening followed by a gin fizz, bacon and egg breakfast the the next day. Crazy hats and singing and dancing constituted the entertainment.

Reciprocal overnight stays with the various yacht clubs with the first with Corinthin. Dances and parties are set for holidays such as Halloween and Christmas, and barbecues and parties are held throughout the year on the lagoon island called "Pleasure Island" at the Ignacio club.

For July Fourth a "Sail-a-bration" will be held all day, with boats decorated for a water parade, racing and fireworks. James Hudson is the club's press chairman for the activities of all three fleets.

MUCH OLDER and well established for Marin, San Francisco and East Bay members is the Marin Yacht Club with its attractive anchorage and clubhouse at the entrance of San Rafael Canal.

Marin usually carries on a season of club dinners and parties and plays host to club cruises in the summer months when its weather is superior to most of the bay. Well-known Marinites the Russell G. Smiths of Ross are leading the club this year, as he has just been elected commodore.

Many members also belong to larger yacht clubs such as St. Francis in San Francisco and are active in their social life, using Marin as their cozier, sunnier "home away from home" anchorage, and club.

SURELY ONE OF the most socially acitve is the Loch Lomond Yacht Club of San Rafael, with a full year of events for its sailing and power boat enthusiasts.

With Mrs. Robert Bohanna heading the entertainment committee, the club is carrying on 10 social events and 16 cruises plus planning a gala turnout for opening day when the club usually captures a prize for the most boats decorated from one club.

Parties this year range from a crab cioppino dinner to a Chinese New Year party, variety show, opening .day dinner, both children's and adult Christmas parties, egg hunt, Halloween party and a luau. And there are steak dinners at the clubhouse on Saturdays.

IN CONTRAST the Strawberry Cove Yacht Club on the Tiburon Peninsula is socially active mainly for a July picnic at a nearby island or such.

Dr. Robert Cogswell Jr. has been the commodore and Mrs. Robert Allen is busy with the family side of the activity.

ANOTHER SAN RAFAEL based club is the North Bay Yacht Club, with craft kept both at Loch Lomond and Lowrie's harbor on the canal.

Next on the agenda is finding a suitable clubhouse site, and the auxiliary was organized two years ago to begin the fund-raising. Naturally it has meant social gatherings — a costume party, a fashion show at Peacock Gap, the commodore's ball at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel in San Francisco and a Halloween party in Marin. Upcoming is a club picnic. Mrs. C. Burt Kennedy of San Rafael is president for her second term.

Club members also enjoy weekend cruises, with plaques awarded for the greatest attendance by a craft. Next week after the opening day parade the club will gather at Lowrie's for a hotdog and beer party, and awards go to club members for best dressed craft in the parade.

ALTHOUGH CONSERVATION is their main purpose, the members of the auxiliary to the Marin Rod and Gun Club enjoy fishing, clam digging at Tomales Bay, crabbing at Fort Baker and salmon fishing, as well as the public dessert socials and games held the third Wednesday of the month at the Point San Quentin clubhouse.

They also run the dessert booth at the club picnic in July and stage two rummage sales a year.

Mrs. L. Feltz Smith of San Quentin, president, says that camperships are given to children for a school of outdoor education and to a prospective forestry major from Marin goes a college scholarship.

SAN RAFAEL Yacht Club on the canal holds a monthly party, usually the second Saturday unless an appropriate holiday makes a special date more desirable. Dinner and dancing is featured at the clubhouse for these occasions.

The club always participates in the opening day events, an installation dinner is an October tradition and a Christmas party is a must. The club's vice commodore, Dutch Raggio always does the cooking, but the auxiliary services and helps with all the parties. The women have their meetings at the same time as the men's club and they hold various sales and events to buy furnishings for the clubhouse.

Morrison Green of San Rafael is a leader of the San Rafael club, which has many cruises in the summer months, often to the delta region and many of the members keep boats up river and cruise there in groups.

A SAILING club on Tomales Bay is the Inverness Yacht Club which has a long history and an active summer sailing season of small craft.

It carries on a busy youth program through the sunny months when the summer colony is at its height, and its cioppino feast has been a tradition. Port captain is Dudley Dixon.

JUST 20 YEARS AGO, this scene at left, a dredged out basin among the tules midway up the San Rafael Canal, marked the beginning of the unfolding of a dream. It was the birth of Bud Lowrie's Yacht Harbor, started with 20 berths. Now, 20 years later, the completed project is one of Northern California's finest private yacht harbors, with a berthing area for approximately 110 boats 20 to 50 feet, and with water and electricity available for each. Visitors today to the bustling but snug harbor with its many beautiful yachts would never recognize the scene at left. Such growth, however, is illustrative of the rapid development of boating in Marin.

Don't Run Your Motor When It Isn't In Water

Some outboard boatmen make it a practice to start their motors after they have been removed from the water.

The idea is to expel any water that may be left in the cooling system. Although the theory is sound, this practice should be avoided, say the engineers at Evinrude Motors. In most cases, the water will drain out by itself and the small amount that may be left will not hurt anything.

Running an outboard motor out of water for even a short time can cause overheating and will invite water pump damage. If you want to make sure all of the water is out before putting the motor away for an extended period, disconnect the spark plugs and give the starter rope a few easy pulls.

Hull Refinements Mark '67 Boats

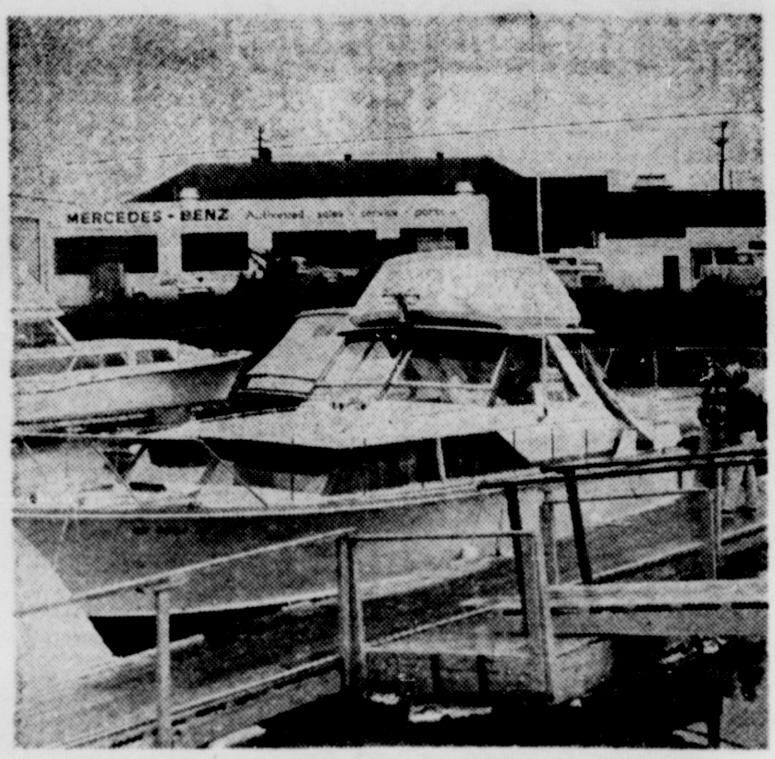
Motor boat builders are featuring hull refinements in their 1967 models, ranging from the smaller of outboard runabouts to racing inboards and ocean going cruisers.

There are several factors contributing to this emphasis on hull design. First there is the upsurge in power that is being provided in the modern gasoline and diesel marine engines. Twin power plants are commonplace in inboard craft today and larger outboard boats are designed to take motors of the highest horsepower or even a pair of them. Off-shore cruising, ocean racing and general speed increases are by-products.

Greater comfort also is stressed, with more versatile seating and steering arrangments being provided in the outboards and the expanding use of all electric galley equipment and pressurized water systems in the cruiser, which requires a generator to provide the necessary current.

The use of multiple engines or larger motors also involves, as a rule, installation of added fuel capacity. This along with the engines and other added equipment increases the weight load and distribution problems.

The combination of increased power and weight, together with a rise in speed, calls for rugged construction without sacrificing the performance capability of stylized lines of today's many types of recreational craft.



AT HIS Pearson Delta Yacht Sales on the San Rafael Canal, Howard Turner shows a prospective customer a trim craft for sale. Many Marinites do not realize just how many of the boats moored in their county fall in the medium to large-size category. But records show it is substantial.

Space Age Ignition Is Big News In Outboard Motors

The depth of selection in the various lines of 1967 outboard motors is the greatest in history.

But the newest innovation in the larger outboards is electronic or capacitive discharge ignition. This is hot stuff. Advantage of the new ignition system is that a roaring hot spark is fed to the spark plugs regardless of motor speed. Another of the new system's advantages is that it completely eliminates breaker points. Throwing away the points immediately increases reliability and eliminates critical adjustments.

Here's how the new space-age outboard ignition system works:

1. Ordinary 12 volt (starter battery) current is fed into a vibrator or chopper which converts the plain DC into alternating current.

2. A small transformer steps up the 12 volt "chopped current" to about 300 volts AC.

3. A solid state (transistor) rectifier converts the 300 volts AC to 300 volts DC and feeds it into a capacitor (condenser). The capacitor is kept charged at close to 300 volts at all times.

4. The capacitor feeds 300 volts DC to a silicon controlled rectifier (SCR). The controlled rectifier is an electrical valve or gate (like a vacuum tube thyratron). The controlled rectifier alternately allows current to flow through itself or blocks passage of the flow in accordance with "triggering" signals sent it by a low power trigger circuit. (The trigger circuit is like the grid circuit in a vacuum tube. Tiny current in the grid results in great current in the plate circuit.) The SCR can handle considerable amperage from the charged capacitor.

5. Timed pulses of current, at about 300 volts DC, flow from the capacitor through the SCR, then through a pulse transformer or spark coil.

6. The pulse transformer jacks up the surges of low voltage to spikes of terrific voltage, tens of thousands of volts. These hot spikes of searing voltage are then distributed to the plugs in the conventional manner.

7. Returning to the triggering: A sensor head and rotor replace conventional breaker points and cam. There is no mechanical switch at all. The sensor rotor is like a small generator sending weak pulses of current through the sensor head and to the "grid" of the SCR. The triggering pulses are, of course, mechanically timed and synchronized with the engine's speed of rotation.

Boating Is Big Business In Marin County

By HARRY CRAFT

According to the Department of Harbors and Waterways, there was not a single pleasure boat over 65 feet in length registered in Marin County last year.

As an isolated statistic this may be interesting but it has no real significance in the Marin boating picture. Such vessels are comparatively few and far between, and for the benefit of sightseers there always seems to be a fair share of visiting yachts of that class berthed or anchored here.

THE IMPORTANT thing is that over 21 per cent of Marin's registered 6,458 pleasurecraft are in the 22 to 64-foot class (70 of these were over 40 feet long in last year's tally). It means that one out of every five boats registered in the county is continually in the water — not parked in the yard and then hauled piggy-back or by trailer to river and pond, or parked at some remote vacation retreat.

Add to this number of approximately 1,300 vessels those that are registered elsewhere but berthed in Marin and you have some conception of the economic importance of the county's waterways and marine traffic.

The county assessor's office last year assessed 3,880 boats at a total $4,994,800. Apparently there is no record of the exact number of these in the water, but it must be substantial if the average assessed valuation figure is over $1,000 per boat. Many small boats registered in Marin and left outside the county are not assessed.

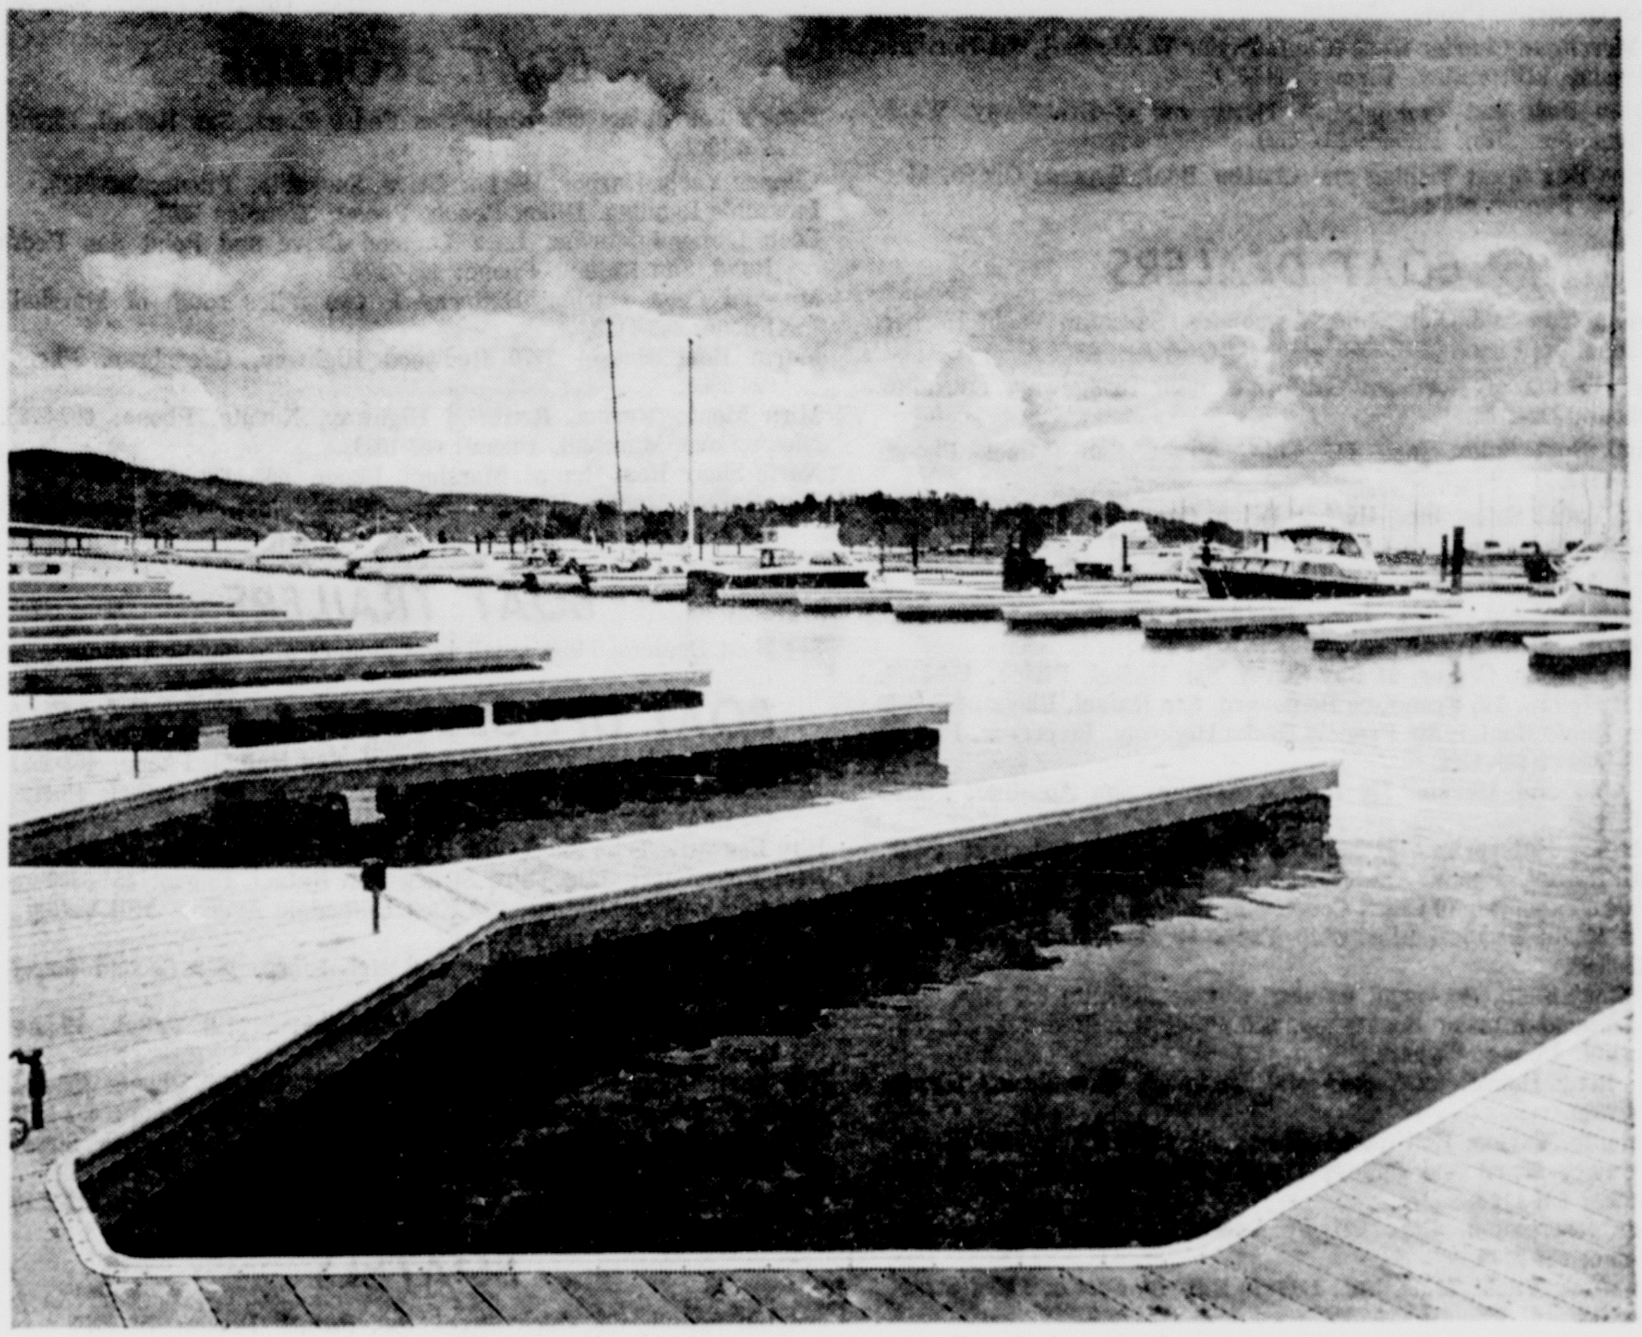
A SIDELIGHT on this tax revenue is that it is virtually "free and clear" as far as the county is concerned. It could be doubled or trebled without imposing any extra responsibilities or expense for new schools or other facilities which are required when any considerable numbers of new homeowners are added to the assessment rolls.

Understandably the percentage of large and medium-large craft in Marin is quite a bit higher than the statewide average which includes figures for landlocked counties with only river and lake boating. Local boat dealers seem convinced that this segment of the market is expanding here even more. Most sales, says Ray Gallagher of San Rafael Marine Repair for one, are now in the 26-foot class and already 1967 appears to be marked for a period of increased activity.

About 11 per cent of all Marin families own a boat of some kind. And boats, like automobiles, require upkeep. If the boats are berthed locally where the owners can take out their friends inevitably many of them seem to prove inadequate. There is always a considerable amount of "trading up" to something better.

ALL THIS activity requires boat dealers, boat repairers, launching sites, storage, harbors, drydocks and ways, equipment suppliers, marine service stations and related products and services. Taxable retail sales alone in these areas total between three and five million dollars per year.

The number of businesses involved is substantial and the list goes through many changes over a 12-month period. Our directory of boat services has been updated again this year and is easily removable from these pages. We hope you will find it to be a valuable reference guide.



WITH THE RECENT opening of its new Basin Four, Clipper Yacht Harbor, Sausalito, can now accommodate some 800 boats, making it the largest privately owned yacht harbor in Northern California. Among the features which make Basin Four uniquely modern are sufficient electrical capacity to handle every accessory the boat owner might wish to operate; individual electric meters at each berth, and custom designed fiberglass lockers on each dock. Fortunate Marin Boaters Can Live Beside The Waterways

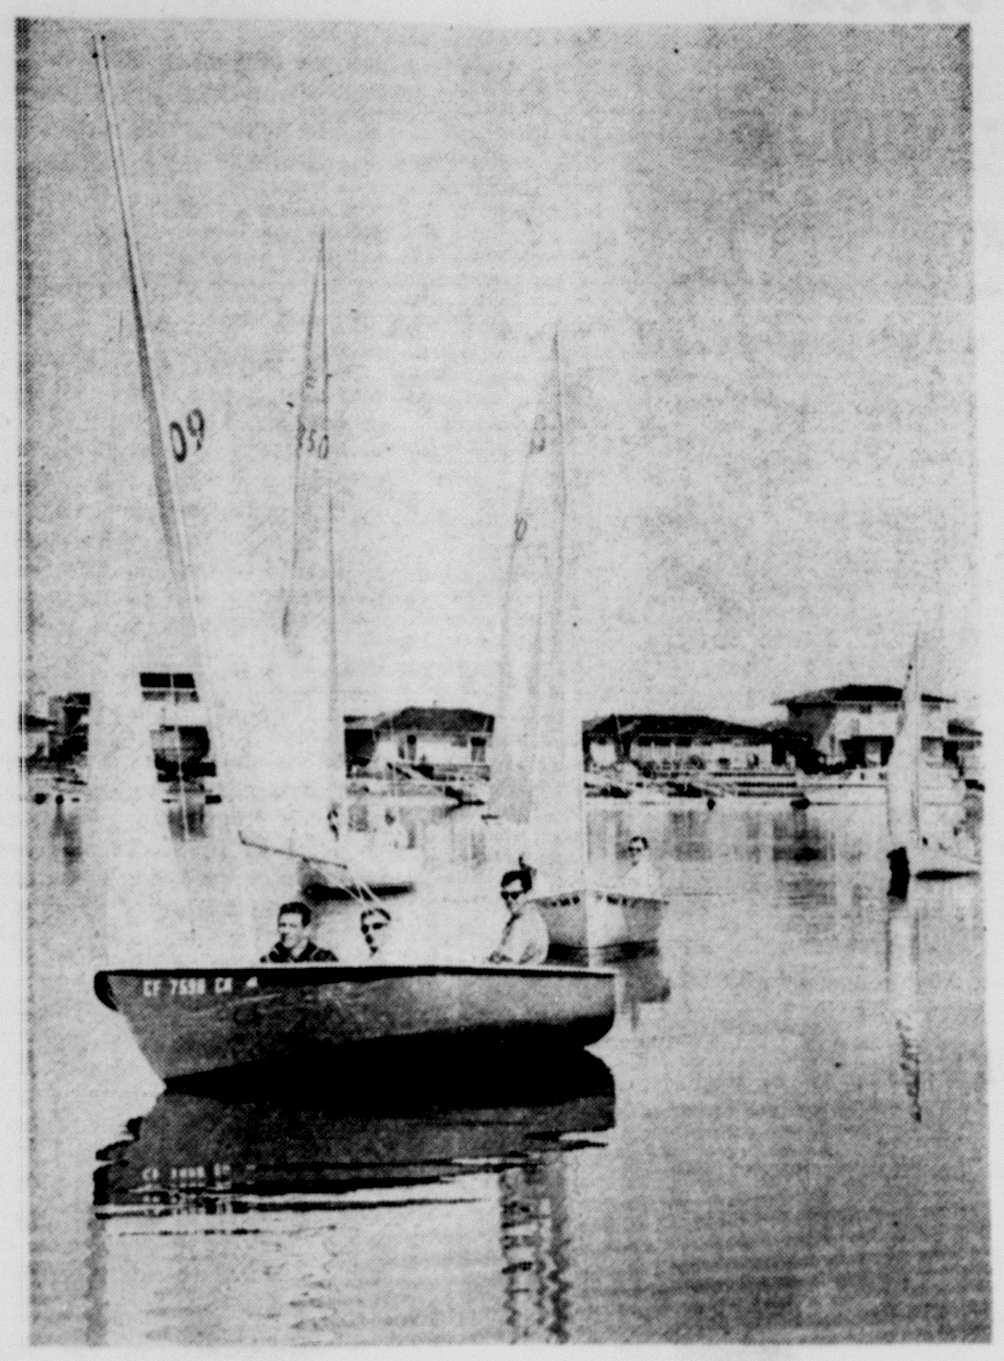
Fine Houses Permit Their Owners To Moor A Craft At Doorstep



MARINITES WHO BOAT can choose homes that permit them to live beside the water and to dock their craft literally at their doorsteps. It's the ultimate as a way of life for the yachtsman. At top, Bel-Marin Keys is one popular mecca for the boat-minded where skippers can enjoy their favorite sport only seconds from their living rooms. At bottom, the scene is the Shelter Bay luxury apartments off Richardson Bay Bridge, designed by John Lord King. There are five buildings with 107 units—and boating.

A Committee Sparks A Boating Surge

If over recent years Marin County has experienced a more pronounced "awakening" to its potential as an ideal area for boating, some credit must be given to one organization which has labored quietly in the background, with little publicity for its efforts.

This is the Boats and Harbor Committee, sponsored by the Marin Visitors Bureau.

ORIGINALLY SET up a number of years ago under the Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the committee included some members of the old Marin Industrial Development Foundation. But after the Marin Visitors Bureau was detached from the chamber five years ago, the Boats and Harbor Committee seemed to find its best opportunity for expansion with this organization.

Among its members are yachtsmen, yacht harbor owners and developers, yacht clubs, those in the boating industry — and other individuals and groups having a vested or civic interest in this phase of the county's development.

Its declared purpose is to promote boating in Marin as a year-round attraction, to the end that the county eventually will be recognized as the primary boating and recreation center of the Bay Area.

IN THE PAST, according to committee chairman Bernard F. Seligman, the group has worked on such projects as the dredging of the San Rafael Canal, getting Angel Island for a state park, assisting on the Bolinas Harbor District and the Richardson Bay Assessment District.

And currently the committee functions as a sort of grassroots organization representing Marin on the California Marine Parks and Harbors Association in making local studies and recommendations leading to the acquisition of government funds for developing the county's marine facilities.

"If there is money available for such projects we want to do everything we can to get it," Seligman said.

SELIGMAN IS a director of the California association, as are also three other members of the Marin Boats and Harbors Committee — Admiral Clyde King, H. Morgan Noble and Leonard James.

Future plans of the committee include focusing more attention of boatsmen on Marin through promotion campaigns and publicity, reviewing legislation at all levels which affect boating and its supporting industries, promoting yachting and water events in Marin, assisting governmental bodies in planning for the most equitable use of Marin's shoreline, supporting the development of parks and recreational areas — and coordinating and communicating information on boating and water safety to the public.

"Also we hope to prepare literature on the county's facilities which will be helpful to visiting boatsmen," Seligman declared. "It has taken us several years of selectivity — but now I believe our membership is being nicely rounded out to include those who have the most to gain from developing Marin's tremendous boating potential."

Some Tips For Skippers From The Boating Experts

When moving in toward a pier, approach into the wind or current. That way you keep the most control over your boat and the wind or current won't be pushing you into the dock.

Always carry an extra coil of rope in good condition, advises the Johnson Motors News Bureau. This should be in addition to anchor line and regular dock lines. Besides its possible use in an emergency it can be used as a lifeline for swimmers.

If you own a small motor and remove it from the boat after each outing, Evinrude engineers suggest you hold it upright on the dock for a few moments so water will drain from the lower unit and not enter the cylinder and crankcase through the exhaust ports.

Stand to one side when winching a boat onto a trailer. If the taut cable should snap or the hook straighten while you are standing in front of the trailer you may be hit by the lashing cable.

Burgee Or Pennant? An Old Argument Among Boaters

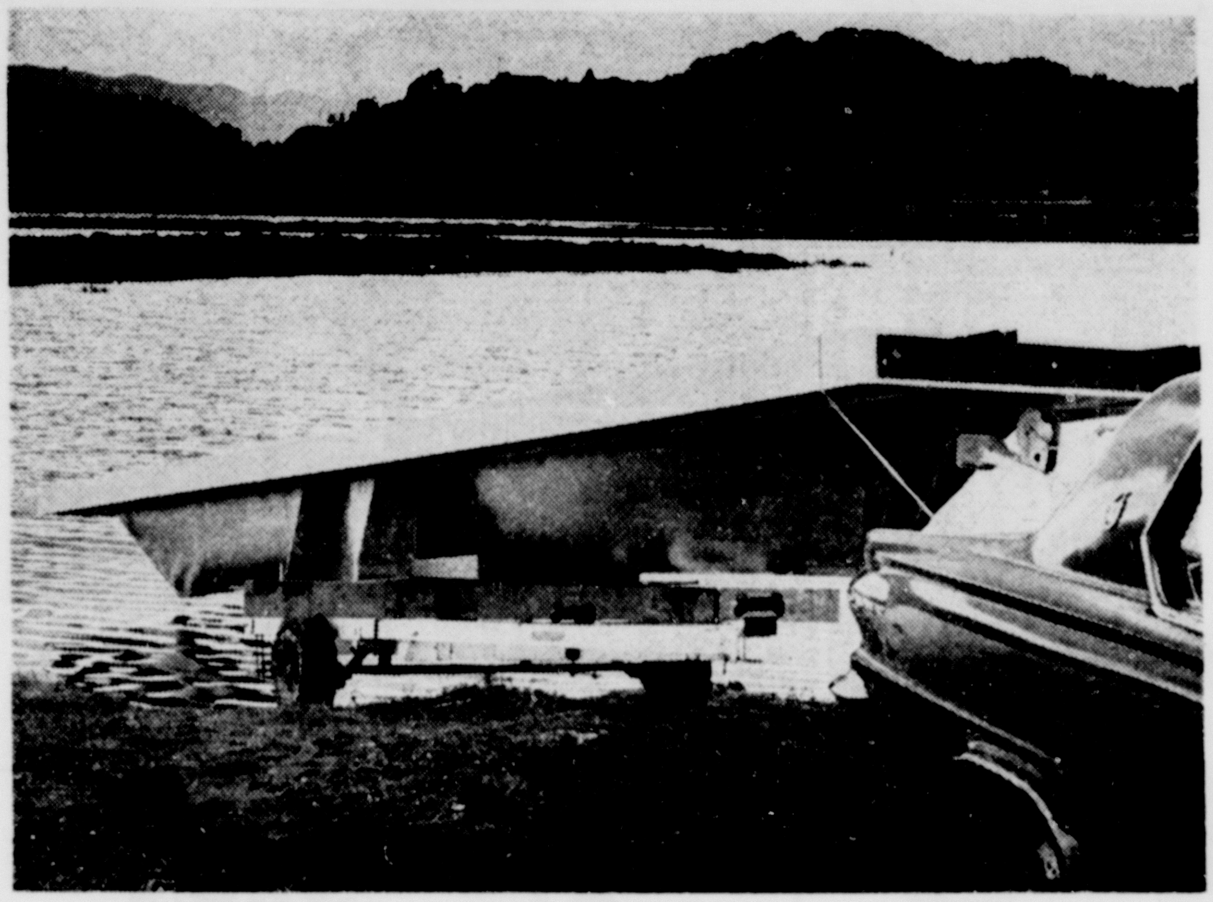
Over more years and cups of coffee than one cares to imagine, yachtsmen have discussed the difference (if there was one) between a pennant and a burgee.

The following is about as close as you can probably get.

A pennant is a flag, smaller at the fly than at the hoist which is (1) commonly pointed, triangular, (2) often truncated, as in some Navy signals, (3) sometimes swallow-tailed, (4) occasionally a long thin streamer.

A burgee is usually a swallow-tailed flag which is (1) often rectangular, (2) possibly pennant-shaped, and (3) by popular usage, the identifying signal of a yacht club, regardless of shape.

(The burgee, incidentally, seems to stem from medieval times, around the era of city-states. It is said that a chunk of the flag was cut out to signify the ranking noble was not in residence, but the fort was held by his retainers.)



THE ROLIN-TEE boat dock is launched easily with ordinary boat trailer, one of its unique features. Other features are amazing stability even in rough water, a rugged trouble-free design with one-piece steel hulls in lengths up to 60 feet. They are manufactured in San Rafael by the Rolin-Tee Co. of 110 Belvedere Street.

There's An Overlooked Member Of A Water Ski Team

While it may not be necessary for the driver of the family ski boat to be as adept as a show driver, authorities say there are some basic rules the weekend tow boat driver should observe.

FIRST OF all, it is the driver's duty to see that the equipment is in perfect condition. This includes the boat and motor and also the tow lines. The motor should perform smoothly and responsively. The tow line should be free of entanglements and worn spots.

Drivers, as well as skiers, should know and use the accepted hand signals.

A practice that increases the safety factor is to always have another person in the boat to act as an observer. A driver can't watch the skier and look ahead at the same time.

THE FIRST step in pulling a skier from a deep water start is to accelerate slowly until all slack in the tow line is taken up. Then, when the skier calls "hit it," the driver should accelerate steadily, but not too fast, until the skier is up on plane.

To return the tow line to a fallen skier, slowly drive around him in a semi-circle until he is able to grab the handle.

A responsible tow boat driver always shuts off the motor when picking up a fallen skier, instead of merely shifting the motor to neutral.

OFTEN OVERLOOKED in the sport of water skiing is the importance of the driver of the boat.

The Music Of San Domenico

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Music should be an integral part of, not just peripheral to, education.

It is advantageous for school and students to have a faculty of performing professional musicians.

Music appreciation should be an active, not passive, process.

THIS KIND OF philosophy has gained the music department of the new San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow a reputation as being especially noteworthy in an institution well known for quality education and for its cultural contributions.

The results of San Domenico's fresh approach to music will be demonstrated for the public next Saturday when the Schola Cantorum, the handbell choirs, the San Domenico Singers and the chamber ensemble of the upper school (grades nine through 12) join for a San Domenico Music and Art Festival program on the school grounds.

Faith Yost France, pianist and wife of San Rafael High School's music department chairman, Hugo Rinaldi, is the head of the San Domenico department.

SHE EXPLAINS her school's approach to the teaching of music to its girls:

"For over a hundred years the Dominican Sisters have believed that music study and music performance as a discipline give each student an added resource for improved learning skills in all fields," she says. "Contemporary educators are beginning to recognize and forward this belief.

"The school is continuing in the Dominican tradition of music established by Mother Mary Goemare when she founded the school in Monterey in 1850. Basic theory and history of music are taught in both upper and lower schools, with 65 lower school and 85 upper school students being given individual instruction.

"THE MUSIC department is also open for more than 100 students from other Marin schools."

"Beginning in grade one and continuing through high school," she continues, "we try to live and breathe a humanities approach to the arts. We relate the arts in every way possible in performance and in lecture.

"Members of the music faculty more and more often visit academic classes and give musical lectures on subjects related to the subject studied. For example, the senior American literature class recently had a two-hour session on American music followed by a forum-type discussion involving students, music teacher and the American literature teacher."

THE MUSIC department head goes on to explain how it is impossible for music appreciation at San Domenico to be a matter of sitting half-hypnotized or drowsy listening to dull lectures or even to live or recorded music while their thoughts go wool-gathering.

"In our music appreciation classes, students really learn about the music according to the sound principle of learning by doing, and they are kept too busy to get into mischief," Miss France says.

"In grades six, seven and eight we have special courses in directed listening in which students listen and participate in analyzing a Bach fugue, study and act out parts of an opera—this year it was 'Rigoletto' — and study a painting of Monet and listen to 'Play of the Wave' by Debussy.

"ALL GRADES, one through eight, listen to the individual instruments of the orchestra demonstrated by performing members of the faculty, and each child in grades four and five studies the recorder and learns about the music of early Elizabethan instruments."

"Music appreciation for the high school," she notes, "is based on an extensive cultural series of live performances by guest artists who analyze and discuss the material they perform.

"This year's series included maestro Nino-Comel and an opera trio; pianist Istvan Nadas' program on Mozart; violinist Austin Reller giving a detailed analysis of a Bartok concerto; harpist Joel Andrews lecturing on and playing the harp, and the Polyphonic Chorale and the Goliard Players of San Francisco.

"OUR MOST recent additions in this area is the quartet-in-residence composed of violinist Frances Wiener Shorr, violist Lucien Mitchell, cellist Jean Mitchell and myself as pianist.

"The quartet has given concerts and accompanied the choral concerts of the San Domenico Singers. Informal symphony previews are frequently given, the most recent being Jean Mitchells presentation of 'Don Quixote' by Richard Strauss, and many of our students attended the performance of this work given by the Marin Symphony in February."

"San Domenico music department believes that it is advantageous to have a professional performing faculty — one that is outstanding both in teaching and performance," Miss France explains. "Students are stimulated and enriched by observing their own teachers in practice, concert situations and performances."

FAITH FRANCE herself is a performing artist. Holder of bachelor's and master's degrees of music from the Conservatory of Music of the University of Kansas City, Mo., under Wiktor Labunski, she has studied at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and with such famed pianists as Egon Petri, Mme. Olga Samaroff-Stokowski and in master classes of Rudolf Firkusny and Mrs. Risain Lhevinne.

PRACTICING FOR THE Music and Art Festival to be held next Saturday at San Domenico School for Girls in Sleepy Hollow are four student pianists. At farther piano are Catherine Oberto of San Rafael, left, and Sarah Leonard of Kenya, East Africa. At piano in the foreground are Joan Franzini of Santa Venetia, left, and Alice Williams of San Rafael. Listening as practice supervisor is Sister M. Francis Xavier, O.P.

She was a professional accompanist for the Westminster Choir College and performed as a soloist with Kansas City orchestras and most recently with the San Rafael Chamber Orchestra.

She was a teacher of piano, theory and history of music at Dominican Upper School for 12 years.

A VERY distinguished professional artist with San Domenico connections is Maestro Vincenzo Giannini, chorusmaster of the San Francisco Opera and of the San Francisco Polyphonic Chorus.

"Two years ago we approached Maestro Giannini about directing a choral group at San Domenico," Miss France remarked. "At first he refused, but we finally convinced him of the importance of bringing top musicians into the field of education. He brings in addition to his musical artistry a unique and brilliant background which inspires and occasionally dazzles the girls.

"He has two doctorate degrees from Naples Conservatory of Music in Italy, one in choral conducting and one on composition, and he has been chorusmaster in Paris, Berlin, Rome and London.

"THE GIRLS often attend his concerts in San Francisco and take a great interest in the performances of his concert chorale, polyphonic chorale and opera chorus."

"Lillian Loran, our voice and madrigal coach," Miss France adds, "has performed with the San Carlo Opera Company in Naples, Italy, and the Zurich Opera, Switzerland."

A number of San Domenico's other teachers have been and/or are now professional performing artists.

A STUDENT OF piano with Ethel Leginska and recently with Istvan Nadas, as well as of composition with Arnold Schoenberg, Ronald McFarland of Tiburon made his debut with the KFI Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra and has presented numerous recitals and chamber music concerts.

James Groves, who teaches handbell ringing, has presented concerts in Europe under the auspices of the United States State Department and has often appeared on the West Coast and in the Midwest.

Woodwinds teacher Frank Barbara was clarinetist 20 years with the San Francisco Symphony and has performed with the New York City Ballet orchestra and San Francisco Ballet orchestra and opera and on radio.

MEMBERS OF the Oakland Symphony are violinist Patricia Isham and principal flutist Gary Gray, formerly principal flutist with the U.S. Naval Academy band who has performed with the Baltimore Symphony and San Francisco Ballet and Symphony orchestras.

Mill Valley cellist Jean Mitchell is a member of the San Francisco and Marin Symphony orchestras and of the Marin Arts Quartet and da Vinci Quartet and has played with the San Francisco Ballet orchestra.

A unique position is that of Sister Francis Xavier, O.P. Like a watchful parent, she is the practice supervisor who makes sure the girls do the work without which lessons are useless. She is a former pianist, organist

"Can't Bonded Fabrics Be Made To Stay Together?"

We hope they can. Standards of manufacture have been set up which, if everyone cooperates, could eliminate this problem. Fabrics which are bonded together first appeared in 1963. More than 400 million yards of such fabrics reached the market last year and it is still growing.

Unfortunately, in such a large volume market some manufacturers endeavor to turn out greater quantities, cheaper, and do so. In many cases they do not use the proper adhesive nor cure it properly. In some instances the adhesive is dissolved by drycleaning solvent, causing the two fabrics to separate.

Bonded fabrics are immensely popular with the manufacturer because the built-in lining makes for economy of cutting and sewing of ready-made garments; alterations are quicker, easier and less costly; and a bonded garment is more comfortable because it is soft and the lining is shaped and fitted.

and choral conductor and former chairman of the Dominican College Department of Music.

SHE IS ALSO the founder and director of the Schola Cantorum at San Domenico.

Miss France tells something of the school's various performing musical groups, which will be heard in the festival next Saturday.

"The Schola Cantorum, the oldest musical organization on the campus, sing the Proper of the mass each Sunday in San Domenico," she says. "It was founded almost 40 years ago and is composed of 30 girls.

"THE SAN DOMENICO Singers, a chorus of 30 girls, was organized in 1965 and gave their first performances in San Francisco and Sacramento in February, 1966. Since then they have appeared in many campus events and public concerts as well as on radio, and they have made a recording."

"Membership in the chorus is by highly competitive tryouts open to all upper school students," Miss France says. "Singing with the girls frequently are two professional singers, soprano Gloria Enander (Mrs. Giannini) and contralto Ann Graber, a graduate of Dominican Upper School."

"As far as I know," Miss France continues, "San Domenico is the only school in the Bay Area to offer classes in handbell ringing. Handbell ringing as a means of music education in a school curriculum was recently rated as a superior innovation in a report by the United States Department of Education.

"WE HAVE three groups of bell ringers, one class of seventh and eighth grade girls and two of freshmen and sophomores who perform on a set of 40 English bells which were cast in the famous Whitechapel Foundry in London, makers of Big Ben and our own Liberty Bell.

"The groups were formed last September under a James Groves, a recognized authority on handbells whose former choirs made a four-state tour in 1966 and appeared at New York's World Fair and at the national cathedral in Washington, D.C. in 1965.

"Our chamber ensemble consisting of 12 instrumentalists directed by Mrs. Isham performs mostly for school events."

THE TWO members of the professional quartet in residence who do not teach at San Domenico, violinist Frances Wiener Shorr and violinist Lucien Mitchell, also have distinguished performing backgrounds. Both are graduates of the Curtis Institute.

Mrs. Shorr was for 15 years a soloist on the National Broadcasting Co. network's "Masters of Melody" program. She is a member with her husband, pianist Lev Shorr, of a noted sonata team and has performed with many major orchestras in the country.

Mitchell was for 25 years principal violinist of the San Francisco Opera orchestra and is currently a member of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, principal violinist with the Marin Symphony and a member of various chamber groups.

"FIRST ADVENTURE in Music" at San Domenico is this little rhythm band composed of first through third graders from San Anselmo families, who are taught according to the Kodaly-Richards method by Sister M. Amata, O.P. Directing the band is Cynthia Podesta.

AS FAR AS IS known, San Domenico is the only school in the Bay Area to offer classes in handbell ringing. The set of 40 English handbells used was made in the same London foundry which cast the Liberty Bell. James Groves directs a group of eighth grade girls.

SAN DOMENICO SINGERS, who have performed in public concerts in the Bay Area, are directed by one of Northern California's most distinguished musicians, Vincenzo Giannini of Tiburon, the director of the San Francisco Opera chorus. During a recent practice session for the school's Music and Art Festival to be held next Saturday Giannini was surprised with a birthday cake presented by Bernadette Schafer on behalf of the chorus.

exciting concepts from Orinda pools

One reason more people are buying ORINDA pools this year is because ORINDA pools cost less to buy. Your ORINDA custom pool representative, in fact, can show you on paper that, not only is the base price lower in most cases, but when you add the options you want, the price advantage of an ORINDA pool becomes even greater.

And because it is an ORINDA pool, you get all the advantages of an ORINDA pool. The uncommon luxury of design and engineering by Orinda, and styling leadership that has made ORINDA Pools the best selling in northern California.

All of which is still just the beginning. *A giant Laars boiler is included with the 1967 Orinda Custom Royal Series providing low cost heating year long. You also have the traditionally conservative value of an ORINDA pool to enjoy. On top of all the other advantages.

Low monthly payments on ten year plan from northern California's oldest major pool builder.

A Grand Old Man Of Baseball

CASEY by Joseph Durso, Prentice-Hall, 203 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

Casey is none other than Charles Dillon Stengel, the "perfessor" the genius of the New York Yankees, the beloved grand master of the inept Mets and one of baseball's immortal clowns.

This wistful biography attempts to keep an eye on both Stengel the man and Stengel the legend, but inevitably, the legend keeps bursting through.

This is a must for the loyal baseball fan, for the people who wish for the return of the greats of yesteryear. They are all here, Gehrig, Ruth, Chance and Evers, and some of the lesser known but equally colorful men who helped baseball turn the corner from a rough-and-tumble sport to the million-dollar business that it is today.

There is a note of nostalgia throughout the book, for, while it is the story of Casey from the lusty pre-World War minor leagues to the Mets, it is also the story of baseball itself.

Stengel was by no means just another ballplayer like his successor for the Yankees, Ralph Houk. He had his moments of memorable glory and some that were just downright flamboyant.

Reviews Of New Reading

It is when the book concentrates on his playing and early managing days with the aptly nicknamed Bums that the book flows smoothly, like a slightly tainted 1920 newsreel.

It is almost worth the whole price for the reprint of Damon Runyon's famed coverage of the day Stengel, in the twilight of his playing days, slammed an inside-the-park home run for the New York Giants against the Yankees in the 1923 World Series. That's the report that starts . . . "This is how Casey ran."

As a sports writer, I can find little fault in the affectionately told story of the always fascinating Stengel. It is like Stengel himself — you can hate him or love him or laugh at him but he will not bore you.

A New Twist To The American-In-Paris-In-1920s Novel

THE PASTE-POT MAN by Edwin Lanham, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 465 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

An American in Paris in the 1920s has long been a source of material for novelists, but Lanham has tapped a new vein, a psychological study of one of the Lost Generation.

Both the strength and the weakness of the story lie in this approach which probes deeper into the psyche of those who sought to "find themselves" along the Left Bank.

There is drama in unravelling the mystery of what makes a man tick, but there also is tedious boredom in lengthy passages covering his sessions with a Freudian psychiatrist.

The man under study in this case is Alan Shell, a young Texan, long under the wing of a maiden aunt, who virtually escapes from custody to take up art in Paris.

The reader may often wonder why Shell acts as he does, but Lanham fails to generate sympathy for him, and there are times when a reader just doesn't care what happens to him.

There are several flashbacks to Shell's early life in Texas that move the story along nicely, but then again it bogs down in psychiatric passages.

There are times when a reader may wonder if there wasn't a better story in the life of Frank Neal, Shell's Texas boyhood friend who serves as the narrator.

A publicity release, accompanying the book, claimed that it was a "gradual unfolding" of Shell's dissociated personality. To this reader, the unfolding was much too gradual.

Edmund Wilson's Discovery Scores Again With Novellas

THE DAY IS DARK and THREE TRAVELEKS by Marie-Giroux, 783 pages, $4.95. Re-Girous, 183 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

These two novellas, translated by Derek Coltman, were published before "A Season in the Life of Emmanuel" which won the 1966 Prix Medicis for this young Canadian author.

Both selections are experimental in form, but the first, "The Day is Dark," is so successful that you will soon forget that the form is unconventional and enjoy it without limit.

If you are old enough to have been reared without television, you may remember how much more we enjoyed Jack Benny, Fred Allen, and Burns & Allen on the radio then we did when they transferred to TV. In listening to the radio we were allowed to supply our own physical descriptions and scene settings — this is what Blais does in both of these love stories.

But in the first one we have full lyrical sound effects to keep us in the intended frame of reference. In the second selection the structure is not so obvious, consequently the reading is not as effortless. However, it's still enjoyable.

Edmund Wilson seems to have discovered this writer. If this is true, it only supplies further testimony to his greatness as a critic.

The Bounty From Our Orchards

SO GOOD WITH FRUIT by Better Homes and Gardens editors, Meredith, 160 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

In this state so blessed with orchards and their fruits, far too many cooks fail to take advantage of that bounty. Fruit is something to be eaten out of hand. And there is no quarreling with that. But it can also serve as the focal point for recipes of supreme taste and eye appeal offering marvelous health benefits.

This newest Better Homes and Gardens cookbook points up what those who have failed to realize the full potential of fruit in the kitchen have been missing.

It offers fruit-accented recipes for every course — from appetizers through desserts.

The entrees, for instance, include such zesty suggestions as cranberry meat loaves, roast pork tangerine, apricot stuffed chops, raisin ham logs, bananas in ham blankets, ginger peachy casserole, chicken and cherries, turkey Hawaiian, plum glazed chicken and tuna-lemon loaf.

The beverages, the relishes, the salads, the breads, the dressings, etc., are as refreshing in their promise as their wonderful ingredients would indicate.

Like all Better Homes & Gardens, this one is beautifully illustrated in color. And fruit lends itself particularly well to a pictorial presentation. The photos alone are worth the price of the book, and guarantee that once you make the purchase, you will be unable to resist putting its contents to use.

Eyewitness Accounts Of How Pirates Plagued The Spanish

THE BUCCANEERS OF AMERICA by John Esquemeling, Dover Publications, 500 pages, paperback, $2.75. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Of all the British pirates who scourged the Spanish possessions in the New World in the 17th century, the most daring and successful was Henry Morgan. And when, after his depredations were over, he was placed on trial in England, he not only won his freedom, but was knighted to boot.

Serving with him as a surgeon was a Frenchman, John Esquemeling. And after his return to Europe, he wrote an account of Morgan's adventures, together with those of such other pirates as Francis Lolonois and Bartholomew Portuges, which was translated into English under the title, "The Buccaneers of America."

To this was subsequently added the account by the Englishman Basil Ringrose of his adventures with another buccaneer leader, Bartholomew Sharp, who crossed the Isthmus of Panama and sailed around South America in an epic voyage of depredation.

Cap'n Flint and Long John Silver of Stevenson's "Treasure Island" were but copies of the characters who throng the pages of "Buccaneers of America." These are eyewitness stories of a lawless age, when Britain and France supported or winked at piracy against Spain in the lands given the Catholic kingdom by a Papal bull.

The quaint and flowery English of the late 17th century adds to rather than detracts from these accounts.

Muckraking Reporter Takes On U.S. Medical 'Establishment'

By DON KEOWN

THE PLOT AGAINST THE PATIENT by Fred J. Cook, Prentice-Hall, 372 pages, $5.95.

THE NEW LONDON SPY edited by Hunter Davies, David White Co., 295 pages, $6.

Fred J. Cook is an investigative, crusading reporter of the old muckraking school.

He delights in deflating the powerful, the pompous and the arrogant.

He has tweaked the noses of the likes of J. Edgar Hoover and his agents, has traded shots with the Pentagon and its industrial complex allies, and has exposed big-time gambling. Now he takes on another formidable foe with his "The Plot Against the Patient." His adversary is the health care establishment of this country in general and the American Medical Association in particular.

Cook's thesis is that affluent America should be providing its citizenry with the finest health care in the world. But he cites statistics and case histories which he says show instead a shocking inadequacy in our medical system.

Hospitals, he contends, are too many and too small, poorly distributed, engaged in wasteful duplication, often antiquated and understaffed, and frequently resort to "soaking" the well-to-do to cover charitable or less profitable services to the poor, so that major illnesses have catastrophic economic consequences.

Commercial blood banks and laboratories, too, are flayed for slipshod, sometimes fraudulent work that jeopardizes patients' lives.

Health insurance plans are scored for their inadequacies.

But Cook aims his angriest blows at the AMA and the men who dominate its hierarchy — "One of the most autocratic, domineering and anti-democratic organizations in American life," he says.

He scorches the association as responsible for creating a critical shortage of doctors, and for opposing measures such as Blue Cross, Social Security and Medicare. Doctors, he says, have sometimes been more jealous of their freewheeling right to set and collect their fees directly from their patients than they have been interested in their obligation to minister to the sick and injured.

He accuses doctors of milking health funds through unnecessary surgery and hospital admissions. He enumerates a long list of deaths by "therapeutic misadventure" in a chapter entitled "We Bury Our Mistakes." He says older physicians are often stubbornly opposed to younger specialists, particularly those serving on salary on the staffs of clinics.

He suggests that the solution to America's health problems lies ultimately in the development of true medical centers in place of the disorganized, piecemeal network of small hospitals that has mushroomed unplanned, in the abandonment by the doctor of his "lone eagle" obsession and his recognition of the need for cooperative action by his profession, and in the development of a national insurance system under Social Security to guarantee care and to provide for its financing.

The medical profession will not be long in replying to Cook's charges, and some heated dialogue can be expected. Which is all to the good. The American people should benefit from any such airing.

Cook's book is not above criticism. Much of his material comes from New York City and Southern California, hardly typical America. There are insertions that indicate Cook began his research with a personal axe to grind against the medical profession. No doubt he sought out and splashed upon the book's pages that which has shown organized mediicne in its worst light. But the fact that those instances and statistics were there for him to find and use is still a sobering, disturbing thought.

It is altogether likely that this book will provoke the same kind of anger from doctors that Norman Dacey's best-selling "How to Avoid Probate" drew from attorneys and Jessica Mitford's book aroused from morticians. One thing is certain, however. Doctors, or at least surgeons, need not fear the do-it-yourself threat that Dacey hung over the lawyers.

IT WAS IN 1703 that the original Ned Ward "The London Spy" was published. Ward was an inquisitive tavern-keeper and man-about-town who observed and recorded the London scene of his time with emphasis on the offbeat.

"The New London Spy" put together by London columnist-novelist Hunter Davies represents an effort to produce a contemporary version of the Ward book, and it is subtitled "Discreet Guide to the City's Pleasures." There are a number of contributors.

Much of the book deals with "pleasures" and subjects of little or no interest to the typical London visitor — homosexual and lesbian haunts and practices, prostitutes, the underworld, the rougher seamen's pubs, etc. An inordinate amount of space is devoted to gambling. Chapters such as those on junk stalls, London society and the various ethnic sections of the city will appeal to only limited groups. The same is even more true of the advice for the destitute.

But there is a great deal of more general and useful information including some particularly good discussions of parks, pubs, restaurants, art galleries and shops. Nightclubs are evaluated. Best of all are the suggested "innocent pleasures" available at no or nominal cost.

The book is notably weak in its coverage of hotel accommodations and in transportation information.

This is hardly the best available guidebook for the average London-bound traveler, and it is steeply priced, but it does have its strongpoints, particularly for so-called "swingers." And among its contents are listings of other recommended guides, both specialized and general.

ABINGDON PRESS has announced a 1968 award of $5,000 for the religious book that "most effectively communicates the Christian faith in fresh and forceful terms." Manuscripts accompanied by official entry forms are to be submitted between Jan. 1 and March 1 of 1968.

A FIRST novel, "The Thousand Hour Day" by Polish-born W. S. Kuniczak, is the June selection of the Book-of-the Month Club.

MIDSUMMER LOKKI by Eva-Lis Wuorio, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 192 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The greatest strength of Canadian Eva-Lis Wuorio in her novels of international intrigue lies in her effective use of European geography and customs.

"Midsummer Lokki" is set principally in Finland, the land where the author was born. Her empathy for that country and its people is apparent, and adds immensely to the reader's enjoyment of the book.

On the debit side is an overly complicated plot, so involved that the reader never really has time to become concerned or even to get really acquainted with some of the leading characters.

Canadian newspaperman Luke Ramsey finds himself drafted by forces seeking to foil an internation plot that threatens the peace of the world. Despite the too-busy storyline, it is an entertaining yarn well worth the reading.

Have you ever attended a Catholic Mass service and as you watched the priest move about from the foot of the altar to behind the altar and to the presiding chair, you noticed that all the time you could hear him speaking the prayers very clearly? Even though at times he had his back to you!

Or, if you are not church oriented, have you ever been to a theatre dinner club, like the Nugget in Sparks-Reno, Nevada and watched the singing female attraction ride out onto the stage on the back of an elephant, then slide down its trunk and move out to stage center and noticed that during all this time her voice rang out clearly, yet not a wire could be seen trailing behind her? Or have you watched Arthur Godfrey move about between the dinner tables, talking to the guests, singing their favorite tunes and noticed that his voice filled the room.

These people are wearing wireless microphone. A good wireless microphone system is quite expensive costing over $500.00. They consist of two items—one item is a microphone with a built-in miniature FM transmitter (radio station). The user wears this around his neck, the neck cord sometimes acting as the antenna. The second item is an FM radio receiver tuned to the frequency of the microphone transmitter. This receiver is generally located off to some side area where it picks up the radio signals from the transmitter. The output of the receiver is connected by wire to the sound system.

The person speaking or singing has complete freedom of movement, yet his voice is being radioed back to the sound system where it is amplified and sent out through the loudspeakers.

We have installed several of these in Marin County and throughout the Bay Area. It's a fascinating use of electronics.

There are many uses for the wireless microphone systems. They are used successfully for broadcasting sports events right from the field of action. They are often used at conventions to transmit from the many areas of the floor to a central point. They are used to radio back the voices of audience-participants during lecturing, so that they can be heard over the sound system. And, of course, they make good eavesdropping devices.

MONK IN FRANCE—Thelonious Monk—Riverside 491:

Many LPs now coming out are re-issues, and many of these are welcome by collectors because, like this one, they are usually worthwhile recordings. Unfortunately some labels are not indicating on the re-release that it is a re-release, and this leads to much confusion.

This one is selected from an earlier Riverside two-LP package of European Concerts by Monk titled "Two Hours With Thelonious." That LP was taped in Milan and Paris, and obviously the Paris tracks are presented on the new LP. They are six in number and include such typical Monk originals as "Well You Needn't" and "Off Minor."

Charlie Rouse joins Monk in the Quartet.

PORTRAIT OF WES — The Wes Montgomery Trio—Riverside 492:

Working with organ and drums, electric guitarist Montgomery has a unique style and great skill that made him so important in the old Mastersounds combo. There are those who think him one of the finest guitarists in jazz today. Six longish tracks give plenty of time for relaxing development by this well-knit group.

"Drive" the Inside Passage to Prince Rupert (then "circle" back!)

Cruise Georgia Strait to scenic Vancouver Island – then drive north to Kelsey Bay and the new car-ferry, Queen of Prince Rupert. Ahead lies an unforgettable 330-mile Inside Passage cruise past coastal fjords and snow-capped mountains. At Prince Rupert, drive off and travel the "totem route" inland through a land of magnificent mountain scenery, renowned for fabulous hunting and fishing, to Prince George, hub city of British Columbia's northern interior. Then complete the "circle" with a return drive south through the historic Cariboo and Fraser Canyon. Advance berth and passage reservations recommended for Queen of Prince Rupert. Deluxe Motor Coach service makes connections from Vancouver and Victoria with the Queen of Prince Rupert at Kelsey Bay. Services also from Prince Rupert to North Central B.C., Alberta and Alaska points.

Fairy tale castles rise out of the mist, neat farms open into Roman courtyards, and the sidewalk cafes may remind you of France.

But, you are in Limburg, a Dutch province of such variety that it can add spice to any traveler's life. Hollanders settled there long ago, and over the centuries, visitors from other countries have left their imprint everywhere.

IF YOU ASK "Parlez vous Francais?" to a Hollander in this area, he'll undoubtedly answer "Mais oui," because four languages — Flemish, Dutch, German and English are spoken here and three currencies are used.

You can see Roman baths, or a 14th century church built by the French monks of Champagne, all in the same day and only a few miles apart. The enchanting castles dotting the hills take you to yet another world; some of them are museums and others have been converted into comfortable hotels or restaurants with tapestries, paintings and other baronial trappings.

The provincial capital city, Maastricht, is a scenic delight from the Helport Gate, with its twin turrets and crenalated towers, to the tree-lined city square, rimmed with gay cafes. The great gate was once part of an old Roman fortress; the cafes are contemporary and feature fine local products such as beer, and a cheese called "Rommedou," which is delicate and rarely exported. A rich spice cake is also made here and is a perfect accompaniment to coffee or tea.

THE SIGHTS IN Masstricht are plentiful. The local tourist office, known as "VVV," can help you plan to see them all.

Those who like great houses of worship will be enthralled with the gigantic cathedral named for St. Servatius, which was built over a period of centuries. Its portal dates from 1225, and is one of the best examples of Gothic sculpture in all of Europe.

Another impressive sight is the 11th century Romanesque

AN ARCHITECTURAL masterpiece is Munsterkerk in Roermond, a pretty town nestled in the woods in the south of Holland. Art students often sketch the stately structure, constructed in the 13th century.

Jamaica - 6 nights from $343^50
Puerto Rico - 6 nights from $384^15

Jamaica is where nature spilled her paints and created a Technicolor world, to the accompaniment of carefree calypso with a British accent. It's where beaches are white, mountains are blue, the ocean turquoise and hotels are oases of tropic luxury in between.

Pick Puerto Rico for a world of wonderful contrasts . . . the grandeur of 16th century Spain and the bold design of today. Delicate balconies and colorful tiled patios . . . ultra modern hotels and pulse-quickening casinos.

Rates are per person, double occupancy, including round-trip Jetourist Caribbean Excursion air fare (17-day limit to Jamaica, 30-day limit to Puerto Rico), airport transfers and sightseeing tour in Puerto Rico. Yes, Rover Can Roam With You

Are you a dog owner who is reluctant to plan a vacation because Rover would have to be left behind with friends, or in a kennel? You needn't be.

Roaming with Rover can be an adventure in discovering America, rather than a burden, if properly planned, says Donald Y. McCoy, executive director of Discover America, Inc.

McCoy, proud possessor of an assortment of pets, heads the non-profit organization which is dedicated to encouraging Americans to tour the nation and discover the natural and scenic beauties of America. "Traveling with dogs can be done successfully and enjoyably," he says, "if pet owners will prepare for their vacations properly."

FOR EXAMPLE, he says, before starting out on a planned trip, it's a good idea to determine in advance possible stopping spots where Rover will be welcome.

As a general rule, the sporting thing to do is to make sure Rover won't cause any damage or create disturbances that might annoy fellow lodgers in such accommodations. To this end, pet owners should follow certain fundamental rules:

1. Keep Rover on a leash in public.

2. Don't take Rover into dining rooms, no matter where.

3. Rover should be cared for and regularly exercised. Make sure while being exercised he does not soil walks or garden areas.

4. Is Rover accustomed to being left alone? He shouldn't be if he is likely to bark or be destructive.

(As a matter of fact, pet owners should be prepared to pay for any damage caused by their dogs.)

5. If Rover is untrained, he should be confined to a crate or sleeping box while in rooms.

OTHER POINTS to remember for enjoyable roaming with Rover are: Take along a small kit or suitcase for his grooming aids and pans for food and water; prevent sudden changes in his diet by bringing several packages of his regular dog food; a large plastic container is useful for carrying drinking water. Also, take along a blanket or dog bed. Most hotel keepers resent having their bedding used for this purpose.

In certain areas of the country it may be necessary for motel owners to use ant poisons that are toxic to dogs. Make sure there is nothing of this nature in the room or other areas where Rover may eat or drink.

Lovely Limburg Offers Many Travel Attractions

Basilica of Our Lady, and there's a 13th century Dominican church, now a stately concert hall.

Two miles south of the capital is one of the great wonders of Europe, the tunneled hill of St. Pietersburg. Quarried since primitive times for a special sandstone, this 360 foot high hill is a man-made labyrinth of more than 220 tunnels with great vaulted galleries up to 50 feet high. The walls are easily the world's most valuable "autograph book." They are covered with signatures dating back to 1037.

NAPOLEON, THE Duke of Alva and Voltaire are just a few who have signed here, and you will be invited to do the same.

St. Pietersburg played a vital role during World War II. When things looked grimmest, brave Hollanders turned the caves into an underground village for 20,000 inhabitants, complete with dorms, a bakery, hospital, recreational facilities and the rest. The caves housed many of the old masters during the war years, including Rembrandt's famous "Night Watch."

You'll want to shop in this area. The lovely locally-made wares include hand-blown glass, pottery and beautifully enameled jewelry. Cigars are made here, also, and known the world over for their excellence.

NO TOUR OF this part of Holland would be complete without a stop at the calm and beautiful American military cemetery at Margraten. Only a few miles from Maastricht, it is the most hallowed American spot in Holland. Its many handsomely lanscaped, carefully tended acres are a touching tribute to those men from the United States who lost their lives in Holland during World War II.

There could not be a more fitting place in The Netherlands for this memorial than Limburg, the province of wooded beauty and serenity.

Here's How To Care For Marble

With all the advantages of marble for table tops and other purposes, it is breakable and it does stain.

But as long as you have all the pieces, a broken marble slab can be made whole again with hardly a trace of the repairs visible And stains can be removed if you know how to go about it.

FOR REPAIRING broken marble, you will need some acetone, which is used only for cleaning the edges to be joined; some polyester-resin in powder form; and a liquid catalyst. In purchasing the last two items from a marble dealer, buy the smallest quantity possible, since you will need only two tablespoons of resin and 15 drops of catalyst.

In matching up a batch of cement, the amount of catalyst determines the setting time of the mixture. The two tablespoon-15 drop proportion allows 20 minutes working time. Use a small, clean paint brush to coat the edges to be joined.

After application, press the pieces together immediately and remove excess cement with a putty knife. Clamping is unnecessary.

BROKEN CORNERS call for another technique, using marble dust — the same color as the slab to be repaired — and the resin cement. Your proportions here should give you a mixture suitable for pouring. About the consistency of honey will do.

You'll need two pieces of wood about 12 inches by three inches and the same thickness as the marble. Make certain all edges of the wood are square.

Cover two edges with wax paper and butt these sides against the marble. The 90-

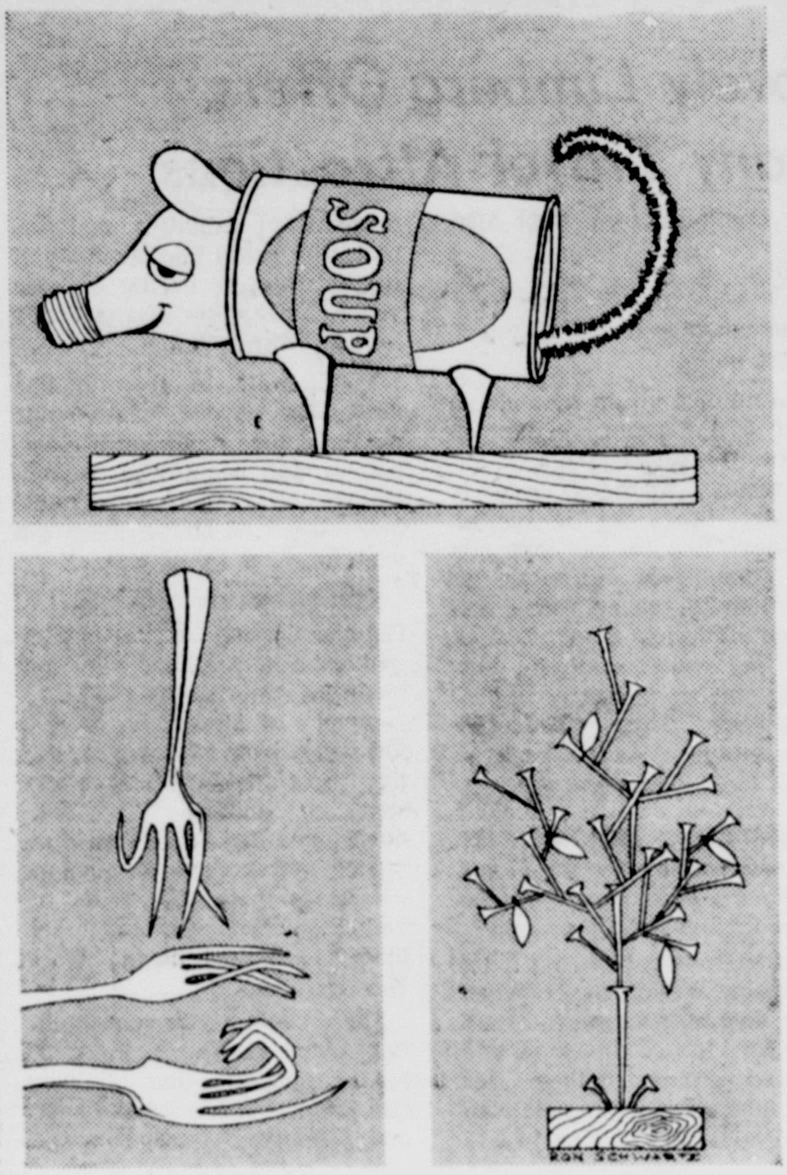
BRIGHT IDEAS



ART IS WHERE you find it these days, and it turns up in some strange places and from strange materials. For instance, let's take epoxy glue, soldering irons, metal cutters, pliers, or what have you. You can fashion all sorts of weird shapes from utilitarian objects, such as twisted forks, tin cans, bent wire hangers, spoons that become African masks, etc. Or a nail tree with a small wooden block as a base, and small leaves of metal or foil. For statuary, use a tin can, pipe cleaner, light bulb, paint or nail polish, and go on from there. Just look around the house for objects of inspiration.

Marble: How To Repair The Breaks, Remove The Stains

degree angle where the wood joins should form the pattern for the corner repair. Into this well pour the resin solution and overflow slightly. After overnight drying, remove the forms.

ORGANIC STAINS on marble are caused by tea, coffee, tobacco, wet bark, flowers and leached colors from paper or textiles. Removal is through the application of a poultice made from facial tissues soaked in a 20-volume solution of hydrogen peroxide. Apply the soggy mass and cover with a plastic garment bag to prevent evaporation. Depending upon the depth of the stain, the process will require from one to 48 hours.

Full-strength household ammonia can be used in place of the peroxide, but the fumes may be too much for you.

To detect an oil stain, dampen a piece of blotting paper with cleaning fluid. Apply to the stained area, press down and remove. If the blotter absorbs some stain, it is most likely oily in nature. Again treat with tissue poultice—this time soaked with amyl acetate or acetone. Your neighborhood drug or hardware store can supply this.

Rust stains will generally take the shape of the ferrous material that caused the trouble. Commercial iron rust remover is called for here, applied as a poultice.

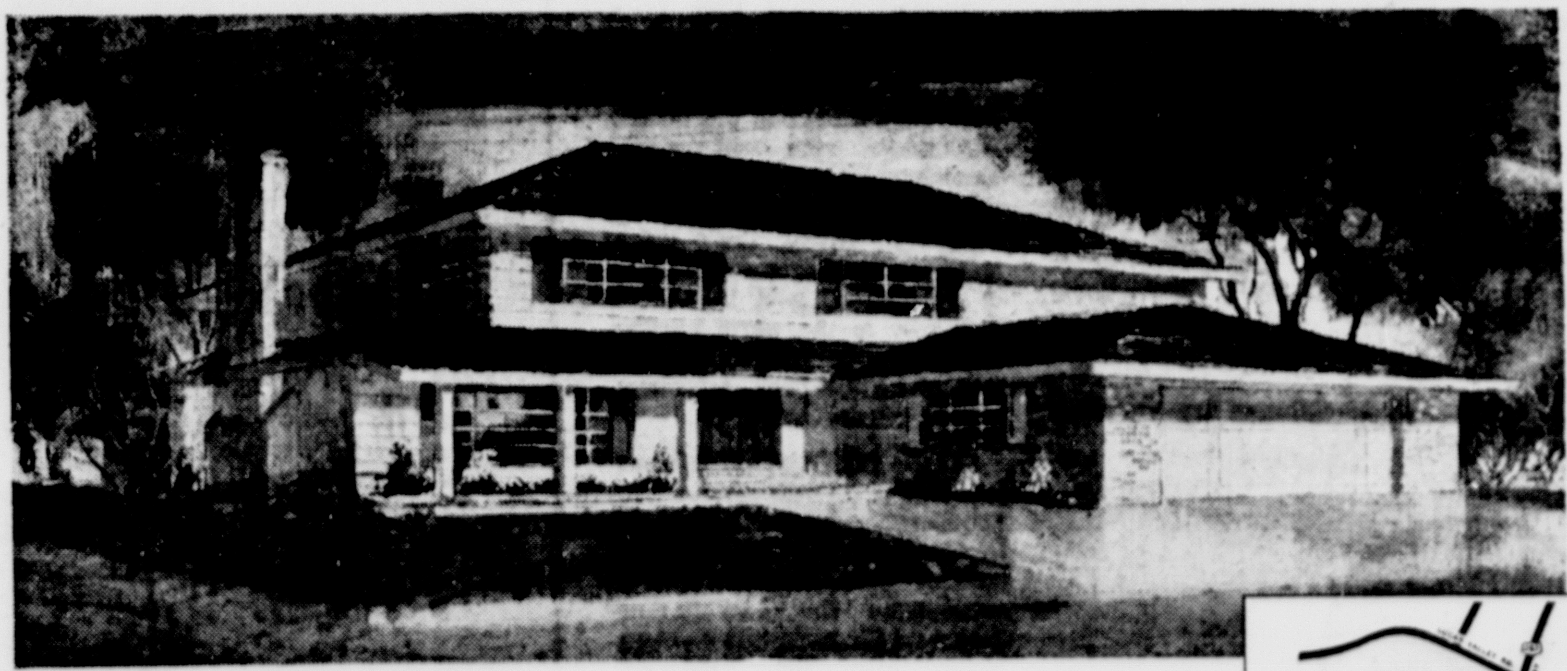
This San Rafael Park home has an enormous 246 square foot master bedroom, an immense 288 square foot living room, and, overall, a gigantic 2220 square feet of interior living area.



[naturally, it's a huge success!]

This home has a lot more going for it, too. As one of the distinguished homes at San Rafael Park, it is situated in the picturesque city of San Rafael in the heart of marvelous Marin County. The climate is considered one of the world's seven finest. The address is one of the Bay Area's most desirable. You can pay twice as much for homes not fifteen minutes away. One look at San Rafael Park, and you'll wonder why anyone would ever want to. These three, four and five bedroom, two and three bath homes, priced from a fetching $32,950. Need more convincing? Financing should do it. 6¼%-30-year loans, FHA and VA loans to $30,000 makes it easy for you to own one of these fine homes.

Exotic Is The Word

Some Plants Give Garden Tropic Touch

THE ARALIA is a tropical-looking shrub that qualifies as an exotic, yet does well in California. Use it wherever you want bold, green foliage, giving it a rich soil and plenty of moisture throughout the year. Otherwise it demands very little in the way of care. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen)

The term exotic is often over used, but you have to stretch to find a better description for certain plants.

Take the lovely Bird of Paradise, for instance. If it's not exotic, we'd like to know what is.

Bird of Paradise is most often seen in Southern California. In fact, it's the official flower for the city of Los Angeles. But the "Bird" is more adaptable than many give it credit for being and lovely plantings can be seen in our Bay Area.

WHEN YOU SEE the striking orange, blue and purple flowers of Bird of Paradise you can easily accept its common name. For, truly, it looks like some beautiful tropical bird, poised for flight.

Give it a protected spot in sun or part shade. Be sure the soil is well drained and rich in humus. You'll be more than rewarded for your attention to these incidentals.

Also deserving the appellation "exotic" are the tree ferns. These look like oversized greenhouse plants, which, in many climates, they actually are.

HERE IN California, they grow to perfection in our gardens, needing only a rich soil, a reasonable amount of water and protection from excessive frost, though the New Zealand Tree Fern is exceptionally hardy.

The two principal trees ferns are the Australian Tree Fern, largest of the lot and also the fastest grower; and the New Zealand Tree Fern, which is hardier and slower to reach maturity. They both have gently arching fronds and a lacy, tropical look which transports one to a Polynesian paradise. There are others.

There are many other exotic plants such as hibiscus and gardenia to name only two.

Botanical note: The Bird of Paradise is Strelitzia reginae; New Zealand Tree Fern is Dicksonia antarctica; Australian Tree Fern is Asophila australis.

The Vines Are The Show-Offs Of Our Plant World

The biggest show-offs in the plant world are the vines.

Who can dispute this after seeing a high-climbing bougainvillea in full bloom or a wisteria that covers a country mile of arbor? Even our more refined and confined vines such as clematis are more than most flowering shrubs or trees could hope to compete with.

WE ASKED THE California Association of Nurserymen for a rundown on some of the showiest summer vines and what follows is a selection from the association's many recommendations:

For a gaudy display, try one of the bougainvilleas. These are part and parcel of California's history, having arrived not too long after the mission fathers and the grape.

There is nothing more colorful for draping a pergola or a roof, and it's not the flowers which provide the color. Rather it is the showy bracts which surround rather insignificant flowers. Color is not always magenta or purple, as some think.

To be different try varieties California Gold, Pink Tiara, and Orange King. But don't overlook the true purple of the variety Convent.

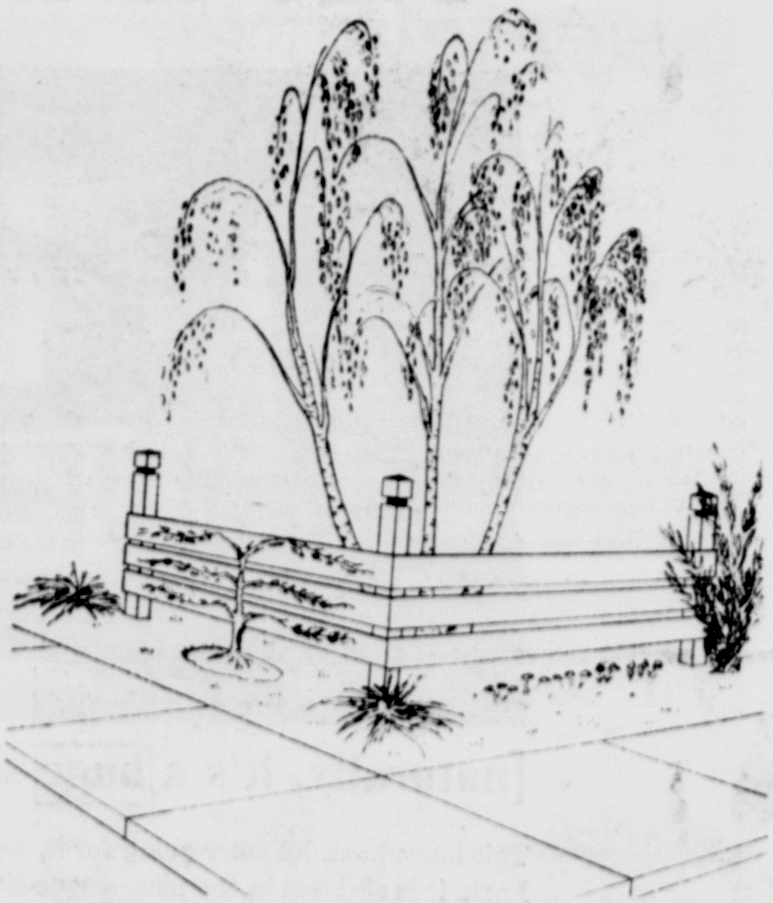
OTHERS ARE available at nurseries.

Scarlet Trumpet Vine is a wise-ranging vine with a mass of big, fluted blooms, scarlet at the lip, yellow-orange in the throat. A mature vine will nearly smother a large house.

Guinea Gold Vine is a woody vine with glossy, dark green leaves and a generous sprinkling of open-faced, gold blooms primarily in the warm months but often in good supply throughout the year, especially here in coastal areas.

CLEMATIS IN its many forms is a vine of refined habit and an unbelievably beautiful show of flowers, be they white, lavender, blue or pink. Nurserymen recommend the lavender Jackmani Clematis with its huge blooms, often eight inches across. And the evergreen Armandi Clematis is a grand show of white in early spring.

There may be showier vines than clematis, but none more beautiful.



CORNER LOTS invite cut-across traffic, resulting in won't-grow spots. The cure? This attractive three-rail fence of one-by-fours nailed to four-by-four posts does it, and makes a showplace for a few special plants including a prickly spreading juniper that further discourages cutting across. In neighborhoods where thoughtless pet-owners allow their dogs to roam, it will also serve to discourage the canines from visiting your lawn and prized shrubs.

Summer Has Its Bulbs; Don't Pass Them Up

Garden Pages

If you think that spring is the bulb's main season of bloom perhaps you're wrong. Summer brings us so many bulbs with so much to offer the gardener that it certainly rivals the vernal season for bulb color.

The fabulous lily family, for instance, is largely composed of summer color bearers. It's too late to plant them now if you haven't done so already, but it's not too late to plant other bulb color for bloom this very year.

ONE OF THE finest summer bulbs is the tuberous begonia and started plants of these are available now. Seedlings, which bloom from mid-summer into fall, and established year-old plants, which start blooming earlier than the seedlings, can be found in most nurseries.

Tuberous begonias like a shaded or semi-shaded location, with plenty of leaf mold in the soil and excellent drainage. They are ideally suited to pot culture, also, and such handling makes it possible to move them into the foreground when their exotic blooms are full.

The other most popular summer bulb is the gladiolus and gardeners can continue planting them until June, at least.

THIS IS AN amazing bulb. You make early planting shortly after Christmas and late planting in late spring — all for bloom during the same year. Bulbs set out now will give you color during summer. Bulbs planted next month and in June will bloom in fall.

The agapanthus, or blue Lily of the Nile, as some prefer to call it, is another summer-blooming beauty.

Nurserymen offer these showy bulbs already started in gallon cans. Set them out in a sunny location with good drainage and figure on dividing them every few years for more plants. The tall stems with their cluster of blue at the top can become a feature in your summer border.

Try planting them with pink Amaryllis for striking effect. Also try planting them in tubs or containers for a really fine display on the deck or terrace. They give a spring-like look to your garden all summer long.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ Plant tuberous begonias this week from seedling stock available in nursery flats.

✓ Plant gladiolus if you haven't already. A second or even third planting can be made now and still another planting a month from now.

✓ Spray roses regularly. No reason to wait for any visitation of insects or mildew.

✓ Chrysanthemum and carnation plants may both be set out now for late summer or fall bloom.

✓ Feed camellias and azaleas with an acid plant food now and again each month, throughout the summer.

✓ Don't let up the battle against slugs and snails.

✓ This is the season for more frequent mowings of the lawn. Spring rains are conducive to rapid growth. Make certain your lawn mower is sharp and in good repair before tackling the job.

✓ Remember — Mother's Day is approaching. A plant makes a thoughtful, pleasing gift.

KTIM

In The Public Interest

KTIM-FM

When I was a youngster during the depression of the thirties I saw an obviously very successful man drive through our run-down neighborhood in a big, shining-new, expensive car. To a boy a car is often everything and I said, "Gee, he's lucky," and my mother hearing me said, "Don't envy him—emulate him. You've got the same opportunity." Although many years and many shiny new cars have passed since then I've never forgotten the wisdom of her words.

Frequently native-born Americans will envy and resent the success of those who have come here from foreign lands. These newcomers recognize the unlimited opportunities that they formerly didn't have and quickly and intelligently capitalize on them.

George D. Mardikian, author of "Song of America" and successful American businessman, told of his experience in an article he wrote for This Week Magazine's "Words To Live By" series. He wrote:

"The other day, in Seattle, Washington, I gave a talk before several hundred people, and told them I thought America was a strong, beautiful, and righteous country. A young man came up to me afterward and said with a knowing smile, 'No wonder you go about singing the praise of America. In Europe, you were nothing. America has made you rich and famous.' Before I could reply he was gone.

"It's true America has been good to me, and I count my blessings every day. But I wanted to find that young man and say, 'You miss my point. The priceless thing America has given to me has nothing to do with money or fame. Some would call it national pride. I call it the dignity of being American.'

"To someone born here . . . born free . . . it's hard to understand. He's never known what it is to be without it. I was born in Armenia. Today, I cannot find my Armenia . . . the Armenia of my fathers . . . on the map.

"Forty years ago, when I came to America, I had to flee my home like a criminal. Yet my only crime was being an Armenian. That July morning, when I first saw the Statue of Liberty from the deck of the immigrant steamer, it was like suddenly hearing a hymn of hope. It lifted my head, and my heart. I took deep breaths of the fresh harbor air. For the first time in my life, I felt free . . . thrillingly and blessedly free.

"This, thank God, is not a private experience. There are millions like me in America today . . . fugitives from unhappy lands across the seas. We're grateful of course for our three meals a day, and our jobs, and for the opportunities that America has so generously given to us and our children.

"But we'd fight and die before we'd give up that feeling of dignity . . . that right to hold up our heads, look the world in the eye, and call ourselves Americans."

Those are the words of George D. Mardikian who's just as American as you and I are. The only differences are perhaps a few generations, the origin of the immigrant, and habit of taking freedom for granted.

Thomas Wolfe wrote: "To every man his chance. To every man, regardless of his birth, his shining, golden opportunity. To every man the right to live, to work, to be himself, and to become whatever his manhood and his vision can combine to make him. This, seeker, is the promise of America."

Lassie's Best Friend Is Show's Director

By BOB THOMAS

LASSIE
Three days per story

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lassie's best friend may well be William Beaudine, who has directed the talented pooch through 75 chapters of the long-run series and appears ready to direct 75 more.

Big Bill knows just how to wring the right emotion from Lassie and — just as importantly — how to bring the films in on budget or under.

"I've never gone over a shooting schedule in my whole career," the director says proudly.

AND WHAT A career it has been! At 75 Bill Beaudine claims to have been a director longer than anyone else in Hollywood.

"I directed my first picture starting on Oct. 12, 1915," he recalled. "It was a one-reel comedy called — get this — 'Minnie the Lion.'

"I don't know of anyone who started before I did. Raoul Walsh? He was still an actor for D. W. Griffith. Jack Ford was an assistant for his brother Francis. George Marshall was an actor."

FOR OVER A half-century, Beaudine has pursued his profession with only rare intervals between pictures. He is proudest of two Mary Pickford movies, "Sparrow" and "Little Annie Rooney." He has no illusions about most of the others.

"Long ago I quit thinking that every picture I did was going to be an Academy Award contender," he said. "I'm a commercial director; I know how to save money and get something on the screen. I let those arty guys shoot the scenes through chandeliers or from behind a wine glass. That's not for me.

"I'd like to see a George Stevens or a William Wyler shoot a Lassie in three days, the way I do. Heck, they'd be three days trying to make up their minds about the first shot."

BEAUDINE IS A big, cheery man with a pointed mustache. He figures he has turned out 200-300 television shows — "Naked City," Rin Tin Tin," "Racket Squad," "Walt Disney Presents," etc. He receives from $1,200 to $1,500 for a half-hour show and nets an equal amount in residual payments for the first six reruns.
